I know that there is opposition to this bill, but gentlemen it comes from those township commissioners who are operating and holding office under the present system. The people of these municipalities, these townships of the first class, desire this change and I am here asking for this change in their name, not in the name of any township commissioner. I live in a township of the first class. I was born in that township and have lived there all my life and I know something of the working of the townships of the first class. I happen to be a township solicitor and I know that the people of the township do not desire this nefarious system that has been provided for in the Act of 1911. They ask you to give them better men and it is plain to be seen that the way in which to get better men to govern these townships is to elect them at large.

There has been some comment on this bill for the reason that the five commissioners might come from certain districts, and that one certain district in the township would not have a township commissioner. The argument against that is this. Under the present system the electors in a certain district can only vote for one; under this bill the electors in each election district have the opportunity of voting for five men, and if you have each election district throughout the township voting for five men, you are sure to get the five best men among the candidates for the office of commissioner.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, might I interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, (Mr. Good)?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Good, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I decline to get involved in the controversy, and therefore refuse to be interrogated.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, the question I wish to ask Mr. Good, is whether the bill on third reading, No. 4, does not meet the objections which the gentleman from Luzerne has advanced. It seems to me that if you examine that bill you will see that many of the objections raised by Mr. Conniff are liminated. We have a first class township in Lehigh County and we are perfectly satisfied with the way in which the township commissioners are elected. Imagine a township ten miles in length electing all the commissioners from one section of that township. Imagine what those commissioners know about the needs of the people lying ten miles distant from the place where they live. As far as I have been able to discover, by asking gentleman who come from other first class townships in Pennsylvania, there is no general demand at all for this bill. There may be local conditions existing in a number of townships of Luzerne which may be the cause of asking for this change, but there is no wide demand in the State of Pennsylvania and there certainly is not in Lehigh county where we have a first class township whose affairs are administered to the satisfaction of the people concerned.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, (Mr. Conniff).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman how many first class townships there are in his county?

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, five or six.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Well, Mr. Speaker, there are some six or seven in Delaware county. I think the thought of this division, the thought of the law of 1911, originated in Delaware County and the bill was introduced by a member who in part represented Delaware County, and it was done at the suggestion of the people of those first class townships. Now, I have received several letters and several protests and notices on this bill to do all I could to defeat it. Throughout our county there is not one single citizen in any of these first class townships who is not opposed to this bill. They like the present system very much and think it is fair, because the township commissioners receive no compensation and do not pass around the townships and see the wants and needs of the other townships.

The different members of this commission, being very well acquainted with the local conditions, suggest the improvements and changes that are necessary to be made, and I think it would be wisdom on the part of the House to keep this law on the statue books the way it is. It has only been on the statute books since 1911, and was put there without one particle of opposition, and there comes to this House no opposition to it now except from one county. It may be true that in that paricular county my friend from Luzerne is supporting a position that from his standpoint is correct, but he ought to conceive that when all of the State is affected, and when it has worked so much better in such a large portion of the State that the House should not try to correct that small evil and bring upon us a great number of them.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1263, entitled:

An Act to provide that fines and forfeitures levied and collected for violations of the game laws of the Commonwealth shall be paid to the Game Commission for the purpose of acquiring and maintaining game preserves and for acquiring propagating and distributing game

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That from and after the approval of this act all fines and penalties levied and collected for the violation of any law of this Commonwealth enacted for the protection of game animals and game birds shall be paid to the State Treasurer for the use of the Game Commission and shall constitute a fund for the purpose of acquiring maintaining game preserves for the purpose of propagating game animals and game birds therein and for the purpose of acquiring propagating and distributing such game animals and game birds in the public covers of the Commonwealth

Section 2 The said moneys shall be deposited with the State Treasurer as a special fund for the purposes aforesaid which said moneys are hereby specifically appropriated solely for such purpose and shall be paid out upon the presentation of properly certified vouchers of the expenditure of money previously drawn and of satisfactory proof to the Auditor General that the expenditure is duly authorized by law and is not excessive for the purpose intended

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. McKAY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The question recurring.

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. McKAY. Mr. Speaker. I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, lines 7 and 8, by striking out the words "to the State Treasurer for the use of the Game Commission" and inserting in lieu thereof the following "into the State Treasury."

Amend the bill by striking out section 2.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments? Is there any objection?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objections.

Mr. McKAY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House go into committee of the whole for the purpose of special amendment.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell, kindly take the Chair.

MR. ROCKWELL IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. ROCKWELL. The Committee of the Whole House having under consideration House Bill No. 1263 for the purpose of special amendment, the amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, lines 7 and 8, by striking out the words "to the State Treasurer for the use of the Game Commission" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "into the State Treasury."

Amend the bill by striking out Section two.

On the question,

Will the Committee of the Whole House agree to the amendments?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Chairman, I have not had an opportunity in the time alloted here to go into the merits of this thing, but a cursory reading suggests and it appears to me that the purpose of this amendment is to pay funds into the State Treasury while the provisions of the bill evidently on account of the matter is stricken out was that these fines should go into the Treasury for the use of the Game Commission and for the use of the Game Commission only. Why? For the very purpose that if a person went and killed game out of season, and they killed more game than is alloted under the game laws, that the funds or the fine which is paid goes into the hands of the Game Commission which they may utilize to replace that stock which has been depleted by that amount. I see no reason, Mr. Chairman, why this fund when it was intended for that purpose or fines for that very purpose to renew again the stock, why these fines should be paid into the State Treasury and I would like to have the gentleman who has offered this amendment state at this time what the purpose of this amendment is if that is not the purpose.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Chairman, I think I can say to the gentleman from Allegheny that upon careful consideration he will agree with me that this amendment is a proper one. It seems to me that under the bill before amended this money would be covered into the State Treasury who pays it out to the Game Commission and that any act on the part of the Legislature is not necessary. That we need only the amendment as it appears. It seems to me that it is a wiser policy to cover all these moneys or pay all these moneys into the State Treasury and then let the matter of the expenses of that department be considered by the Legislature and the money be appropriated to the various departments. It seems to me that if this money covered into the State Treasury could not be gotten out it is the wiser course to pursue. I am very much in favor of the amendment, myself, and I think it is the more businesslike way of doing the matter, as the Legislature knows exactly what money has got to go into that department and for what purpose. The explanation will cover that and the Legislature will act intelligently in the matter If drawn upon by the Game Commission, there is no check or no information comes through it unless you examine the records. I think the amendment is a proper thing and is in the direction of good business management.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Chairman, I cannot agree with the gentleman from Delaware, with whom I do generally agree, because of the fact that the bill as it is presented now must make a correct and accurate accounting of this money in two ways. First, that it is paid into the State Treasury, and secondly, that, from the State Treasury, it is paid again into the hands of the Game Commission. Now the State Treasury's check is first by the funds which are collected in various parts of the State and through proper channels, and again the check is on the Game Commission as evidenced by the vouchers which are paid out by the State Treasurer for the same fines which pass into that general fund. The Game Commission has been constituted under the laws of the State and is a recognized authority and as such it must account and it must account to this legislative body. It must account to all other authorities which it is required to account to under the laws which created that department. Now, there is no danger—there can be no danger if this money is collected as fines and turned into the State Treasury and by it turned back again into the Game Commission. There is no qusetion but what there is a check upon that money all the way along the line and that the Game Commission can only use that money for the purpose which it is authorized to use it for under the provisions of the law and for which it must make an accounting. Now, Mr. Chairman, by striking out this entire matter; in the first place we all know that by saying that it shall be paid into the Treasury and leaving the purpose wide open that it is paid in there and becomes a part of the general fund, and the second section of this bill by the amendments offered which provided exactly how it should be paid out and for all purposes is eliminated so that the portion of the department of this State, to wit:—The Game Commission which has been robbed by the people who have infringed upon the game laws; that department has been robbed and there is nothing coming back to it except that which the Legislature may from time to time say Aye, Yes or No as it in its wisdom sees fit. However, Mr. Chairman, if the money is paid as is now provided in the bill, as I said a moment ago, to repair the damage that has been done and to replace the game product of this country of which it has been robbed. this money is specifically set aside the amendments ought not to carry; they ought to be voted down but the bill ought to be passed in its present form.

Mr. McKAY. Mr. Chairman, I withdraw the amendment.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman, Mr. McKay, withdraws the amendment. The Chair hears no objection and the amendment is withdrawn.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Chairman, I move you that the committee of the whole do rise and report back to the House.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Chairman, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER (George B. Alter) in the Chair.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, as Chairman of the committee of the whole, I now report back to the House, House Bill No. 1263, without amendment.

The SPEAKER. Will the House agree to the report of the committee of the whole.

It was agreed to.

Mr. McKAY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill was agreed to on third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. McKAY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Game.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 461, entitled:

An Act to further amend an act entitled "An Act to regulate the nomination and election of public officers requiring certain expenses incident thereto to be paid by the several counties and punishing certain offenses in regard to such elections" approved the tenth day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three by changing the form of the ballot and regulating the method of marking the same

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the author if this bill whether it is not intended to take away the party square in voting?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Crawford. Mr. Humes.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. Baldwin, I would say that this bill has two purposes in view. The first purpose is to abolish the party square on the ballot leaving the party designation of candidates the same as heretofore but abolishing what now constitutes the first part of the ballot—the column of the straight party square. It also amends the ballot law so as to place the Presidential electors in the same position as all other candidates with reference to having their names printed on the ballot more than once. In other words, it has in view a shortening of the ballot and would very materially shorten the ballot if it was passed by this Assembly. You will remember that the candidates for any office, except Presidential electors, have their names on the ballot but once with the various party designation opposite the name, but it seems and I think it was not so intended by the Legislature—but it seems when they amended the ballot law in that particular they failed to cover the Presidential electors. Consequently, this last fall we had three parties nominating the same Presidential electors and all of their names were printed on the ballot three times. Under this bill Presidential electors' names appear but once and in the cases that we had to meet last fall, each one would have opposite their names the names of three parties who had nominated them, the same as any other candidate.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I think it will be a mistake to take away the party square. The great trouble to-day with the people is to have them go to the polls and the great mass of them will give no attention to the names of the various candidates. They will make a great number of mistakes in voting. It appears to me that the disposition of these days, so far as election legislation is concerned, has been rather to increase the difficulty to a person in going to the polls and voting instead of making it easier. There is some reason and I don't know why it is, that we gradually see that the disposition of the people is not to respond at election time; they don't go to vote. As to what that reason is, different persons perhaps have different opinions. My own opinion is that you have made it so difficult for the average man, who gives no consideration to public affairs, to go and vote intelligently, that he does not care to go to the polls. Repeatedly in my own community I have heard the cry go out "Give us a simple ballot." We have passed over to the Senate some election bills that have greatly increased the difficulty, or in other words, the simplicity of voting by having a simple ballot. We have got it more cumbersome and more difficult for the average man to vote intelligently now, and because you are offering a proposition to take away the party square which to my mind is one of the only things that is left to simplify the ballot, I realize that some people feel and think that men don't vote intelligently when they vote in the square. In my judgment they vote much more intelligently. It is a great guide to the average man as to how he shall vote and I think it is the only simple guide that is left. I think it would be a mistake to take away the party square. I hear no demand to take away the party square. I realize that this goes back of the different party influences, but I believe that the people, if they were allowed to intelligently vote upon this question, that seven-eighths of them would vote to retain the party square, because they realize that this is the only simplicity that is now left. I do not think the House should take away the party square, because it gives to the man who does not give a great deal of consideration to elections, an opportunity to express his opinion in a simple manner with one cross, and vote his whole party. Another matter is this, in my opinion: The keeping of the square here will simplify the whole election proposition as presented to our people.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call the attention of the House to the fact that the question of the validity of the party square law of 1893 was presented to the Supreme Court and was presented upon this theory: That under it elections were not free and equal. The Constitution provides that elections shall be free and equal. It was argued with considerable force, I believe, that the man whose name appeared upon a party which had considerable strength and which had a party square on the left hand side of the ballot, was put in a position very much superior to that of another individual running for the same office whose name did not happen to appear upon that same party. It discriminated between individuals and in favor of parties. The question was argued before the Supreme Court, and the Supreme Court split in its determination. Out of seven judges, there was a dissenting opinion filed in which Judges Dean, Mestrezat and Thompson dissented. (Oughton versus Black, 212 Pa. 1.) The basis of that opinion was this: "Making it easy for one section of voters who desired to vote a straight party ticket, on which no mistake could be made, and hampering and obstructing intelligent voters who desire to vote independent of party, for men, destroys the freedom and equality of voters." And that appears to my mind to be the whole proposition involved in this bill. We advocate in all our election laws changes in our election machinery which will weaken the will of the organization upon the community. We have concluded that party organization has been built to that point where it has become an evil. We desire now to weaken its strength, and it appears to me that one of the means of weakening the grasp of party organization is by the abolition of the party square. With the abolition of the party square, the individual voter is called upon to exercise his individual opinion as to the propriety and as to the character of the individual man that he has to vote for, and no man totally unfit for office will be able to be carried through or can be carried through into office merely because he happens to belong to a strong party. Over in New Jersey—I have seen the ballot there—they vote for each individual man that they wish to support. They have no party square, and I feel that the party square in Pennsylvania, whose tendency has been to build up strong party organizations, to be in line with other legislation, should be wiped out.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

			Speaker.

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative, and the bill falls.

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to call up House Bill No. 878, file folio 3111, known as the increase in the State Police force, on page 17 of to-day's calendar.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent for the consideration of the bill at this time? The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 878, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred and five entitled "An Act creating the Department of State Police providing for the appointment of a Superintendent thereof together with the officers and men who shall constitute the force defining their powers and duties and making an appropriation for the expenses connected therewith" as amended by an act approved the first day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to amend sections two and three of an act entitled "An Act creating the Department of State Police providing for the appointment of a Superintendent thereof together with officers and men who shall constitute the force defining their powers and duties and making an appropriation for the expenses connected therewith' approved the second day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and five by fixing the salaries of the employes of the Department of State Police also the salaries of the officers and men of the State Police"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I rise at this time in opposition to this bill because I believe that the State of Pennsylvania to-day has a sufficient number of men in the State Constabulary force. I feel also that there is no necessity for increasing the expenses of this Commonwealth in adding 120 more men to the State Constabulary force.

In looking over the report that has been made by the Superintendent of the State Constabulary of this State, Mr. Groome, I find these figures: The total number of arrests that were made by the State Constabulary during the year of 1912, was 1,144, several hundred less than in 1911. The total number of convictions that were made in the year 1912 was 847. The total number of men enlisted at the present time is 228. The total cost of the State Constabulary for the year 1912 was $330,964.89. Each arrest has cost the State $290.00. For each conviction alone the State Constabulary cost was $390.00. The total number of arrests for the year being 1,144 will just average five arrests for each trooper for the entire year—five arrests for each trooper and it has cost $290.00 for the arrests and for the convictions $390.00. By adding 120 more men to the force, if I can take the same ratio of figures as taken from this report, it will cost the State of Pennsylvania over one half million of dollars in the next year.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I feel that there is no necessity for increasing this force.

Mr. Speaker, I would desire to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery County, the sponsor of this bill, (Mr. Ambler).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. AMBLER. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker and Mr. Ambler, I desire to know what the total cost of maintaining the police force in your particular district is at this time?

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, I do not quite understand what police force he is talking about.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I understand that in the district from which Mr. AMBLER comes there is not any State Constabulary, but there is a regular police force, and I would ask if he has any idea of the cost of maintaining that police force in that district?

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, the cost of maintaining the police force in the legislative district is about $70,000.00 a year.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I might be misquoted in my information, but I have learned that in Mr. Ambler's township, the cost of maintaining the police department is about $15,000.00 per year.

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia asked me what it cost in my legistlative district. What he says is true about the township from which I come. There are other townships that are in the first legislative district that also have a township police force.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I made a misake in saying district rather than township. I am satisfied that he admits that $15,000.00 is the cost of maintaining the police force.

I would further ask Mr. Ambler, is it not true that the tax-payers of your district are objecting to this great expense?

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, there may be a few objecting. We have people that object to everything down in Abbington township, but they are always in the minority.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I would ask again, if the township from which Mr. Ambler comes, would ask the same privilege of the State of Pennsylvania as they did in Hamburg, Berks County, where they can possibly do away with their police department and use the State Constabulary to control the affairs rather than at the expense of the township?

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, we would be very glad to have the State Police if it were possible to get them. We have made repeated requests and in the township adjoining mine, which is a second class township, they have made repeated requests to get the State Constabulary, but we have been unable to do so for the reason that there is not enough men in the force.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I feel very nearly satisfied that if the Ambler bill passes this House to-day and should pass the Senate, just the same as Hamburg, in Berks County, received the State police for their particular use, so would Abbington township receive the same privilege, thereby reducing the expenses of the township and putting more money in their treasury and taking it out of the treasury of the State of Pennsylvania.

I am going to ask the members to vote against this bill.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I do not see any reason why this House should refuse to pass this measure. The State Police are an established body, recognized as such, and we are simply called upon to elevate them to a condition of efficiency that will meet the requirements of the citizens of this State. There is absolutely no reason why a prejudice should exist against this body of men on the part of any. If those men who oppose this measure through any thought of affiliation with labor, that they will be doing the right thing, if they will stop to consider, they will recognize that the establishment of the State Police was the best thing that could happen because in the State Police we have disinterested men dealing impartially between labor and capital; whereas, prior to the induction or inception of the State Police, we had hired men from the Pinkerton Detective Agency and other agencies who acted solely in the interests of corporations. Now, I want to say to the gentlemen of this House and I believe that when I make this statement that I will be believed, there has not been a more consistent supporter of labor measures in this House than I have been. I believe in standing by labor when I think that labor is right, but I do not believe in standing by the wishes of labor when I think they are standing in their own light.

They are asking to increase this force 120 men. You gentlemen who live in the suburban towns should know that when you feel that a member of the State Police is nearby you rest easily, because you recognize that you have in him a trained officer of the law, understanding his duty and not afraid to perform it.

My friend raises the question of the price per capita for arrests. Why, if he took you into Philadelphia County or into Allegheny County and applied the same tests you would find that the ratio of cost was much greater in either one of those counties than that expressed by my friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Piper.

Two years ago, as a member of this House I voted against this bill because at that time I was carried away, probably as some of my friends will be carried away to-day, through the clamor that was made in opposition to this bill through a prejudice. Since then I have learned that at the very time the State Police was being created, the president of one of our largest railroads said that the creation of this Department would mean the destruction of their interests, because, he said, "if you create a department of this character you render them independent of our orders; allow conditions to remain as they are; allows us to employ private detectives and our interests will be safeguarded." Why, gentlemen of the House you know since the inception of this institution, known as the State Police, the militia of this State has not been called out once; whereas, prior to that time the State was put to millions of dollars of expense upon the calling out of the State militia for the purpose of suppressing labor trobules. We have now an institution of men who are capable, who are fearless, who are impartial, standing there representing law and order, respecting no person or persons, obeying the majesty of the law, and why should we hesitate to make this institution that is now a fixture, why should we hesitate to raise it to the highest order of efficiency? Gentlemen of the House there has not been a measure that has come before you for your consideration that demands your support more than the vote to increase the number of the State Constabulary and increase the salary of its efficient commander.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this bill. They have a standing army in Ireland, where I was born, of from one thousand to fifteen hundred. They have also a standing army of fifteen thousand on that island, governed by another country. In 1910 they had this standing army, and the statistics show they had one murder. The records also show that some fifteen of the county jails were closed, there being no prisoners. Are we going to pattern after Ireland with this useless standing army? Most of these men in the State Constabulary have served for two or three years in the regular army. Why do they come to Pennsylvania to seek employment? Because we pay them better. It has been said by one of the gentlemen from Philadelphia that crime has been decreasing. Why, in the name of Heaven, if that is so, do they ask for a greater force? This has already cost the State $330,000, and an additional force would run the cost up to three-quarters of a million. If crime is decreasing and we have this money to spend, let us put it into hospitals, insane asylums and public roads where it will be a benefit to the public at large. I say to you, gentlemen, that this bill ought to be defeated because we have no need for it. I could give you the records of some of these men in the State Constabulary that I know to be facts, but it is such stuff that should not be said even before gentlemen, let alone ladies, and I believe there are some ladies in this House. Vote down this bill, gentlemen, because it is not needed. Let us do away with this standing army because we are not ruled by a dictator like the Czar of Russia with his Cossacks.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to add a word in favor of this bill, and in favor of this excellent department of men we have now in Pennsylvania, and for the increasing of the force. This measure should be voted for irregardless of prejudice and sentiment. Mr. Speaker, I make this statement for this reason: Some of the newspapers of the country and some of the magazines have stated things detrimental to, and to the prejudice of the State Police. I think there are members in this House who will remember when this measure, or rather a measure to increase the salaries of the State Police was before the House at the last session that there was an article written in one of the leading magazines of this country, no other than Collier's Weekly, under the caption of "Pennsylvania's Russia." That article was very much prejudiced against the State Police. "Pennsylvania's Russia" was Westmoreland County. The article went on to describe the conditions in Westmoreland County during the strike that was on at that time, and it said things very detrimental to the State Police. That article was taken as a sort of a basis for an argument. We folks over in Westmoreland County knew the facts exactly, because the things described and the characters that were used, and the incidents related were a part of and happened in my own town of Latrobe and the vicinity, and I want to say to you, gentlemen of the House, that that article was viciously false in almost every particular. We folks who knew anything about it considered it ridiculous, we considered it scandalous and we considered it libelous in almost every particular. In bringing out that article, they have tried in these newspaper articles and magazine articles to prejudice this measure in the eyes of the laboring people. Now I just want to relate some incidents in Westmoreland County during our strike there relative to the State Police. I called up the Lieutenant of our State Police located in Westmoreland County and asked him some of the incidents relative to our strike over there. If you folks remember anything you will remember that the operators brought in almost five hundred deputies, and this Lieutenant told me that the State Police had as much trouble with the deputies, and more, than with the strikers. He further told me this peculiar circumstance: He said that when the strikers wanted to have a march from one coal operation to another that sometimes the leaders of these marches would call upon the Captain of the State Police and ask him to detail some men to go along with them, and guard them against these deputies. Now all of these deputies were men of high character, and a good many of them were of bad character. They were after the money they could get out of it, and were not there for the protection of the property. Furthermore, you will see by what I have stated that the strikers themselves, the laboring men, did not consider the State Police their enemies. No, it seems to me that if the men who are against this proposition would take the report of the head of this department, they could not do anything else except vote for the increase in this number of men. Let me relate some of the things that happened in Westmoreland County, showing the value of this body of men. Over there, we had in the last year several murders committed. The perpetrators of the crimes got away from the local authorities and the county authorities. The State Police followed them west and south and by their secret detective work were able to bring back these murderers from as far west as Illinois and Colorado, and as far south as Alabama. They are protecting our streams from pollution, and arrest those who fish in violation of the fish laws, they protect our game, cleared our highways of tramps, and have done many things, Mr. Speaker, that have been of benefit to us people. We had a strike two years ago over in Westmoreland County which cost the operators there over one hundred and eighty-five thousand dollars for deputies. There is nobody over there who knows anything about the matter who will not tell you that if we had a few more State Police, a larger detail of State Police, we would not have had to have the five hundred deputies there. It seems to me Mr. Speaker, that it resolves itself into this question: shall we have a larger detail of State Police, or shall we have these incompetent deputies, or shall we have the National Guard as some one has suggested. I want to call your attention to a little matter, and then I am done with this proposition. When we had no State Police, we had to call out the National Guard. Here is the history of it: In 1892, during the strike at Homestead, 8,563 men of the National Guard were called out at a cost of $440,386. In 1897, during the coal strike in Luzerne County, 3,000 of the National Guard were called out at a cost of $140,000. In 1897, during the anthracite strike, 2,250 men were called out at a cost to the State of $113,000. In 1902, the entire National Guard of 9,000 men were callde out during the strike in the hard coal fields at a cost of $993,000, or a total cost at all the strikes of $1,894,000. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that that matter ought to settle it entirely, for if we do not increase the State Police, we are likely to have the National Guard called out, while if we increase the force, there is hardly any likelihood at all that it will be necessary to call out the National Guard. So far as the bill is concerned, I would be ashamed to go back to Westmoreland County and face the miners and operators in that county if I had voted against this measure.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland County.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland County permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ULERICH. I will.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I will say to start with that I am in favor of the State Police. I would like to ask the gentleman how many State Police they had in Westmoreland County at the time of the strike there?

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman asks how many men we had in Westmoreland County during the time of the strike. It is hard to answer that question.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman further where the State Police were engaged that were not engaged in Westmoreland County at that time.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I do not know.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask where they are engaged to-day?

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman asked me a pretty hard question. I do not know.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask what services they are rendering to the Commonwealth to-day?

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman asks me what services they are rendering to the Commonwealth today? If the gentleman from Indiana will read the report of the head of this Department he will find out what the State Police are doing throughout the Commonwealth.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask what character of men they elect for their home constabulary?

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, very poor sometimes.

Mr. WATSON. Why.

Mr. ULERICH. That's a pretty hard question to answer.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Indiana I just want to bring out one point that has not been mentioned by the other gentleman and that is the fact that the men in the State Police Department must spend considerable time in study and preparation for their duties before they are permitted to go on duty, while the home constabulary are simply appointed one day, and go on duty the next, and do not, in the course of a whole life time, acquire the knowledge of their duties that the State Police must have before they go on duty. As a matter of safety to the public at large, the State Police is the best force that the people can have. It will also be a matter of economy as against the calling out of the National Guard who are men unaccustomed to their duties. If you have the State Police, you will have a force that has a full knowledge of the duties it has to perform, and knows the things it should not do. There is no question but that this bill should pass.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I wish to make a few remarks in support of this bill.

The gentlemen in opposition to this bill who have spoken, I believe they personally believe that State Police is a blessing and a God send. For the reason they protect home, the public in general. They may have protected your home from theft, assault and battery and murder.

They have allowed you in many towns of Pennsylvania to travel your streets all hoursof night, where before it was not safe, because of dring, loafers and obstreperous characters. They have been able to render valuable service in running down the men who have been doing the great crimes in this Commonwealth, such as shooting, and murder, and many other crimes too numerous to mention.

These men, I mean the State Police, after the arrest and capture have been able to show the evidence in most every instance, and the right man, was captured, and in many cases, not only found guilty by trial, but confessed of committing the crime. These men are trained and drilled and Pennsylvania should be congratulated upon the efficiency of such men who know and can be called upon to protect and safeguard your home, your property, your life.

The State Police are as a rule, all of them exemplary men, and perform the duty fearlessly. These men, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the House, merit the highest praise we can give them. These men show to our citizens in the apprehension of criminals more promptness, are more efficient, more satisfactory to the general public, than the Local Constable could be or expected to be.

For the reason—it shows the result of training, they grasp the situation more readily and have the happy faculty of sifting the immaterial facts from the material facts they have, and the report of their investigation, they always can verify. The people in general do appreciate their services. They are on the job if need be; they work unceasingly day and night and it is never any trouble to them to investigate the slightest clue.

All the big gatherings, county fairs ask for these men because they generally display good judgment, and because of that, they have good order. Thus by their presence they prevent an enormous lot of trouble.

Since the establishment of the State Police in Pennsylvania between seven and eight years ago, we have had a million more people to our State and since they have become recognzied as a force for peace and harmony in our State. The demands have become so great that the Department can not meet the demand.

They have patroled every county in this State in the past year, but one, traveled 491,398 miles in 2,379 towns or boroughs.

In the seven years of active service, seven of these members have been killed, 19 dangerously wounded, 7 of whom crippled for life, and the State pays nothing for loss of life or pension them, when unable to perform their duties because of being crippled in service in performing the duties of saving human life or apprehending criminals.

Mr. SPEAKER, I have here a clipping from the New York World of April 11th of this year that I would like to read:

A STATE CONSTABULARY

If New York had a State constabulary such as Pennsylvania has there would have been no occasion for ordering three thousand troops on duty in Buffalo. Violence and disorder were soon stopped at the time of the great street railway strike in Philadelphia after the appearance of the State troopers Violence and disorder would have been stopped just as promptly at Buffalo if this State had had a similar force of thoroughly efficient State police within call

The merits of the strikers' cause in Buffalo have nothing to do with the question whether a mob shall defy the law, destroy property and imperil the lives of innocent people on the streets. Such conditions are intolerable, and no surer preventive has been found than that tried in Pennsylvania after many disastrous experiences

I have a number of letters here that I could read if I had the time but I do not wish to take the time (about 25 letters produced). Some of these letters are from the leading and the very best business men of our State.

The men are drilled daily both mounted and dismounted and have constant target practice.

During the year one thousand one hundred and forty-four arrests were made for 80 different crimes. Eighty per cent. of those arrested were convicted and 103 are now awaiting trial. The largest number of arrests under the Criminal Code were for "assault and battery," "larceny," "burglary," "disorderly conduct," "violation of the game laws," and "violation of the liquor laws." Twenty-three arrests were made for murder, 6 of which resulted in convictions, making a total of 87 convictions for murder in seven years.

Two thousand five hundred and ninety two requests for assitsants were received, many of these requests could not be responded to owing to the limited number of men on the force.

In the interest of the citizens of this Commonwealth, I cannot urge too strongly an increase in the number of the men on the Force. With a territory covering 45,000 square miles and the entire rural district practically without police protection, the necessity for a larger force of State Police is most evident. The 2,592 legtimate requests for assitance received during the past year, from County officials and private citizens clearly indicate the growing demand for the services of the men on the Force, and it is absolutely impossible to comply with a majority of these requests or to give the necssary protection to life and property in this large Commonwealth with only 228 officers and men. I would respectfully recommend that the Force as now organied be increased by 120 privates and that 30 of these men be added to each of the four Troops, thereby increasing the number of Privates in each Troop from 45 to 75.

In conclusion,—Mr. Speaker, the conclusion for you to decide is, are you for law and order, if so, in my judgment give us protection with men who are trained and knew how to preserve order, who can and will come to your aid when in trouble. I ask you to support this bill with your vote.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, it is well-known that this institution is well established by the experience of a seven year's test. That question is not at issue. I believe the opposition is largely based upon the idea or prejudice that comes without a proper understanding of the institution. But that is not what we are considering. The question has been voted upon for from six to seven years, as a party measure. But it has come to the time now when we know in our own hearts that it is an efficient, sober force of men who have knowledge of the law for the intelligent and proper enforcement of this institution. We know that it is the best force of its kind in the world. We are not voting upon this question on that point because that is established, but the immediate question is the increase or the demand for an increase of compensation and numbers. We have forty-five thousand square miles of territory in this State and the record of the past seven years and the experience with this department shows that less than one-half of the legitimate requests furnished by officials elected by the people are covered. There is not an answer or a request made for State Police that is not on file. Are we going to pass many more mandatory rules and be powerless to enforce them? Where are the police today? Since this institution has been established there have been eighty-six murderers arrested many of whom would be at large if it were not for the State Police. They need no defence. The only question is on the point of an increase is in the number required and of an increase of compensation. It is only a commensurate increase of duties and a commensurate increase of the force. Here are from twelve to fourteen departments in the State of Pennsylvania. The Attorney General is getting ten thousand dollars a year, the Commissioner of Health gets ten thousand dollars a year; the Secretary of the Commonwealth gets eight thousand dollars a year and the Head of the Legislative Bureau gets five thousand dollars a year. This is only commensurate with the increase of duties under the present system. We have three deputies getting the same salaries as suggested for the Head of this Department and we have four deputies getting a thousand dollars more and this is only commensurate with the increase of responsibility. Just as people formerly were objecting to the introduction of invention and new machinery just so far there remains a little prejudice to this body of men. This being wiped out we don't any longer vote upon it as a party measure, but as a measure of merit. I hope that the gentlemen will see this question as I have seen it from actual experience.

Mr. NEEL. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Letzkus, Burnett, Barner, Geary, Metzenbacher, J. H. Wilson, Zimmerman, Savacool, Charles A. Shaffer, Matt, Eichenberger, Aaron, Gransbach, Currier, Moses, Snyder, John H. Young, Benson, Keegan, Peters, McDermott and others.

The SPEAKER. More than 20 members having joined in moving the previous question,

On the question,

Shall the main question now be put?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I call for the verification of the roll.

Senate Bill No. 651,

An Act making an appropriation to the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Farview Wayne County

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER in the presence of the House signed the same.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate, April 29, 1913.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That Senate Bill No. 120, entitled "An Act regulating the pay of election officers and clerks at certain elections hereafter held within this Commonwealth" be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate, April 28, 1913.

Whereas, There have been proposed as official songs of the Commonwealth of Pensylvania two compositions, one by Edgar M. Dilley, of Philadelphia, and another by John E. Barrett, of Scranton, both called "Pennsylvania;"

And Whereas, Resolutions have been introduced requesting the endorsement of this General Assembly for each of these compositions,

Therefore Be It Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That a Joint Committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, two to be appointed by the President of the Senate and three to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, to inquire into and test by competition, if necessary the merits and availability of the said compositions for selection as the official song of the Commonwealth, and to make such recommendation as they shall deem proper.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Ordered, That the resolution lie over for printing.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows, viz:

In the House of Representatives, April 29, 1913.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 645, entitled An Act regulating the licensing of all places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures used for the purpose of giving dramatic theatrical or operatic or vaudeville performances tragedies comedies or farces or the exhibition of fixed or moving pictures or stereopticon views or of songs dances or acrobatic or athletic performances or exhibition of trained animals or contests of personal skill or any equestrian circus or menagerie or museum or wild west show or in the performance of some act of amusement of the public designating what is meant by the words "places of amusement dramatic theatrical or operatic or vaudeville performances circuses or menagries or museums or wild west shows" and that the act of May fifth one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine entitled "An Act to create a bureau of building inspection and to regulate the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings and party walls in cities of the first class" and the amendment or supplement thereto of June fifth one thousand nine hundred and one shall not be held to apply to places of amusement buildings tents on enclosures now used for the exhibition of fixed or moving pictures or stereopticon views where songs dances acrobatic or vaudeville acts (whether stage scenery and apparatus are employed or not) are exhibited in addition thereto fixing the amount to be paid for said licenses and providing the penalty for the violation thereof be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows, viz:

In the House of Representatives, April 29, 1913.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 28.

Whereas, In the United States Arsenal located at Frankford, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, over twelve hundred women and men are employed in the manufacture of ammunition and explosives; and

Whereas, The minimum rate of wages paid such women is approximately one dollar to one dollar and ten cents per day and the wages paid such men one dollar and fifty cents per day except where those who work at piece work which said minimum wages by forced work is raised occasionally to one dollar and fifty cents for women and one dollar and seventy-five cents for men; and

Whereas, It is eminently proper that the United States Government should take the lead in establishing minimum wage scales for men and women in this country especially for those who are employed on work that is extremely hazardous; therefore

Be It Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the President of the United States is respectively urged to recommend to the Congress of the United States as soon as practicable the passage of an act of Congress establishing a minimum rate of wages for employes in the arsenals of the United States of one dollar and fifty cents for women and two dollars for men; and

Be It Further Resolved, That each Senator and member of Congress from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be requested to advocate and vote for the passage of any measure so recommended; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be duly prepared certified and forwarded by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the President of the United States and to each Senator and member of Congress from this State.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows, viz:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 5.

Whereas, The Government of the United States in securing volunteers for soldiers for the Civil War of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one to sixty-five offered "the officers non-commissioned officers, and privates organized in the army, navy and marine corps shall in all respects be placed on the same footing as to pay and allowances of similar corps of the regular army,"

And Whereas, The Congress of the United States passed acts of Congress on the twenty-second day of July one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one and of the third of August one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one and at divers other times embodying and making pledges and promises aforesaid

And Whereas, By the pension laws of the United States passed by the Congress of the United States and in exisetnce and in force at this date there is provision made for the redemption practically of the pledges and promises aforesaid in so far as the non-commissioned officers and privates are concerned mentioned and characterized as such;

And Whereas, There has been no provision made for the redemption of the pledges and promises as aforesaid to the officers designated as such in the said act or any other act or acts of Congress contained;

Now, Therefore, By reason of the premises herein before set forth,

Be It Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Legislature of Pennsylvania approve of and recommend the Congress of the United States to pass an act of Congress providing for the institution of a roll designated "The Civil War Officers' Retired List" to be made and kept in the Department of War and the Department of the Navy respectivcly of the Government of the United States authorizing and directing the placing thereon with retired pay all persons who were organized and served as officers in the army navy and marine corps of the United States respectfully in and during the Civil War of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one to sixty-five and will embody and provide for the redemption of the pledges and promises in said acts of Congress of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one and other acts of Congress aforesaid;

And Be It Further Resolved, That the above-named Legislature urge and request the members of the United States Senate from the State of Pennsylvania and each and every member of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States from Pennsylvania to vote for and in favor of such act of Congress designated in the preceding resolution.

AMENDMENTS TO SENATE BILLS CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate bills numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

A supplement to an act entitled "An Act to provide for the better government of cities of the first class in this Commonwealth" approved the first day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five creating a Department of City Transit to have charge control and management of the transit facilities of cities of the first class

HOUSE BILLS CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bills from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

House Bill No. 296,

An Act authorizing and empowering the county commissioners and the county solicitor and the chief clerk of said commissioners of each county to organize themselves into a State association for the purpose of holding annual meetings and providing for the payment of the expenses thereof

House Bill No. 1145,

An Act authorizing and empowering the overseers of the poor of any two or more districts in any county not having a county poor house with approval of the court to unite in the leasing or purchase of real estate and erection of building for the care and employment of the poor of such districts authorizing the overseers of such districts to issue bonds therefor and providing for the equipment maintenance and regulation of such poor home

With information that the Senate has passed the same without amendment.

SENATE NON-CONCURRED IN AMENDMENTS.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has non-concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate Bill No. 502, entitled as follows:

An Act to amend section six of an act approved the twenty-third day of May one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four entitled "An Act dividing the cities of this State into three classes regulating the passage of ordinances providing for contracts for supplies and work for said cities authorizing the increase of indebtedness and the creation of a sinking fund to redeem the same defining and punishing certain offenses in all of said cities of the third class" by authorizing the councils of cities to provide for minimum rates of wages to be paid maximum hours of work to be done under contracts with such cities and validating existing ordinances which so provide

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House adhere to its amendments.

Mr. MALIE. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

House Bill No. 1445.

An Act creating a Department of Labor and Industry defining its powers and duties establishing an Industrial Board providing for the appointment of a Commissioner of Labor inspectors statisticians clerks and others to enforce the provisions of this act and providing salaries for the same prescribing a standard of reasonable and adequate protection to be observed in the rooms buildings and places where labor is employed empowering the said Industrial Board to make alter amend and repeal rules and regulations relating thereto transferring the powers and duties of the Department of Factory Inspection to the Department of Labor and Industry and abolishing the Department of Factory Inspection and providing a penalty for the violation of the provisions of this act or the rules and regulations of the said board

With information that the Senate had passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend the title by inserting after the word "board" in line 2, the following: "providing for the appointment of a commissioner of labor, inspectors, statistician, clerks, and others to enforce the provisions of this act, and providing salaries for the same;" strike out all of section 3 after the numeral "3" and insert the following:

The office force of the department excluding that of the different bureaus shall be a chief clerk at an annual salary of two thousand dollars ($2,000) a statistician at an annual salary of two thousand dollars ($2,000) two copying clerks at an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) each a stenographer who shall be a typewriter at an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) and a messenger at an annual salary of twelve hundred dollars ($1,200)

In section 11, line 8, after the figures "$2,000.00" insert the following:

One statistician at an annual salary of two thousand dollars ($2,000) one filing clerk and one copying clerk at an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars each and three collectors of statistics who shall receive an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) each

In line 12, strike out all of line 12 and line 13 down to and including the word "each."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments of the Senate?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House non-concur in the amendments of the Senate.

Mr. SAMUEL PERRY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, these amendments made by the Senate are to Section 3 and Section 11, and I do not think they are intended for anything except to supplement and make efficient this department, to which these amendments particularly apply. The bill as originally presented to the Senate provided for three collectors of statistics at a salary of two thousand dollars a year each, which would amount to six thousand dollars. It now provides for a statistician at an annual salary of two thousand dollars, one filing clerk and one copying clerk at a salary of fifteen hundred dollars each, and three collectors of statistics who shall receive a salary of fifteen hundred dollars annually each. So as regards a money increase, there is not enough for the House to non-concur in the amendments, and in view of the fact that the Bureau in this Department is to be one of the heaviest worked bureaus, I think the House should concur in the amendments. A few days ago, we passed a bill abolishing the office of Secretary of Internal Affairs, and the Statistical Bureau in the Department of Labor and Industry becomes one of the heaviest worked bureaus in that department. These amendments were merely offered for the purpose of making the bill effective in those sections which apply to this bureau.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say that the members of the House have not had an opportunity to look over these amendments. The suggestion of the gentleman from Philadelphia as to the passing of a Joint Resolution abolishing the Department of Internal Affairs does not mean that that Department is going to be abolished, or that this new department will now take over the work that is being prepared in that Department. That resolution will have to pass another session of the Legislature and run the gauntlet of public approval before it can become effective. At this time I will not undertake to say how these amendments will affect the bill, but, as I understand them, it creates new positions and makes changes in the salaries, and I think we should have an opportunity to look them over very carefully to know what they really do. I think that every time the Senate amends a bill by creating new positions we are not bound to concur in the amendment without properly studying the matter sufficiently to know what the amendments mean.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentlemen of the House to concur in the amendments made by the Senate, and I do not think it is a valid objection to a bill of the magnitude of this bill to complain that the Senate has created a few additional jobs. I think that in a bill of this character, that the creation of one or two or three or four or six additional jobs does not happen to be the milk in the cocoanut. The fact that there is an increase in the salary or jobs, is no reason why this House should not concur in the amendments of the Senate. The bill has been on the files from time to time, and the bugaboo objection made from time to time, I do not think is the proper kind matters for us to consider here. I ask the gentlemen of the House to concur in the amendments made by the Senate, and send the bill on its way to the Governor, where it should have been some time ago. I think the amendments made by the Senate are proper, because I think this Department of Statistics is one which should be properly taken care of on account of the heavy work which it will be called upon to do.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Roney, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman how many new jobs these amendments create?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, with your indulgence I will count them; it is easy to do that.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, there are eight new jobs and it strikes me that if the gentleman does not know the fact of this any better than his answer indicates by not knowing how many offices are created without now going over the calendar that it may be well to consider this bill very carefully.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, I believe the motion of the gentleman from Crawford should prevail. We were told when this bill came here that it was an administration measure—something the Governor was behind; something he wanted. There is no question in my mind at all that as the bill came here it conformed with what he wanted but from the amendments that were inserted by the Senate it seems that there have been a number of jobs created, and nine thousand dollars in addition tacked on the total amount of the former salaries, and it is clear to my mind that it is all for that purpose. Why would not they be placed in at the beginning? I think, therefore, that the motion of the gentleman from Crawford should prevail.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will put the question to the House. "Shall the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate" and direct a roll call and if the constitutional majority vote in favor of concurring, it will be so decided and otherwise, if it will not concur. The Clerk will call the roll.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments of the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken, and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1341 (Senate Bill No. 328), entitled:

A further suplement to an act approved the seventh day of June one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine entitled "An Act to provide revenue by taxation" as variously amended and supplemented

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, this is the bill about which we had some discussion the other day as to whether a laundry was a manufacturing institution or not. It brings up two questions: One is for this House to decide whether a laundry is a maufacturing corporation or institution, and the other is, if we so decide, shall we exempt such institution from taxation? Manufacturing corporations are, to a certain extent, exempt from taxation, but it seems to me that this is an improper provision of the law and there are very many people who think the law should be changed in this respect and that manufacturing establishments should not be exempt from taxation, and I agree with that. But here we are to decide whether a laundry is a manufacturing corporation. One of the newspapers the other day illustrated this proposition better than I can. So I will try to tell you in my own words as near as I can remember. If I sent my shirt or collar to the laundry and the collar comes back with edges so rough that it saws my neck and the shirt comes back with the buttons off, what kind of a manufacturing establishment is it? One gentleman says "——poor." I cannot see my way to support this bill and I believe that the House ought to vote it down.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was called up the other day and placed on the postponed calendar, this very discussion was entered into by the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell, as to whether a laundry is a manufacturing concern. It is too long for argument, but I do want to call the House's attention to one matter. It recalls the session of 1911. The Senate and House of Representatives appointed a joint committee whose business it was to inquire into the revenue laws and the revision of the corporation laws of the State of Pennsylvania. Such gentlemen as these composed that joint committee:

The present Speaker of the House, Mr. George E. Alter, Honorable Milton W. Shreve, Honorable James F. Woodward, and on the other side of the House were Honorable James P. McNichol, Honorable William C. Sproul, Honorable William H. Kaiser They reported back to the House as follows:

I seem to have misplaced my book mark in some manner, but the Committee reported to the effect that they had decided that the laundry business of the State of Pennsylvania should be classed as a manufacturing concern, and I call the attention of the House to the further fact that the laundry institutions are so classified for the purpose of taxation by the states of New York, Wisconsin, Connecticut, Vermont, and Michigan, and for the purposes of enumeration by the United States Census Bureau of the Federal Government. Now, if the laundry business is not a manufacturing concern, I ask those members of the House who are in doubt about it to tell me why the dyeing and cleaning industry is classified as we desire the laundry business to be classified. Their business is simply to take garments which are sent in to them for cleaning and for dyeing, and their work is not a bit different from that of the laundry business. I also ask those members who are in doubt to explain to me why he who takes pieces of hide and leather and passes it through his rolls and mills and shapes them into leather products, such as gloves or boots is also classed as a manufacturer. I ask those gentlemen, also, to explain to me why those people who dress marble, for instance, or repolish it or reclean it, are classified as manufacturers, or even those men who might take some crude product of wood, if you please, and bundle it into some minor product, such as other manufacturers do, and are still classed as manfucturerers. It is not my purpose to take up the time of the House with this discussion, but I have convinced myself beyond a reasonable doubt that the laundry business is a manufacturing concern. The laundry people have never come into this House of Representatives and asked for anything that was unfair; nor have they come in here attempting to pull the wool over the eyes of the members. In the report that was presented by this Commission, whose names I have just read, the Commission, after the taking of testimony and much deliberation, reported to the Senate and the House of Representatives that the laundrymen of the State of Pennsylvania, for the purpose of taxation, should be classed as manufacturers. I can, if the House demands it, point to many decisions of the courts, wherein, not alone in Pennsylvania, but in the courts of Maryland and neighboring states, Now York and other, have in similar cases to thoseI have cited classified laundries as manufactories. I think this bill, in its inception, is fair. The margin of profit is so small in the laundry business that it should be classed in accordance with the recommendations of this committee as a manufactory, and I hope the House will vote favorably on this measure.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. If we want to know whether or not a laundry is a manufacturing corporation in the sense used in the statute, I think we ought to investigate why manufacturing corporations are exempt, and then see whether or not the same reasons which have moved the Legislature to grant them exemption would operate in favor of the laundry business now as I understand it, manufacturing companies are exempt because the policy of the State is to encourage as much manufacturing as possible—in other words, as much business, as much pay-roll, as much flow of money, as much creation of value within the lines of the State as is possible. Now, manufacturing is a peculiar kind of thing, in which the State comes in competition with other states, which, if unequally taxed can be removed to other and more favorable communities. Now, exactly those same considerations apply with equal force to laundries. Laundries employ people; laundries distribute, as well as create, value, because a soiled article of clothing is practically valueless for all use, until they create a clean article and restore it as a useful article. And they also may leave the State; that is to say, the laundry business of Philadelphia could easily be conducted in Camden, and the laundry business in the western part of the State could be conducted in Ohio. Since the business is of an easily migratory character, and because in its creation of wealth it comes within all the reasons for which manufacturing corporations are exempt, the quibble whether it is or is not a manufacturing corporation in another sense is entirely beside the question.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to quote to the House, having found that passage in the report of the joint conference commission in this matter, which reads as follows:

"Laundry companies are manufacturers in effect and should be exempt. They are so classed by the Census Bureau and the New York tax laws. They remake a useless article into one almost new, like those who work over scrape of various kinds; and their labor cost—sixty per cent. of all expenses is much greater than most manufacturers'."

Now, gentlemen, I submit to the attention of the House that if this Commission's voluminous reports on these matters are to be received in good faith, you should vote favorably on this bill.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I feel that any exemption from taxation is a very serious matter. The fundamental principal of our taxation system is that taxation ought to be uniform and that no one should escape from it unless there is a very clear reason. I feel that the policy of this Commonwealth has always been that certain manufacturers should be encouraged to come to this State because they are placed in competition with manufacturers in similar lines of business in other states. I propose to vote against this bill, because I think the reason advanced that laundrymen leave the State of Pennsylvania because they are taxed is by no means good. I feel that the laundry industry is a local industry, purely and simply, and the laundry must be in the immediate vicinity of the place where the work is being collected. I therefore have no fears whatever that the laundry industry would be compelled to seek other states because of the tax here. I feel that the laundry industry would be just as well off. The doctrine and principle by which other manufacturers are exempted does by no means apply to them. I therefore propose to vote against the bill.

Mr. ROCKWELL in the Chair.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1284, entitled:

An Act fixing the salary of the messenger in the State Library

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. ELY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. Williams).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Tioga permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, certainly.

Mr. ELY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Tioga whether or not this is a salary raiser.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, replying to the gentleman from Westmoreland, I would say that this bill is a salary raiser, but of a very moderate amount. The purpose of this bill is to put the messenger of the Library Department on a level with the messenger of the Executive Department, the Auditor General's Department, the State Treasurer's Department, the Internal Affairs Department, the Insurance Department, the Mines and Banking Departments, who are paid twelve hundred dollars a year. In addition to performing his duties as messenger, he is the department shipping clerk and the newspaper file clerk, give all of his time to the performance of his duties in these three positions. Dr. Montgomery, the State Librarian, believes such an increase is warranted and this bill has his hearty approval.

Baldwin, G. A.,	Carson,	Latshaw,	Matt,
Barner,	Kern,	Lenker,	Mellott,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1444, entitled:

An Act to amend the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh eighth eleventh twelfth and fifteenth sections of an act entitled "An Act establishing the office of State Fire Marshal defining his powers and duties providing for his compensation and the maintenance of his office giving courts the power to punish witnesses for contempt of his authority and to review his orders and making it the duty of officers of public instruction and presons in charge of public or private schools to instruct children as to the dangers of fire and the prevention of fire waste" approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven by extending the powers and duties of the State Fire Marshal his deputies and assistants and providing penalties for violations of said act as amended and to repeal the fourteenth section of said act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend section four, page seven, line 52, by striking out after the word "shal" down to and including the word "fire" in line 55

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment as read will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The amendment consisting simply of a strike out, the bill is now on final passage.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, we once more have the Fire Marshal bill with us. This is the bill that was much discussed, and after the discussion was postponed a few days ago and it is the bill that increases the expenditure for the Fire Marshal's Department from $70,000.00 to $303,000.00. It is the bill that has for its purpose the creation of some forty or fifty new jobs at salaries ranging from fifteen or eighteen hundred to three thousand dollars a year. The amendment that has just been inserted has removed only the telegraphic report feature that was in the original bill. It has corrected none of the important points that are liable to attack from any one that will carefully study the bill, having in view economy and a reasonable and sensible conduct of this department This department was only created two years ago and if the department in two years time is to grow by about five hundred per cent. in so far as its expenditures are concerned, it must be developing very fast. I think that we have pretty fairly, in the discussion the other day, threshed over the various features of this bill and when we witness as we do, if we observe the operations of the Appropriation Committee undertaking to reduce the General Appropriation bill some eleven or twelve million dollars, in order to keep within the estimated revenues of the next two years, it strikes me it is up to this House to lend such assistance as it can in the effort that is being made by that Committee, rather than by undertaking to hamper them in their efforts by increasing the expenditures of this Department by about five hundred per cent., and I trust that this House at this time will not undertake to pass a bill that creates promiscuous fire wardens and that will permit the appointment, in addition to the employees named in the bill, of some forty odd fire wardens, or assistant fire marshals that are not disclosed on the face of the bill and that are covered by the general proviso in the bill, which authorizes the chief fire marshal to employ as many assistants as is necessary. The General Appropriation bill discloses the fact that it is the evident purpose of the chief fire marshal to take advantage of that provision in the bill by appointing forty persons at a salary, I believe, of three thousand dollars a year, from twenty-five hundred to three thousand dollars a year, under that general authority to employ such other assistants and wardens as he may deem necessary. The bill in itself is an effort to practice a deception on this House and when taken in connection with the General Appropriation bill discloses the true purpose that lies behind the bill and I hope the House will not at this time undertake to pass this bill and incur the expenses incident to it or extend some of the powers that are extended by the bill.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, all that the gentleman has said in reference to increasing the expenditure of this Department is true, but let us see whether or not this is an expenditure that is justified. During the year 1910 within the confines of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania there was a property loss by fire to the extent of $11,044,263.00; During the year 1911 there was a property loss by fire of $11,799,206.00; almost one million per month. If this bill becomes a law, under its provisions the expenditure for wages and contingent expenses will amount to $303,000.00 for two years or $151,500.00 per year. What percentage is that of our present fire loss within this State? Did you stop to think, gentlemen, that it is one and one-fourth per cent? Now I submit it to you as a fair business proposition, will it pay this Commonwealth to invest one and one-fourth cents in prevention to save one dollar's worth of property? The State of Ohio has had a Fire Marshal's Department since 1901. In the year 1900 the loss from fires in the State of Ohio, with a population half that of Pennsylvania today, was eleven million dollars. Last year it was a trifle less than six million dollars.

Mr. Speaker, this bill seeks to remedy and reduce the amount of destruction of property by fire in two ways. First, it aims to do this by supplying this department with sufficient men to investigate every fire that is presumed to be of incendiary origin. Is that justified? In defense of this bill two years ago, when this Department was first created with seven men to canvass this enormous Commonwealth of sixty-seven counties, I cited this in its defense, and I ask your indulgence that I may repeat it. A few years ago, in Lancaster County, one after another of the finest farm barns standing on the farms was consumed by fire. It was presumed that they were of incendiary origin. No one every suspected the owners, and no one knew just who the incendiary might be. But, finally, after six or seven of the finest barns had been consumed, entailing a loss in the buildings and contents of more than thirty thousands of dollars, a reward was offered for the apprehension of the individual who might be the guilty party, and an investigation was begun and a young man right in the community who no one would have suspected, and not even the people in the family in which he lived would have suspected, burned down every one of those buildings, and confessed that he had a mania to see the buildings burning. I suggest to gentlemen that if there had been a department at that time which would have made it a point when the first job had been done to investigate things of this sort, and if that young man had seen that after his first act every step and act that could be traced to that case was being investigated, and that he was taking very great chances to attempt another job, I submit it to you that he would not have done it more than one time, or perhaps not oftener than one or two times, at least no six times. In the six months that this department has been in existence with not more than seven men in the department, this is the result that has been attained: There were 152 special investigations made of incendiary fires. Of this 152, 97 were found to be without sufficient evidence, and five convictions were secured. In a trifle more than six months, five convictions have already been secured. There have been three trials without conviction. Thirteen cases are in the hands of the district attorneys now, and there are twenty still under investigation now. There has been one confession, one suicide of an incendiary, and one suspect has left the State. That, gentlemen, is about the work of six months with seven men. Now, I submit it to you gentlemen, to cover these two propositions in this bill, first, the investigation of fires presumed to be of incendiary origin, and second, to canvass this entire Commonwealth and regulate the causes of fire. This bill provides for a sub-warden in practically every district. It provides that a burgess of a borough shall report fires that appear to be of incendiary origin. It provides that the Board of Supervisors in townships shall report such fires. I submit to you, is forty men too large a force to canvass this entire State to endeavor to prevent causes for fire, which are menaces to surrounding property. I want you to think of this bill from this standpoint. When, fellow citizens, we were unfortunate to the extent of $11,900,000 during the year 1911, the rest of us had to pay for it. I want to submit another fact to you. When a dishonest man burns down his property, the honest man must pay for it. I trust that this bill will pass. I feel that it is one of the most meritorious measures introduced into this House this session. If there is a single kind of conservation which we should encourage, or a single kind of waste which we should attempt to discourage, it is this waste of a million dollars a month by fire many of which could be avoided.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to make a speech, but I want to endorse every word that my friend from Lancaster County has expressed, every word of it from beginning to end, and it is unnecessary to repeat it because he has put it before this House so squarely and fairly, yet I want to corroborate a part of it. I happened to live in a county in which a certain individual had burned two stores. He migrated after two trials because it is hard to convict these people unless you have sleuths after them and detectives to trace them. After a trial he migrated to Jefferson County, and there burned another store, and he is to-day in the penitentiary by the efforts of the fire warden. This bill was not understood when it was before this House. There is none other so meritorious from a financial standpoint and nothing that will save the property of our Commonwealth, and of the individual to the extent that this bill will. And in addition to that, it will drive the fire bugs out of our State. It will drive out that character of people who go into business and insure their property at as high a rate as they can and then burn it down, and collect the money from the insurance company. I hope the House will take a serious view of this matter. We have not had time to demonstrate the benefits that the citizens of this Commonwealth will derive from this department, and I hope that you will pass this bill since it only asks for the appointment of an inspector in every two counties. If there was a fire in Erie and one along the Delaware, under the present system, it would be impossible for this department to render the proper service to each of those affected. We hope that you will give us the appropriation to have the inspectors appointed in every two counties, and as my friend from Lancaster has said, it will save millions of dollars. I hope the House will take a serious view of this matter, and support this bill.

Mr. HUMES. The gentleman from Lancaster seems to convey the impression that the only fire fighting force that the present Fire Marshal's Department has consists of seven men. He forgets to tell this House that in addition to that, under the Act of 1911, every chief of the fire departments in the boroughs and cities of this Commonwealth are Assistant Fire Marshals. He forgets to tell the House that the Burgess of every borough is an Assistant Fire Marshal. This bill goes one step further. Besides the regularly paid fire marshals or assistants, it makes every township supervisor an Assistant Fire Marshal. Now, Mr. Speaker, if the purpose of this fire fighting force is to do detective work it strikes me that we might well ponder over some of the eulogies delivered this morning to that most efficient State Police force we have, and realize that to-day they are at the beck and call of this Commonwealth, either for the purpose of ferreting out fires or other crimes. There are at the disposal of this State for the purpose of ferreting out crimes of every nature, and you must remember that this Fire Marshal's Department can call upon them, upon that State Constabulary, upon the State Police force, to do the detective work that is necessary in addition to having the assistance of the burgess or chief of the fire department in every borough of the Commonwealth. I believe that that force is a sufficient force to accomplish all that can be accomplished, and that we need not create forty or fifty three thousand dollar a year jobs in order to accomplish the purposes that this bill pretends to aim at.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman from Crawford is giving the House a wrong impression about these burgesses and township supervisors. They are not chief fire marshals, they are not fire marshals at all. It is true that the State Fire Marhsal has gotten into touch, under the powers of his department, with the burgesses and the fire chiefs and township supervisors all over the State. Certain blanks are sent to them and they are allowed fifty cents whenever a fire occurs in the neighborhood to notify the Department at Harrisburg that a fire has occurred and certain circumstances that may have come to their knowledge through their casual knowledge of the fact that the fire occurred. And there is where their power ceased. Now it is the duty of the State Fire Marshal to take up these fire propositions with the employees of his Department, and then ferret out the causes and the circumstances surrounding the fires. The idea suggested here by my friend from Crawford is a mistaken idea. The power given to these people is to simply notify, if you please, these other men of the various fires in order that they might get in touch with when and where and how the fire occurred. In case there is a fire in our neighborhood and a neighbor is suspected of incendiarism, we dislike very much to meddle in the matter, because we are afraid we might be mistaken, and then the whole community would turn against the man when he was trying to be of benefit to the community. Under this bill they simply notify the Department, and the Department sends a representative there who is a stranger, who knows no one, who is no man's friend, and he finds out or tries to find out the facts irrespective of conditions. This is the case in Central Europe and in your neighboring States, and the fire loss has been reduced nearly one-half in the State of Ohio. You men interested in insurance will know what it means and every member of this House will know what it means to have the fire loss in Pennsylvania reduced to that extent.

It only involves fifteen thousand dollars annually which is a very small sum of money to give to a department when the proposition is one that so directly interests the people. I fear that my friend from Crawford is too pecuniary in his thoughts. He is not broad enough and don't consider the great results that may come and have come from similar situations. This House will make one of the greatest mistakes that it will make during this session if it don't increase the arm and power of this department.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, just a word. Inasmuch as the gentleman from Delaware seems to think that I have undertaken to misrepresent the facts to the House—

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I said the gentleman is mistaken.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as the gentleman has said that I was mistaken, I want to read a portion of two sections of the Act of 1911, then if I am mistaken I will beg the pardon of the House and if I am correct, I would like the House to recognize that fact. I will read from section three, line three, to the end of the sentence in line twelve, as follows:

> The chief of the fire department in any county city borough township school district or other municipality or incorporated district where such fire department is established or where no such fire department exists the burgess of any borough or president or chairman of the board of supervisors of any township or other municipality or incorporated district shall be by virtue of such office held by them assistants to the State Fire Marshal and subject to the duties and obligations imposed by this act and subject to the directions of the State Fire Marshal in the execution of the provisions hereof

Section four prescribes these duties. It says:

> The assistants of the State Fire Marshal shall investigate the cause origin and circumstances of every fire occurring in this State by which life or property has been destroyed damaged or endangered and so far as possible shall determine whether the fire was the result of design or carelessness

I trust in the face of that citation from the act that the gentleman from Delaware will not persist in his assertion that I undertook to misrepresent the Act of 1911.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by the following members:

Messrs. Bass, Hess, Cox, J. H. Wilson, Keeport, George A. Baldwin, A. C. Schaffer, Kaufman, O'Neill, Miller, H. B. Dunn, Currier, Snyder, Moulthrop, J. H. Young, Matt, Burnett, Mellott, Brosius, Moore, Conrade.

The SPEAKER. More than twenty members having joined in moving the previous question,

On the question,

Shall the main question be put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to be recordsd as voting "aye."

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I object. I understood that the gentleman voted once.

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, my name was not called. They passed my name before I voted. I didn't vote when my name was called and I ask to have my name recorded.

The SPEAKER. Was the gentlemtn in the hall when his name was called?

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my objection.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I voted under a misapprehension. I desire to change my vote from "No" to "Aye."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I object.

I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Speiser.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SPEISER. I refuse, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I am convinced in my own mind as to wherein the gentleman was mistaken—

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I think, sir, that the incident is closed. I stated my position to the Chair and the Chair has signified its intention to accept it, and I don't believe the comment of the gentleman from Allegheny is proper.

The SPEAKER. The point seems to be well taken.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman stated that he voted under a misapprehension.

The SPEAKER. The Chair ruled that that is for the member himself.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I simply desired to interrogate the gentleman in relation to whether or not that lay in the fact that he thought the bill might be defeated.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman refuses to be interrogated, and there is nothing before the House.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand the name of Mr. Geary was called in the affirmative.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is so recorded and so answered.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I don't doubt but that somebody answered for Mr. Geary, but I think that he was not in the House.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to state for the information of the Chair and for the information of the House that I spoke to Mr. Geary within the rail and asked him how he voted and he said "aye."

The roll was verified and was as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 736, as follows:

An Act to amend an act approved the eleventh day of May one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An Act relative to the purchase of a law library in counties of this Commonwealth having a population of less than one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants and authorizing one-half of the fines and forfeitures to which said counties would under existing laws be entitled to be expended for the purchase and support of said library" as amended providing such libraries shall be purchased or maintained by appropriations made by the proper counties

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the first section of an act approved the eleventh day of May one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An Act relative to the purchase of a law library in counties of this Commonwealth having a population of less than one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants and authorizing one-half of the fines and forfeitures to which said counties would under existing laws be entitled to be expended for the purchase and support of said library" as amended by act approved the twenty-fifth day of March one thousand nine hundred and three entitled "An Act to amend the first section of an act approved the eleventh day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one entitled 'An Act relative to the purchase of a law library in counties of this Commonwealth having a population of less than one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants and authorizing one-half of the fines and forfeitures to which said counties would under existing laws be entitled to be expended for the purchase and support of said library' so as to extend its provisions to all counties in this Commonwealth not having special or local laws inconsistent therewith" which as amended reads as follows

"Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That one-half of all fines and forfeitures to which counties in this Commonwealth are by existing laws entitled is hereby directed to be paid by the county treasurer to the committee hereinafter provided for the purchase and support of a law library to be kept in or near the court house of said county for the use of the citizens thereof" is hereby amended to read

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the county commissioners of each county shall annually appropriate to the committee hereinafter provided such sum or sums as may be directed by the president judge of the court of common pleas of the county for the purchase and support of a law library to be kept in or near the court house of the county for the use of the citizens thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, just a word by way of explanation of this bill. It only affects counties with a population of less than 150,000, and under the present law in many counties where they do not have special or local laws, one half of the fines and forfeitures goes to the purchase of a law library and the other half goes to the general county fund. Now, in many counties this fund does not amount to a great deal, therefore it leaves a very small amount for the purchase of a library. This amends the act by allowing the president judge of the various county courts in counties to which this applies to designate the amount which shall be applied to the purchase of a library, and the balance to revert to the county fund. In some counties, the fund has accumulated to a considerable amount and is more than is required for the use of the library, and the provisions of this act provide that the amount necessary for the library shall be designated by the president judge and the balance to revert to the general fund of the county for the use of the county in a general way, as the commissioners may direct.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1225, entitled:

An Act to prohibit experiments on any human being by the application of drugs instruments or deleterious substances of any kind or by innoculation or injection without the consent of the person subjected to such experiment his or her parent or guardian and providing penalties therefor

On the question,

Shall the bill pass??

Mr. NEWBAKER. Mr. Speaker, I wish to give at this time my reasons for opposing the enactment into law of House Bill No. 1225 entitled an act to prohibit experiments on any human being by the application of drugs, instruments or deleterious substances of any kind or by inoculation or injection without the consent of the person subjected to such experiment his or her parent or guardian and providing penalties therefor. In the first place the bill is defective in construction, the title not being in harmony with the phraseology of the sections following the enacting clause which describes the experimentation prohibited and further should this bill become a law it would prove to be a great disadvantage in emergency cases in patients of any age where they are found by the physician called to attend the case to be in an unconscious or comatose condition. Such cases require quick judgment and prompt action in the application of external remedies and in many instances the hypodermis use of remedies stimulating to the nerve centres functionally inactive as the result of shock caused by severe injury or toxic conditions result of disease. Now should the law be upon the statute books of the State, it would have a deterrent effect upon the attending physician or physicians for, Mr. Speaker, the layman has not the slightest idea of why a remedy is used in any particular case, and friends of the patients of the various pathic types such as Christian Scientists, naturopaths, vitopaths and even allopaths et id omne genus might in case of a fatal result following treatment of such a case become possessed with the idea that the attending physician had experimented upon the patient. The experienced physician knowing what misconceptions are liable to take possession of the minds of the excited and hysterical friends and relations of a patient who has died under the circumstances. I have mentioned would hestitate in promptly using the treatment and remedies his best judgment would lead him to think were indicated in the case for fear of subsequent prosecution for mal practice for even if not found guilty after a fair and impartial trial in a court of justice he would have been subject to the annoyance and expense of defending himself. Lawyer's fees and court charges are not to be lightly considered by the average medical man.

Now, for these reasons I do not think this bill should be enacted into law. Emergency cases would receive scant attention from the fact that a bill like this was upon the statute books and would have a deterrent effect upon the attending physician. He would feel that he might be charged with experimenting upon the patient, provided the case resulted fatally, and emergency cases require prompt attention.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, replying to the gentleman who has just preceded me, I desire to say that there is nothing in this act which will take or cover any point the gentleman has in opposition or objection. He has stated that if the patient would die by such treatment prescribed by him that he might be arrested for mal-practice. Well, perhaps he would be arrested for mal-practice, but mal-practice has nothing at all to do with this act. Mal-practice, as the gentleman knows, is the improper use of a proper remedy at an improper time. It is not an experiment and consequently has nothing whatever to do with this act. He says every physician who would attend a patient would have to be afraid of prosecution. I ask you, all fair minded men of this House and Mr. Speaker, why should a physician be exempt? If you are a merchant you are liable to be arrested for misrepresentation by any person who might think you have not treated him fairly in a trade matter. I am amenable to the laws of this State and my affliction would be no protection to me in the Court of Justice and it should not be, and I think the man who violates this act, if he is guilty he most certainly should pay the penalty. Gentlemen and Mr. Speaker, this bill says explicitly "experiments", and I call your attention to the fact that the word treatment does not appear in this bill. If you will follow me and bear in mind that there is an absolute difference between "experiment" and "treatment"; you will see the provisions of this act are just, that they are right and should be written upon the statute books of this State. Experiment is the trying out of a theory to prove or disprove its value. Experiment is not preceded by a diagnosis. It is the use of drugs or the administration of instruments into the body and is always accompanied by a disorder or disarrangement. An experiment, Mr. Speaker, does not seek to heal, does not seek to cure nor to alleviate pain, nor seek to prevent disease. A treatment, you will understand, is the opposite from this. In a treatment what a physician does is to make a diagnosis. He decides in his own mind what ails the patient and then by applying his theraputics and materia medico, proceeds to relieve that pain or makes that cure or remedy. Now there is a difference between experiment and treatment. Any man can see that an experiment is certainly not treatment and treatment is not experiment. I do not see any reason why a man when he enters a hospital of this State should not have the knowledge that he is going to be protected, that there is going to be no experiment upon him and which will not be benefit to him personally, and experiment, my friends and Mr. Speaker, never does the man experimented upon one single bit of good. They have asked me what to do in a delirious case. In a delirious case of what? I say if a man is delirious and needs treatment, then most certainly he has a perfect right to treat that case. If he wishes to experiment, it is something else. They have said that if there is diphtheria in a home or in a school and they wish to take the antitoxin treatment and prevent this disease spreading out in this Commonwealth, I say they should use the antitoxin with the knowledge of medicine. It is not an experiment and the man who would say that it is, in my opinion, would be unenlightened and the use of antitoxin is not an experiment and consequently would not be barred under this act.

Why do we hestitate to write this law upon the statute books of this State. We have just passed the child's labor law and the women's labor law and we have passed humane acts and good acts and now we are going to stop? We are not going to write this law on the statute books? we are not going to continue the good work? Mr. Speaker, do I look like a man who would stand here and talk this stuff if I was not convinced that I was right? Let me tell you there is something more behind these dark glasses than you imagine. I ask you men, you fair minded citizens of this Commonwealth to stand by this bill and vote aye.

Mr. STEELE. Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to take up much of the time of this House with this discussion, but I just want to explain a few things in regard to this bill, to show you that what it reads is not what it means. I have the highest respect for the gentleman from York (Mr. Lanius), but I want to get away from the sympathic and sentimental side for just a few moments. I want to recite to you a case which happened this week at Mont Alto, when about seventy-five or eighty young people were inoculated or had the serum of diphtheria injected into them on account of a case of diphtheria. Of those seventy-five or eighty people who had the diphtheria antitoxin injected into them and I do not suppose there was one mother or father or guardian within one hundred, two hundred or three hundred miles. This bill if passed and would go into effect would prohibit just such operation of that kind. Now that one case of diphtheria that the patient had and was helped and cured by antitoxin, may in a few years from now—five or ten years—die of Brights disease or chronic nephritis. Where people have diphtheria or scarlet fever there are eighty per cent. of them die of Bright's disease in later life, that comes from that scarlet fever and diphtheria. Now for instance you take and give those patients who have diphtheria the antitoxin. They run one chance of two in dying in later life of chronic Bright's disease, and you men know from reading the papers day after day, how many people die of kidney disease, and I say fifty per cent. of these people that die of Bright's disease, have had in their younger life, scarlet fever or diphtheria. Now this bill has originated just like the anti-vivisection bill and the anti-vaccination bill, from quite a few women in the City of Philadelphia These women I might say have been here on the anti-vivisection and anti-vaccination bill and to show you that diphtheria antitoxin would mean just the same to them as what vaccination does. They have provided in this bill that "nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit a treatment or operation upon an unconscious person immediately necessary to relieve or cure said person from physical ailment, and provided further that nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit the injection or inoculation of any virus or any other substance for the purpose of vaccination."

Now remember that they have admitted themselves that this is an experiment, and an experiment to the common people and the laity, I might say—

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEELE. I will.

Mr. LANIUS. Was not that amendment put in the bill while it was in Committee?

Mr. STEELE. Yes, sir.

Mr. LANIUS. Didn't I understand you to say that having that in proved that the friends of this bill were hostile to vaccination?

Mr. STEELE. When I asked one of the ladies whether that meant vaccination, she said "yes" we are not in favor of vaccination." While it may be an experiment to the laity, yet to the physician and to what the judge would decide are enfirely different. So far as vaccination and diphtheria toxin, and the tubercular test of the eye, and all tests of syphillis to the able physician, they are not experiments, but to the laity, they might appear as experiments. You nor I do not know how the judge will decide whether they are experiments or not. I want you to know what you are voting on, and if you pass a bill of this kind, you are voting to stamp out scientific research. There is not an honorable physician in the State of Pennsylvania that would vote for this bill. The friends of this bill have gone to New York, and taken as a basis for their bill the Roosevelt Hospital in New York, where large advancement has been made in research. They have also a hospital in New York, the name of which I do not know, because in that hospital they are doing some work with the tuberculin test of the eyes. I ask you to vote against this bill. Throw away all sentiment and sympathy and know what we are voting on. There is no man that has any more respect in the world for women than I have, but if we left it to them we would not have any scientific research. Gentlemen, I ask you to vote against this bill.

Mr. LANDIUS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman in his remarks has stated that one of the ladies from Philadelphia told him that she was opposed to vaccination. Well, suppose she did. That does not prove conclusively that all the ladies interested in this measure are opposed to vaccination, nor does it prove that all the members in this House are opposed to it, nor that all the doctors are opposed to it, or that any one is in favor of it. They all wanted that amendment, and I understood him to say that it was inserted in this bill at that time. It also appeared at that time that they were satisfied with this bill. They believed it was a blow to vaccination, but they did not know the provisions of this bill. He stated that every physician will use the tuberculin test. I will tell you of some of the tests used in these schools, and I will leave it to you to decide one way or the other for yourself, about these experiments. I will first take up the Roosevelt Institute of New York. There were 146 children used there, and inoculated with syphillitic virus. They said that some of these children probably may have this disease later in life. One hundred of them, it is admitted, were furnished through the courtesy of the various hospitals in that city. Forty-six of the children were absolutely healthy children. Do you believe that any sane mother or father, I say, any sane mother or father, would allow a child to be inoculated with syphillitic virus. The authorities were asked if they had the consent of these people, and they refused to answer the question. Why? Because they dared not. In Ohio a woman came to the hospital with an ulcer on her head, having been burned in early childhood. There was nothing he could do for her to cure her, but he saw an opportunity to experiment, and the doctor tells of the experiment. He tells us that he took an electric needle, and placed it through the ear to the base of the spine. He tells of the twitching of the limbs and whole body, and said her eyes started from the socket, and she died. E. E. Slocum of the University of Wyoming says: "What is human life compared to a fact in science." He said that science must advance even at the cost of human life. Mr. A. H. Wendberth, of the Children's Hospital of Boston, states that eight children were experimented upon by being punctured in the spine. There are no indication of any spinal meningitis. These punctures were made in children from the age of two months to six years, and the eight of them died. This man was removed. They would not keep him because they thought that if there was to be any scientific research his body ought to be used, and not the body of these little children. In the Vincent Home in Philadelphia, they experimented with this tuberculin test. They tell us that they used about fifteen children in these tests, and they admit that they did not examine these children, and it was afterwards admitted that the eye might be blinded by the use of the tuberculin test for such an experiment. Is it right? Talk about sentiment and sympathy. Talk about justice. That is what you want to talk about. Don't sit here and make your ears deaf to what I am telling you. It doesn't matter what you call yourselves, you are men, with souls in your bodies, and with hearts and consciences, and I know that you are not going to subscribe to the character of injustice that these experiments are. One word in conclusion. They say that science must advance, that a layman is not the judge. Perhaps he is not of medical fact, but he is of right and wrong, and that is the question. He knows what is right and what is wrong. If there must be experiments, if they wish to experiment, let them experiment upon their own bodies. Let them experiment upon the bodies of men who are willing to have it done, but don't let them take the man who doesn't want it. The Evening Telegraph of last evening tells of a man who worked his way by slow degrees from Pittsburgh to Harrisburg. He came here to see the Governor and he called upon certain officials in the capital. He said that he believed he was experimented upon in one of the hospitals in Pittsburgh, I have forgotten the name of it. He said that a drug had been administered which made it impossible for him to work. The State gives to the hospitals millions of dollars for their support. Why not protect the people in these hospitals in order that a man might know that his body would be just as safe there as it is at home. I care not whether the experiment as described by the gentleman is true. There is a lingering suspicion in the hearts of the common people that the hospitals are not for them except to be used as experiments. There is no man who has more respect for the medical profession than I have. I have spoken to practitioners, and they say the bill is all right. I have spoken to attorneys, and they say the bill is all right, but that the medical fraternity would fight it. The medical profession do not care whose body is used just so long as the science can advance. An old practitioner told me that in twenty-five years there would be no room for him. He said that you will have nothing but specialists, that the doctors were going mad specialties, so that payment and fortune could advance. With all due respect to the medical profession and the zealous manner in which they guard that profession, I suppose they think they are right from their standpoint, but I speak from the masses and the common people, and don't tell me that I don't know the circumstances for I have stood shoulder to shoulder with them, and know what I am talking about. Do you suppose I got this scarred head of mine playing with children? No, indeed! I am here for the laboring class and I am here to defend their interests. I ask you not for my sake, but for their sake, and for the sake of your conscience, and for the sake of this bill, to support this measure.

Mr. NEWBAKER. Now Mr. Speaker, if the author of this bill or the members of this House who deem the enactment of legislation of the character described in this bill to be necessary will consent to have it recommitted to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation for the purpose of having it amended so as to properly protect and safe guard a reputable and qualified physician called from prosecution when called to treat cases of injury and disease of any character whatever. I will vote for the bill and I believe every other physician in the House will do the same. If in order at this time and with the consent of the gentleman from York, Mr. Lanius, I will outline in a few words my conception of a short bill which in my opinion would forever set at rest and ease the mind of these persons who never feel entirely safe as long as a doctor is within range of their vision and yet who are the first to call upon him for succor and assistance when injured or afflicted with disease I would substitute for the first section of the bill, the following:

That from and after the passage of this act it shall be a felony for any person to experiment upon any human being minor or adult sane or insane either by the administration of drugs or other deleterious substances or by the insertion within the body of such human being any instrument of any kind whatsoever or by the injection or inoculation of any substance whatsoever whether toxic or nontoxic with or without the consent of the person thus subjected to experimentation and whether he be conscious or unconscious at the time such experimentation is instituted.

And I would put in a little longer provision than he has in his bill.

And provided further that nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit or prevent any legally qualified physician from using any means instrumental, medicanical or mechanical, externally or internally which in his judgment might under any circumstances contribute to the relief or benefit of any case of injury or disease he may be called upon to treat whether such patient is in a conscious or unconscious state.

That would eliminate the danger which the antis appear to fear the physicians to treat emergency cases or any other cases. The bill as drawn by the gentleman from York, Mr. Lanius, would prevent physicians from taking care of any of their cases.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I rise at this time to speak in favor of the passage of this bill. I have in my home today a boy who is seven years of age and I have not yet started to send him to any public school. While I realize that the law would request that I send that boy to school at the age of six years, I refrain from complying with the law, because the minute that I send that boy to school he must be vaccinated. I have heard a statement made here, on the floor of this House, that any honorable doctor or physician, as you might say, would not vote in favor of this bill. My family physician has advised me that I should not permit my child to be vaccinated under any circumstances. He knows the nature of that child; he knows the condition of that child's blood. Some two years ago, I attended a convention that was composed of representatives of labor throughout the whole United States. They represented all told, taking in the man, the woman and the child, in the textile workers line some three hundred thousand employes and every delegate represented at that convention were opposed to compulsory vaccination. I have no real objection to these experiments being performed, if I give my consent and I feel not out of sympathy for the sponsor of this bill, because I know that the ones who are the poorest, the ones who are most destitute in this State of Pennsylvania are those who are being used to-day for experiments. I have no real objection to the medical profession, nor have I any objection to the surgical profession, but I don't feel that any father should have to consent that the use of drugs or the use of the knife be practiced without their consent, or without being consulted as to what the nature of the disease is. This bill does nothing more than say that the consent of the parent or the consent of the patient must be received as to the nature of his disease or her disease or that child's disease as it has been made known before the use of drugs or any surgical operation can be performed. I would ask here to-day that the members of this House vote in favor of this bill. I believe that it is one of the best bills that has been presented to this Legislature.

Mr. WALTER A. BLAIR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman who has just spoken.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Piper, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. WALTER A. BLAIR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether he would consider himself efficient enough to know whether a physician was experimenting or not?

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I don't believe I would consider myself efficient to know whether a physician was experimenting or not but I would know if he first told me the nature of the disease whether or not he was fooling me or just practicing for experience.

Mr. WALTER A. BLAIR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to cite a case to the gentleman. About four weeks ago, while I was at home, a boy seven years of age was run over by a street car and had his leg practically amputated. We took that boy to a hospital. His father was working in a coal mine and his mother could not leave home. When we got the boy to the hospital we had to open a vein and use what we call transfusion by inserting into the vein a tube which we introduced into the veins and injected about a pint and a half of normal salt solution and after that we amputated the leg. The child is now living. Had that been your boy to whom we did that, would you consider that we were experimenting or not?

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I would have been very sorry to have a boy of mine of seven years of age meet with such a mishap of having a leg amputated without first trying in some way to find the trouble of that child's injury to see if there would be any way of saving the child and the leg.

Mr. WALTER A. BLAIR. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman had the boy died would and had you considered that we were all experimenting we could have been sued for perjury, as this bill is drawn, if you considered, in that case, or in such a case as this, that we were experimenting with your boy. That is absolutely the provision of this bill; it is an insult to the profession and should not pass this House.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman's statement, I desire to say that there are a number of physicians in this State who should be sued for the tactics they use in experimenting in accident cases.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. BIGGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 1451, File Folio 5267, on page 21 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1451, entitled:

An Act providing for the resignation or retirement of certain officers and employees of State institutions and under certain conditions allowing them half pay during the remainder of their lives and making an appropriation therefor

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Section 20, line 6. Strike out "first" and "had and."

Section 20, lines 8 and 9. Strike out "liable to indictment" and insert in lieu thereof "guilty of a misdemeanor."

Insert in line 9 before "pay" the words "be sentenced to."

Section 20, line 11. Strike out "greater" and insert in lieu thereof "more."

Section 20, line 12. Strike out "trying the said offence."

Section 21. Strike out the section and insert in lieu thereof the following: "If any person liable for the payment of the license fee as herein provided shall open any such building, tent or enclosure after the license year commencing May first in each year, he shall be permitted to pay a proportonate part of the license fee from the date of the opening thereof until the end of the license year."

Section 22, line 5. Strike out "or" and insert in lieu thereof "nor."

Add after section 22 and before section 23 the following: to be numbered as Section 23. Section 23. The words 'owner,' 'lessee,' 'applicant,' 'person' or 'party' wherever used in this act shall include a partnership or corporation."

Renumber old section 23 accordingly.

Section 23, line 4. Insert after "held" the word "and."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill be prepared for final passage.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1219, entitled:

An Act to amend section seven of an act approved the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to amend sections one two three and seven of an act approved the third day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine entitled "An Act to amend sections one two three and seven of an act approved the third day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and five entitled "An Act amending sections one two three seven and fifteen article two of an act entitled 'An Act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the anthracite coal mines of Pennsylvania and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith approved June eighth Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one (Pamphlet Laws one thousand nine hundred and one page five hundred and thirty-five et cetera) increasing the number of inspectors and inspection districts providing for the examination of candidates for Dauphin county and providing for certain redistricting of inspectors granting to the qualified voters of Sullivan Susquehanna and Wayne counties the ri ght to participate in the election of mine inspectors of the second inspection district' so as to increase the number of inspection districts by making the counties of Susquehanna Wayne and Sullivan a separate district providing for the appointment of a board of examiners for said district and for the examination and election of an inspector therefor and for the appointment of an inspector thereof until such time as an inspector should be duly elected" by providing for additional inspectors therein

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. E. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, this bill calls for the addition of ten new anthracite mine inspectors. As a members of the commission to codify and revise the anthracite mining laws of Pensylvania I will state that we considered the proposition of increasing the number of mine inspectors in the anthracite districts and it was the opinion that four or five more new inspectors was sufficient; that there was no call for any more than four. At the present time there are twenty-one. We recommended an increase of four making the number twenty-five. This bill calls for ten additional mine inspectors, increasing the number to thirty-one. We understand from the Department of Mines that these are unnecessary and that there is no call for them and I believe that this bill should not receive the favorable vote of this Legislature. I believe that it is unnecessary.

Mr. LENKER. Mr. Speaker, this bill was drafted by the three district trades United Mine Workers of the anthracite coal regions—those men who are in close touch with the situation in the anthracite coal field and they feel that this is an absolute necessity. When we consider the enormous loss of life in the anthracite coal fields, we certainly realize that it is necessary to do something. As most of the gentlemen of this House are aware, as a rule I don't support bills of this kind, let alone present them, unless I feel that they are absolutely warranted. In 1911 there were six hundred and fifteen miners killed inside of the anthracite coal mines. The miners feel that the bill is just and I have heard no complaint from the operators. The policy of the Department of Mines has been to gradually increase the number of mine inspectors knowing that the lives of the miners will be better safeguarded by a thorough inspection, which is impossible at present because there are certainly not enough mining inspectors. I trust the House in its wisdom will see fit to pass this bill.

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 45, file folio 6539, on page 24 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 45, entitled:

An Act fixing the penalty for murder of the first degree regulating the procedure incident thereto prescribing and providing for a place and manner of inflicting said penalty on the grounds of the new Western Penitentiary in Centre county making an appropriation therefor repealing certain acts and parts of acts and exempting from the operations of the act persons now under sentence of death

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 4, line 8 by inserting after the word "duty" the words "of such office to"

Amend Section 4, line 8, by striking out the first word "to"

Amend Section 4, line 13, by inserting after the second word "the" and before the word "family" the word "immediate"

Amend Section 10, line 1, by inserting after the word "of" the words "commencing and if possible completing the erection of"

Amend Section 10, line 1 by striking out the word "erecting"

Amend Section 11, line 13, by inserting after the word "thereunder" the following: "and all persons sentenced to death the date of whose execution as fixed by the Governor of this Commonwealth shall be prior to the completion of the building and the installation of the appliances provided for in this act"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments as read will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Mr. CLAYCOMB. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 1510, file folio 4449, on page 32 of to-day's calendar, bills on final passage postponed for the present.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1510, entitled:

NAYS—3.

Benninger,	Hackett,	Roney,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. ISLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 1118, file folio 6299, on page 32 of to-day's calendar, bills on final passage postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1118, as follows:

An Act authorizing municipalities to provide a supply of water for municipal and domestic purposes by the construction and operation of water works or systems of water works or if the said municipality or a portion thereof or its inhabitants be supplied by a private water company by the purchase of the water works of such company or parts thereof within the limits of said municipalities upon the basis herein provided or in the event of of the refusal of said water company to sell the same as herein provided by the construction and operation of water works or systems of water works

Whereas It has been determined that under the present legislation municipalities having the power to provide a supply of water for municipal and domestic purposes have exhausted the same by reason of franchises granted to private water companies and

Whereas It is desirable that all municipalities shall have the power to supply water for municipal and domestic purposes through municipal systems and

Whereas It is desirable that such right should not be given to municipalties in competition with private water companies which have constructed water works within the limits of such municipalities without providing for the acquisition of the water works of such private companies upon a basis which is fair and equitable both to the municipalities and to the private companies

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That municipalities of this Commonwealth shall have the power and authority subject to the provisions of existing laws to provide a supply of water both for municipal and domestic purposes by the construction and operation of water works or systems of water works Provided however that where a private water company is now or hereafter supplying any municipality or any part thereof for municipal and domestic purposes that the municipality shall not erect or construct its own water works if the private company shall upon the request of the municipality signify its consent in writing to sell its water works or system of water works to the municipality or so much thereof as may come within the limits of the municipality upon the following basis to wit

The then value of the physical property with fifteen per centum additional thereto and no allowance shall be made for franchise values or for any rights in the streets of the municipality or for earning power either present or future Provided That if a contract between a municipality and a private water company for the purchase of the said water works or portion thereof then upon the terms and conditions provided in said contract

Section 2 If the said water company shall within thirty (30) days after the request of the municipality signify its consent in writing to sell its water works or systems of water works or the portion thereof lying within the municipality upon the basis herein provided then the municipality shall be bound to purchase the same

If the said private water company shall refuse or not so signify its consent in writing within thirty days to sell its water works within said territory upon the basis herein provided then the said municipality shall have the right to lay its water mains and construct its water works or systems of water works in the territory supplied by said company within the limits of such municipality

Section 3 If the said water company shall signify its consent in writing to sell its water works or systems of water works upon the basis herein provided then the Court of Common Pleas of the county within which said municipality is located shall upon the petition of said municipality or the said water company appoint three disinterested persons as viewers or arbitrators who shall appraise the value of the said water works or systems of water works and said viewers or arbitrators and the parties to the said proceedings shall proceed in the same manner and with all the rights and powers given to the viewers and to the parties with reference to the appraisement and acquisition of said property as provided by an act approved March twenty-fourth one thousand nine hundred and nine (Pamphlet Laws sixty-seven) entitled "An Act authorizing municipalities to purchase or condemn public toll-bridges crossing rivers or streams within the limits thereof and giving power to municipalities to charge and collect tolls or rentals for the use of any such bridge from any railway telephone or telegraph companies and other persons making a use thereof for other than ordinary public foot and vehicle travel and providing for the preservation of existing contracts with such persons and their assignment to such municipality"

Section 4 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. ISLER. Mr. Speaker, just a word with regard to this bill. In the City of Pittsburgh in some of the newly annexed territory we have water lines belonging to independent water companies. We want to try to get this bill through so that the City can acquire these water lines and turn their own filtered water into them and give the citizens on the hill tops and parts of the East End, City filtered water at the same rate as the rest of the City now enjoys. These water companies are charging 33 cents per thousand gallons and the city charges 17 cents. By this bill passing we can give these people the same water that the rest of the City now enjoys.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered. that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consid eration of House Bill No. 1147, entitled:

An Act providing for the publishing of legal advertisements in certain newspapers in counties not exceeding fifty thousand inhabitants

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend section 1, line 5, by striking out "fifty thousand" and insert in lieu thereof "One hundred and fifty thousand"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment as read will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,
The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1282, entitled:

An Act exempting from levy and sale upon execution issued upon any judgment household goods and furniture in use as such to the value of three hundred dollars and providing a method for the apraisal of such household goods and furniture

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

NAYS—9.

Alworth,	Light,	Mitchell,	Roney,
Jones, J. R.,	Mather,	Peachey,	Swift,
	Trach,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,
The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1195, entitled:

An Act to further regulate and restrain the sale of vinous spirituous malt or brewed liquors or any admixture thereof by forbidding such sale on certain holidays and providing penalty for violation of this act

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass?

Mr. SWIFT. Mr. Speaker, I do not know if it is necessary for me to extend remarks upon this bill, other than to say that it is prepared in response to a call, not simply from the temperance side, but also from judges and also from those who are interested in the traffic. I may call to notice a declaration made by a judge recently in considering questions that were brought before him and he says this: "We are advised that some licensees have not shown proper respect for the request of the Court that they close Memorial, Thanksgiving and Christmas Days."

I also read from a letter from Mr. George Bullitt, former Editor of the Beaver Trade News, the following:

"I would prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors on Decoration Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas Days. They are in the best sense holy days and it is most unfit that they be made the scene of drunken ribaldry and debauchery. The present tendency is to make them the worst instead of the best days of the year."

I may simply add this. It seems that upon these three days, which as has been stated in the letter, we may recognize them as holy days, for with them there is connected something of a religious service. Thanksgiving Day under the direct proclamation of our President and the Governor's of the different States of the United States is one when we offer gratitude and thanksgiving. It seems that upon this day it is highly fitting that our saloons should be closed On Memorial Day the day when we are to remember men for their services and sacrifices, when we are to remember the deeds of noble men so nobly done, when we are called to consider their acts, their lives, and their deaths to bring us peace and happiness and quiet, it is becoming in us a nation and a people to give our entire attention calling and recalling of the past and to consider carefully and shall I say religiously the work and service of men who have passed into the beyond. On Christmas Day, when happiness, when peace, when joy and when gladness should be in every home, every father, every mother, every brother, and every sister with grateful hearts in memory of the great gift which God gave to man revealing his fatherhood, humanity's brotherhood, it seems to me that it is highly becoming in us as a people to follow gratefully and considerately the direction of not simply the church, but also of our judges, also of the thought and feeling of our wisest and best men. And I call upon this House to-night to record its vote in favor of closing the saloons upon these days which are given to us as days in which we are to remember God, our country, and our people.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I regret that I am compelled to occupy your attention and shall do so but for a few moments, but I wish to reply to my very good friend from Beaver, and assure him that the proposition he seeks in the enactment of this bill will certainly not follow from any proposition such as it contains. There are other gentlemen in the House who are equally devoted and equally religious in the observation of the three days in question, but I point to you, gentlemen, that the closing of every licensed hotel or saloon in the State of Pennsylvania will not produce the results contended for by my friend from Beaver. Does not the gentleman know that on those days every theatre, every concert hall, and every place of amusement is doing full time, and in many instances over time, and so long as these places are open, why should not every other place be open to men who are forced to be in the business center of the city. Of course, I can readily see in rural districts and small country districts many good and right-minded people would desire that the licensed places close, but what about the city of Philadelphia, which has in it on holidays and almost every day fifty thousand transient population? What about the City of Pittsburgh that has anywhere from five thousand to ten thousand of a transient population. Shall these men be deprived of the rights given them? Every hotel in the State is licensed because of a public need. If there was no need for the hotel or saloon the court would not have granted the license, and if there is a need for them every other day in the week, who shall say that the same need does not exist on the Holidays? Besides if we close up these places on the holidays, it will tend to produce drunkenness and disorder because men accustomed to getting their drinks every day may feel that because they cannot get them on the holidays that they have to stock up on the day before, and, therefore, it will not produce that condition that ought to be produced on the holidays. There is another argument and a very serious argument against this bill. Do you realize that it costs any saloon or hotel in a city such as Pittsburgh, or Harrisburg or Philadelphia a daily expense of not less than fifty dollars. When you consider the license and high rent and the payment of help, have we the right to penalize these people to the extent of three days business without reimburseing them? Should we compel these hotel people to pay their good money and lose three days business? You can readily see, and it is a good argument against it, that the bill while intended in the best of good faith and from sincere and honest motives will not produce the condition for which it contends. I ask you, therefore, gentlemen to vote against this bill.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I feel that the gentlemen of the House in coming here this evening have their minds made up on how to vote on this bill. There have been two things which have called forth heavy artillery in the art of oratory. One is pertaining to the liquor question, and the other to the bills which create extra jobs in the Commonwealth. I, therefore, move the previous question.

The SPEAKER. It is possible that no other gentleman desires to speak on the subject and time will be saved by putting the question directly.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask that this vote be verified.

This was done as follows:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 573, entitled:

An Act regulating the sale of anthracite coal fixing standards of size and quality thereof and requiring inspectors of weights and measures in certain cases to make a test thereof and providing penalties for violation of this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. J. H. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows.

Amend page 2, line 17, strike out "two" (2) and insert "one" (1)

Amend line 27, strike out "two" (2) and insert "one and one half" (1 1-2)

Page 2, line 35, strike out "four" (4) and insert "two" (2).

Line 36 strike out "three" (3) and insert "two" (2).

Page 3 line 45, strike out the first "five" (5) and insert "three" (3).
Line 45 strike out the second "five" (5) and insert "three" (3).
Page 3, line 53, strike out first "nine" (9) and insert "four" (4).
Section 2, page 3, line 1, insert after the word "the" the word "mining."
Page 3, lines 2 and 3, strike out the words "containing more than 18 per centum of coal of a smaller size," and insert in lieu thereof, as follows: "of broken, egg or stove size containing more than five per centum of coal of a larger or smaller size; or chestnut coal containing more than five per centum of a larger size, or more than five per centum of a smaller size or pea coal containing more than five per centum of a smaller size."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments?

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I object to those amendments for the following reasons:

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's objection is sufficient without any reason.

Mr. J. H. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House go into Committee of the whole for the purpose of special amendment.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, this bill has been drawn with a great deal of care. It has been attacked through the newspapers by the coal dealers or Coal Exchange of Reading and Philadelphia and the gentleman from Philadelphia who has just taken his seat is a member of the same. This bill we consider in the anthracite region as one being as important to the consumer of coal as flour and clothing. The sizes named as to the mesh and is the standard size of all the companies used in the preparation of coal. We are taking their sizes and the breaking of the coal as to the precentage of slate and also as to the precentage of smaller size is identical with the inspection made at the collieries upon every car loaded and shipped to the market. In addition to that the size is the same as is contained in the contract signed by the coal dealers and the object of offering this amendment is to try to compel the people who prepare the coal to do something which is utterly impossible and which will make this bill practically null and void. In taking up the sizes, as I said before, the precentage of bone and slate—we know that those grades have been used for the last fifteen years and if followed out or carried out the consumer of coal will get at least from fifteen to twenty per cent better coal than he is getting to-day. I went to the Philadelphia Coal Exchange and spent home hours with them on one day and went through these sizes and I had their contract and adopted their contract and at that meeting they requested me to reduce the size or the precentage of slate or bone, and under their contract which the people had prepared I told them then as I tell you now that you would make it impracticable.

If you will notice and follow that bill, the percentage of broken coal, as I said, in the contract with the operator made by the coal dealer in the preparation at the colliery of broken coal is one per cent. slate and two per cent. bone. In this connection I would like to read a letter from the Downing Brothers, the largest coal dealers, I suppose, in Philadelphia, or one of the largest dealers, under date of March 8, 1913, in which he says, "Honorable Frank C. Reese, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Dear Sir: In reply to your recent request, we have made a test of one hundred pounds each of broken, egg, stove, nut and pea coal, all of which coals have been received from the mines within the last thirty days, and we find the proportion of slate and bone in each size of coal such a quantity that it is a crime against the public for any coal dealer or producing company or individual operator to dare ship such coal from the mines." Now, if you will follow that bill, the inspection of broken coal is 5 per cent. slate and 2 per cent. bone. Their inspection calls for 11 per cent. slate and 13 per cent. bone, or, in other words, the consumer is filched out of 10 per cent. of good bill and 10 per cent. of slate. This bill calls for 2 per cent. of slate and 2 per cent. of bone on egg coal, and their inspection shows 12 per cent. slate and 11 per cent. bone, an increase in one place of 10 per cent. and on the bone of 13 per cent. On stove coal, we pass at 4 per cent. slate and 3 per cent. bone; their inspection shows 10 per cent. slate and 5 per cent. bone. On nut coal our figures are 5 per cent. slate and 5 per cent. bone. Their inspection shows 10 per cent. slate and 11 per cent. bone, or 5 per cent. more in slate and 5 per cent. more in bone. On pea coal our inspection shows 8 per cent. slate and 8 per cent. bone, while they carry with it 9 per cent. slate and 9 per cent. bone. You will see, in this connection, that the pea coal in that case must have run very good, because our inspection, after making not one, but thirty, in the anthracite region, from cars that had left the collieries, showed nearer 20 per cent. of slate than it does 9 per cent. That is of slate; on pea coal there is no inspection as to bone, because pea coal, buckwheat and rice are made largely from bony coal, that is bony coal that is thrown out in the larger sizes is crushed and run into pea, buckwheat and rice. Further than that, pea coal, buckwheat and rice are what we call steam coal, not domestic coal. The Government test of those smaller sizes is 19 per cent. ash. They give a premium on what is lower than 19 per cent., but will not accept anything above 19 per cent. I ask you gentlemen to vote down those amendments, as it means that, with that in the bill, it would reduce, as I said before, grades that it makes impracticable at the collieries, and it will be putting it lower than what the coal dealers have been buying under their contracts for the last fifteen years.

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Reese.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REESE. Yes, sir.

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, he also has some other inspections. Will he please read those other inspections?

Mr. REESE. I would say to Mr. Young that I do not have those inspections here. I got the list of collieries from Mr. Schell, and I immediately took them home and wrote to the collieries that he named as soon as I received the communication, and have not been home since to receive the replies, and that data is there. But I would state in this connection that the statements we have received from several collieries are lower than the inspection as given by the Downing Brothers, and in one instance, I think, it is still lower; I think in three instances it is lower than the contract. But I think on the whole, it averages a little above what we are asking in this bill. That is my recollection of it.

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I think it is my duty to make an explanation of this bill, as I have been a coal dealer in Philadelphia for 15 years. As for those inspections of Mr. Downing that Mr. Reese just read off, they are on a grade of coal that he got through the winter when coal was very scarce. It will go to show that the operators will impose upon the public when they have an opportunity to do so. I also wish to say to you that the Messrs. Downing—if you read the papers—about eight or ten days ago received $350,000 of rebate on freight from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. When we asked them to send us another inspection, they refused to do it. Now, as for those inspections that Mr. Reese has spoken about, you cannot go by them. I don't know that I ever got such a car of coal in fifteen years that ran that high in percentage of slate. Now I have thirteen inspections here, which would take an awful long time to read. Now as to the impurities that Mr. Reese has put on the public who buy this coal, I will say nothing about the slate in the larger sizes, but the fine coal, as he calls it, he wants every person who buys a ton of coal to take 18 per cent. of small stuff or small coal. I do not see that he specifies what size this small coal is to be. If it happens to be birds-eye coal, we have got to take it, and 18 per cent. means 448 pounds of fine coal you have got to take, gentlemen, if this bill becomes a law, in your ton of coal, and I think it is an imposition to ask the public to pay for 448 pounds of fine coal, which might be birds-eye or dirt, if the operators see fit to ship it to us. It is impossible for the retail dealer to screen out this amount of fine stuff and give you good coal. Everybody is hollering for clean, good coal. Now, also in pea coal, he asks to give you 9 per cent. of slate and 9 per cent. of bony coal. That is another 448 pounds. Pea coal is a coal that most poor men buy; poor people, who cannot buy larger coal, and the percentage in this fine coal of slate and bone would amount to nearly 900 pounds of impurities and dirt that you get in your ton of pea coal if this bill becomes a law. So, gentlemen, you can judge for yourselves what to do with this bill.

Mr. REESE. All I ask you gentlemen who are using anthracite coal, if you are not acquainted yourselves, just ask your wives what grade they are getting and what troubles they are having. In the first place it is not true that we are legalizing or allowing 18 per cent. of undersized coal, any more than we are allowing 18 per cent. of oversized coal. If you will read the first part of that bill, the size of that coal is based upon the mesh through which that coal goes; that is, in the preparation of coal, if it means round mesh it is of a certain size, if it means square mesh, it is of a certain size. The 18 per cent. is an allowance for this: That is, that mesh wears, and coal will be larger, and especially in the pea coal, that coal becomes larger. Coal dealers come around and have the coal screened into their wagons, and load one-half a ton as pea and the balance chestnut, and sell it to the public as chestnut coal. That is why we fixed the basis of 18 per cent., which we consider in the anthracite regions is 2 per cent. oversize, as the proper basis, but at the request of the same gentleman, I reduced that 2 per cent. in order to satisfy him, which I think is 2 per cent. less than the average run. He stated that at certain times of the year, and especially in winter, we get bad coal. That is certainly true, and it is so bad at times that it is almost impossible to use it. There is no legalizing any dirt in coal. He knows that dirt does not go with coal, and when a ton of coal is shipped it is to be free of dirt. He knows what his contract is. In addition to that, I want to state that after the coal leaves the screens or the jigs and is run down the chutes into what we call hoppers, and from there on the cars, and during transmission there is a certain amount of breakage, and that, in connection with the wear of the screen, is where we get the 18 per cent. of undersized and oversized coal.

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I omitted saying, as the sponsor of this bill says we have a contract, we have no contract by which we buy coal. There is no law on our statutes regulating the size and preparation of anthracite coal. We have a rule by which we buy coal. If coal runs over a certain percentage of slate or refuse or small stuff, we can refuse it, but if this bill becomes a law, any grade of coal can, as I said, run up to this percentage that he has in this bill. We are bound to take it and we must deliver it to the public. I am not speaking for myself, but am speaking for all coal dealers, not alone in Pennsylvania, but the whole United States where this coal goes. I have a lot of inspections here, and I don't know that it is necessary to take up the time to read them, but I ask you gentlemen to vote this bill down.

On the question recurring,

Will the House go into the committee of the whole for the purpose of considering the amendments?

It was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I just want to answer a statement made by the gentleman from Philadelphia a few moments ago, just in this connection: Under this bill, if you read it carefully, it says "the preparation or sale of." That puts it into the position that if the consumer is not getting according to the grade he goes to the coal dealer. In the same bill if the coal dealer is not getting from the operator what he is paying for, he has his redress there.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 351, entitled:

An Act to amend an act entitled "An Act to regulate and determine what weight of anthracite coal shall make a ton in deliveries by retail coal dealers and to impose penalties for short weight" approved the twenty-sixth day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five so as to make it a misdemeanor to sell anthracite coal by short weight

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I make a motion that this bill be referred back to the Committee on Mines and Mining. This bill had been in the Committee on Mines and Mining and had been referred to a sub-committee, and I, being on the sub-committee, how it came on this calendar, I do not know, and I therefore ask the members to have this bill referred back to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

Mr. SPILLINGER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman's statement is not correct, positively. That bill was referred to a Committee of five, he, myself, Mr. Murphy, Mr. Lenker and Mr. McKay. He was given notice of a meeting and three members of that Committee, namely, myself, Mr. Lenker and Mr. Murphy attended and went over that matter. That was really the meeting on the first bill, the bill just defeated. He is mistaken on that. This bill was before the Committee and taken up when the other bills were considered, or the report of the sub-commiittee, with the Chairman present at a regular meeting. Mr. Young was not there.

I will state that this bill was sent to me from Philadelphia and the merits of the bill lie in this fact: In the first place, there is a law at the present time, in which any coal dealer who shall give or furnish to a customer, short weight, allowing 40 lbs. for variance of scales and 2240 lbs. to the ton, shall be fined fifty dollars. There have been so many complaints in Philadelphia of short weight, that they wanted the present act amended and the amendment to that act is for the first offence, fifty dollars fine, for the second offense, one hundred dollars fine, with an imprisonment of one year, at the discretion of the Court. I have no other interest in the bill except the protection of the people.

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say to this gentleman that I know what I am speaking about. I was never notified of the meeting. I spoke to Mr. Murphy an he said he was not notified of the meeting. The same thing applies to Mr. Lenker. I want to say this and tell it to the House, because I do not want to be made out a liar on the floor of the House.

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the Chairman of the Mines and Mining Committee whether or not this bill was not taken up in its regular course and proper place, and whether or not I did not say to him that I had no special interest in the bill, but that it was sent to me and was presented by me. I want to say this in addition. Two thousand two hundred and forty is the legalized ton of coal, and forty pounds is allowed for the variance in the scales. The only change in this bill is that there is an allowance of 30 pounds for that variance. This bill makes a penalty of one hundred dollars for the first offense, and imprisonment for the second offense.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman wants to ask me any questions, I will be pleased to answer them.

Mr. REESE. Were not these coal bills taken up at the same time and in their regular course?

Mr. DAVIS. I will state that there was one bill called the pure coal bill and a sub-committee was appointed to redraft the bill and make some amendments. The sponsor of the bill was one of the committee. He offered his amendments and they were adopted by the committee. On No. 351 there was no sub-committee, and the Chairman himself recommended some amendments which were adopted.

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I want to say this, that no honest coal dealer ought to object to this bill.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion to recommit?

It was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say a few words on this bill. We have already in this State two laws that protect the public, making 2240 pounds a ton of anthracite coal, and all dealers must deliver that amount. If not, they are fined fifty dollars. We have in Philadelphia a Coal Exchange, and they have detectives on the streets,—and I am one of them,—and they have a man on the street continually, weighing loads every day in the city of Philadelphia to see whether the wagon holds a ton or two tons, and to see that the public is properly protected. I think they are better protected in the city of Philadelphia than in any other city in the State of Pennsylvania. This bill makes it a fine of one hundred dollars, fifty dollars for the first offense and imprisonment for the second offense. I do not think that the bill should have been made so drastic. By this bill you have put us at the mercy of the drivers. We have no choice in hiring drivers in Philadelphia. It is hard, dirty and laborious work. The kind of people that drive coal wagons you cannot have confidence in, because intelligent people would not drive a coal wagon if they were able to obtain other employment. They will take off a ton of coal and sell some of it, or take off a bushel or so for their own homes. If a driver does that and I jack him up for it, then the next morning when he goes out he will say, "Now I will get even with him." Then under this law if he does away with some of the coal they get you for the first offense, and if they catch you again they can fine you a larger fine and put you in jail. You are putting us at the mercy of the worst class of people in Philadelphia, and I think the bill ought to be defeated.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, I think this is a very meritorious bill. It is a bill in the interest of the consumers. Coal dealers have been arrested from time to time in Philadelphia for giving short weight and have been fined fifty dollars. Under the present law, when they are only prohibited from selling coal for three months, they can well afford to do it, because they can make it up in the short weight, and the customer gets the short weight. I do not think the gentlemen of the House will make a mistake if they vote for this bill.

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I have been in the retail business in Philadelphia for fifteen years, and I have had my coal weighed dozens of times, and I have never been fined for short weight. We have some dealers in that city who sell the coal cheaper, and of course if the gentleman should happen to go to one of those dealers he would be liable to get short weight to make up for the difference in price. If he would go to a good reputable dealer he would not be cheated, but would get a full ton of 2240 pounds.

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I think that is a good argument from a coal dealer. The consumer gets the short weight because the employee is not honest. If I had an employee I would take that much interest in the business to see that the customer was not cheated. I would like to call the gentleman's attention to the fact that the coal dealers of Philadelphia have had this matter up before the Interstate Commerce Commission for weeks. We know of cars that have been shipped that were of short weight, and the dealers made up the weight, and the customers get the short weight.

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Schuylkill County.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Schuylkill County permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he is not in the ice business.

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I am.

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he can be responsible for his drivers giving short weight in ice.

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I have from 12 to 14 teams in the ice business, and know that the drivers will even take a spring out of the scales to cheat the people, and I think that it is my duty to see that the spring is there.

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he did not admit to me in the committee that the customer many a time got short weight in the ice.

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I would answer that question by saying that ice is similar to coal.

Mr. GEORGE K. YOUNG. Mr. Speaker, if that is so, then why does not the gentleman include ice in this bill?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 1424, file folio 4231, on page 21 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1424, entitled:

An Act to amend an act "Providing for the appointment of a Board of Visitation for Institutions Societies and Associations caring for dependent neglected or delinquent children" approved the twenty-sixth day of February Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and three and making it the duty of the Board of Visitation to visit all institutions witihin the county which receive their inmates from more than one county and are in whole or in part supported and managed by the Commonwealth and all institutions which are wholly supported and managed by any county city borough or township of the poor district of the Commonwealth and providing for the making of nominations of appointment on the Boards of Visitation

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, what is this bill; what is the purpose of it?

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this bill is that it extends the act of February 26, 1903, to children's institutions. It extends it so that the board of visitation may visit all institutions that receive State or county aid. It simply extends that act and is a very meritorious measure.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Legislative Journal.

Session 1913 — 120th of the General Assembly

VOL. 2. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1913. No. 58.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, April 30, 1913.

The Senate met at 10 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John M. Reynolds) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

Rev. John G. Wilson, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Our Father, with grateful hearts we come into Thy presence, thanking Thee for the innumerable evidences of Thy favor. The lines have fallen to us in pleasant places. In Thee we have a goodly heritage. We are the children of Thy care and of Thy love, and have Thy promise to be with us now and always. We ask that Thy blessing in rich measure be with the members of the Senate now in session and that Thy blessing may also be upon the great body of citizens here represented. In the administration of the trust committed to our care give us strength and wisdom, that the trust may be administered wisely and well. We are Thy servants. Help us as toilers in Thy vineyard to labor as workmen that needeth not to be ashamed. Help us to do with out might whatsoever our hands find to do, that when the evening of our day cometh and our faces are turned toward the Homeland it may be ours to hear the Master Workman say: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant." These favors we ask in the Redeemer's name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when on motion of Mr. HOMSHER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

COMMUNICATION PROTESTING AGAINST PASSAGE OF HOUSE BILL NO. 1139.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communication which was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special:

Brotherhood Bible Class of the Plymouth Congregational Sunday School

Scranton, Pa., April 28th, 1913.

To the Honorable John M. Reynolds,
President of the Senate.

Dear Sir:—At a regular meeting of the Brotherhood Bible Class of the Plymouth Congregational Sunday-School (comprising sixty-two qualified voters), held on Sunday afternoon, April 27th, 1913, the following was presented and unanimously agreed to—

Whereas, There is pending in the Senate of Pennsylvania a bill known as the Flynn Bill, and

Whereas, the said bill we believe to be in direct violation of Section 3 of Article 1 of the Constitution,

Be it Resolved by the Brotherhood Bible Class of the Plymouth Congregational Sunday-School of Scranton, Pennsylvania, that we enter into protest to the passage of any such measure as a violation of that part of the Constitution which says "and no preference shall ever be given by law to any religious estblishments or modes of worship."

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent to Senator Walter McNichols, requesting him to vote against the bill, and to the President of the Senate for the body as a whole; also to the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

COMMUNICATION FAVORING PASSAGE OF HOUSE BILL NO. 416.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communication which was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation:

American Association for Labor Legislation.
(American Section of the International Association)
131 East 23rd St., New York City, April 26, 1913.

To His Excellency Lieutenant-Gov. John M. Reynolds, State House, Harrisburg, Pa.

Sir—On behalf of its thousands of members and friends in Pennsylvania, our Association now respectfully calls your attention to Senate Bill 1095 (House Bill 416) to prevent lead poisoning.

This measure (which has the endorsement of the Commissioner of Health, Samuel G. Dixon; your leading manufacturers, and the State Federation of Labor), provides for cleanliness in the two principal branches of the lead trade recently investigated by the United States Bureau of Commerce and Labor, and reported upon in Bulletins 95 and 104. Senate Bill 1095 is a Standard Occupational Disease Bill, and is part of a nation wide campaign for uniform sanitary legislation to prevent lead poisoning. A similar law has been in successful operation in Illinois during the past two years Ohio and Missouri have recently enacted the same measure; and identical bills are now well advanced in the legislatures of the other leading industrial States. Europe for a generation past has furnished such protection.

Our recent investigations, which supplement the exhaustive reports made during the last year by government experts show conclusively this legislation is needed to prevent industrial lead poisoning among several thousand workers in Pennsylvania.

We therefore beg your examination of the reports upon plumbism which we are forwarding to you, and your favorable consideration of a measure which, without injustice to the manufacturers, will effectively protect men and women and children from the evils of a serious and unnecessary occupational disease.

Yours very respectfully,
JOHN B. ANDREWS,
Secretary.

COMMUNICATION FAVORING READING OF BIBLE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communication which was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special:

Brotherhood Bible Class of the Plymouth Congregational Sunday School,
Scranton, Pa., April 28, 1913.

To the Honorable, John M. Reynolds, President of the Senate.

Dear Sir.—At a regular meeting of the Brotherhood Bible Class of the Plymouth Congregational Sunday School (comprising sixty-two qualified voters), held on Sunday afternoon, April 27th, 1913, the following was presented and unanimously agreed to:

Whereas, There are pending in the Legislature, in the Senate Branch, two bills, one known as the Webb Bill, requiring that not less than ten verses of the Scriptures shall be read at the opening of the public school each day;

Be It Resolved by the Brotherhood Bible Class of the Plymouth Congregational Sunday School of Scranton, Pennsylvania, that we urgently request our representative in the Senate, the Honorable Walter McNichols, to vote in favor of the said bill; and,

Resolved, That a copy of the above be forwarded to him, and to the President of the Senate; also to the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

T. F. STOVER, President,

Oley, Pa., April 28, 1913.

To the Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania and the Members of the Senate of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen:—At the request of Mrs. Herbst, and in reply to an inquiry from your honorable body, as to the condition of Senator Herbst, it is my sad duty to inform you that there is at this time no appreciable change for the better. Senator Herbst suffered a stroke of paralysis shortly after noon yesterday (Sunday) and has been unconscious most of the time. He is blinded and entirely speechless. His right side is paralyzed and his condition at this time, though not entirely hopeless, is serious. Mrs. Herbst is bearing up nobly under the sad circumstances and appreciates the kindly interest in her husband's condition shown by the inquiry by phone from your body.

Very respectfully,
J. B. HERZOG.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SNYDER, from the Committee on Judiciary Special, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 1294, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the 20th day of June, 1901, entitled "An Act relating to the collection of city, school and poor taxes in the several cities of the third class in this Commonwealth, and providing that the city treasurer of each of said cities by virtue of his office shall be the collector of the said several taxes; prescribing his duties and fixing his compensation," by eliminating certain provisions relating to school taxes and repealing section eight of said act.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. FARLEY. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday evening, May 5, 1913, at 9 o'clock.

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 9:10 o'clock P. M., until Monday evening, May 5, 1913, at 9 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, April 30th, 1913.

The House met at 10:00 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Rev. John G. Wilson, of Philadelphia, offered the following prayer:

"O Lord, Our Lord, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth. The Heavens declare Thy glory and the firmament showeth Thy handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech and night unto night showeth knowledge." There is no place where Thy voice is not heard and Thy power felt. We have been the recipients of innumerable blessings at Thy hand and gratefully acknowledge Thy marvelous kindness towards us. We are the children of Thy love and Thy care.

"We know not what the future holds of marvel or surprise,
We only know that life and death Thy mercy underlies.
We know not where Thine islands lift their fronded palms in air,
We only know we cannot drift beyond Thy love and care."

Deeply appreciative of Thy great kindness, we ask Thee to give us strength to be true to Thee, loyal to truth and actively interested in the welfare of our fellow men.

Bless, we pray Thee, the members of this House, now in session. Grant that in the administration of the trust committed to their hands they may be guided by the spirit of the Master; guide us all by Thy counsel, sustain us by Thy grace and keep us faithful unto death, that it may be ours to hear Thee say "Well done good and faithful servant."

We ask it in the Redeemer's name, Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when on motion of Mr. Matt, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. ROCKWELL, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as amended, House Bill No. 1963 (Senate Bill No. 10), entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the eleventh day of May one thousand nine hundred and elven entitled "An Act to provide for the appointment of county and city inspectors of weights and measures providing for their compensation and expenses prescribing their duties prohibiting vendors from giving false or insufficient weights and fixing the penalties for the violation of the provisions hereof" by restricting the provisions thereof to counties and cities of the second and third classes regulating the appointment and compensation of the inspectors extending their powers and duties and changing the penalties for violation of the said act.

Mr. SWIFT, from the Committee on Education, re-reported as amended, House Bill No. 1182, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and elven entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties or the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the methods of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" providing for the transportation of certain pupils at the expense of the proper school district.

Mr. HERMAN, from the Committee on Education, reported as amended, House Bill No. 1723, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith."

Mr. ULERICH, from the Committee on Education, reported as Committed, House Bill No. 1896 (Senate Bill No. 752), entitled:

A supplement to an act entitled "An Act to incorporate any academy or public school in the town of Warren and for other purposes herein mentioned" approved the second day of April one thousand eight hundred and twenty two providing authority to the trustees of the Warren Academy or their successors to sell and convey in fee simple certain lands.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE.

Mr. HACKETT. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave of absence for Mr. Walsh for the balance of the week on account of business.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objections.

Mr. ELY. Mr. Speaker, I have a telegram from Mr. Schuck, from Pittsburgh, who was called home on account of illness, and I ask leave of absence for him until his return.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objections.

The SPEAKER asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Rex for the balance of the week on account of death in the family.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer a motion at this time.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to permit the motion to be offered at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the motion will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the motion as follows:

It is moved that House Bill No. 1439, entitled:

An Act to provide for the completion of the compilation and publication of the laws of the province and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and extending the said compilation and publication to include all the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania enacted prior to the session of the General Assembly which began December first eighteen hundred and one and placing the supervision and direction thereof under the care of the Legislative Reference Bureau on page 33 of Tuesday's calendar, be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER. It will be necessary to reconsider the vote by which this bill passed third reading before this can be done.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call your attention to the fact that my recollection is that this bill did not pass on third reading. The first section was read, and then I moved that the further consideration be postponed. I think the records will show that.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, there are a number of the bills on the postponed calendar that have been there for weeks and weeks, prior to the rule adopted the other day. Ample opportunity has been given to the sponsors of the bills to have them recommitted for amendment or taken off the postponed calendar by the vote of this House. Now we all know that bills at this late day, being taken off the postponed calendar for the purpose of amendment, we old members know that we can take the bill off the calendar by reconsidering the vote by which the bill passed third reading and then recommitting it, and then bringing it out again in a better position. This is simply a system of jockeying, and it is not fair to the members of this House who have bills on the postponed calendar or on second reading or on third reading. I want to call this matter to the attention of the House because it is a very serious matter. The time is getting short, and while no definite time has been set for adjournment, we hope that it will be soon and we think it will please all of the members of this House.

It is unfair to the members who have bills in Committee at this time—bills in which there is merit and which perhaps in the regular course of business would pass through the routine or procedure adopted and be finally passed by this House and messaged to the Senate. Mr. Speaker, I say it is unfair to have those bills held back by a system of the checking of bills against which a limitation has now been placed. I feel that this House ought to take a decided stand in relation to the postponing or recommitting of any bill which is now upon the postponed calendar, unless it is stated by the members who make the motion to so recommit that the purpose of re-commitment is for the object of amendment of those bills in a very material feature.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate what the gentleman from Allegheny has to say and I wish to assure him and the members of the House that I would not attempt to extend the length of time for the consideration of my bill by any such action as this unless I felt there was excellent reason for it. This bill came up on third reading last Thursday or Wednesday of last week, and it carries with it an appropriation. The preparation of these statutes have been in process since 1895 and a great deal of money has been expended in that process. I understand that a certain proportion of the work has been done. I have made an effort to find out how much of that work has been done in order to determine what amount of money should be appropriated. I have not been able as yet to get that information. I propose to get it within the next few days, or probably by next week, and if so, I would at once have the bill reported out with the amendment as to the amount of the appropriation. For that reason I would like to have the bill recommitted.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walnut, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether or not this bill has as yet been before the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, it has not been before the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman how long this bill has been on the postponed calendar?

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I think it was since last Wednesday or Thursday.

The SPEAKER. Since the 22nd of April.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I want to make this absolutely plain to the members of this House. I am not opposed to this bill; I think it is a splendid bill, but I am opposed to this system. I desire to state to the members of this House, and if I am wrong I desire the Chair to correct me, that when a bill which may have been on the postponed calendar for four legislative days is recommitted and comes back once again upon the postponed calendar it still has five days to run to the detriment of other bills which follow. I ask you is that a proper system?

The SPEAKER. When the bill comes back, it is on the regular calendar.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, it would probably appear toward the end and would again work up until it would be reached on the third reading calendar. That is, as I see it, very very unfair and all the bills which at this time are behind that particular bill must suffer, and I desire to call the attention of this House to that feature.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate that the procedure would open the door for serious abuse of this privilege, but I believe that under this particular circumstance, I am warranted to make this motion, because I have requested the information I desire from the Legislative Reference Bureau as to the amount that they thought necessary for this work. I requested that, possibly, three weeks ago but the Reference Bureau has not sent me the information. I would like to secure the information and that is my purpose in moving recommitment of the bill.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, if the sponsor of this bill will ask for its recommitment to the Committee on Appropriation, I would gladly consent to that at this time.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I am satisfied to make that motion.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walnut, calls up House Bill No. 1439, entitled:

An Act to provide for the completion of the compilation and publication of the laws of the province and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and extending the said compilation and publication to include all the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania enacted prior to the session of the General Assembly which began December first eighteen hundred and one and placing the supervision and direction thereof under the care of the Legislative Reference Bureau for the purpose of recommitment. The Chair hears no objection. The records shows that the bill passed third reading.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill (title just read) be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. E. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL PLACED ON CALENDAR.

Mr. KERN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 904, entitled:

An Act fixing th pay of assessors in the several counties be placed upon the calendar notwithstanding the negative report of the Committee.

Mr. NEWBAKER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk calls attention to the fact that this bill was reported negatively on the 26th of March which under the rule would preclude the bill being placed upon the calendar at this time without unanimous consent.

Mr. KERN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the consideration of this motion at this time notwithstanding the rule of the House.

The SPEAKER. Is there any objection?

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, I object.

Mr. KERNS. Mr. Speaker, the reason I ask to have this bill placed upon the calendar notwithstanding the negative report of the Committee is because it was reported out negatively and I was not notified. Whenever, I asked members of the Towns and Townships Committee what they did with my bill they said it was still in the Commitee and that is the reason I didn't know.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Kuhns, insist on his objection?

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my objection.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Kerns, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KERNS. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, what is the reason for putting this bill on the calendar notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the report of the Committee?

Mr. KEARN. Mr. Speaker, the reason I ask this is because I did not know it was reported out negatively. The reason I did not know it was reported out negatively is because when I asked any member of the Committee about my bill; they always said it was in the Committee. I have been told that a majority of the Committee were in favor of the bill. A similar bill had been reported. I think what we want in this bill is a just demand. It is for an increase in the pay of assessors of the several counties and townships. It fixes the pay of the assessors of those townships. I think the increase is a just one for second class townships of this Commonwealth. The pay is $3.50 per day and this bill increases it to $5.00 per day. When an assessor goes through a township with a horse and buggy he cannot do it for $3.50 a day. There is not a man in this House that would do it and would be willing to do it for $3.50 a day and this bill is simply increasing the pay from $3.50 to $5.00 a day, and the main reason why I am asking that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar is because I was not notified and I am asking for this privilege now.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the Chairman of the Committee on Towns and Townships.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Huntingdon, Mr. H. B. Dunn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. H. B. DUNN. Mr .Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to have the Chairman of that Committee inform the House why that bill was reported with a negative recommendation?

Mr. H. B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, if you can tell me what was in the hearts of the committee at that time, I might be able to tell you, but I know that the minutes of the committee show that the bill was negatived about six weeks or two months ago. Now, the gentleman says that he was not notified; the presumption is that he was notified. That is all that we can say about it.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman further.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. H. B. DUNN. Yes, sir.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, is it the sense of the committee now that the bill ought to be on the calendar or that it ought not to be on the calendar?

Mr. H. B. DUNN. It is the sense of the committee that it should not be on the calendar.

Mr. AMBLER. Mr Speaker, I am not so sure of that; I think it is the sense of the committee that this bill should be on the calendar. We have been hunting this bill for the last three or four weeks and could not find it in our committee. The bill seemed to be lost. We asked the chairman of the committee about the bill on several different occassions and we could not find the bill, and on investigation, yesterday we found that it had been reported out with a negative recommendation six weeks ago, so I believe it is the sense of the committee that this bill ought to be reported out.

Mr. CURRIER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Ambler.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. AMBLER. Yes, sir.

Mr. CURRIER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask Mr. Ambler whether he is working for this bill to get it back on the calendar, or whether he is working for the state police bill?

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, I am working to get this bill back on the calendar, because the assessors down in our county want a larger salary.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

83 gentlemen, or more than the number required by the rule, having voted in the affirmative.

The bill will be placed on the calendar, notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the committee.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 955, file folio 6347, on page 32 of yesterday's calendar, bills on final passage postponed, for the purpose of having it recommitted.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 955, entitled:

An Act authorizing cities of the first class to make contracts for removal of garbage for a period not exceeding five years providing for annual appropriations for payments for successive years proscribing the extent to which such contracts shall be included in statements and estimates of current liabilities and current income in tax levies and in determining the legality of warrants on the city treasurer and repealing inconsistent acts

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. I have no objection, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia whether or not the purpose of the recommitment of this bill be to amend it in a form that will materially change the bill.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. No, it is not. The reason I want to refer this bill to the committee is in order to have it fully discussed in the committee in a public hearing, and bring it back on the floor of the House, so that it will not be under the five-day rule, under which it will be dropped from the calendar.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman how long this bill has been on the postponed calendar.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I judge since the 21st.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the same rule applies here as was covered before the gentleman from Philadelphia was in the House this morning. As one of the members of this House, I seriously object, and again put myself on record as objecting to having bills recommitted to the committee on Judiciary Special or any other committee, so that they may be thereby run again under the five-day rule. This bill has been before the House sufficiently long, to have the committee thoroughly consider it; and, Mr. Speaker, further than that, the Committee on Judiciary Special is given credit by this House with thoroughly considering the matters that once before that committee, and to have this bill recommitted and then come out of the committee on a day's notice, perhaps, or two days notice, and take its place upon the calendar in advance of such other bills as may come along and should come along, is wrong, and I am opposed to the recommitment of it for that purpose. The gentleman has been sufficiently frank to tell the House that the purpose of recommitting the bill was simply to avoid the five-day rule.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I dare say that the gentleman from Allegheny will withdraw his objection when he knows the full purpose of this bill. It is a bill that is advocated by the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia, giving the right to make contracts to the extent of five years for the collection of garbage. There is considerable opposition to this bill. At no time was there a hearing upon it, because we thought that there would be no opposition to the bill. The bill was amended for the purpose of limiting contracts for garbage. We now understand there is very considerable opposition, and we desire to have that opposition fully heard and see if we cannot meet all objections and come up again on the floor of the House and have this bill passed and avoid all unseemly discussion. Now, it is not for the purpose of escaping the five-day rule, in the sense that my friend from Allegheny expresses it. We are satisfied to come back on the floor at the proper time and have this bill put to a vote. I hope the gentleman from Allegheny will withdraw his objection. It is a bill of vast importance, and the bill has had considerable thought from the parties on both sides of the question, and we ask that this bill be sent back to the Committee.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I only wish to say this: That I think the position taken by the gentleman from Allegheny is perfectly proper, and one that, if we wish to stand by the adoption of the five-day rule, we ought to stand by it and carry it out to its fullest intent.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I suggest to the gentleman from Philadelphia that with the harmonious relations which exist between this House and the Senate, that if this bill be not in exact form that those gentlemen from Philadelphia would like to have the bill placed in, that they have ample opportunity to have a full hearing before the Senate Committee, or doubtless, judging the future by the past, the committee on the Senate side of this Assembly will hold the bill in committee sufficiently long to allow any full hearing that may be desired.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 955, entitled:

An Act authorizing cities of the first class to make contracts for removal of garbage for a period not exceeding five years providing for annual appropriations for payments for successive years prescribing the extent to which such contracts shall be included in statements and estimates of current liabilities and current income in tax levies and in determining the legality of warrants on the city treasurer and repealing inconsistent acts

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

SPECIAL ORDER.

The SPEAKER. The hour of 10:30 having arrived, the Chair lays before the House special order on third reading, House Bill No. 383, File Folio 6561.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,
The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 383, entitled:

An Act to equalize the taxation of all properties real personal corporate or mixed by the creation of a tax commission and repealing all laws or parts of laws inconsistent herewith

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, realizing the great work this House has to do, I do not propose to impose upon the time of the House, but I feel that a word or so ought to be said on the injustice of our present taxation system.

We have here in the State of Pennsylvania at the present time real estate valued at four and one half billion dollars. We have, on the other hand, corporate and personal property valued at approximately more than nine billions of dollars. Upon the four and one-half billions of real estate have been paid a tax of over eighty million dollars and upon the corporate and personal property of over nine billions of dollars has been paid a tax of about twenty-five million dollars. In order words, real estate pays in the State of Pennsylvania to-day an average of at least seventeen mills while on corporate and personal property is only paid on average of about three mills. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I want to ask you all to think seriously upon this matter. It is not to be gone over lightly. We have gone along year after year in Pennsylvania. Instead of going forward the way she ought, she has been going down the ladder and to-day where does Pennsylvania stand? When it comes to our standing among the schools of the nation, we stand twenty-third, when it comes to efficiency, and when we come to reckon the per capita expense of children of school age, we find Pennsylvania ranks twenty-sixth. Is there any reason that we are going down, when we find that real estate, the man in his home, whether he lives in the city, in the country or on the farm, has to pay an average of seventeen mills, while the man that owns corporate and personal property only, pays an average of only three mills. Why should not the man in this Commonwealth, I do not care who he may be or in what class of business he may be engaged, why should he be made to pay an average of about six times as much taxes per valuation as the other man. This system is wrong and it is time now that this legislature is taking the right means to remedy this great wrong.

With respect to the great bond issue of fifty million dollars to build roads, let us equalize the taxation here in the State of Pennsylvania, and then we will have money to build roads and we will not have to go to work and bond our State. Take for instance the nine billions of corporate and personal property in the State of Pennsylvania and make them pay the same as you do the man with the farm or home in the city or country and you will find nine billions of dollars upon which you can collect fourteen mills on each dollar valuation more, or one hundred and twenty-six million dollars in one year. Just think of that, if we were to be put on a just basis. Does this question need your attention? Do we need legislation along this line to remedy this great evil? I tell you we do and now is the time to do it, to remedy it to-day. Even if we have to stay here until the Fourth of July, we should not allow such unjust system of taxation to be perpetuated.

We have also many other ways of showing the injustice of taxation here in the State of Pennsylvania. The other evening when I asked the House to put this bill on the calendar notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the committee, I gave an illustration of what the railroads have to pay in the State of New York and what they pay here in the State of Pennsylvania. The New York and Pennsylvania Railroad, which runs up through the Northern part of our State and also in New York State and which has twenty-seven miles in the State of Pennsylvania and twenty-nine in the State of New York, that Railroad pays in the State of New York, six times as much taxes as they do in Pennsylvania. That shows the unequal system of taxation. Right over on the other side we have the State of Ohio and what is the situation there? We find that the legislature passed a bill whereby you cannot assess over ten mills for taxes and here in the State of Pennsylvania, go up in the northwestern part of the State and you will find that we have already a county but what pays an average millage of about thirty-five mills. Is it about time we commence to study this question? Why cannot the State of Pennsylvania be put upon the same foundation and upon the same basis as the States of Ohio and New York. Take the nine billions dollars of corporate and personal property that we have and the four and one-half billions of real estate that we have here in the State of Pennsylvania and make them both pay equally to support our Government, local, county and State, and they would only have to pay an average of about seven and one-half mills. That is the situation. I am not quoting these figures myself. These figures have been gone over in reality by the Committee appointed by the State Grange and after careful consideration they arrive at these figures. We have many other figures that may be given along this line. Take, for instance, the telegraph and telephone companies in the State of Pennsylvania. What tax do they pay? They pay hardly one mill here in the State of Pennsylvania. What tax does the street railway companies, et cetera pay? What tax does the express companies pay? You take, for instance, out in the State of Oregon, they could not get the tax laws they needed until they got the initiative and referendum, but the Grange got busy and then you will find that the express companies and telegraph and telephone companies did not have much tangible property and that they have to pay a certain millage upon their gross earnings or gross receipts. That is the situation in the State where the people are commencing to assert their rights. Is it any wonder that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and these great corporations could afford to give the members of the legislature years ago hundreds and hundreds of passes, when you come to consider the unequal taxation that we have?

This bill has been introduced after considerable work and it is no small matter to draw bills covering a taxation system of the State of Pennsylvania. The purpose of the introduction and the passage of this bill in intended to remedy the evils of the unjust and unequal taxation. It is provided by this bill, that all property, real, personal, mixed or corporate, now the subject of taxation in Pennsylvania, shall bear a just proportion of the cost of the government, state or local. That means every man's dollar is worth just as much as anybody else's whether he has it invested in a corporation or in a home. It removes the evil of the under-valuation of property. By this bill a tax commission would be created whose sole duty would be to see that no property subject to taxation should be unjustly taxed. As conditions now stand throughout the agricultural district you will find that they are commencing to leave. I could quote from the report of this Committee appointed by the State Grange, relative to the agricultural situation, but I don't propose to take up the time of the House. I don't want this House to give its attention to this matter only in so far as it will allow them to arrive at a just solution. This bill provides among other things, that the duties of the tax commissioner are, first they are to assess the personal and corporate property of the State for taxation purposes; second, they are to revise and review all local assessments. They are to have the power to make reassessments. They are to examine persons, firms and corporations and have them report information relating to their financial afairs. They are to have general supervision over the assessments for taxation in Pennsylvania. They are to have power to confer with, aid and direct local assessors and to cause the tax laws of the Commonwealth to be properly carried out and to issue subpoena and compel the production of books papers, et cetera for examination, and they have the power to prescribe the tax blanks and forms for all purposes that they may deem necessary. This tax commission is also to find out until the next session and to report to this body, what is needed further in order to make this Commonwealth come under the same taxation system as the States of New York and Ohio.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman voices my sentiments and I believe the sentiments of every member of this House, when he says that he believes in equal taxation. That is a declaration that I think every member of the House stands for. There is not a particle of doubt but what there can be something done to meet conditions in the State of Pennsylvania. It is apparent to every person who gives any consideration to taxation that from time to time the tax laws need to be adjusted to fit conditions. We realize that every body tries to pay as little tax as can. We realize that most of us are entirely satisfied to pay all of the taxes, but I never knew of anybody that rushed forward and told the tax collector that he had some money that he wanted to give him for the support of the government or the municipality. But saying we would like to have that and doing it intelligently and correctly are two different propositions. When we discuss the method of taxation it is a very broad deep question. Some of the best men on the science of economics—especially I read an article not long ago, written by one of the leading teachers in the college of Princeton that the system of taxation in Pennsylvania, after having studied all of the systems of the different States of this Union, was the best that there was on the Statute books. But there is a vast difference between having a good system and having it properly applied. In my judgment the compliant is not against the system in the State of Pennsylvania to-day but there can be a number of things done by the legislature that will more effectually carry out the intents of that system and the desires of the people. Does the bill that the gentleman presents here for you to vote for do that? Do any of you know? I am frank to confess that I do not know but I do say that I have given it a great deal of consideration and that I have also given the question of taxation a great deal of consideration, and the concusions presented are that we have the best system in the State of Pennsylvania of any State in the Union.

The very first expression in this bill I will call your attention to is the fact that this commission has the power and only the power to levy tax on that class of property that is now taxed and I refer you to the very first section. Now this commission will not have the power to go beyond that. Why, if any person stops to study the question of taxation in the State of Pennsylvania as applied and as now in operation, he will find that the greatest evil that exists in the State of Pennsylvania and the greatest shrinkage or shortage in our State Revenue are due to the fact that there is so much property that is not taxed at all now. I might perhaps not call it property, but I might say, great big interests, who having in mind the tax laws of this State, conduct their business under names and by methods that have evaded the taxation of our State. If you read the report of the tax commission of Pennsylvania you will find these recommendations. This is the size of the book. How many of you have read it? I have read every word of it. If its suggestions are followed out, and they will be by the Ways and Means Committee of this House, I do not hesitate to say that several millions of dollars will be added to the revenues of this State of Pennsylvania. You must recollect that that the suggestion made by the gentleman who just spoke on this bill is simply taken from the report of the tax commission in the State of Ohio, and that report no doubt was best for their conditions. Every State has its tax commission, and they have the reports of various commissions, and yet no two of them are similar. There might be several things in the tax laws of the State of Ohio that would be applicable to the State of Pennsylvania, but not all of them, because we have different interest and different conditions. The tax commission may make mistakes, for it is only natural that men should do that. But this is a proposition out of the whole cloth to change the entire system in Pennsylvania. No doubt many people in the State of Oregon think their method is best and that it would apply to the State of Pennsylvania, but if you compare the conditions of this State and that of Ohio or other States, you will find them as different as the noon day light is from the darkness of night. The Ways and Means Committee of this body has given hearing after hearing on this question of taxation, and has given a hearing on this particular bill, and the large majority of them, I might say, decided that it would be a most unqise step to pass this bill. Do you know what this bill means? It means that the power to fix the value of the property assessed will be in the hands of the commission. Even under this bill you cannot take away from the corporations the right of appeal. If this bill passes the House and passes the Senate, and is signed by the Governor of the State, the State of Pennsylvania would be paralyzed for revenue. Any corporation that did not agree with the finding of the Commission would appeal for the assessment. Do you think that six men can fix the valuation of the corporate property in the State of Pennsylvania? Then you know and I know that no corporation will pay the tax until compelled to do so, and neither will the individual. Most of the corporations would probably disagree with the report of this Commission and use their right of appeals, and that would hold up the taxes for two or three years, or at least eighteen months, and what will the State do then for revenue? That is what the passing of this bill will mean to the State. I want to say that there are several features in the bill that I believe in, but I am not in favor of them in their present form. It may be wise for the Legislature to create a tax commission, but by all means limit the powers of that commission, and say who shall be on that commission. If I had the power to put in force any commission of this sort, I would see to it first that the Auditor General of the State was a member of that commission, and I believe I would then rest the whole power in the governor of the State to appoint the balance of the members of that commission. Just imagine three men elected in this State to handle all the corporation and corporate property tax in this State. The corporations would use every effort and influence in their power to elect men to this commission to favor them in fixing the valuation of their property. You know perhaps better than I do that in the present system in this State there is no assessment of the valuation of corporate property. The tax is based on the amount of the capital stock and bonded indebtedness. If the tax is not high enough, for gracious sake, do not wipe off the statute books that system which we now have for fixing taxes. You can raise the tax. In this bill it says that this Commission shall look over all the railroad property in the State and say how much it is worth. That is the system now in your own townships, city or borough or county, and there is no man who does not know that as the result of that some property is assessed at at least one-tenth the value of other property. If the great transportation and transmission companies of our State do not pay enough taxes, we could very properly add a tax of one mill, two mills or three mills to that which they already pay. But under the provisions of this bill it is a question of what these men think as to what the property is worth. I widely differ with the figures that my friend has just suggested to you as the value of these different properties. The figures do not agree with the records of the census of the United States. I want to say to you again, and I feel safe in making the promise to this House that when the revenue bills are passed upon by the Ways and Means Committee of this body that they will reach out and place a tax on that class of corporations that have avoided taxation, and will bring in a revenue of four million dollars to the State. But if you pass this measure we might just as well stop. I think it would be extremely unwise to pass any measure calling for a change in the taxation such as is provided for by this bill. When they tell us about the perfect tax laws in the State of Ohio, they do not tell us that the Governor did not sign it, but that it was passed over his veto. This law in Ohio has only been in operation since 1911 and still they have page after page of amendments to this perfect law. In five years Ohio will have as many contradictory laws on this subject as any State. When you are dealing with taxation questions, you ought to deal with one general proposition, because the times are constantly changing and conditions are changing from day to day. That has been the experience of every one connected with the question of taxation. So far as we have been able under the present system, we have attempted to tax corporate property and to remedy and correct as far as possible all evils. Because we have made some mistakes is no evidence that the whole system is wrong. My judgment is that the House should see to it that any further changes should be stopped, and I ask the members of this House to vote against this measure.

The quesion recurring,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask that this roll be verified.

AMENDED HOUSE BILLS RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

House Bill No. 1631.

An Act to validate certain charters issued by the Governor of the Commonwealth to electric light companies for districts comprising two or more municipalities or townships under the thirty-fourth section of the act approved April twenty-nine one thousand eight hundred seventy-four entitled "An Act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations" and its supplements

With information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was then read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section one, line 19 to 29 Provided however That any corporation company or association before deriving the benefits of this act shall by a majority vote of its stockholders at any regular or special meeting accept the provisions of this act and file in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth a certificate under the seal of the company setting forth the date of such acceptance whereupon the Governor shall issue his Letters Patent validating confirming and creating said company or association as a corporation in deed and in law with full force and effect as if said company or association had been originally lawfully incorporated

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendment of the Senate?

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

House Bill No. 734.

An Act to amend section twenty-two of the act of May first one thousand nine hundred and nine entitled "An Act to provide for the protection and preservation of game game-quadrupeds and game-birds and song and insectivorous and other wild birds and prescribing penalties for violation of its several provisions" by giving additional protection to ruffed grouse quail and wild water fowl

With information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the title, line 6, strike out the word "woodcock."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendment of the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House. signed the same.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 16, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. C. M. C. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I do not intend to take up much of your time. This is a measure that relates to an amendment of the Constitution. This Joint Resolution would give to the electors of the State the right to initiate an amendment to the Constitution and present it to the Secretary of State and within one year or over one year it should be voted on. It also grants to the members of the legislative body the right also of initiating a proposed amendment to the Constitution and by passing it through the legislative body one time it shall then go to the electors of the State and be voted upon. This, gentlemen, is a progressive measure. I do not think any act that has been brought before this Legislature has been any more progressive than just this Joint Resolution. Now, gentlemen of the House, if you believe with me that the people should have the right to initiate amendments to the Constitution of this State, I desire that you shall vote with me in favor of this amendment. If you believe that this measure is not right, gentlemen, vote against it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. GEORGE E. ALTER. Under this bill a petition of twenty-five thousand voters all of whom may come from one county, that may be gathered up by paid canvassers in one city, is all that is necessary to secure the submission of a constitutional amendment to a popular vote, without any qualification as to the percentage of the voters of the State who shall vote upon the measure. This would make it possible for a very small minority of the voters to change the Constitution. Surely this is not wise legislation.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1092, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-fifth day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five entitled "An Act creating and defining the offense of disorderly conduct by persons on the public highways roads streets lanes alleys parks squares or commons of the Commonwealth or near thereto and fixing penalties for committing such offense" as amended by changing and enlarging the penalties for committing such offense

NAYS—9.

Baldwin, G. A.,	Hemminger,	Smith, J. W.,	Alter,
Barner,	Martin,	Swift,	Speaker.
Brownlee,	Rothenberger,	Ulerich,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1397 (Senate Bill No. 274), entitled:

An Act amending the third section of an act approved the thirty-first day of May nineteen hundred seven entitled "An Act to provide for the appointment of a Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings and supordinate officers defining their powers and duties and fixing their compensation and abolishing the office of the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings created under the provisions of the act of General Assembly approved the twenty-eighth day of March Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Whereupon, a division was called for, 96 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 35 in the negative.

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to make but a few remarks upon this very meritorious bill. In 1911 both the House of Representatives and The Senate passed a measure of a similar character which failed to meet with the approval of the Chief Executive for the reason that it increased the salaries of many of the officials who, in his opinion, were receiving ample compensation for their service. This objectionable feature having been eliminated from the present bill, it meets with the general approval of His Excellency, the Governor. Mr. Speaker, this measure is not a salary raiser in any sense of the word.

It applies to those men, to those toilers, who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. It applies to the elevator men, who, at the present time, receive a salary of $75 a month. It raises them to $90 a month. Those men, gentlemen, have daily in their charge the lives and safety of every employee of this magnificent building; not only of the employees but of the thousands and thousands of strangers who visit it every year. The charmen, who scrub the floors and polish the marble, who now receive the munificent sum of $50 a month are raised to $60, a paltry raise of $10 a month. The yard men, who toil on the grounds in the heat of summer and the cold of winter, receive at the present time $720 a year. They have been raised to $840, a trifling raise. The guides, the men who annually conduct in the neighborhood of 100,000 visitors through the building, are now receiving also $60 per month. There salary is raised, under the provisions of this act, to $900. Gentlemen, there are but five exceptions to the rule of men receiving less than $100. The Chief Clerk, who does the same work which is done by other chief clerks in the other departments, receives $1400. Under the provisions of this act, his salary is raised to an equal footing with the others, of $1800. The expert steam fitter, a practical man in his line, receives at present $1020 per year. His salary is raised to $1200. The assistant chief engineer, also a practical mechanic who works with his hands, receives $1600, and his salary has been raised to $1800 under the provisions of this act. The foreman of carpenters and painters receives at the present time $1200 a year. His salary is raised to $1500. I would like to state, for the benefit of the House, that personally I am in the building business in a small way. I pay my foreman of carpenters $1440 a year. Surely, $1500 is not too much for the great State of Pennsylvania to pay its employees. I hope and trust that every member of this House will feel that it is their duty to support a measure that affects only men who labor, and I trust that the members, when they use their judgment and act upon this bill, will remember the biblical injunction: "Verily the laborer is worthy of his hire."

Mr. LATSHAW. Mr. Speaker, the bill before us for our consdieration, I hesitated to designate as a salary raiser. But since the gentleman from Dauphin has seen fit to call the attention of the House to that feature of it, I want to ask you what you would call it. Any measure that proposes 43 new employees, with a yearly increase of $56,740, seems to me is worthy of that title. Now, we all agree, we are all proud of our capitol, and we all think it should be well taken care of. We all agree that the floors should be wiped out and the marble wiped down, the steel polished and everything kept in order; but certainly there should be a limit somewhere. Now, this measure is not only a salary raiser, but it is an employee raiser, and it seems to me that that is not all there is to it. We find that it makes ample provisions for practically everything else. We find in the last paragraph of this act that the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings is hereby authorized and empowered to temporarily employ all necessary help required for the care, maintenance and preservation of the Public Gronuds and Buildings. Now, they tell us that there have been no additional employees, that they are all here now. My answer to that is, if the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings can draw on some fund that he has for $56,740, what is the necessity for this act at this time? There is another thing to which I wish to call the attention of the House. When this bill was reported out of committe, strange to say there were a number of strange faces in that committee that had not been seen thereon the previous meetings of it. All of those strange faces were strangly in favor of reporting this bill out with the t's and i' just as they were. There was a mild protest made, a very mild one. The bill as reported out, provided for 12 carpenters instead of 6. The committee agreed to strike out 6 of those carpenters, leaving in all 6, but after we look at the bill on our calendar, we find there are four salaries raised in it, the elevator machinist is raised from $1,200 to $1,500; the steam fitter is raised from $1,200 to $1,500. We find also that an assistant storekeeper is raised from $1,000 to $1,200; that the assistant messenger is raised from $720 to $840. Now, Mr. Speaker, none of those amendments were made in the committee. They were made somewhere on the road between the committee and the calendar of this House. Gentlemen, I think this bill should be amended in some way or should be voted down.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, it will not be my purpose to tire you with any lengthy remarks upon this bill, and I shall not take up much time in discussing the merits of the bill itself. I feel that every man here to-day recognizes that while this bill is a salary raiser in a sense, it is a meritorious one in that it gives to the poorer class of employees of this Capital, of this State Building, more money. That I will leave to the good judgment of the men themselves as to how they shall vote. But, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, there has been a question raised here and it has appeared in the public press of some of the cities of this State that I feel it my duty as a member of the sub-committee appointed by the Committee on Public Grounds and Buildings to answer, and I think to the satisfaction of a majority of the men here present. When this bill was presented to the committee and acted upon, a sub-committee was appointed, consisting of Mr. Body, Mr. Klepper and myself. That sub-committee went into the details of the bill and reported it at the meeting of the general committee on Public Grounds and Buildings referred to by the gentlemen who just spoke. That committee recommended, gentlemen of the House, the proposed amendments that appear upon the file of the calendar. Those amendments were not inserted by anybody except by that committee in session. I am reading, gentlemen, from the very paper that I read from to that committee, a report of the sub-committee. It is to strike out in section 3, line 149, the word "ten" and insert "twelve;" also, in line 152, strike out the word "seven" and insert "eight;" also, strike out the words "twenty" and insert "forty;" also in line 205, strike out the word "twelve" and insert "fifteen;" also in line 206, strike out the words "ten and twenty" and insert "twelve." It is true that in addition to that amendment the question was drawn to the attention of that Committee and to the general Committee as to the repeat in the printing referring to the six carpenters. That was cut out. When this sub-committee made its report, gentlemen of the House, a motion was made that the bill be reported to this House with the amendments as recommended by the sub-committee, and I, with the addition of the other two members, inserted, along with the secretary of the sub-committee, those amendments, and I so reported the bill as amended to this House. Gentlemen, I am a novice in the legislative business, but when that article appeared in the newspaper, I felt that it was a direct accusation against me, and I want to say to you that while I favor the raising of salaries when they are just, I am not here to do anything that is dishonest, and I hope that the newspaper that published that report will be satisfied by this session to-day verifying what that committee did, and it shall say to this State of Pennsylvania that it was mistaken, or rather in fact that its informants were mistaken, and did not hear this committee make its report. I trust, gentlemen, that you will all vote for this measure.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Latshaw.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LATSHAW. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Armstrong from what source he received his information as to the creation of some 40 odd new offices.

Mr. LATSHAW. Mr. Speaker, I take it from the bill.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, had the gentleman taken the time to consult with the Department of Public Buildings, he would have discovered that every one of those offices is created under the appropriation and are in existence at the present time.

Last year the Department of Public Grounds and Buildings asked for an appropriation of two hundred and forty-three thousand eight hundred dollars. This year they ask an appropriation of two hundred fifty-one thousand one hundred and sixty dollars.

In connection with the Department of Public Grounds and Buildings the new acquisition of the Eighth Ward is to be taken into consideration. The Board of Public Grounds and Buildings this year is obliged to maintain and take care of all these properties that have been acquired by the State of Pennsylvania and will be required to do so during the next three years. This in itself is an additional expense to the Department. The amount involved in the raising of the salaries of these poor men who labor amount to somewhat over twenty-three thousand dollars, and I am sure, gentlemen, the great State of Pennsylvania can well afford to pay these men who toil and labor twenty-two thousand dollars a year.

I also desire to say, and I reiterate the fact, that only one new office is created under this measure and that is the office for foreman of maintenance. The office of foreman of maintenance is absolutely necessary for the proper conduct of the affairs of these buildings. At the present time all the supplies, paraphernalia, et cetera, throughout the building is in different hands. Under this new measure, the foreman of maintenance will have charge of all those affairs and he will save the State of Pennsylvania five times the price of his salary.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Latshaw.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LATSHAW. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Armstrong whether or not he believes that a machinist who served his apprenticeship is not worth one thousand dollars a year?

Mr. LATSHAW. Mr. Speaker, certainly I think he is.

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen, there is one peculiar thing about this bill to my mind and that is that it is an amendment to the act of 1907 providing for a number of employees to take care of this building and their salaries. The Act of 1907 for the general employees of the Department carries with it positions with the salaries attached, to an amount of one hundred and five thousand dollars. The same item in the General Appropriation bill passed last session carried with it two hundred and forty-three thousand dollars without legislative warrant for any increase in the number of employees or for salaries. The General Appropriation bill of 1907, in pursuance of the act passed at this session had in it an item of two hundred and eight thousand dollars for the general employees of the Department which item included the entire care of the Executive Mansion. Since that time the expense of the caring for the Executive Mansion has been listed in a separate item in the General Appropriation bill and has been generally in amount some fifty to seventy-five thousand dollars. Now, in the Act of 1907, with an appropriation for the two fiscal years ending May 31, 1909, of two hundred and eight thousand dollars for that purpose, including the care of the Executive Mansion, I ask any member in this House who sat in the Legislature of 1909 if there was a deficiency appropriation bill introduced for that purpose. I have been unable to find any and I am satisfied that that appropriation was sufficient to carry on the Department for those two years. Since 1909, to my knowledge, there has been no added work, no increased occasion for additional employees to care for this building; but notwithstanding that and knowing, I have no doubt, that it would be impossible to come to the Legislature and amend this Act of 1907, they have succeeded in boosting the number of employees and the number of salaries by inserting it in the Genaral Appropriation bill, where it would be undiscovered and it has slipped through the last two sessions of this Legislature.

Now gentlemen I am opposed to any legislation of that character I do not believe in placing within the authority of a departmental head the right to employ unlimited employees or to fix their salaries when he sees fit to employ them. We are here to regulate the number of employees, to fix their salaries and to see that the General Appropriation bill does not go one wit beyond that mark; and if any department comes along and asks for additional help, they have the right to have legislative warrant for that increase before any such item goes into the General Appropriation bill. Now, Mr. Speaker, I am convinced if this building and its appurtenance were maintained for two years, from 1907 to 1909, and the expense of the Executive Mansion also, and an item of two hundred and eight thousand dollars was sufficient for that purpose, there is absolutely no warrant at this time to pass this bill, providing for these additional employees and legitimatizing the course that has been pursued in the last two Legislatures and put over on this House and the citizens of Pennsylvania, such avicious, patronizing, job raising scheme as this. I am opposed to this bill.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, I call for the previous question.

The SPEAKER. It is apparent that there are more than the necessary number of seconds and it may be that no other gentleman desires to discuss the bill, so that we can save the time of putting the question.

The roll will be called.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with the information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

BILL INTRODUCED.

Mr. FAHEY. Mr. Speaker. I ask unanimous consent to introduce an appropriation bill at this time.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the introduction of this bill? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the bill will be received by the Clerk.

OBJECTIONS TO THE INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTION.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to introduce at this time a concurrent resolution calling for a joint commission of the Senate and House to determine upon the song for the State of Pennsylvania. At the present time there are two songs that have been suggested written by two people who are citizens of the State of Pennsylvania, and in order that we might determine upon one song, whether one of these or some other. I desire to introduce this joint resolution in order that we might come to some decision.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the introduction of the resolution. Is there any objection? The Chair hears objections and the resolution will not be received.

SENATE MESSAGES.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate which was read as follows:

In the Senate, April 30, 1913.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That Senate Bill No. 77, entitled An Act to exempt from the payment of inheritance taxes bequests and devises to institutions of purely public charity be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

The SPEAKER. It so happened that the Journal Clerk has furnished the Chair with information which might be of interest to the House. The Session of 1911 up until the thirteenth day of April passed to the Senate 295 House Bills. This House up to today has passed over to the Senate 482 bills.

RECESS.

Mr. SASSAMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House take a recess until eight o'clock tonight.

The motion was agreed to and a recess was declared until eight o'clock this evening.

AFTER RECESS.

The House convened at 8.00 o'clock P. M.

Section 7 The license or licenses provided for under the provisions of this act shall be granted by the city or county treasurer for one year from the first day of May of each year upon application therefor upon the payment of the license fee as provided in this act by the owner or owners or lessee or lessees of such places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures in which the same are to be held upon the certificate of the proper municipal officers setting forth that the person or persons applying for such license are of good moral character and that the exhibitions performances or contests intended to be given, are not immoral in their nature or tendencies or otherwise unlawful or hurtful to the community and that such places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures have been erected constructed or altered and in actual use as a "place of amusement" or as a "moving picture place" (whether stage scenery and apparatus are employed or not) or as a "theatre" in accordance with the laws and ordinances regulating the erection construction or alteration of such places at the time of erection construction or alteration thereof either as a "place of amusement" or as a "moving picture place" (whether stage scenery and apparatus are employed or not) or as a "theatre" A license when granted shall not be transferrable except to the lawful representatives of the deceased licensee or to a purchaser at an insolvent or bankrupt sale for the remainder of the term

Section 8 The Auditor General shall prepare and have printed proper blanks to be distributed by the mercantile appraiser of every county to the persons who may be liable for the license as herein provided Such blanks shall require such information as will be necessary and shall contain a statement of the number of chairs in such place of amusement building tent or enclosure or the number of cars which transport any circus trained animals menagerie or wild west show Each application for a license shall be verified by the oath or affirmation of the applicant

If a false oath shall be made by any person to such application the one so swearing shall be guilty of perjury

Section 9 It shall be the duty of each applicant to fill up the blank as aforesaid by the Auditor General and return the same to the mercantile appraiser of the proper county within ten days from the receipt thereof with an affidavit certifying as to the correctness thereof

In any applicant fails or refuses to make the statement required by this act to the mercantile appraiser when requested so to do it shall be the duty of the mercantile appraiser to assess such applicant with the license tax as provided by this act

A certified copy of the said assessment shall be forwarded to the said applicant which assessment when so made shall be final and conclusive and without appeal and the applicant so assessed shall not be permitted in any manner to appeal and recover said assessment or deny the correctness thereof

Section 10 The mercantile appraiser or his duly authorized deputy shall have the right to visit such places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures and require the person liable for the payment of the license to make said statement under oath or affirmation for the purpose of assessing the amount of said license for such place of amusement building tent or enclsure

If the mercantile appraiser is dissatisfied with the statement so made he shall ascertain and assess said license fee according to such sum as in his best judgment he believes to be correct

He shall also leave a written or printed notice to be prepared by the Auditor General specifying the amount of the license fee to be paid by such person to the Commonwealth and also when and where an appeal will be held as required by law

Any person so liable for the payment of the license as herein provided who is dissatisfied with the assessment so made shall have the right to appeal to the mercantile appraisers or city or county treasurer in all counties except where there is a board of mercantile appraisers in which case the board shall hear all appeals

If the person so liable to the payment of the license as aforesaid is still dissatisfied with the finding of the mercantile appraiser or city or county treasurer or board of mercantitle appraisers such person shall have the right to appeal to the court of Common Pleas of the proper county within ten days which appeal shall set forth the date and amount of said assessment the date of the decision of the appeal to the board and the facts in detail relied upon to obtain a reversal of said decision The applicant shall within five days after taking an appeal serve upon the city or county treasurer or the Mercantile Appraiser or Board of Mercantile Appraissers notice of said appeal including the court term and number of the case in which the appeal is taken On failure to comply with any of the provisions of this act in whole or part said appeal shal upon motion be stricken off The burden of proof of said appeal shall be upon the appellant

If any person fails to attend said appeal before the Mercantile Appraisers or city or county treasurer or Board of Mercantile Appraisers such person shall not thereafter be permitted in a suit for the recovery of said license fee to set up a defence either that such person is not subject to the payment of the license fee so assessed against him or any other ground of defence which might have been heard and determined either by the said Mercantile Appraiser or city or county treasurer or Board of Mercantile Appraisers or Court of Common Pleas on appeal as aforesaid

Section 11 It shall be the duty of every city or county treasurer touse for the recovery of all license fee duly returned to him by the Mercantile Appraisers if not paid on or before the first day of July in each year within thirty days after that date provided however if said city or county treasurer is satisfied that such license fees cannot be collected he shall make report to the Auditor General of all facts connected with the case and the Auditor General upon investigation may exonerate him from the payment of said fee and in such cases suit shall not be brought

Section 12 If for any reason the license aforesaid is not paid on or before the first day of July in each year a penalty of ten per centum of the amount of said taxes shall be added and collected by the city or county treasurer as aforesaid

Where suit is brought for the recovery of such license fees for which the party shall be liable it shall be the duty of the city or county treasurer to collect in addition to said license fee assessed against such party a penalty of fifty per centum of the license fee so assessed

The city or county treasurer shall at the expiration of each month forward to the State Treasurer the amount of said license fees collected by him including the said penalties as aforesaid

Section 13 It shall be the duty of every Mercantile Appraiser or Board of Mercantile Appraisers in counties where such board exists on or before the first day of May of each year to certify to the city or county treasurer the correct list of all persons assessed giving the names and business address of the person liable to the payment of the license fees as herein provided and the amount of license due by each This list shall be kept by the city or county treasurer in collecting said license fees If appeals have been made and exonerations made a corrected list shall be certified by the city or county treasurer to the Auditor General on or before the first day of January of each and every year

Section 14 The rate of commission allowed city or county treasurers for their services in collecting fees as aforesaid shall be the same as in the case of mercantile license

Section 15 If upon the presentation of proof satisfactory to the city or county treasurer after hearing all persons under oath or affirmation which he is hereby empowered to administer it shall be shown that the exhibition performances or contests given under any license issued are in violation of the provisions of this act or any other act of Assembly or ordinance of such city borough or township he shall have full power to vacate annual and render void and of no effect the license or licenses which shall have been obtained under the provisions of this act and the city or county treasurer shall have full power to prevent any exhibition performance entertainment or contest from being exhibited or performed until the provisions of this act have been fully complied with

Section 16 The proper municipal officers of the first class shall have full power to inquire into any immoral tendencies or any other matters or things unlawful or hurtful to the public at large that may be charged in writing as being the purpose of such exhibition performance entertainment or contest and shall further if said charges are proven (after notice to all the parties in interest) forbid such exhibitions performances entertainments or contests and for that purpose shall have full power to direct the proper officers to close the said places of amusement buildings or building tents or enclosures in which said exhibitions performances entertainments or contests are intended to be held and prevent the entrance therein of any person or persons except the owner or owners or lessee or lessees of said place of amusement buildings or building tents or enclosures

Section 17 Any person or persons owner or owners lessee or lessees of any such places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures who shall feel aggrieved at the act of the city or county treasurer or the director of public safety of cities of the first class or proper municipal officers of cities of the second and third class boroughs or townships in granting the certificate or certificates as herein provided or refusing to grant a license or in revoking any license so issued or in forbidding any exhibition performance or entertainment or closing any such place of amusement buildings tents or enclosures shall have the right to appeal in writing to the court of Common Pleas of the county wherein any such places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures are situated which said court shall within ten days after said appeal is taken and filed hear the person or persons aggrieved and determine the character of the applicant nature of the exhibition or permormance and whether such places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures have been erected constructed or altered and in actual use as a place of amusement or as a moving picture place (whether stage scenery and apparatus are employed or not or as a theatre in accordance with the laws and ordinances regulating the erection construction or alteration of such places at the time of the erection construction or alteration thereof either as a place of amusement or as a moving picture place (whether stage scenery and apparatus are employed or not) or as a theatre as to the said court may seem just and right and for that purpose shall have full and ample power if upon a reversal of the proceedings to direct what the city or county treasurer or director of public safety of cities of the first class or the proper municipal officers of cities of the second and third class or boroughs and townships shall do and perform in the premises

Section 18 The license fees herein provided for shall be in lieu of all license fees heretofore required by law to be paid to the use of the Commonwealth but this act shall not exempt any such places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures from the payment of such license fee as may be lawfully imposed on it by any city borough or township of this Commonwealth

Section 5 Section five of said act is hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Section 1, line 32 on page 3 after the word "forbidden" strike out the words "except for immediate slaughter swine shall not be kept within one hundred yards of any establishment of places mentioned in this section."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment as read will be made in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The amendment consisting of merely striking out, the bill will now be put upon final passage.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally??

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—2.

Goss, Murphy,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 200, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the eleventh day of May one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An Act to provide for the removal of judges of the supreme superior common pleas and orphans' court permanently disqualified by reason of physical or mental disability to perform their judicial functions and duties with half pay for their unexpired terms and the filling of vacancies caused by such removal" as amended by an act approved the twenty-third day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to amend section one of an act entitled 'An Act to provide for the removal of judges of the supreme superior common pleas and orphans' courts permanently disqualified by reason of physical or mental disability to perform their judicial functions and duties with half pay for their unexpired terms and the filling of vacancies caused by such removal approved May eleventh one thousand nine hundred and one so as to allow them full pay during the balance of their terms of office and under certain conditions half pay during the remainder of their lives"

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I just want to call the attention of the House to this bill. This bill has for its purpose the repeal of the Judges Pension Bill passed in the session of 1911. I think we are all familiar with its provisions. I think the general sentiment throughout the State is that the time has not come when this State should carry on a system of civil pensioning. The people generally believe that at this time we should not undertake to pension the judges. If it becomes necessary for us to pension any class of men, and I say this in the spirit of kindliness and consideration towards the judges, there are many others in the State that need pensioning very much worse than the judges do. Up to this time the State of Pennsylvania has never undertaken to pension the soldiers of the Civil War. I might cite other instances where the State has overlooked the financial advantages of a pension where it is needed, but I hope that in the light of the fact that the Legislature has been most liberal with the judges of the State and largely increased their compensation at the last session, I do not think that they will become objects of charity if we fail to pension them, and I trust that the House will show its satisfaction with what is undoubtedly the general sentiment and general desire of the people of the State and repeal this iniquitous act.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, it appears to me that this bill simply increases the pension list, if I read it correctly. It is true it does repeal the Act of 1911, but it re-enacts a law which is much more sweeping in its pensioning features. It says:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That form and after the passage of this act whenever a judge of any of the supreme superior common pleas or orphans courts of this Commonwealth by reason of physical or mental disability appears to be incapacitated for performing his judicial functions and duties and by reason of such disability has not performed such duties for the period of one year the Governor of this Commonwealth shall appoint a commission consisting of three skilful and disinterested physicians from different counties of the State to examine the said judge and if the said commission shall report that the said judge is permanently incapacitated to perform the duties of his office the Governor shall notify the said judge of such finding and if the said judge shall resign within thirty days of such notice he shall receive for the balance of the term for which he was elected during which he shall live one-half of the salary which he would have received if he had not resigned and

As I understand it, it would increase the pension system as it now is under the law of 1911. I was very much opposed to the act for civil pensioning. I opposed the law of 1911, and I am very much opposed to this law as it now stands. Just as I have always said when one of the pensioning bills passed, others would follow, has turned out to be true. I said it was my opinion that if the bill of 1911 passed, that others would follow broadening that bill, and here comes a bill pensioning under certain conditions all of the judges of the courts of common pleas and the Orphans' Court, besides those of the superior and supreme court. I do understand the bill.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether the gentleman from Delaware undertakes with the methods that he adopts so frequently with bills of this kind to willfully misrepresent a peice of legislation, or whether he takes his position because he is not familiar with the provisions of the bill about which he is speaking. Time after time the gentleman from Delaware has undertaken to tell you what a bill contained, and if in the other instances his explanation of the contents of a bill were no nearer the correct interpretation than his interpretation of this bill, I certainly feel that I must lose faith in the declarations he may make on this floor.

The gentleman from Delaware ought to know if he was a member of the Legislature of 1911, and he was, that the Act of 1911 was an amendment to the Act of 1901, and this bill is an amendment to the Act of 1911, which restores once more the Act of 1901. If the gentleman in 1911 voted against this bill to pension judges, he at that time voted to sustain the Act of 1901, because had that bill passed in 1911, the act of 1901 would have continued the law. So the gentleman's argument is rather ridiculous. That Act of 1901—

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr Humes, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to tell the House that if I have said anything that is a mistake I am glad to have the gentleman correct me. As I understand that bill, it is not for a pension.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, No. sir, it restores the Act of 1901.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, does not this act give the judges a pension, this act which was passed in 1901, and what is the difference between these two acts?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I am just about to explain what the Act of 1901 was. That Act of 1901 was an act that was passed to make it possible to take care of a judge who became physically incapacitated and could not perform the duties of his office. Under the Constitution a judge when he is commissioned for a given term of years cannot be removed from the bench and cannot be cared for except by impeachment proceedings. About that time we had a judge in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in one of the courts, who had been physically incapacitated for a year or more and the work of that court was seriously crippled, as that judge was not sitting to participate in the deliberations of the court. So in order to secure a full court in order that the work of the court might be performed, the Legislature of 1901 passed an act providing that the Governor, where a judge had been physically incapacitated and was not able to perform his duties for over a year, could appoint a commission of two physicians, and I believe it was so safeguarded that the two physicians could not be residents of the same county, and they were compelled to examine that judge and if they found that he was physically incapacitated and that in their opinion he would not be able to resume the duties of his office, they reported that back to the Governor and that judge had the choice of one of two things: either to resign for half pay for the rest of his lafe or to resign on full pay for the rest of his term.

That was the only way you could get rid of a judge who was commissioned,—without impeachment proceedings, as it was generally felt that it was not a wise provision, and this provision was better to do it this way, and this would be a better way to take care of a judge and it was also preferable to the system of recall which the gentlemen are so much oposed to. This bill restores the law as it was prior to the passage of the Judges Pension Bill of 1911, and it gives a pension to any judge and provides a means by which he can be cared for if physically incapacitated and if he is not able to perform the duties of his office. It does not contain any other provision that is—

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, does not the Act of 1911 require under this act that a judge must have given twenty-five years of service before he comes under the provisions?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, No. sir. Not in the sense that it applies to an appellate judge.

The SPEAKER. The Chair must insist that members address the House when interrogating or answering an interrogation.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, the Act of 1911 provides for the retirement of Common Pleas judges after they have served twenty-five years and Appellate Court judges after they have served twenty years.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I don't think that I was mistaken, still. This bill does permit a pension under certain conditions arising to any former judge in the Common Pleas Court in the State of Pennsylvania no matter if they have been there one year or a longer time, under the provisions of this act, as I understand the bill. The Act of 1911 don't give the judge the benefit of that pension unless he has served twenty-five years on the bench. I leave it to the House as to whether I have been mistaken.

Mr. FOSTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Crawford permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir. Certainly.

Mr. FOSTER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman how many judges since the passage of this Act of 1911 have taken advantage of this pension?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I am not quite sure but if I remember correctly there are three. If tht is not the number the gentleman probably knows.

Mr. FOSTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, as to how many judges are at the present time coming under the terms of the act.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I have not investigated the operation or the applicability of this law at the present time. This bill was directed at a principle and the particular application in a given year does not in any way affect the principle.

Mr. FOSTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say that since the passage of this act there have been about two men come within its terms and at the present time there is one. Now it seems to me that the great State of Pennsylvania is amply able to take care of one or two or three old servants when the total amount may amount to as much as five thousand dollars a piece. At the present time this State is paying in the so-called pension act that amount. I don't think that it deserves to be called by that term. That is but half the salary of one judge, just half of what he did receive when he was on the bench in one year. As to the terms of this act it sepcifically provides that any Common Pleas Judge who has served continuously for twenty-five years prior to the time of his retirement, and who is seventy years of age, is entitled to this compensation. While any Superior or Supreme Court Judge who has served twenty years shall have for the balance of his life one-half the amount of the compensation he received each year. In the course of the lifetime of a man, it must be that many men can have no great length of time to become beneficiaries of this act. I say that a man who is seventy years of age, after he has served this Commonwealth for twenty-five years, is deserving of the care of this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The gentleman from Crawford says it was not the policy of the State of Pennsylvania to pension its soldiers. I say more shame to this State. Furthermore, a judge who has served twenty-five years, who has received and most deservedly received and enjoyed, the faith of his people who elected him and re-elected him for this length of time does not deserve to be kicked out and be denied a decent burial when he is unable to take care of himself and has no longer the vigor and the strength and the health of his former days. He should not be kicked out like a dog and be buried like a pauper. I have heard of one case in the past year, when a gentleman in Philadelphia, who for a number of years has served the Comomnwealth where there actually was a collection taken up to bury him. Is that fitting for this State? At the present time there is one man who is a beneficiary under this act. A man who has a family and who has served for thirty years in his capacity as a judge of the court.. His learning is recognized not alone in every court in this State, but in every court in the United States; whose kindness and courtesy was such that he commanded the friendship of his fellow practitioners. When he was in the flower of his manhood the confidence which he received throughout this State was unbounded and he was everywhere honored and everything was in keeping with the treatment he deserved and commensurate and what he earned as a private practitioner was greater than what he earned as a judge. He was elected and re-elected and now he is an old man; his strength has gone and this is the kind of compensation he receives during the late years of his life. His eyesight is gone and he is blind and are we going to stop with such picayune legislation as this? Are we going to treat our men whom we have honored and who have honored us in this manner?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. BALDWIN, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Delaware why, if the Act of 1911 was such an improvement over the Act of 1901, he voted against that bill in the session of 1911?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I didn't say that the Act of 1911 was a better law than the Act of 1901. To tell the truth I was not a member of the House then and not being an attorney, I did not know anything about the Act of 1901. If I am mistaken about this bill of 1901, I am only too glad to make any corrections that may be necessary. I don't think the House is very clear on this bill and I think it would be a very good idea to postpone it.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, I call for the previous question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state that the previous question may not be necessary.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Also, Senate Bill No. 274,

An Act amending the third section of an act approved the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred seven entitled "An Act to provide for the appointment of a Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings and subordinate officers defining their powers and duties and fixing their compensation and abolishing the office of the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings created under the provisions of the act of General Assembly approved the twenty-eighth day of March Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred ninety-five"

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 1032, file folio 1515, on page 29 of yesterday's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1032, entitled:

An Act providing for the taxing of traction engines for local purposes and repealing a certain act relating to the taxation of traction engines

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally??

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I just wish to say a word of explanation on this bill. In 1911 the Legislature, realizing the damage to roads that traction engines were doing, passed a law undertaking to tax them locally. Through a misreading of the bill, under the ruling of the Attorney General it did not accomplish that purpose, the Attorney General ruling that the tax was a state tax. The traction engines are now taxed under the law, but they are not taxed locally to help the roads where they should be taxed, and the purpose of this bill is to remedy the defect in the act of 1911. There are some objections to the bill raised by one or two members, I understand, but it seems to me only for the reason that they are taxed at all. They seem to think that traction engines ought not to be taxed. In this case we are taxing property that does the damage to help pay for damaging certain roads. The purpose is very plain, and I do not see that there is need of any further explanation.

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, I have the same reasons to give to oppose this bill as I had a few weeks ago when this bill was defeated, and the reason is that it is unjust and unfair to tax a man who uses a machine of this kind for a few weeks in the fall to do his work, and for the purpose of using them on the road where our opposition claims that they do the damage. I think it is very unfair to tax them from six to twelve per cent. of their actual value. Now, this bill requires that they be assessed for county, school, poor and road purposes. Is this fair? I leave this matter to our city members. Would you like to have a proposition put up to you where you invest one thousand dollars and have to pay six per cent tax and six per cent interest? Would anyone like to invest in anythink like that? I think this is a very unfair proposition. I think it is something that is driving the traction engines out of use. It will make it prohibitive for anybody to own one. I tell you, gentlemen, those who are from the city, remember that these farmers use these machines in the fall four or six weeks, and then to be assessed sixty mills on the dollar, would that be fair? It is very unfair; very unjust. It is a very unfair business proposition, and I think this bill should be voted down as it was before.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I think this is a meritorious bill. A traction engine not only travels the roads in the fall, but they do travel the roads during the entire year almost, not only for threshing machines, but for other purposes, saw mills and sawing wood in the homes, etc. They tear down more bridges than a dozen horses. The horses of today are taxed and why should not traction engines be taxed. They are more hard upon the highways and public roads than the horses can be, and I hope you will support this bill.

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Columbia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Columbia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether they have engines propelled by horses that don't weigh as much as traction engines, in his county?

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I would think so.

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, that is the case in most every county in the State?

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I do not know.

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, well you are not acquainted with the agricultural situation in the State.

Mr. Speaker, I want to tell you that in almost every agricultural district in the State there are engines that are propelled by horses, and not by steam or electricity or gasoline, that weigh as much as traction engines and they break down just as many bridges.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Sullivan.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Sullivan permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Sullivan know that horses are taxed now?

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, certainly, I do.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman favor the repeal of the tax on horses?

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, No, sir; but they are used every day and a traction engine by the farmer is only used four or six weeks in the year.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman if he does not know that certain industries use traction engines on the road for hauling milks, stone, lumber, etc.?

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir; but why not tax them for road purposes and road purposes only; not for county and school purposes.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, in reply to that I would say that the law would not permit such a tax.

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, then have a license granted to them.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman further. Does the gentleman own a traction engine?

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, I do not now.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman further, does he know that automobiles are taxed?

Mr. REESER. Mr. Seaker, I think so, Yes, sir.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he is in favor of repealing the tax on automobiles?

Mr. REESER. On no; not by any means. I want to be licensed, not taxed for county, school and roads.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, there is a bill pending now, that is in the hands of the committee, that will license all traction engines, as well as automobiles and other vehicles, and that bill will be reported out shortly, and I think it is a very equitable and a very just bill and I think that it will cover every emergency and this bill ought to be voted down and allow the traction engine to be licensed like any other vehicle that is used for hauling.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, if the statement of the gentleman from Allegheny is true, I would like to have this bill pass this House to get it away from the five day rule and if that other bill becomes a law I will ask the Senate to kill this bill over there or negative it.

Mr. LOHR. Mr. Speaker, I think this is a very meritorious bill and therefore I hope that this House will support this bill. I know in our section the traction engines are busy almost very day in the year, only when the snow is too deep for them to travel. They are used more days in the year than the automobile.

They destroy more roads than eight or ten four-horse teams hauling lumber. They are used in many sections for that purpose. If they were only used for hauling machinery from one place to another, I don't think there would be a demand to tax traction engines. That is not the case in the State. We are passing legislation every day looking toward the betterment of our public roads. There should be some arrangement made by which our public roads would be protected. The traction engines in our section have been a nuisance. They take up the greater portion of the road. They are a menace to the public as they travel because of the driving of horses, and they haul long trains of lumber, sometimes four or five trucks of lumber coupled together, making a train sixty to eighthy feet in length on the roads of our Commonwealth, and I see no reason why they should not be taxed. I therefore hope that every member of this House will support this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following motion.

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The motion was read by the Clerk as follows:

I move you that the vote by which House Bill 620, file folio 2791, was defeated on Wednesday April 23rd, be reconsidered at this time.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, if I am in order I desire to say that I want this vote reconsidered for the purpose of recommitting the bill to the committee in order that it migh be amended. The serious, and it seems to me, the only objection to this bill is the section permitting the use of some artificial coloring matter. I will promise the members of this House that if they will agree to reconsider the vote that we will offer an amendment to the bill prohibiting manufacturers from using any article which would tend to give the butter any color whatsoever, and I hope that the members of this House will vote to reconsider it for that reason and for that reason alone.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RICHARDS. I will.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether the gentleman who has charge of this bill will agree that if it is put back into the Committee to have a distinct color for oleo added to the bill, and whether he will agree to take any color he may desire except yellow.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, that is a very unfair proposition? The sponsor of this bill will agree, however, to amend it so that it will prohibit the use of any article or ingredient for the sole purpose of coloration.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The Speaker announced that the "noes" seemed to have it.

Whereupon,

A division was called for and fifty-one gentlemen having voted in the affirmative and seventy-six in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

Mr. SHERN in the Chair.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1846 (Senate Bill No. 523), entitled:

A supplement to an act entitled "An Act in relation to the laying out opening widening straightening extending or vacating streets and alleys and the construction of bridges in the several municipalities of this Commonwealth the grading paving macadamizing or otherwise improving streets and alleys providing for ascertaining damages to private property resulting therefrom the assessment of the damages costs and expenses thereof upon the property benefited and the construction of sewers and payment of the damages costs and expenses thereof including damages to private property resulting therefrom approved the sixteenth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one (Pamphlet Laws seventy-five) by providing that in proceedings to assess damages and benefits arising from improvements under the act to which this is a supplement if property is both benefited and damaged by such improvements the excess of damages over benefits or the excess of benefits over damages or nothing in case the benefits and damages are equal shall be awarded to or assessed against the owners of property and providing that the report thereof made by the board of viewers shall show the net result only

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 867 (Senate Bill No. 125).

An Act regulating the payment of any deposit made with any bank trust company or savings institution in the name of two persons

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk. The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend the title, line 1, by striking out the words "any deposit" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "certain deposits"

Amend Section 1, line 4 by inserting after the word "deposit" the words "not exceeding one thousand dollars"

Amend Section 1, line 7, by striking out the word "deposits" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "deposit"

Amend Section 1, line 13, by striking out the word "deposits" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "deposit"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to on third reading.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1836, entitled:

An Act to repal an act approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An Act to encourage the planting of trees along the roadsides of this Commonwealth and providing a penalty for killing removing or injuring the same what disposition is to be made of moneys collected as penalties and for keeping a record by the supervisor of roads or boards of supervisors of roads of the trees so planted and upon which a tax abatement has been granted

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Bergey,	Grabe,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 920, entitled:

An Act to prohibit the marriage of white persons with persons of negro blood and providing penalties for the violation hereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. FAHEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be dropped from the calendar.

Mr. SHERWOOD. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion to drop this bill from the calendar.

Mr. DOWN. Mr. Speaker, as the sponsor of this bill, I desire to explain to the House that I introduced it at the request of some of my constituents. I was not interested in its provisions particularly one way or the other but after looking into the matter, I considered that this bill ought not to be dropped from the calendar. Each and every one of the members here know how they will vote on this measure and any defense of mine is superfulous.

On the question,

Shall the bill be dropped from the calendar?

Whereupon, a division was called and 58 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 67 in the negative,

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that this bill is out of order because it is unconstituional. I will read article one of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, and the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution of United States, if the Chair will submit the point of order to the House.

From the Pennsylvania State Constitution:

"Section 1. All men are born equally free and independent and have certain inherent and indefeasible rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty, of acquiring possessing and protecting property and reputation, and of pursuing their own happiness."

From the United States Constitution:

"Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisidiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Any bill that makes a discrimination of this kind is unconstitutional.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, it may not be advisable to indulge in further discussion of this matter but I don't think that the point of order raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, should go by unchallenged. This bill is not unconstitutional. I wish to read from 163 United State Supreme Court reports, page 545.

"Laws forbidding the intermarriage of the two races may be said in a technical sense to interfere with the freedom of contract and yet have been universally recognized as within the police power of the State."

And also from Pennsylvania State Reports No. 55.

"The separation of the white and black races upon the surface of the globe is a fact equally apparent. Why this is so it is not necessary to speculate; but the fact of a distribution of men by race and color is as visible in the providential arrangement of the earth as that of heat and cold. The natural separation of the races is therefore an undeniable fact, and all social organizations which lead to their amalgamation are repugnant to the law of nature. From amalgamation it is but a step to illicit intercourse, and but another to intermarriage. But to assert separateness is not to declare inferiority in either; it is not to declare one a slave and the other a freeman—that would be to draw the illogical sequence of inferiority from difference only. It is simply to say that following the order of Divine Providence, human authority ought not to compel these widely separated races to intermix. The right of such to be free from social contact is as clear as to be free from intermarriage."

It was recognized as clearly constitutional in a case in Arizona on a question of law in permitting intermarriage of an Indian and a white person. There was no question in regard to the constitutionality of it and there was not a word said about the constitutionality of it and it was recognized by the court in that case as being clearly constitutional, under the fourteenth amendment.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the so-called Jim Crow Cases form absolutely no precedent for the case that is before us tonight, because it is universally recognized in these cases that while the State may make requirements that the races should be separated, they also must give equal facilities, but in this case the State cannot discriminate against a citizen of the United States in case of marriage. How can you say that you will give them equal facilities? There is absolutely no analogy whatsoever.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Down, permitted himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DOWN. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, according to this bill "it shall be unlawful for any white person to marry any person having one-eighth or more negro blood." I would like to know how that is to be arrived at?—how that conclusion can be arrived at, by what method and just how?

Mr. DOWN. Mr. Speaker, by the person who performs the marriage ceremony.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know if that is to be by the preacher who performs the ceremony?

Mr. DOWN. Mr. Speaker, any person that is authorized to perform the ceremony—commissioned or licensed to perfom it would have to be the judge in that case.

M. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman—Do you know of any other states having this law?

Mr. DOWN. Mr. Speaker, I believe the State of Maryland has such a law.

Mr. BASS. Mr. Speaker, I don's see any real good in this bill and I don't believe that anybody here believes that there is any inclination on the part of the white people of this State to intermarry with the black people. I know of my own knowledge that there is no inclination on the part of the colored people to intermarry among the white people and therefore I don't see any necessity for this measure. There is but one result that can naturally grow from this bill, as I see it, and that is to irritate and provike hatred and scorn for my people.

Now, that is all, gentlemen, that I can see in this bill. It seems to me that the great Anglo-Saxon race, strong in its numbers, strong in its educational prestige, strong in its material possessions, does not need to employ a legislative method like this to crush an already discouraged people. The Anglo-Saxon people, I say, who have always been able to maintain their individuality, their institutions, their systems, religious, secular and social, through all the vicissitudes of all the centuries, and in all the regions of the globe, do not need, I repeat, to employ a method like this to discourage and to crush an already oppressed people. And I therefore, Mr. Speaker, ask this House of Gentlemen, representing the spirit and genius of the greatest people; Pennsylvanians, I say, are the greatest people; they have distinguished themselves as no other people. This is a State famous for its history, for its battlefield of Brandywine, the massacre of Paola. It was here that the great Constitution was written. It was here that all great things in American life that have taken place had their origin; its magnificent school system and educational facilities established for example by the distinguished man whose picture you see before you, Thaddeus Stevens, for the benefit of all the people. I say that it seems to me to be taking a backward step to legislate on a measure like this at this hour. It is a disposition to reverse the work of centuries and to remove the settled landmarks of Pennsylvania's federal history. I appeal again to the loyalty, to the broadmindedness of these gentlemen who I have already said, legislate for the greatest people of this country, to stand by the principle of equal justice to all men.

On the question recurring,

Shall the point of order be sustained?

One hundred and ten gentlemen voting in the affirmative and eleven in the negative.

The point of order is sustained.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. KITTS asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Bayle, indefinitely, on account of the death of his father.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 1798, file folio 5885, on page 23 of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1798, entitled:

An Act to amend the fifth section of an act approved the fifth day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to fix the salaries of the judges of Supreme Court the judges of the Superior Court the judges of the Courts of Common Pleas and the judges of the orphans' courts" providing that the annual salary of each of the judges of the Courts of Common Pleas learned in the law in judicial districts having a population of two hundred and fifty thousand and less than five hundred thousand shall be ten thousand dollars

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call your attention to this bill and to the fact that the judges' salaries were raised in 1911 session. This represents a salary raiser for Luzerne and Lackawanna County, from $8500 to $10,000 a year. So far as any of us members know, there is no demand from any of these counties for this increase.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I am very sorry that I must take issue with the sponsor of this bill at this time. This bill provides for additional salary for the judges of Luzerne and Lackawanna County from $8500 to $10,000. They have five judges there now, four common pleas and one orphans' court. In the county in which I live—an adjoining county,—the judge of that district serves between 65,000 and 75,000 people. He receives as a salary $6,000. In my judgment, he works as hard as any of the judges of either one of the other two counties. The judges of Luzerne County are not so busy that they cannot go out and assist other judges in other counties. I think the raising of this salary from $8500 to $10,000 is unfair to the rest of the judges in the smaller counties, and I hope that this bill will be defeated.

Mr. ALWORTH. This bill, as has already been explained to the members of this House, applies to the judges of Lackawanna and Luzerne counties. Most of the members of this House know that in the city of Philadelphia the judges receive a salary of $11,000, and in Allegheny County they receive an equal salary. Now, it seems to me, gentlemen, that in view of the fact that in Lackawanna County and in Luzerne County our judges work equally as hard as the judges in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, that it is no more than fair that these judges receive equal compensation with the other judges for an equal amount of services performed. Now, as a member of the bar of Lackawanna County, I know that our judges, the four judges, are worked from the beginning of a year to the end. Our calendar is about a year and a half behind because of the fact that there is more work than the judges can possibly do under existing conditions. They have all the work that they can possibly do, and in view of that fact I think it is no more than right and just that they should receive the same salary that is received by other judges performing a similar service. I think, gentlemen, it is perfectly right and proper that this bill should pass.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, it might be well at this juncture to call the attention of the House to the fact that these poor, underpaid judges in Lackawanna and Luzerne County can fall back upon a pension if they are unable to maintain themselves on the salary that the law now provides.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, as has already been said, this bill only affects two counties, Luzerne and Lackawanna. It is my opinion that the judges of these respective counties are receiving as high a salary as they deserve. When any person makes a statement that $8,500 a year is not sufficient compensation for a judge in either of these counties, I think he looks upon it from a different standpoint than the average man. We who are compelled, the average man, to depend upon a very small amount for existence, cannot see why the judges of our courts cannot get along with the amounts that they are already receiving. Gentlemen, it is not my purpose to go into this matter in detail, but look at it from a business standpoint and defeat this bill for the reason that the service would not be improved and the salaries are already high enough.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, the reason for introducing a bill like this, notwithstanding the fact that it is a salary bill, or salary raiser, as some call it, it was introduced by me because of the fact that it is a meritorious measure. As the gentleman from Lackawanna has stated to you, the judges in Philadelphia and Allegheny receive three thousand dollars more than do the judges in Luzerne and Lackawanna and we feel up there that our judges work just as hard, work as many days, as do the judges in Philadelphia and Allegheny.

Not long ago after I had introduced the measure, in order to find out all the sentiment possible concerning it, on both sides, I interviewed lawyers and I interviewed a judge who had resigned from the bench of Luzerne County not long ago, and I asked the reason for his resignation and he stated to me that the reason for his resignation was that he did not receive sufficient salary while on the bench to pay his expenses, and that he actually left the bench in debt. The same case happened in Luzerne County, where a judge was forced to resign because of the fact that while on the bench the calls upon him were so great and the salary so small that he could not afford to sit on the bench.

But there is another reason, gentlemen, back of a measure of this kind. We do not want to place on the bench the average lawyer. We want the best lawyer we can find in our several counties and we know that the best lawyers in the county receive a much greater salary, sometimes than $10,000.00, and $10,000.00 is not too great a salary for a good judge.

I trust, gentlemen, that you will see fit to vote for this measure and help those judges in Luzerne and Lackawanna to stay on the bench.

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Conniff.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir.

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether there is a dearth of candidates for judge in his county?

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, we have no campaign on now.

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker, whenever there is a vacancy in that office?

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, we do have a dearth of suitable candidates, candidates that would make the best judge, for the reason that the salary is not sufficient.

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker, do you mean to say that the candidates for judges you do have are of an inferior quality of men?

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, they happen not to be, but the judges who are on the bench now, claim that they are not receiving sufficient salary.

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker, if you receive a salary of eight thousand five hundred dollars per year, that means a salary of seven or eight hundred dollars per month; that means a salary of almost two hundred dollars per week; that means a salary of between twenty and thirty dollars a day, counting the Sabbath as well as the week days. Now, Mr. Speaker, to my way of thinking, a man that cannot live on a salary of between twenty and thirty dollars a day, even if a judge, I think that man should resign and seek work elsewhere. I think the pay is abundant. I think it ample pay. Gentlemen of this House, do you know what a record we are making as a House? We are a salary raising House. We have voted an increase to ourselves. We have been voting increases of salaries elsewhere and perhaps when we come home to our constituents we will have to give an account of our doings, and gentlemen of the House, I think this bill should not pass.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I want to state another reason. I can say in a very few words why I do not think this bill ought to be agreed on. In 1911 this Legislature passed a salary raiser and it was understood that salary would effect only those who were elected later on, and not have it accepted contrary to Section 13, of the State Constitution, and accepted by all the men on the bench.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Good.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GOOD. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman, why we should discriminate between the salaries of the judges of Luzerne County and the salaries of the judges of Philadelphia and Allegheny County.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I was one of the men that voted for the judges' salary raiser in the 1911 session, and the discussion was that the judges in the City of Philadelphia had a great many cases to attend to and I believe they do, and it was agreed to in that session.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, the courts of Luzerne County at the present time are overcrowded with cases. The judges are working over time. They are working just as hard and probably a great deal harder than the judges of Philadelphia and Allegheny counties. I cannot see why we should discriminate between the salaries of the judges of Luzerne County and those of the two larger counties.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Adams.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if it is not a fact that one of the Luzerne County judges, O'Boyle, recently held court in Columbia County?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, not to my knowledge. It may be, but I don't see that that has anything to do with the case.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I can state that for a fact, and for that reason the court is not so busy, and only last week the Luzerne courts in one day, in four court rooms, tried only one case.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 912, entitled:

An Act laying a tax on anthracite coal and providing for the collection and distribution of the same

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have this bill explained by the sponsor.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, this bill puts a tax on anthracite coal and is one of the revenue raisers suggested to the Legislature by the Joint Tax Commission which has been studying the question of measures to raise revenue for the State for the last four years. The original bill suggested fixed a tax of two and one-half per cent. ad valorem on the coal at the mouth of the mine when prepared for the trade. The Ways and Means Committee reduced the percentage from 2 1-2 to 1 1-2. There has been some talk in the committee by way of fear that the tax of 2 1-2 per cent., which would have amounted to about five cents per ton on the coal, would have resulted in an increase in the price of coal to the consumer, so 1 1-2 per cent. was suggested as a substitute. This would amount to something over three cents per ton, and I do not think the coal operators would arbitrarily raise the price of anthracite coal because of this tax measure amounting to about three cents per ton. In the absence of legislation such as this the coal operators have arbitrarily raised the price of coal from time to time, but I think now that public opinion has crystallized and the coal operators will not raise the price of coal in the face of public opposition. This tax at the rate of 1 1-2 per cent. would amount to three million dollars in revenue for the State. Bear in mind that eighty per cent. of the anthracite coal in Pennsylvania goes outside of the State, so that in this State but twenty per cent. is used for local purposes, and the cost will be paid by the people in the New England States and the Western States and all other States outside of Pennsylvania. Another point to be considered is that anthracite coal is being produced in Pennsylvania each year at about ninety millions of tons, and of course as time goes on the demand will increase and the production from time to time will exceed that amount. This coal should be taxed and in this bill we provide that fifty per cent. of the tax is to be kept by the State and fifty per cent. given to the localities in which the coal is produced in a proportionate degree. The money which the State receives will amount to about a million and a half, and as we are clamoring from day to day for State revenue, why not tax this coal. Here is a million and a half of dollars that the next Legislature can use in the building and upkeep of roads or for some other proper purpose. I do not think there should be one vote in opposition to this bill, because it will not raise the price of coal to the consumer. Pennsylvania has an absolute monopoly on anthracite coal, and should have some revenue from it. It has been estimated that the coal in Lackawanna County and Luzerne County will last for ninety years, and in Schuylkill County between two and three hundred years. The greatest amount of coal is being taken from Luzerne and Lackawanna Counties and should be taxed at this time. Each one of the localities from which this tax is collected will receive fifty per cent. of the money collected from that locality. They should have it because where the coal is mined there are continually paying the damage caused by the sinking in of the surface and the loss of property rights, and a hundred other things for which if the State shou'd collect this tax they should receive some pay and some consideration, and I think there can be no valid opposition to this bill on the ground that it will increase the price of coal to the consumer. It simply puts a tax on something that should be taxed. It is a monopoly, and we should not let this get away from us in this session.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Phi'adelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RONEY. I will.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask whether if this tax is put on coal that is mined exclusively, whether the tax would be laid on coal that is sold by the middleman?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, this is a tax on coal when it comes from the mouth of the mine and is ready for trade. Consequently, there would be no tax on coal in the hands of the middleman, but simply as it leaves the producers' hands.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, there are nine anthracite counties in this State, and if there are any sacrifices to be made, they are made by these nine counties. We are almost a unit in favor of the passage of this bill. In order that I might present this bill clearly to the House, I have prepared a short brief which I will read, and I trust it will explain itself.

This bill levying a tonnage tax upon anthracite coal was prepared by the Joint Committee of the Senate and House appointed at the Session of 1911 to investigate the Corporation and Revenue Laws of the Commonwealth as a measure to increase the revenues of the State by imposing a reasonable tax upon this most precious of Pennsylvania's natural resources, which is being depleted at the rate of 90,000,000 of tons annually. It was also designed to insure some slight return to the citizens of this Commonwealth for the permanent and irrevocable loss of this great body of natural wealth.

At the same time the framers of the act recognized the paramount right of the 1,100,000 people living in the coal regions to an interest in this tax, and so provided that one-half of it should be returned to the counties which produced it. This is an eminently just and fair measure. All persons who have given any thought to the question agree that a tonnage tax is the only proper and equitable manner of taxing coal.

The bill as originally drafted levies a tax of two and one-half per cent. upon the value at the mines of each ton of prepared coal. The average value of coal at the mines is now about $2.19 which makes the tax equivalent to about five cents on each ton. On a basis of ninety million tons the total tax collected under this measure would amount to $4,500,000, of which $2.250,000 would accrue direct to the State, a most substantial increase in its revenue. The other half is to be returned to the nine counties which create this revenue as a partial compensation to their 1,100,000 people for the loss of their resource and to defray in many instances the damage done to surface property by reason of the removal of the underlying coal.

The State share of this tax might with propriety be divided among all the counties of the Commonwealth upon some equitable basis, to be expended for the construction and maintenance of county or township roads, thus creating a magnificent auxiliary of feeders to the splendid highways which the State itself will soon be constructing on an extensive scale. Divided among the sixty-seven counties of the Commonwealth this county allotment would amount in the case of the average county and figured upon the present anthracite tonnage to $33,500 per year.

All this can be secured by the citizens of Pennsylvania by the imposition of a trifling tax of five cents per ton upon its anthracite coal as mined.

Assuming also, for the sake of argument, that this entire tax would be added at once to the price of anthracite coal, and it is most unlikely that the coal companies would dare to increase it more than the tax in view of the aroused public sentiment against the recent advance in price, this would be of minor importance compared with the inestimable benefits conferred upon the citizens of the State wherever residing.

The reason that this peculiar opportunity of securing such direct financial advantage is presented to the people of Pennsylvania through the levying of a tonnage tax upon anthracite coal is because over eighty per cent. of this coal is consumed outside of the State and even though the entire tax was added four-fifths of it would come from the people of New York, New England, Canada and elsewhere where Pennsylvania's anthracite is, and will continue to be used.

Is it not high time that we wake up to the fact that we are not receiving adequate returns from this precious mineral fuel. Within twelve years we people living in the coal regions, with breakers at our very doors and mines under our homes have seen the retail price of anthracite advance from $2.50 per ton to $4.50 and yet, not one cent of this advance has represented any benefit to us except a trifling increase in the wages of the miners themselves which has been more than offset by the increased cost of living. The range of prices in the anthracite coal region hold good also in the rest of the country. Has not the time arrived when the people themselves should proceed to take a profit from this industry before another sharp advance is made in the price of coal for the purpose of placing the dividends of the great coal roads upon a higher basis.

I cannot conceive of any other civilized government upon earth which would calmly stand aside and permit five great corporations to interpose their private and selfish interest against the manifest well-being and betterment of 8,000,000 of people of a great Commonwealth.

I will state further, gentlemen, as I said before, this bill affects mostly the anthracite counties, and we, as the anthracite counties, are entitled to the entire output or tax on this tonnage tax, but we are willing to turn over to the State one-half providing we get the other half. We are sacrificing that, as this is the only natural resource that the anthracite counties have. I ask you gentlemen to vote for this bill.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DAVIS. I will.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman if it is not a fact that the coal in the ground is now taxed.

Mr. DAVIS. Yes, sir.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman further that if a further tax is levied on it when it is mined, if that would not make it double taxation?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, it is taxed now to the amount of about seven mills.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know how the gentleman can explain to this House that this is not double taxation.

Mr. DAVIS. The coal is now taxed in place for local purposes.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, if this tax was raised, as was stated by the gentleman from Philadelphia, about three millions of dollars, does the gentleman believe that the coal companies would willingly pay that without increasing the price of coal?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I don't think they would. It would be only a small tax and if we make an increase of five cents a ton they could not increase the coal more than eight cents per ton and eighty per cent. is shipped out of the State of Pennsylvania. It is the outside people who are paying the tax.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know if it would increase the cost of living to the people who bought coal in the State and outside, both?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I would say it would not to any extent.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask if it would not be true that the people would pay the tax and that it would not be paid by the coal company?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, they have raised the price of coal without any taxation about twenty-five per cent. within the last five years and the State has received nothing for that increase.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I only wish to say this much, as a former member of the Ways and Means Committee a few years ago, after a prolonged hearing, it was believed by the committee from the evidence gathered then, that the price of coal to the consumer was increased anywhere from ten to twenty-five per cent. and the gentleman states that the average price of coal would be $2.19 in his locality. We are paying seven dollars a ton for ordinary nut coal and it seems to me the price must be more than $2.19 or is that an average on pea coal and all kinds of coal?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, that is a general average.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I believe that this would simply be an additional tax to the consumer and that the companies would not pay it.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, this bill calls for taxation and if this carried there will be arbitration among the coal companies and it would naturally cause them to regain that taxation which is levied, and it is going to be a detriment to the consumer because the price of coal will be raised in order to meet this additional taxation. Therefore, I am opposed to this bill.

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that we have been accused from time to time of being here for the purpose of raising salaries, it is time for us to stop and think and plan and see what natural resources we have in the State that at the present time are exempt from taxation which naturally should be the subject of taxation. In Lackawanna County and in adjoining counties we have a peculiar condition. We have the only natural anthracite bed of coal in this county and it is rapidly being exhausted as a natural resource. It is being taken away and it is taken abroad. It is removed from our locality and is removed from our State and what have we left in Lackawanna and Luzerne and Schuylkill Counties? We have nothing but a naked, void and empty pocket from which our natural resources has been removed and we feel in view of the fact that we have a peculiar condition there, which is bound to result in cavings and settlings of the surface, that our localities should receive some revenue to compensate the people for the inevitable loss to their property as the result of the settlings or subsidings of the surface. Is it not right and equitable that these localities from which this coal is removed and from which this revenue is made and derived should receive some benefit before their resource has been entirely removed. It is time now to stop and think and place a tax upon this property for the protection, in the future, of these localities from which this resource is being removed and which can never be recovered.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Tioga.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I will, certainly.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether the public service corporations didn't pay an eight-mill tax on gross receipts or whether they do not pay that?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I believe they do.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether or not he believes that the corporation should be relieved from that tax?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would not, and I desire to state further, Mr. Speaker, in relation to that; I understand the coal operating concerns are now taxed eight mills on the gross receipts and taxed five mills on the capital stock and also four mills on their bonded indebtedness and at a large value on every acre or foot of coal land that they now have. You now seek to place an additional tax when it comes out of the mouth of the mine. If that is not double taxation, I should like to know what it is.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask what mining company pays an eight-mill tax on gross receipts?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I don't know any particular one. I understand some railroad corporations pay it.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, railroads;—coal companies do not.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I discovered in looking over the bills that have been signed by His Excellency the Governor a bill noted as No. 53 in the series of acts approved by the Governor, and what purports to be the same bill as passed this House, as Senate Bill No. 819, being House Bill No. 1890. I find that the bill as signed by His Excellency the Governor is not the bill that passed this House. I find that there has been inserted in that bill these words: "or as soon thereafter as possible." I want to call attention to the fact that on the calendar of Thursday, April 10th, this bill appears as bill No. 97, and the file folio is 1359 on second reading. On Monday, April 14th, this bill was on motion made a special order at the request of the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Adams. It came up as a special order later the same evening, and the calendar page 48 of that date, Calendar No. 149, gives the bill as folio No. 1359. Reference to the file at that folio number shows that this bill at that time and as it passed this House on second reading read as follows:

"Section 1," after the enacting clause, "That in counties governed by the provisions of an act to which this act is a supplement the county taxes shall be collected in each city of such counties by a tax collector who shall be appointed by the Board for the assessment and revision of taxes annually on or before the fifteenth day of April and who shall serve until his successor is appointed and has qualified," and so forth. The bill, as signed by His Excellency the Governor has inserted after the words "the fifteenth day of April" the following words: "or as soon thereafter as possible." It strikes me that the dignity of this House requires that it take some notice of this situation. I do not care to be understood as making either charges or inferences at this time. The fact remains that the bill as signed by His Excellency the Governor has never passed this House.

I therefore move that a committee of three members of the House of Representatives be appointed by the Speaker to investigate the records of the House and ascertain and report back the facts as to whether or not Senate Bill No. 819, House Bill No. 1890, as signed by His Excellency the Governor, was ever legally passed by this House.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes, permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUMES. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman whether he has got a copy of the typewritten bill.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, the bill under the rules that passed this House is the bill upon the calendar. If another bill was used by the clerks in making the records of the House, it is of no consequence, because it was not before the members on their calendars, as is required by the rules. And I am referring to and have cited the bill as it appears regularly in its place upon the calendar placed on the desks of the members.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is making a serious charge and one that in my belief he should have taken caution to investigate. We recognize, all of us, the possibility of a mistake of the printer that might reflect, if taken at first glance, upon both bodies of this Legislature. I have been informed that the bill as read by Mr. Humes is an incorrect copy of the bill that was legally and properly acted upon. If that be the case, I would suggest to the gentlemen of this House that they should maintain the dignity of the House and the Senate by a cautious action. We should not act hastily in this matter, because the motion made by the gentleman tonight goes broadcast throughout the State and the impression is given to the people of this Commonwealth that unfair practices are being performed. And I ask the members of this House to withhold their approval of this motion until proper time for a proper investigation to be made, and I say to the gentlemen of this House, Mr. Speaker, when that investigation is made, it will be found that the charges made by Mr. Humes are absolutely without foundation.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia's advice to the House is ill-advised. There has been a charge made here by the gentleman from Crawford. That charge should be investigated. There should be no delay. Whether it is an error on the part of the gentleman making the charge or whether there has been something done here that ought not to be done, this motion should not only be adopted, but it should be adopted immediately.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUMES. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether or not he did not just receive his information from State Chairman Guthrie, who sits right over there behind him.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I will not dignify the inquiry of the member from Luzerne by replying to it.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford further.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. HUMES. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Crawford where he got his information.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I think I have disclosed that fact. I got it from the records of this House, as is appears upon the calendar on my desk, and I might add, as a further response to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, that I have in my hand the pink Senate copy of the bill as it was introduced, and that copy of the bill is identical with the copy that appears upon the files on my desk, and the copy of the bill as it was passed by this House according to the records. And I might say, Mr. Speaker, that I have made diligent effort to secure the original bill as it was introduced, and I have failed utterly.

Mr. ALTER. Mr. Speaker, it is my opinion that there cannot be any proper controversy as to the propriety of adopting the resolution. If everything connected with the matter in question is all right, then an investigation would soon disclose that fact. If the suggestion of the gentleman from Crawford is correct and the records of the House have been tampered with, then it is important that that fact be known.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes, whether or not he realizes the fact that an amendment is on record that was made to the bill.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I have no such knowledge. If it was amended, the amendment does not appear in the Leigslative Journal, as it appears on our desks. I had hoped that we might, in a quiet, orderly, proper manner, adopt the motion which has been made here and have this matter investigated as it should be, and I can assure you that I hope that the investigation when made will disclose that I am in error in making the declarations that I have made here tonight. I hope so, for the sake of the dignity and the responsibility of this House, but I think that we should investigate the matter carefully and ascertain whether the facts, as surface indications would appear, are the correct facts.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to state that the Legislative Journal is not an authentic record, that daily changes are made on its pages; and I also wish to acquaint the members of the House, as I said before, that an absolute bona fide amendment is on record in this Capitol.

On the question recurring,

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. (Mr. Shern in the Chair). The acting Speaker will defer to Speaker Alter the appointment of the Committee provided for.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 589, entitled:

An Act to abolish for the purposes of municipal assessment and taxation of real estate the distinction between built-up rural and farm property

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, this bill, to abolish for the purpose of municipal assessment and taxation of real estate the distinction between built-up, rural and farm property, is an amendment to the Act of 1868 and applies only to Philadelphia County. The Board of Reviison of Taxes, in Philadelphia, from time to time, as they made assessments upon the real estate of Philadelphia have been confronted by the obstacle of the out-lying districts claiming that they are not subject to the built-up real estate tax which in Philadelphia is $1.50 on the hundred, and this opposition on the part of persons lying outside the built-up sections of Philadelphia has resulted in the municipality being unable to push out into the outlying districts proper needed municipal improvements, because they cannot file and lodge any liens against those properties unless they are properly subjected to the built-up property tax, and consequently in Philadelphia there is always the difficulty and turmoil between persons claiming under the farm property tax and the Board of Revision of Taxes, who are, of course, invested with the duty of assessing the real estate in Philadelphia County, and I think whilst in 1868 when we had a number of suburban or outlying districts, because it was only fourteen years after the consolidation, and in 1868 the residents of Philadelphia still remaining in that district such as Tioga, Chelton, Olney, Paschal and so forth, this was all right, but between 1868 and to-day the city is fast growing up, so that not a great deal of territory now remains which should not be properly subject to the $1.50 tax because of the extension of municipal improvements; and whilst there is some opposition from Philadelphia against this bill, it is from a very selfish standpoint and because some of my good friends from Philadelphia represent districts in which there happens to be two or three small truck farms, and so, Mr. Speaker, and you well know whereof I speak, and gentlemen of the House, I say that the opposition to this bill comes from entirely too conservative a portion of our population, and in the interest of the development of our great cosmopolitan city we should abolish this distinction in tax. In Olney, Felton, Frankford and in the Thirty-first Ward, municipal improvements are needed, such as sewers, paved streets and electric lighting and, gentlemen, I ask you, who are patriotic Pennsylvanians, concerned in the building up of Philadelphia as your Cosmopolitan Metropolis, to not stand back of a few truck farms, but support this bill.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. Roney).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia what the distinction in the tax rate between built-up, rural and farm property now is, in so far as it applies to the City of Philadelphia?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, the built-up portions pay $1.50, the suburban pays $1.00 and the few truck farms $0.75.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman. I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia what increase in revenue the passage of this bill would bring to the City of Philadelphia, by a statement based upon actual facts?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I will calculate it. The built-up portion of the city is assessed at $427,405,416.00, the suburban $79,642,127.00, and on that, of course, the city would receive an increase of five mills. The farm property is valued now at $24,709,489.00, on which there would be an increase of 75 cents on each one dollar valuation.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia. I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, that if this bill became a law would it not apply to every city in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania where there is now a distinction between taxation on built-up, suburban and rural property?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, add to it boroughs.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, no, sir; because the Act of 1868, which this repeals, applies only to Philadelphia.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman, as he has answered my question "No." I would like him to explain the first section of this bill, which reads as follows:

That for the purposes of municipal taxation no distinction shall hereafter be made as between built-up rural and farm property in the assessment of real estate and no classification shall be made as between such built-up rural and farm property in the assessment or taxation thereof

I would like to have the gentleman answer my question as to whether or not that would not affect every municipality in the State of Pennsylvania where there is a distinction in those rates, as well as the boroughs and townships?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, the candor which always exists between myself and my colleague from the Thirty-sixth Ward, impels me to say yes.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Now, Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this bill and I am willing to admit from the assertion made by my friend from Philadelphia that my opposition does come partly from a selfish standpoint. I represent a district in this House which has a population of 125,000 people. The ward in which I live, which is only half of that district, has a population of seventy-five thousand people and a built-up section which is assessed for the purpose of taxation at the full city rate of over thirty-three million dollars. That ward has still unimproved about one-third of its area. For years we have been knocking at the doors of councils of Philadelphia for the improvements which we need, for the building of sewers, for the extension of our streets, and we have been clamoring for additional transit facilities, but if we get an additional gasoline lamp down there the city fathers think that we have received all that we are entitled to. South Philadelphia has never shirked a duty, be it either a social, a civic or a political one, but we have paid in the past and are paying now our full share of taxation and when the City of Philadelphia comes to us and gives us the needed improvement which we require there, we will not lay one stone or straw in its way in abolishing the distinction between the tax rate in that section. We will be only too glad to pay our $1.50 a hundred instead of paying our 75 cents as we now pay in our farming districts; and, gentlemen of the House, this bill affects every municipality, every township and every borough in this State and is unfair, unless the people living in those rural districts, in those townships, and in those boroughs are given the added improvements which they are entitled to at the hands of the cities and those municipalities, to add this additional tax, and I therefore ask the gentlemen of the House to vote down this bill.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to join the devoted band of selfish patriots. The domain or empire of Germantown has considerable suburban and some farming property. We object to paying for what we don't get, and that is the reason we are selfish.

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, this measure affects my district in the same manner as it affects South Philadelphia. As a matter of information to the members of this House, I would like to call your attention to the fact that the tax rate in the City of Philadelphia is based upon the fact that those properties paying that rate have sewers, paved streets, lighting and full police protection. The suburban rate is based upon the fact that some districts are not well favored and the farming rate upon the fact that those locations have no improvements whatever. In the Forty-second Ward, in which I reside, there is assessed for city purposes, thirty-two million dollars' worth of real property, ten million dollars of which is at the full city rate, seventeen millions at the suburban rate and five millions at the farm rate. In the Twenty-second Ward, which is also a part of my district, there are twenty-two million dollars' worth of property under the suburban and farm rate. To my mind, it is manifestly unfair to ask the farmer or the man owning a suburban home, without city protection and full city improvements, to pay the full city rate.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate your kindness in permitting the legal talent of our city to speak on this bill first.

I want to say, gentlemen of the House, that I come from the farming district of Philadelphia County. The district I represent is the largest in area of any district in Philadelphia County, containing 42 square miles, or one-half the whole area of the County of Philadelphia. The population in my district is not so large as it is in those represented by the other members here. The population of my district is fifty-two thousand. Now, one ward alone, the Thirty-fifth ward, in my district is the farming district of that county and there are thirty-three square miles of territory in that particular disrict. We are about seventeen miles from the city proper, and we receive no improvements whatever and no assitance whatever in regard to the improvements for which these people have been crying. Now they want to put these farmers in that district on the same rate as they do the property at Market and Broad. It is an unfair and unjust taxation on an honest body of farmers in my district. I think it is unfair to impose this special tax. I want to refer here to a farm, and I want to tell you that they assess the farms to almost the full value of the property. This farm is assessed at twenty-two hundred dollars. In 1911, there was a State Tax of $112.00 on this farm and a school tax of $58.60. In 1912 the city taxes were $112.00, and the school tax, through the operation of the School Code, which placed the power of taxation on property for school purposes, increased the farm rates in my district to such an extent that they increased the school tax on this farm to $121.00. If this law were enacted it would increase the taxes on this farm to $240.00 for city tax, and $117.00 for school, or a total of $341.00, almost double the amount of the taxes on the farms now in order to meet the expense of the boulevard, and the parkway, and other improvements down in the City proper. I think this tax is an unjust one because we are an hour and three-quarters in getting to the city proper without the proper railroad facilities, and then they want to place the burden on the farmers to pay the tax so that the people in the city might enjoy the benefit of the improvements. I hope every farmer who is interested in a tax like this will join the farmers of Philadelphia and help them as I have often helped the farmers in other districts of the State in all legislation.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. I will

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if it isn't a fact that the school taxes are uniform throughout the whole city and that each person pays about five mills.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. That is so since the School Code has been in operation.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether or not municipal funds have not been expended through Torresdale and up through that ward.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, in one ward, but not in the farming ward.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman if it is not a fact that the very flower of farm land in Philadelphia is not in Torresdale and Andalusia.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, the city taxes the farms at six to eight hundred dollars an acre, and in the county just across the line, in Montgomery County, the tax is only fifty dollars and acre..

Mr. BERGEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. James A. Dunn.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. BERGEY. Mr. Speaker, I understood the gentleman to say that the farms in Montgomery County were taxed at fifty dollars an acre.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir.

Mr. BERGEY. Mr. Speaker, the farms across the line in Montgomery County are taxed anywhere from two hundred to seven hundred dollars and acre, and, Mr. Speaker, let me say further that there is no county in the State outside of Philadelphia County that makes a discrimination between farm land and rural districts in the rate. Throughout the State, with the exception of Philadelphia County, they pay the same rate on farm land that they do on improved land, and I see no reason why the farmer in Philadelphia should enjoy a special privilege, and, Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman further. I desire to ask the gentleman how many acres were in that farm which he said was assessed at $2,200.00.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Two thousand two hundred dollars is the assessed valuation.

Mr. BERGEY. How many acres are in the farm.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. I do not know how many acres are in it.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. The previous question having been called for, the Chair recognizes the following gentlemen:

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the gentleman withdrew his call for the previous question.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs, Letzkus, McArdle, Spillinger, Mitchell, Brosius, Heidinger, Lowers, Stone, McAllister, Manion, Sassaman, Blair, Goss, James A. Campbell Semmons, Steele, Conner, Cleary, George K. Young, Leslie, Kuhn, James A. Dunn, Brownlee, Cochran and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question now be put?

It was not agreed to.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment.

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk hears objection.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now go into a Committee of the Whole for the purpose of special amendment.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitutions, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I will ask the members of the House to turn to Senate Bill No. 819, file folio 1821. When the question of the regularity of the bill signed by the Governor was questioned by Mr. Humes I took the floor and asked this House to not to be hasty in its action either with regard to the reference made to that, and I positively desire to state that no wrong was committed, and an investigation showed that my position was absolutely correct, because this bill referred to and all bills acted upon and passed by the House and Senate and signed by the Governor and referred to as having been doctored from information received from Mr. Humes, proved to be correct. This is a bill passed by the House and Senate and signed by the Governor, and I believe the gentleman from Crawford will acknowledge that he was hasty in his action and didn't make a proper effort to satisfy himself, as to the truth of the assertion made upon this floor, that led you gentleman into the error of appointing a committee to investigate something that didn't require investigation. I feel that the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes, recognizing the error that he has led the gentlemen of this House into will be sufficiently a gentleman and man to acknowledge his mistake and apologize for leading us falsely into a position that we had no business to be led into.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the remarks of the gentleman with reference to a bill that appears on the files of the House of file folio 1821, but I would like to inquire of the gentleman, as to what means he had or any other member of the House had to know that such a bill appeared upon the calendar at any place. The calendar of the House on Thursday, April 2nd, when this bill was on second reading, shows the file folio as 1359. That bill is the bill that was naturally before every member when he voted upon the question of its passage on third reading. The calendar for Monday, April 14th, on page 48, carries with it the file folio of 1359. Now, Mr. Speaker, as I said before, I am not accusing any one. I am making no complaint; I am simply calling the attention of the House to a condition here that is worthy of the consideration of the House. I said before that I wanted this House to withhold judgment as to who was right and who was wrong until we could ascertain the facts. All I ask for is the facts, and in that connection, in order to show that it is a reasonable inquiry, I want to call the attention of the House to the situation. This bill, file folio 1359, was introduced in the Senate, as shown on its face, by Mr. Catlin on March 31st, 1913. On the same day, March 31st, 19[illegible], Mr. Crow reported the bill out of Judiciary Special. Now, the very significant difference arises since the discovery of another bill stuck into the files at the place where it could not be called to our attention, that the bill file folio 1821 shows that it was introduced by Mr. Catlin in place on March 31st and referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special. Now, this is the very striking thing:—If there was an amendment to this bill in Committee, the amendment was taken out of the bill and that very section that now appears in it, for this reason: that the bill which was referred to in the Committee is 1821, subsequent to the bill that was reported out of the Committee and the bill contains the words complained of "as soon as thereafter as possible." Yet when the bill comes out of Committee, the report of the Committee shows that those words are not in the bill and the file folio that the gentleman calls the House's attention to is the file as it was referred to the Committee and not the bill as it was reported out of Committee. I say to the gentleman from Philadelphia, I trust that he will not undertake to say that I am trying to impose on the members of this House. I repeat that I hope they will withhold judgment until we have the facts. We are not here to undertake to charge any one with this offense. If there is an error, I hope it will be discovered that it was an innnocent mistake on the part of somebody. But I say this, in the light of these facts, that the very proper course of this House is to ascertain the facts. You have no right to take these facts from me and you have no right to take the facts from the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol.

You have a right to listen to the facts as we have them at hand to-night and then withhold your judgment until a disinterested fair committee can make such an investigation as will enable us to come to an honest and reasonable conclusion. That is all the action that has been taken here and I see no occasion for the great excitement on the part of any members of the House. I trust that the House will see, under these facts, that it has taken the proper course and the only thing it can do if it is to maintain its own position as a Legilative body in this Commonwealth is to ascertain what the facts are first and act afterwards.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Crawford wish to say that the bill referred to by me is not an exact copy of the bill signed by the Governor?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman wishes to interrogate me, I will be very glad to reply. I say that as near as I can discover, insofar as the feature to which we have been referring is concerned—I have not looked at the rest of the bill—that is in the bill that is printed at file folio 1821, but it is not in the bill as it was reported out of committee. And also the file folio of the bill as referred to the Committee is not the file folio, nor the bill that the Senate or the House voted on. They voted on the bill that was reported out from committee and the bill reported out from committee is the bill at file folio 1359.

Mr. McNICHOL. Does the gentleman from Crawford know that when voting on Senate bills, in order to familiarize himself with the bill, that it is necessary to refer to the Senate calendar and not be guided by the House calendar.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, these bills are both on the Senate calendar and we did refer to the Senate calendar. We passed this bill on second and third reading from the Senate calendar, and it was to that bill that we referred.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I submit that insofar that we have corrected the great wrong that Mr. Humes supposed existed by an investigation, and that it has been found that on the Senate calendar the proper folio of the bill is an exact copy of that signed by the Governor.

I move that the vote by which the motion was carried for the creation of an investigation committee be reconsidered.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I hope the gentleman from Philadelphia will not press his motion, because it would be a very great error. If he will take the time to look at file folio 1359 of the Senate and then look at file folio 1821 of the Senate calendar, he will see that there is a discrepancy between the two bills setting forth these very words complained of. And then, if he will refer to the history of this bill, he will find the facts to be as follows: Referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special and reported out as committed on March 31st; passed first reading March 31st; passed second reading April 1st; passed third reading and final passage April 2nd; referred to the Ways and Means Committee of the House; reported from the Committee to the House April 3rd; passed first reading April 7th; passed second reading April 10th; passed third reading and final passage April 14th; approved by the Governor April 15th; Act No. 53. At no time in the history of this legislation has there been any amendment offered in the Senate Committee or Senate or House Committee or House. Now, there must be something in error here, possibly absolutely harmless, but to have the motion to reconsider, as offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, to prevail, would be a very great mistake and would stultify this House. I hope that the investigation of this House will clear up this and will show that if there is any error here it has been some harmless error made by the printer, but for us now to presume that this is to be so would merely be, now that this matter has gone to the extent that it has, a reflection upon every one of us. Therefore, I feel that the gentleman from Philadelphia, my colleague, Mr. McNichol, who made his motion, of course, in the very best way, should, if he will, withdraw his motion and allow the committee to be appointed and make its report.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, and for the information of the gentlemen of the House, I feel assured that there is absolutely nothing irregular in this matter, but my purpose in raising this question the second time was in order that a wrong impression would not go broadcast to the citizens of Pennsylvania. I feel assured that in any investigation that may be made it will be found that every transaction in connection with this bill is absolutely fair, and if it is a satisfaction to those gentlemen who desire to investigate and serve on the committee of investigation, I withdraw my motion.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, if I may have permission, just one word. In light of the situation that we have just heard from the Senate history, it may be interesting to know that the pink bill showing the reference of this bill to the committee does not contain the section or phrase complained of. And that pink folio is 2741. I never knew, and I think none of the members ever knew, that a bill was printed in white until after it was reported out of committee, yet the pink bill showing the introduction of it does not contain the clause complained of, and the pink bill is the bill as it was referred to committee, and as the records show was never amended. And yet we find, and I think for the first time in the history of this Legislature, that a bill, before it is reported from committee, is printed in white and given a folio number and subsequent to the file folio number of the bill as reported out of committee. I only say that as supplemental to what the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. J. R. K. Scott, has said in reference to the history of the bill as shown on the calendar.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to and (at 11:58 o'clock P. M.) the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

VOL. 2. HARRISBURG, PA., THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1913. No. 59.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, May 1st, 1913.

The House met at 10:00 o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the folowing prayer:

We thank Thee, O God, for this invigorating Spring morning. We pray that we may be in harmony with the beauty and the gladness which is every where about us, and that we may render to Thee, in our living and in our work, the tribute of a true praise, and in order to do this we offer Thee that prayer which expreses the desire of true hearts that Thou wilt keep us, O Lord, this day from sin, for it is sin that mars the beauty of life and interferes with the gladness and joys of life. It is a large request to make and a bold one, but we are encouraged to it because Thou Thyself has taught us to pray, "Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil." We need Thy help, for there is a subtlety and power in insidious evil that is well nigh resistless. It forever approaches us in the garb of an angel of light. We would not forget that we have not a High Priest who cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities but was tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin. This insures to us Thine interest and sympathy and compassionate help, so we pray that Thou wouldst keep from us today the suggestions of evil, for it may come that we may have the wisdom to discern their approach and to guard against them. May the desire for good be stronger than the desire for evil. May our very work be a safeguard to us.

We ask this in His name who has taught us to say, "Our Father who art in Heaven, hallowed be Thy name Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread and forgive our debts as we forgive our debtors, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil, for Thine is the Kingdlom and the power and the glory, forever. Amen."

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings when on motion of Mr. Frank Gray, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal approved.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

Mr. STONE asked and obtained leave of absence for himself after 11 o'clock this morning on account of sickness in the family.

Mr. ULMAN asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Zimmerman after 11 o'clock this morning in order that he might accompany the Appropriation Committee.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO INVESTIGATION OF THE EXPENDITURE OF ALL MONEYS APPROPRIATED TO THE COMMISSION FOR THE COMPILATION AND PUBLICATION OF THE LAWS OF THE PROVINCE AND COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA PRIOR TO THE YEAR 1800.

Mr. WALNUT offered the following resolution which was read and laid over under the rules.

In the House of Representatives, May 1, 1913.

Whereas, Under the provisions of an act, approved the nineteenth day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, entitled, "An Act for the compilation and publication of the laws of the Province and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, prior to the year one thousand eight hundred," and the various supplements thereto, there have been appropriated for the use of the Commission appointed thereunder, the sum of eighty-four thousand dollars ($84,000); and

Whereas, The Commission appointed under said act has to date prepared only thirteen volumes, the last of which was published in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine, although the sum of eight thousand dollars ($8,000) was appropriated at the session of the General Assembly in one thousand nine hundred and nine, and eight thousand dollars ($8,000) at the session in one thousand nine hundred and eleven; and

Whereas, The said sum of eighty-four thousand dollars ($84,000) was exclusive of the cost of printing and binding of said volumes; therefore

Be It Resolved, That the Speaker of this House is directed to appoint a Commission consisting of three members of this House whose duty it shall be to investigate the expenditure of all moneys appropriated under said act, and the supplements thereto, to ascertain how much work still remains to be done to complete the original purpose of said act, and the estimated cost thereof, to ascertain why no volumes have appeared since the year one thousand nine hundred and nine, despite the appropriation of sixteen thousand dollars ($16,000) to the Commission, and generally to ascertain such facts in regard to the work done and moneys spent under said act and supplements as to the Commission shall seem proper the Commission is authorized to require the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of all books and papers and documents deemed pertinent to the work of the Commission The Commission shall report in writing to this House before the fifteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. FRANK GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion of recommitting this bill to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I trust the House will not adopt this motion. After the report of the committee appointed by this House to investigate the question of the House and the Senate employes, the Judiciary General Committee, to which the two bills were referred, made amendments to them. While these bills are separate bills, one of the bills takes care of the House employes and the other bill takes care of the Senate employes. This bill which the gentleman from Philadelphia asks us to recommit takes care of the House employes while the other one takes care of the Senate employes. When this bill passes on second reading, as amended, the object is to take care of the House employes. They are two companion bills and should be amended to go on and go through together. The gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes, has one or two amendments to verify this and it seems to me the bill ought to go on in its regular course.

Mr. FRANK GRAY. Mr. Speaker, this bill of mine, No. 29, has been referred to the committee, of course, as has been suggested, and there is nothing left of it. At the time of the hearing in the committee, I had no chance to say anything, and the only thing that is left of this bill is "No. 29" and "Frank Gray" at the other end, and I object to fathering a bill that I had nothing to do with whatever. I want it referred to this committee in order to amend it. If I am to be sponsor for a bill, I want to have some say in the bill and what is embodied in it.

On the question recurring,

A division was called for, 44 voting in the affirmative and 41 in the negative.

The SPEAKER. Less than a quorum having voted, it will be necessary to call the roll. The Sergeant-at-Arms will call the roll.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I believe there is a quorum present, and I move this vote be reconsidered and taken again.

The SPEAKER. The rule of the House is imperative.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not see how the question can be raised as to a quorum until the roll has been called.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the gentleman from Tioga is out of order, no business having intervened.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that we adjourn.

The roll was called and 143 gentlemen answered present, as follows:

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, in order that I may make a little fuller explanation in regard to the whole situation to the members, I would say that there were three bills introduced in relation to the salaries of the members and the employes of the House and the Senate, differently. These three bills came to the Judiciary General Committee. Afterwards, a committee was appointed by the House to investigate the number and character of the employes of the House and the Senate. The Committee on Judiciary General did nothing on these three bills, but waited for the report of this committee. In the meantime one of the gentlemen sponsoring one of the bills pertaining to salaries of members only moved to discharge the Committee on Judiciary General from his bill, which was done. That bill was brought out, relating to salaries of members, and has been passed and has gone to the Senate. The other two bills relating to salaries remained in the Judiciary General Committee. After the report of the committee investigating the character and number of the employes, then the Judiciary General Committee, in pursuance to the recommendations of that committee, took up the other two bills, one of them sponsored by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gray, and the other by the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes. These two bills were remodeled, one of them to cover the House employes, which is the bill just passed on second reading by Mr. Humes. The other one was remodeled to cover the Senate employes. That is the bill introduced by Mr. Gray. Now, I wish to state that there was no intention of the committee to cast any reflections on Mr. Gray—nothing of the kind. But he seems to feel that the committee did not treat him right in reporting the bill as it did. The reason for making the two bills, one for the Senate employes and one for the House, is that, suppose there were to be one bill and that bill should pass the House and go over to the Senate and the Senate would say, "we won't stand for the House's changing the Senate employes," and will lick the bill. Now, we have these two bills to go through. We have two bills, one relating to the House employes and one relating to the Senate. It would be just and reasonable for the House to pass the bill relating to the House employes, and the Senate would hardly object and would probably pass the bill relating to the Senate employes, that would be up to them. That is the whole situation of the case and I think I have made it clear. If not, and any gentleman wishes any further light, I will try to answer it as far as possible. Now, I see no reason for recommitting this bill to the Judiciary Special Committee, except for the purpose of defeating the entire bill. If that is the wish of the members of the House, I have nothing to say.

Mr. FRANK GRAY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Tioga says the bill was remodeled. I think the bill was reconstructed. I do not think there was any remodeling about it at all. I was not present in the Judiciary General Committee, neither was I invited to be there. The other gentleman, who had the bill for the legislative part of it, was present, of course, being a member of that committee. Now, the question is not as to whose this bill is. I care nothing about that. I think I have some judgment about it, and I feel that if I am to father the bill, I want to have something in the bill from my own brain. I have not very much, but I have enough to get a few words in the bill, at least. I would like to know my own child.

If there is any way that the gentleman from Tioga can suggest that my name can be taken from the bill, I am willing to let the bill go in its present shape, but as it is I will not father the bill, and I ask to have it recommitted to the Judiciary Special Committee, where I know I can have a hearing and can have some effect in the hearing.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I don't know whether it is parliamentary procedure, but we can pass a joint resolution providing a stepfather for this bill. I do not know of any such procedure, though.

Mr. GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I do not know that a bill can have a stepfather while the father is still living.

On the question recurring,

A division was called for, 65 voting in the affirmative and 56 in the negative.

And the motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 666, entitled:

An Act relating to the administering of oaths or affirmations to administrators executors committee or guardians to qualify them for the performance of their respective duties

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I desire the sponsor of this bill to give some information to the House as to what the bill purports to be.

Mr. DeFREES. Mr. Speaker, this bill having to do with legal procedure and my not being an attorney, I can say say that it was drawn by one of Warren's oldest attorneys. I can best tell you what the features of it are by reading a letter relative to the provisions of the bill which are written by this attorney, Mr. D. L. Ball. There have been some objections by some of the gentlemen of the House who have come to me and I asked the attorney who drew the bill to write me a letter relative to these objections and this is his letter.

Warren, Pa., April 29, 1913.

Hon. J. H. DeFrees,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Mr. DeFrees:— I understand from you that objection is raised to your bill, House Bill No. 666, that it will interfere with the exercise of the discretion of the Register in appointing administrators, as he has a right to see the parties applying before him.

I think an examination of the bill will show that this objection does not have the force that at first blush it may appear to have.

In the case of executors, they are named by the testator in his will, and the objection raised would not apply in that instance.

In the case of committees, they are usually appointed by the Court at the instance or suggestion of the attorneys or parties interested, and rarely perhaps come under the personal observation of the judge; and at any rate, the act would not apply in that instance.

In the case of guardians, where the minor is above the age of 14 years, he chooses his own guardian, the Court exercising the discretion of approving or otherwise the choice. In such cases, it is rare that the guardian comes under the personal observation of the judge; at any rate, the act would not apply in that case.

In the case of administrators, the law designates the persons who have a right to administer, and the order of the right, upon the estate of the decedent. The order of right to administer upon the estate of the decedent, established by law, will rarely be interferred with by the Register, and probably never except upon the objection of interested parties.

Now it will be seen that the Act in question refers solely to the administering of the oath or affirmation to qualify the person for the performance of the respective duties of administrator, executor, committee, or guardian. That will not prevent the register from requiring the appearance before him of the applicant for letters of administration whenever in his judgment occasion should require it. Nor will it interfere in any degree with the petitions, or facts to be embodied therein, in the application for letters of administration.

The applicant for letters of administration cannot qualify by taking the oath or affirmation until his bonds required have been given and approved. This he may not be able to do always at the time when he makes his application and presents his petition for the appointment as administrator. There is certainly no good reason why the oath or affirmation required to qualify him should not be administered by any magistrate qualified generally to administer such oaths or affirmations. Its binding force, when authorized by law, will be just as binding upon the conscience and in law, as if administered by the Register; and the convenience of the party may be very much enhanced by the provisions of this Act.

The administering of oaths and affirmations generally by magistrates is matter of daily occurrance, in matters of not much less importance than that of qualifying to be an administrator.

Without going into further detail or enlarging upon the subject, I thing these suggestions will probably be sufficient to obviate the objection raised.

Very truly yours,

D. L. Ball.

That is largely the intent of this act—to accommodate the people in the rural districts and to save them long tiresome journeys in certain instances in cases where there is no objection raised.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, this bill has been on the postponed calendar for some several weeks, placed there by my request, I believe, on the part of the sponsor. This is an act relating to executors and administrators of legal documents qualifying them for their respective duties. The members of the bar who are familiar with the work in the office of the Register of Wills and ex-officio Clerk of the Orphans' Court, are fully aware that that office is the court of original jurisdiction in all matters of probate and of the granting of letters testamentary to administrators. They are also familiar with the fact that the man who administers the oath or affirmation to the administrator or executor not only does so in the way of administering an oath but he passes upon a question of law—in fact, the performance is more or less of a judicial act. The party administering the oath to the administrator or executor should have a knowledge of the probate law and the provisions of the laws bearing on probate and what the statute sets forth in the granting of the laws. It sets forth that the executors may be named, in that law. I have had some seven years experience as Deputy Register of Wills in Allegheny County with a population of something over a million people. Frequently a question is raised that can only be settled by one clearly familiar we have received a will and there is an appointment of the executor in that will that is so indefinite in its terms that to pass upon that question properly requires a great deal of experience and that experience can only be gained by a Register of Wills who is in a position to meet with all questions that arise in connection therewith. I believe that this bill should be defeated because it places a power in the hands of the Justices of the Peace or Notaries Public for which they are not equipped.

I can see no advantage in it. On the other hand, it might add to the cost and lessen the safeguards placed around the administering of the estates of the deceased. I am satisfied that the sponsor is simply fulfilling an obligation to some person in presenting this measure here, as he has been informed that a similar measure has been before probably two or three sessions of the Legislature and has been overwhelmingly defeated. Therefore I say to the members of the House at this time that I believe this is mischievous legislation and can do no good, and I hope you will vote it down.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Lowers.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LOWERS. Yes, sir.

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from Allegheny under the impression that this bill gives justices of the peace and notaries public any right to appoint administrators or guardians?

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, when they take the oath to perform the duties of their office, it carries with it the appointment of the officer administering, and would necessarily carry with it the right to pass upon the question of the right to administer. That is a judicial question and should only be passed upon by the court of original jurisdiction, in other words, the Register of Wills.

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is certainly mistaken as to the principles of law; he is away off. This bill does not give the notary or the justice of the peace any right whatever to make an appointment. It simply gives them the right to administer the affidavit after the appointment has been made. As has been stated by the gentleman from Warren, it would be a great convenience to those from the rural districts, saving them time and money in trips to the county seat for the purpose of having oaths administered on appointments that have already been made. It would not affect the question raised by the gentleman from Allegheny at all. It seems to me that this is proper legislation.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Baldwin.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman from Beaver what is the first step in the taking out of letters of administration or testamentory.

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, there must be an application of course.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, where must this application be filed?

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, it might be verbal or it might be written, depending upon the rules of the court. Now, in the county I am from, they may be either verbal or written. There is no statute requiring them to be in writing.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, but it is proposed that they shall go before a notary public or justice of the peace, and there the question as to whether or not they have the right to administer be passed upon by them, and that necessarily would be the justice of peace who would take their affdavit and swears them in.

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, no. The appointment must be made by the proper officer. The letters must be issued by the Register of Wills. They have merely the power to swear the person to whom the letters are directed to proceed with the duties of the appointment.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, then the applicants must appear before either the Orphans' court or the Register of Wills, to make application, do they not? The right to administer is passed upon by the proper officer?

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, if the Register so desires, he may require attendance in person, therefore this bill would do no harm.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman further. After the court or the Register of Wills has made the appointment, does it not follow necessarily that the affidavit is made at that time?

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, it does not. He may have trouble to get his bond, and it may take a week or a month. He has necessarily got to go home to get his bond. Why should he be brought back to the courthouse before the Register under circumstances like that?

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman further. Does the gentleman mean to tell me that letters of administration or testamentary are granted before a bond is taken?

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, they are not actually granted until a bond is filed and approved, but the applicant may be satisfactory to the Register of Wills. The actual granting of letters and administering of the oath may be merely a formal procedure. There is no occasion whatever for the parties to be brought before the Register.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I am satisfied that the gentleman from Beaver has never yet in his practice as a member of the bar seen cases where the administrator or the executor has been sworn in before all the requirements of the law as to bond had been made, and I think the gentleman is mistaken in his assertion that cases of this kind are on record.

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I have not said that at all. I said that the oath of office may be administered at a later date than that on which the applicant appeared before the Register to request that letters be granted to him. He may go home, and get his bond filled out; then under the law as it now stands he has to go back to the courthouse to the Register and be sworn in. There is no reason whatever why the law should not be made that the affdavit may be made before a justice of the peace or notary public and then mailed to the Register.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, in Allegheny County we have about this system in the matter of granting letters of administration. The applicant appears before the Register of Wills with his sureties and at that time makes formal application and bond filled out, and the bond noted in the bond book, which remains in the office at all times. Then the order is made granting the letters. If this application were made before a justice of the peace or notary public, a fee would have to be paid that notary public or justice of the peace for taking the affidavit, and that application then of necessity would have to be sent to the office of the Register of Wills, there to be passed upon by him as to the right of administering. Without the parties applying appearing before him, he would be unable to interrogate them and arrive at whether or not they were entitled under the law to serve in that capacity. I think that this would bring about a very loose practice. In fact, at the present time, in making application for a marriage license, a justice of the peace or a notary public can take the affidavit on the application for a marriage license, and I want to say to this House that fully fifty per cent. of the applications that come into our office in Allegheny County are erroneously drawn up, and in many instances the law has been overlooked in the matter, and has brought about considerable hardship and expense to those applicants. I cannot see any benefit in this bill, but I can see a great deal of harm and added cost to the cost of administering of the estate.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman from Allegheny misconceives the purpose of this bill. The purpose is not to add additional trouble nor expense, but to save expense. The idea is here. I can see that in the County of Allegheny, where the county is so nearly contigous to the Register's office, that this bill might not be any good, but take it out in a county in the State where the administrator or guardian lives possibly 20, 30 or 40 miles from the county seat, he may be appointed guardian by law and not appear before the court. And I say it will save him the expense of going from his home to the county seat, which may be five or ten or fifteen dollars. He can go before a justice and take the oath that he solemnly swears that he will perform the duties as guardian with fidelity, according to law. That oath is to be sent to the Register's office and filed. It is simply for the purpose of saving expense. I can see no hardship, as it has nothing to do with the appointment, and it is only the final winding up of the appointment as far as the guardian, administrator or executor is concerned; it is simply filing an oath that he will conform with the law. We might have a case where a man was appointed executor in one county to another. A gentleman dying in Allegheny County may appoint an executor in the County of Dauphin, and there all the processes of taking out letters might be fulfilled except the final thing of taking the oath, and here the oath might be made out in the City of Harrisburg and sent to Allegheny, saving $10, $15 or may be $20 of expense for the executor going there. That is all the purpose of the bill is, to save expense.

Mr. LOWERS. I move that House Bill No. 666 be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General for the purpose of amendment—cutting out counties of over one million population.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. ROCKWELL. I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, the point of order is that the bill has passed third reading.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1594, as follows:

An Act to amend section ten of an act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act relating to the right to practice medicine and surgery in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and providing a Bureau of Medicial Education and Licensure as a bureau of the Department of Public Instruction and means and methods whereby the right to practice medicine and surgery and any of its minor branches may be obtained and exemptions therefrom and providing for an appropriation to carry out the provisions of said act and providing for revocation or suspension of licenses given by said bureau and providing penalties for violation thereof and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section ten of an act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act relating to the right to practice medicine and surgery in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and providing a Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure as a bureau of the Department of Public Instruction and means and methods whereby the right to practice medicine and surgery and any of its minor branches may be obtained and exemptions therefrom and providing for an appropriation to carry out the provisions of said act and providing for revocation or suspension of licenses given by said bureau and providing penalties for violation thereof and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith" which reads as follows

"Section 10 Each appointed member of the said bureau shall receive an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) and the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Commissioner of Health five hundred dollars ($500) each and the secretary and treasurer an additional five hundred dollars ($500) in addition to the necessary traveling expenses properly incurred and certified to by the secretary of the said bureau" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 10 Each appointed member of the said bureau receive an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) and the secretary and treasurer an additional five hundred dollars ($500) in addition to the necessary traveling expenses properly incurred and certified to by the secretary of the bureau The Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Commissioner of Health shall serve without compensation

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. BERNTHEISEL. Mr. Speaker, this is evidently an evidence of an effort to prune the dual job holders, but here we have an unusual condition—pruning the salary without lopping off any of the work. The statute as it now exists and as it will continue to exist, whether or not this bill is passed or defeated, provides that the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Commissioner of Health shall serve on the Medical and Dental Board. Now these men perform actual, positive service as members of that Board, for which they are now paid five hundred dollars. If this amendment goes through they are asked to serve gratuitously. It is our right to be economic but I think it is another thing to be parsimonious. In the absence of any evidence that these men are not doing the duties required of them, or that they are incompetent, I think it unwise and unfair to pass a bill of this character.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, this bill is in line with the abolition of dual office holding. It affects the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Commission of Health and I submit that their duties in serving on these Boards are nominal and the salaries are outrageous. I will read to you a part of the testimony of the Superintendent of Public Instruction as testified to by him under oath before the Dual Office Investigating Committee.

"Dr. Nathan C. Schaffer, having been duly sworn according to law, was examined as follows:

By Mr. Roney:

Q You are the Superintendent of the Department of Public Instructions?

A Yes sir.

Q And as such, your salary is what?

A $5,000.00

Q Do you hold any other position under any department of the State Government, for which you receive extra compensation?

A Yes sir.

Q What are those departments, and what is the compensation paid in each?

A I am member of the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure, and Secretary and Treasurer. As a member, I receive $5,000.00 compensation by the Act of Assembly, and as Treasurer and Secretary, I receive $500.00 more, by the Act of Assembly.

Q Does the Act of Assembly make the member of the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure the Superintendent of Public Instruction?

A Yes sir.

Q And fixes the salary?

A Yes sir.

Q Does the Act of Assembly also make the Superintendent of Public Instruction, who is a member of the Board of Examination and Licensure, also Secretary and Treasurer?

A No, sir, the Bureau elects its Secretary and Treasurer.

Q What other position do you hold in any other department?

A I am——

Q Secretary and Treasurer of the Dental Council?

A Secretary and Treasurer of the Dental Council; yes, sir. I receive $500.00 for that.

Q Is that created by Act of Assembly?

A The Act of Assembly makes me ex-officio member of that Board, and the Board elects me the Secretary and Treasurer, and fixes the salary.

Q As a member of the Bureau of Medical Education, how frequently do you attend meetings? How frequently does the Bureau meet?

A The truth is, I cannot tell that without looking up the minutes, but our meetings have been very frequent.

Q As Secretary and Treasurer of the Bureau of Medical Education, what are your duties?

A As Treasurer, I collect the examination fees and pay them over into the State Treasury. As Secretary we have to pass on the credentials of all the people who come up for the examination for licensure to practice medicine in the State of Pennsylvania. Then all of the work connected with reciprocity falls on our Bureau. In addition to that, we have to visit the medical colleges every year, and make a report on them. We have numberless questions to answer; thousands of blanks to send out.

Q Does this entail much extra work on your part?

A It does entail a good deal of work, and almost daily, when I come to the office, there is something I have to look after.

Q As Secretary and Treasurer of the Dental Council, does that entail much extra work?

A Yes, that does; in the same way.

Q Will you elaborate on that?

A Yes, sir; as Secretary——only in that case the fees are not paid into the State treasury, but are paid into the Board of Examiners."

I simply claim that his services are nominal and they are not entitled to be paid. I respectfully ask the members of this House to do away with these side salaries in this instance.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Northampton (Mr. Geiser).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Northampton permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GEISER. Yes, sir.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, we are at some distance and I did not understand what report he is reading from.

Mr. GEISER. I was reading from the testimony of Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer before the special committee appointed under House Resolution No. 10, known as the Dual Office Investigating Committee.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Northampton on what day that testimony was given?

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, the minutes here are very faint and not dated, but to the best of my knowledge it was about three days before the committee made its final report to his House.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman on what day the committee made its final report to this House?

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, the record will show. I do not recall. It was two weeks ago this morning, I think.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Northampton on what day he introduced this bill.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, on March 17th.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, this bill was then introduced several weeks before he had the report that he has read to this House?

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, it was.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, this bill was introduced on March 17th and the gentleman admitted that this report was handed into this House two weeks ago and that the testimony was given to the Committee three days before the report was handed in.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to know in what manner the evidence was handed into that committee and inspired this bill. This is what the bill does. It provides that the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Commissioner of Health shall still continue to do exactly the same work they do now and that they shall do it gratuituously. Now I admit to this House, gentlemen, whether or not the Superintendent of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania is being overpaid at a salary of five thousand dollars a year. The Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of New Jersey receives ten thousand dollars a year. The Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of New York, receives ten thousand dollars a year. I do not believe there is any doubt in the minds of any members of this House that the duties of the Superintendent of Public Instruction of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are just as important and just as arduous as the duties of the Superintendent of Public Instruction of either New Jersey or New York. He attempts to say to this House that the duties of serving on this Board as a member of the Board of Education and Licensure and the Member of the Dental Board are only nominal, and amount to very little.

This is what the Superintendent of Public Instruction tells me his duties are as secretary of the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure.

1. Correspondence which my clerks cannot answer, and which consumes considerable time every day, obliging me to work extra hours in my office.
2. Visiting the medical colleges officially.
3. Conducting the examinations at Harrisburg.
4. Supervisng the issue of licenses, every one of which must be properly made out, engrossed and recorded in the Department of Public Instruction.
5. Deciding disputed cases which come before the Bureau and the Dental Council.
6. Advising and passing on cases of reciprocity, courses of study, and examination admissions.
7. Between fifteen and twenty thousand dollars are handled in the course of a year, for which I am personally responsible. If mistakes are made, I make up the deficiency from my own purse.
8. Routine work is done by my clerks, but new questions and disputed cases are brought before me personally.
9. Before I took this work two persons gave it up in despair. Many questions require a university training, and it was this training in my student days which has enabled me to pass upon credentials in foreign languages, and upon multitudes of questions which only men of university training can decide.

My work in these lines is expert work, and gives me more real annoyance and trouble than the regular work of the Department of Public Instruction. The magnitude and difficulty of this work no one can estimate until he tries his hand at it.

His entire income as a member of this Bureau, or as Secretary of this Bureau and as the Superintendent of Public Instruction is five thousand dollars, plus five hundred dollars, plus five hundred dollars again as Secretary, or six thousand dollars a year in all. I submit to this House that this sum of six thousand dollars a year is not extravagant, and I trust that the members will vote down this bill.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, it is true that I introduced this bill on the seventeenth of March. That was made necessary by the motion adopted setting the day as the end of the time in which bills could be introduced. There were three or four other bills which I expected to have placed on the Calendar, and I had this bill placed on the postponed calendar in order that one explanation might cover all the bills.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess, seems to undertake to convey the impression to this House that the duties to which he has referred as being performed by the Superintendent of Public Instruction. will, under this act, be performed by him without compensation. That is a very erroneous impression. This bill simply provide that the two men who receive an annual salary from this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in return for which they are presumed to give their time and their ability to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by every way which they can shall not receive the additional salary of five hundred dollars a year as members of this Board, but this act does provide that the Board of Medical Education and Licensure shall employ a Secretary and a Treasurer at the salary of five hundred dollars a year. If that Board shall elect, as they have done heretofore, the Superintendnt of Public Instruction as that secretary, there is nothing in this act that takes away from him that salary of five hundred dollars a year. It only takes away his salary as a member of the Board, and also the salary of Commissioner of Health. And the duties to which the gentleman from Lancaster as referred here are the duties performed by the secretary of that Board and the salary of the secretary is not disturbed by the provisions of this bill. A few weeks ago, in conversation with the Commissioner of Health on this subject, he said to me that he protested to the Legislature of 1911 not to give him that salary of five hundred dollars a year as a member of that Board, because he considered when he was employed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that it was his duty to give whatever aid he could along the medical and educational lines to the Commonwealth, and as a member of that Board it was his duty to serve the Commonwealth in whatever way he could, but to be connected up with the paltry salary of five hundred dollars, he considered, was an insult. That is the position taken by the Commissioner of Health, and its strikes me that the same condition exists as to the Superintendent of Public Instruction. He is employed by the Commonwealth to aid in every way he can to promote the educational facilities of the Commonwealth, and I say it is an insult to him to undertake to say that he shall be given the paltry sum of five hundred dollars a year for the work in the nature of a dual salary, for performing duties at the occasional meetings of the Board. For performing the duties of secretary, there is no doubt that if the Board sees fit to elect him, there is nothing in this bill to disturb the receipt by him of the five hundred dollars a year for performing the duties of the secretary and treasurer as referred to in the bill.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes has succeeded in convincing any of the members of the House that it is going to be an insult if you will give to the Superintendent of Public Instruction the same salary that he is now receiving for his services, and in serving as a member of the Board as has been referred to, I wish to disabuse your minds of the fact and say to you that you will not insult him. Is it not economical to have a man of the calibre of our Superintendent of Public Instruction serving on the Board, to serve as this secretary and perform the nature of work that he does and receive for that work only a thousand dollars? This bill simply strikes away half of that money and you are asking him to do the same amount of work. In other words, he does the same amount of work as heretofore, but receives only five hundred dollars a year for it. It is bound to be economical, and every man of the same calibre doing the same work in the States that surround us is receiving a vastly larger salary. I take it, gentlemen, that this six thousand dollars a year as the total income of our Superintendent of Public Instruction for those three jobs, in spite of the fact that the other men in the same position in other States receive ten thousand dollars a year for one job, is not too much money to give him, and I trust this House will vote this bill down.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. PEACHEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 479, file folio 2295, entitled:

An Act to amend section five hundred sixty-one of an act entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" approved the eighteenth day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven was defeated on third reading on May 24th, be reconsidered.

Mr. HEMMINGER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion to reconsider the vote on House Bill No. 479.

Mr. LOHR. Mr. Speaker, the Legislature of 1911 in enacting the School Code in its wisdom saw fit to change that provision that no premium or discount be allowed to those who paid a tax before a certain date. I think the action of that session of the Legislature should be sustained at this time. I think there is no occasion why this bill should be passed or why that law should be changed. In most of the districts of the State the money is not needed before October first. The full amount of the school tax as levied and should then be paid but not before, because if it is paid prior to that time, the money is allowed to remain in the banks and in many cases receiving no money and no interest for the persons who have paid the tax and, consequently, does not benefit the school districts any. Therefore, I think the action of the session of the Legislature of 1911 was a wise provision and should remain. This bill ought to be defeated as it was defeated the last time.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I feel as much interested in this measure as though I were the sponsor of it. Our school board in Erie suggested this amendment to the school code and it is the only one in respect to which they suggested an amendment to the school law. They are completely satisfied with it, otherwise, and this is the only suggestion that has been made and I had in mind the offering of such a bill at this session but when I found it had already been introduced there was no necessity for that. Our school board in Erie by unanimous vote, are in favor of this amendment to the Code. It merely permits a five per cent discount if the school taxes are paid before the first of October. Between October first and February they are net and after the first of February a penalty of five per cent is imposed. We enjoy a discount on other taxes and our board believes that this will prove salutary and enable them to collect taxes more closely and more speedily. The amount could be added and it would make no difference in the returns to the school board; it is a sort of moral change and that is all. The taxpayer thinks he is getting something; possibly he is not but at any rate, it induces him to pay his taxes earlier and enables the board to collect the taxes more closely and I can see no possible objection to it. Those who live in the first class school districts enjoy that privilege. I sincerely hope the House will pass this bill.

Mr. C. M. C. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, this bill will change the manner of collecting taxes and will be a detriment, in my opinion, to every board in the State. The penalty goes on now on the first of October, of five per cent. Under this bill of Mr. Light's he gives a rebate of five per cent. up to the first of October and any man knows that when you give a rebate—that when you take a thing off in one way you have to put it on in another. This is in the interest of the monied man; every time it is in the interest of the man who can pay and the man who wants to take advantage of the rebate, but the man who cannot take advantage of it, must pay, proportionately a larger amount of money in taxes. The worst feature of this bill is that the penalty does not go on until February, which makes it almost impossible for any collector of the school taxes to get his accounts into proper shape and for the district to get the proper amount of money for the needs of the school.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. C. M. C. Campbell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. C. M. C. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman why the taxpayers of the first class townships have the benefit of a discount and others don't?

Mr. C. M. C. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I don't know that first class townships do have that benefit—do they?

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I believe they do.

Mr. C. M. C. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman mean first class districts? The first and second I believe do get that.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, why should they get them and not others?

Mr. C. M. C. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I cannot say that. They should not get them; I suppose it is their mode of collecting taxes. When I was on the Educational Committee last time, I was very much opposed to passing a law that didn't give a rebate but the gentleman who represented the State Board, Mr. Riley, from Erie, persisted that that was the way they collected taxes in the City of Erie and that there was no district that collected them so well and so effectively as the City of Erie. I want further to state that in my own district I asked how the collection of taxes came along and they said they collected them better now under the new act than ever before.

The SPEAKER. The question recurs on the adoption of the motion to reconsider the vote by which House Bill No. 479 was defeated.

Whereupon, a division was called for and forty gentlemen having voted in the affirmative and seventy-three in the negative,

The motion was not agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND READING.

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to call up from second reading calendar of yesterday, page 38, House Bill No. 451. The reason I didn't call it up before is because I did not have the amendment, which I wish to offer, from the Reference Bureau.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection and the Clerk will read the bill.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 451, entitled

An Act creating a reward or bounty for the destruction of certain noxious animals killed within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania providing a method for the payment of the same by the several counties of the Commonwealth which in turn are to be reimbursed by the Commonwealth making an appropriation for such reimbursement and providing penalties for violation of its several provisions

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That from and after the passage of this act there shall be paid by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania a reward or bounty for the killing within the Commonwealth of certain noxious animals as follows For each wildcat the sum of four dollars for each gray fox the sum of two dollars for each weasel the sum of two dollars each hawk the sum of fifty cents for each owl the sum of fifty cents and for each porcupine fifty cents

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1486, entitled:

An Act relative to commissioners of townships of the first class and regulating their term and election

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agree to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill provides a four year term for first class township commissioners after the present term expires, and would make their office conform to the schedule of the constitutional amendment passed sometime ago, providing for four year terms after the present term expires.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, this bill seeks to double the term of the township commissioners as they exist under the present law. It also seeks to give certain election districts in certain townships of the first class more representatives or more township commissioners than have other districts in that county. For instance in certain election districts—

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogte the gentleman from Luzerne, (Mr. Conniff).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CONNIFF. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Luzerne whether this bill increases the number of township commissioners?

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, it does not increase the number of township commissioners, but it gives to certain election districts more township commissioners than other election districts. The bill is invented in the first place to suit certain townships; and besides, gentlemen it is not fair to the people now to change the law as it exists, as the present law says that township commissioners shall be in office two years and this bill seeks to give township commissioners a term of four years, just double their present term. It is a measure I think, gentlemen, that should be defeated.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to state for the information of the House, that this proposed bill does not change the method of electing township commissioners, It leaves the present law in the same shape it is now. The only thing the bill does, it seeks to make the length of the term four years instead of two years to conform to the schedule passed by this State some time ago.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—1.

Rothenberger,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1636, as follows:

An Act making it the duty of the recorders of deeds of the various counties of this Commonwealth containing a population of over one million inhabitants to require the furnishing of affidavits that the consideration mentioned in deeds or other instruments of conveyance of real estate offered for record is the actual and true consideration therefor or if not what is the actual and true consideration providing that such affidavits shall be sent to the authorities in the respective counties charged with the revision and equilization of the taxes on real estate therein and further providing that those making or furnishing false affidavits thereunder shall be guilty of perjury

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That it shall be the duty of the recorders of deeds all counties of this Commonwealth having a population of over one million inhabitants before admitting to the records any deed or other instrument of conveyance of real estate to require of the grantee or grantees in such deed or other instrument to furnish to such recorders his or their affidavit or the affidavit of some other person who is conversant with the facts that the consideration mentioned in the said deed or other instrument is the actual and true consideration therefor and that there is no other or further consideration for such conveyance or if the consideration stated in the deed or other instrument be not the true and actual consideration then such affidavit shall set forth what is true and actual consideration for the same The affidavits furnished as aforesaid shall be sent by such recorders of deeds to the authorities in their respective counties charged with the duty of the revision and equalization of taxes upon real estate therein and by such authorities shall be certified by such recorders of deeds to the officials of their respective counties who may be charged with the duty of revising the assessments of real estate

Section 2 Any person who shall make or furnish a false affidavit in pursuance of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of perjury and on conviction thereof shall be punishable as other persons committing perjury are by law punishable

Section 3 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. HEIDINGER. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides that whenever a deed is offered at the office of the Recorder of Deeds it would have to be accompanied by an affidavit setting forth that the consideration set forth in the deed was the true consideration paid for the property, or if not, what price was actually being paid for it; this affidavit to be transmitted by the Recorder of Deeds to the authorities having in charge the assessment of the properties for taxation. This bill would effect Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties. I do not think that the bill should pass for two or three reasons. In the first place, it is saddling an additional unnecessary burden of cost upon the purchaser in that he will have to pay out for an additional item of expense. In the second place, its purpose is simply to furnish information to the Real Estate Assessors and they in their skill and knowledge should be able to fix a true valuation or an approximately correct valuation upon the property without this information. In the third place, there is no means provided for safeguarding this information from the public at large. Very often a price may be paid for a property which would be fair enough for the special needs of the purchaser and yet would be in excess of the true market value of the property and if an assessment was placed upon the property in accordance with that price the purchaser would really be paying an inordinate amount. Very often the purchaser is able to get a property at a bargain and to make a profitable resale, but if these records are going to become public property and the public at large know exactly what is being paid for the property, it would militate against the owner's chances of getting a good price for it. I think that the real estate assessors should be men skilled enough to be able to appraise the properties without this burden being placed upon the purchaser, and that therefore this bill should be defeated.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, the Board of Revision of Taxes of Philadelphia, since the advent, particularly, of the new administration, have been up against a very difficult proposition by way of fairly assessing real estate valuations in Philadelphia and for the purpose of arriving at a fair valuation of property in Philadelphia, they in their wisdom have suggested this bill, and I think their logic and their reasoning is indisputable. In Philadelphia last year the increase in valuation on real estate property was something about twenty-three million dollars. This, however, was a very low increase for the year. A fair average would be about forty to fifty million dollars a year. If so happens that this increase is not made up so much in the increased valuation of properties now existing, but in the new buildings as erected and on which the Board of Revision of Taxes have to make some guess as to valuation. It is only fair and proper that the vendee in filing his deed in the Recorders' office, should give to the Board of Revision of Taxes some indication of what the value of that property is, or some information upon which they, using his knowledge and exercising their own skillful judgment, might make an equitable assessment. It is idle to say that this would prevent a man making a good real estate sale. Purchasers knowing anything about the properties they are about to purchase are not absolutely bound by the real estate valuation. A property would have a value to some man for his partiuclar needs that it would not have to another, so this does not deter the man who files his deed setting forth the consideration at twenty-five hundred dollars from selling at thirty-five hundred dollars. There is absolutely nothing in that. Moreover, the Board of Revision, seeking this information for the purpose of making equitable valuation all over the city, have not asked that this information or the affidavit setting forth the consideration be filed with the Recorder of Deeds, but that the Recorder of Deeds transmit this information to the Board of Revision of Taxes and I think this is a bill which in their wisdom is to help them make an equitable and fair valuation and should receive the support of all the gentlemen of the House.

I wish to say further that this bill only applies to Allegheny and Philadelphia and the bill last night, which I inadvertently made to apply only to Philadelphia, is in a sense a companion bill to this, and I ask this House, particularly the gentlemen outside of Philadelphia, to bear in mind when you come to vote on this bill, that the sole purpose of this piece of legislation is to arrive at an equitable and fair valuation of property in Philadelphia.

Mr. FLYNN in the Chair.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RONEY. I will.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if this is not a measure to cover up incompetent assessors in the City of Philadelphia.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia I desire to say that this is not to cover up an incompetent board. The Board's competency is unquestioned. This is simply a piece of legislation for the purpose of having the board given some additional information in order to have a scientific and equitable valuation of the property in Philadelphia.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman further. I desire to ask him if there is any real estate dealer consults the Board of Revision of Taxes when going out to speculate in real estate in the City of Philadelphia?

Mr. RONEY. Of course not, just as I argued before. To the purchaser the property may offer some benefit which the real estate assessors assessing the property do not take into consideration.

Mr. WILTBANK. Do not all of the large corporations and trust companies who loan money have their own investigators go out and put their own values on this property?

Mr. RONEY. Of course the corporations do and private citizens do the same thing. Of course, in selling your property you have an idea of its value and you do not sell it unless you can get what you think you ought to for it.

Mr. WILTBANK. Has not the County of Philadelphia the same privilege of employing experts as the private individuals themselves?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, this is not a real estate bargaining bill, but a bill for the purpose of giving the real estate assessors the information upon which to make a fair assessment on Captain Wiltbank's house the same as any other property in Philadelphia.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill to cover up an incompetent real estate board of assessors of Philadelphia and you cannot get over it. The Pennsylvania Trust Company, the Philadelphia Savings Fund Company and all the institutions in Philadelphia when you make an application for a loan have a competent man to pass upon that loan and to investigate the property and place a value upon it. Sometimes it is a hundred per cent. above the value placed on it by the Philadelphia Assessors and sometimes it is a hundred per cent. below. It is not fair to compel men to tell you exactly what is paid for the property. Let the City of Philadelphia appoint competent men to make these assessments and if they are too high I will guarantee that the real estate men will complain and take it to court, which they will never do when it is too low.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this bill is a bill of very great importance to the citizens of Philadelphia.

What has been said by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wiltbank, does not meet the issue that this bill raises, and does not meet the faults that this bill is intended to correct. There are a great many properties transferred in Philadelphia and the consideration mentioned in the deed is but nominal, the amount mentioned in the deed being "for the consideration of one dollar." You gentlemen who do not live in large cities cannot imagine the great difficulty it is to gauge the values and keep gauging the values of real estate. A row of properties this year will be selling at $6,500.00 say, and the character of people that live in that neighborhood keep the value up. The value will either rise or the value will lower, and the only way that the assessors can keep in touch with the fluctuation of values in that neighborhood is by watching the sales and keeping in touch with the sales. Now this bill is not meant for the purpose of stopping proper speculation in real estate. It merely means that when a man buys a property and has mentioned the nominal consideration of one dollar in the deed, that he must at the same time file his affidavit giving the actual consideration, and that affidavit is sent over to the Board for the Revision of Taxes. It is not public property so that any one can come in and scrutinize and see what the vendee has paid for the property, but it is merely for the purpose of keeping the Board for the Revision of Taxes in touch with the fluctuation in value. Now it cannot do any harm, nor is it there for the purpose of covering up incompetency, but it is for the purpose of keeping the taxable proerty assessed at an equitable value. There is no reason why this bill should be defeated. It has been advanced by the gentlemen who are members of the Board for Revision of Taxes in Philadelpiha. As far as the assessors are concerned, I dare say that the leading experts on realty values in Philadeuphia, are the men that are members of the Board of Assessors and working under the Board of Revision of Taxes. For the gentleman from Philadelphia to oppose this legislation is a mistake. It is legislation that is desired by the present board. It is legislation which is to carry out the policy of the present administration of having a property equitable valuation on the property so there can be a perfectly equitable assessment of taxes. I hope that the gentlemen of the House, that you gentlemen who are not residents of large cities, will give this measure your support.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Scott.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker. I will.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell the House, with all the money that he has invested in the City of Philadelphia, whether he has ever called upon one of the real estate assessors to go out and make that assessment for him individually?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker. I have no private investigators, nor any public ones. I would say that if I wanted to get expert informaeion as to the value of property undoubtedly I would ask them to give it to me, if I knew them.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he does not know personally every one of the ninety real estate assessors?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Yes, Mr. Speaker, I know nearly all of them.

Mr. WILTBANK. Then, Mr. Speaker. I would like to ask the gentleman why he put in that remark "if I knew them?" I venture to say there is not one of the ninety assessors that the gentleman would get to go out to investigate property if the gentleman from Philade'phia had ninety thousand dollars to invest.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, to my mind this bill puts a premium on fraud. There are eighty-four men receiving a salary of three thousand dollars a year in Philadelphia who are supposed to know the value of property in their respective districts. There are three men drawing a salary of six thousand dollars a year, who are styled the Board for the Revision of Taxes. What does this bill compel the owner and seller of real estate to do? It compels him to mention the actual consideration that he has received in disposing of his property, and if that is true, you could have eighty-four one thousand dollar clerks, or you could have twenty one thousand dollar clerks just to keep a record of the purchases and sales of real estate. But that is not my real opposition to this bi l, gentlemen. You gentlemen that live in large cities such as Scranton and Pittsburgh, and Wilkes-Barre and Philadelphia, know that there are men who speculate in real estate. now three or four real estate brokers can get together, and for the purpose of enmeshing some poor, innocent purchaser, they will make a wash sale. they will even commit perjury amongst themselves to get some individual to invest at their price. They can say to him this is the price of the property and here is my affidavit to it. They can show it to him and he will rely upon it, from the fact that this affidavit has been filed as to the price of the property. Now, I cannot understand why any purchaser or seller of real estate should be compelled to disclose the actual consideration of the purchasing price competent men are employed for the express purpose of ascertaining the true value of real estate in Philadelphia, and I am convinced that this bill would serve no good purpose.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say in reply to the gentleman from Philadelphia that when this gentleman talks about fraud he inverts his argument. This bill is intended to protect people from fraud.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I feel that there is undobutedly a misunderstanding on this bill, and as we have not the full material with which to explain it to the House, I move that its further consideration be postponed for the present.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

Section 12 This act is intended to furnish a comprehensive method of inflicting the death penalty If any portion of this act shall be declared invalid or unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania the entire act shall thereupon be null and void

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. RHOADS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were then read as follows:

Amend title, in line six, insert before the word "persons" the word "certain." Also amend title, lines six and seven, strike out the words "now under sentence of death."

Amend section eleven, line 19, insert after the word "disposed" the words "of according"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

It was agree to.
Ordered that the bill be prepared for final passage.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. GRAMLEY asked and obtained leave of absence for himself for next Monday and Tuesday.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is informed that the Chief Page is unable to permit all the page boys to go away from the building at one time. There is to be a circus in Harrisburg on Saturday; does the House give its unanimous consent that the Chief Page may permit all the Page Boys to leave at that time. The Chair hears of no objection and it is permitted.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to and at 5.20 o'clock P. M. the House adjourned to meet next Monday at 8:00 o'clock P. M.

VOL. 2. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MAY 5, 1913. No. 60.

SENATE.

MONDAY, MAY 5, 1913.

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. D. P. Gerberich) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. A. C. James, offered the following prayer:

Thy word, O Lord, teaches us to ask and we shall receive; seek and we shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto us. We come this evening as suppliants to Thy throne of mercy, O Lord. We come seeking Him who is the giver of every good and perfect gift. We come together this evening knocking upon the door of opportunity, beseeching Thee to open unto us. We come together this evening knocking upon the door of Christian service, feeling that Thou hast already opened unto us. We are knocking on the door which leads into Thy presence. We hear a voice from Heaven saying, "Enter into His gates with singing, and into His courts with praise." "Whatsoever things are true; whatsoever things are honest; whatsoever things are just; whatsoever things are pure; whatsoever things are lovely; whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise," help us to think on these things, O Lord. "The Lord bless thee and keep thee. The Lord make his face to shine upon thee and be gracious unto thee. The Lord lift up his countenance upon thee and give thee peace." Amen.

The PRESIDENT. A qourum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. McILHENNY, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

An Act to amend section ten of an act, entitled "An Act regulating railroad companies," approved February 19th, 1849, broadening the powers of eminent domain of railroad companies.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. ALEXANDER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1295, entitled.

An Act prohibiting the running at large of horses and mules on public highways, providing and regulating penalties for violation of the act and imposing certain duties on constables, township supervisors, roadmasters and the State police force.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Roads and Highways.

Mr. McNICHOLS read in his place and presented to the Chtair Senate Bill No. 1296, entitled:

An Act regulating the acquiring of new or additional sources of supply of water by municipalities or townships or any corporation whatsoever heretofore or hereafter incorporated under general or special laws, and providing a penalty for violation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

MOTION TO DISCHARGE COMMITTEE FROM CONSIDERATION OF BILL.

Mr. SENSENICH. Mr. President, I move that the Law and Order Committee be discharged from further consideration of Senate Bill No. 605, entitled:

An Act to further regulate and restrain the granting of license for the sale of vinous, spirituous, malt and brewed liquors or any admixture thereof, by forbidding any Court of Quarter Sessions to issue license in any township, borough, city or county when a certain per centum of the voters therein petition against the issuance of said license and that this bill be placed on the calendar.

Mr. KNAPP. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SENSENICH. Mr. President, this bill has been before this committee since March 12th. Two weeks ago I filed a petition, signed by about one third of all the Senators, praying that it be reported out of the committee at once. There has been no attention paid to this request—it has been simply ignored. I do not know if that is Senatorial courtesy or not. This committee is composed of honest and conscientious men, I believe, but its method, since I became a member of this committee is this—that whenever a bill comes before it, which favors the liquor or brewery interests, it is reported out at once. But, if it favors temperance, in any way, it is held there to die. Mr. President, is this honest, or fair—is it not slapping and defying several millions of Christian and temperance people of this Commonwealth? This committee has had every opportunity possible to report this bill, so, I ask every Senator here, who believes in fairness, to vote to have this bill reported from committee.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, this bill was considered at a meeting of the Law and Order Committee, where the Senator who made the motion was present together with the Senator who seconded the motion. It was at that time postponed for the present, and while there was a petition signed by some members of the Senate presented to me, there was no demand made by these men that an additional or new hearing of the committee be had. It is my firm conviction that the man who made the application to have this committee discharged, does not want this committee discharged, that he made the little speech made here to-night for the purpose if some time in the future he becomes a candidate for re-election, that it may be used for campaign argument. The speech to-night is to my mind but seeking notoriety, and to furnish capital for a possible re-election four years from now. This committee is at any time ready and willing to hear the Senator or anybody connected with the body, if they can form or produce any possible argument why this bill should be reported out of this committee.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, it strikes me there is another very good reason why this motion should not prevail. During the early part of the session of the Legislature, the House was occupied fully three-fourths of its time passing on liquor legislation, by repeated efforts on the part of those who were in favor of local option and other measures and it was demonstrated to the satisfaction of every one that it is not possible to pass a local option measure through the House side of the Legislature during this session. Now, after every effort made on that side of the Legislature has failed, this bill was introduced here—for what purpose I know not, unless it was to put some members of the Senate in the embarrassing position of having to go on record on the legislation. Now, if those who are in favor of this legislation know in advance that it is not possible to get the legislation through the House if the Senate does pass it, then why should the members of the Senate be required to waste the time of this body in the consideration of the legislation? Under these circumstances, it having been demonstrated that this legislation, even if passed here, will accomplish nothing for the cause of temperance or reform, I am most undoubtedly and positively against this motion. It is not fair to the Senate to offer a resolution or introduce legislation that will make it embarrassing to any member of the Senate unless it is done with reasonable belief that some good can be accomplished by it, and it being known in advance that it cannot pass, I sincerely hope that this motion will not prevail.

Mr. KNAPP. Mr. President, I believe that this bill as proposed is an amendment to the Brooks Law. The position taken by the courts in some sections is that the Brooks Law is mandatory—that they cannot refuse a license. This merely provides that if there is a petition signed by fifty-one per cent. of the qualified electors of the district against it, remonstrating, that there is no question then that they have a perfect right to refuse a license. And I believe that this bill should have been reported from this committee. It has laid in the committee now for over a month, and there is no reason why it should not be reported that I know of. I am not a member of that committee, but I believe it should have been reported, and I believe from the fact that it is of general interest to the people of this State that this motion should prevail, and his bill should go on the calendar.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Sensenich and Mr. Jarrett and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—16.

Alexander,	Gyger,	Jarrett,	McIlhenny,
Cooper,	Heacock,	Judson,	Powell,
Endsley,	Hilton,	Knapp,	Sensenich,
Graff,	Hoke,	Martin,	Sheatz,

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to advise you that I have this day approved and signed Senate Bill No. 3, entitled "An Act validating certain elections of counties cities boroughs townships school districts and other incorporated districts held pursuant to the provisions of an act approved the twentieth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four entitled 'An Act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities to provide for the redemption of the same and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof' and the amendments thereto and validating bonds issued or authorized to be issued in pursuance of such elections"

JOHN K. TENER.

VETO OF SENATE BILL NO. 405.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, May 2, 1913.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen:—I return herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 405, entitled

"An Act to amend the third section of an act entitled 'An Act relative to the supervision and control of hospitals or houses in which the insane are placed for treatment or detention' approved the eighth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three so as to fix the number and compensation of the officers of the Committee on Luncay"

I am not convinced of the necessity for the increased number of officers and increased compensation authorized under the provisions of this bill.

For this reason the bill is not approved.

JOHN K. TENER.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move that the question together with the consideration of this bill, be postponed for the present.

Mr. ENDSLEY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 675 (House No. 465), entitled:

An Act requiring a license for conducting certain kinds of business regulating such license and fixing a penalty for violation of this act

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. JARRETT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend the title in line 1, by inserting after the word "conducting" the following: "any business the whole or greater part of which shall consist of the sale of goods which shall be held forth represented or advertised to be goods of or obtained from the estate of any bankrupt or goods of or obtained from an assignee or a person firm or corporation about to go out of business or goods to have been damaged in any way;" also by striking out the words "certain kinds of business" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "and."

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendments were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 677 (House No. 503), entitled:

An Act prescribing the conditions under which agreements and contracts for the sale and exchange of lands tenements and hereditaments may be recorded in the offices of the recorders of deeds in various counties of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President. This bill provides that where a stipulation is made in a contract for the sale of land the deed may not be put on record; that is to say the recorder would not record a deed if there is a stipulation in a deed that should not be recorded. I do not think there is any demand for an act of this kind as it will certainly interfere with the descent of land and title of land in such a matter that I think no lawyer could keep track of the title to land. I don't think it is well thought out.

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, I understand the reason for this bill is this, certain real estate dealers enter into an agreement for the sale of property and pay fifty dollars down. They then record the agreement of the sale and cannot comply with its terms. This clouds the title, so that in order to get the agreement off the record they have to be paid a substantial sum, and it is the means of holding up people who desire to sell the property. I think it is a good bill.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—24.

Alexander,	Farley,	Homsher,	McNichols,

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend the title by striking out all after the word "act" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Fixing the salary of registers of wills in counties within which are or may be, located any cities of the first class and providing for the payment of fees or commissions earned by said officers into the county treasury after deduction of expenses which expenses said registers are authorized to incur;" also by striking out section 2 and inserting in lieu thereof the followng: "Section 2. The register of wills in said counties shall pay into the county treasury all fees or commissions of any kind earned by them for services performed either for the county or for the State or otherwise after deducting therefrom counsel fees and other legal expenses incurred in the collection of the same, the said registers being authorized and empowered to employ an attorney or attorneys to aid them in the collection in the Orphans' Court and other courts and otherwise of inheritance taxes."

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, what those amendments mean.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I understand the amendments will permit the register of wills to take from the fee a sufficient amount of money to pay the attorneys that are employed in the collection thereof and permit him to have the $10,000 as provided for by the act.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, nothing further.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, nothing further, as I understand it.

Duties of Mine Foreman and Assistant Mine Foreman

Section 1 To secure efficient management every mine where twenty or more persons are employed inside shall be under the direction of a mine foreman who shall have full charge of the inside workings and of all the persons employed therein so that the provisions of this act so far as they relate to him shall be complied with and he shall direct that the regulations prescribed for each class of workmen be complied with Provided however that a mine foreman may have charge of several detached openings of the same colliery And provided further that in a mine where less than twenty persons are employed they shall be under the charge and direction of an assistant mine foreman

Section 2 He shall have charge of all matters pertaining to ventilation and the speed of the ventilators shall be particularly under his charge and direction He shall post a notice at the fan engine house stating the least number of revolutions per minute the ventilator shall run

Section 3 Every working place shall be examined at least once each working day and whenever the mine foreman cannot personally comply with this provision he shall employ as provided in section three of article three of this act a sufficient number of assistant mine foremen to make such examinations wherever practicable during working hours and he shall give special care and attention to miners engaged in removing pillars

Section 4 The mine foreman or assistant mine foreman shall once every two weeks on the first and third Mondays of each month or as soon thereafter as practicable while the mine is in operation measure the air current at or near the main inlet and main outlet and also in the main inlet and outlet of each split in the cross-heading nearest the face of the first inside working breast and in the inside cross-heading nearest the face in the last outside working breast of each split of air and he shall make a record of such measurements with ink in a book prepared for that purpose Said record shall also designate the area of each opening the velocity of the air therein and the number of persons employed in each split with dates when such measurements were taken An exact copy of such measurements and records shall be sent to the inspector not later than the eighth day of the following month

Section 5 The mine foreman shall devote his time to his duties in the mine while the same is in operation and shall keep a careful watch over the ventilation airways traveling ways timbering and drainage and shall see that all stoppings between gangways and airways are properly built as provided for in section five of article fourteen of this act He shall see that proper cross-headings are made in pillars of all breasts and gangways at such distance apart as in his judgment may be necessary but the face of any breast shall not be more than sixty feet distant from the gangway or last cross-heading and he shall see that cross-headings are closed when necessary or when ordered closed by the inspector in writing and that in gaseous mines a cross-heading is driven at the face of every breast when finished

Section 6 The mine foreman assistant mine foreman or fire boss shall once each week examine carefully all accessible openings to all abandoned portions of a mine where explosive gas has been or is being generated and all dangers found therein shall be immediately removed if practicable A report of said examination shall be recorded with ink in a book kept in the mine foreman's office and signed by the persons who made the examinations

Section 7 The mine foreman or an assistant mine foreman shall see that every working place is properly secured by props timbers or otherwise that no person is permitted to work in an unsafe place unless it be for the purpose of making it secure and that safety in all respects is assured and if any employe neglects to carry out or disobeys the instructions given in regard to securing his working place and through such negligence or disobedience shall cause serious injury or loss of life to any person he shall report such employe to the inspector for prosecution

Section 8 The mine foreman shall see that the miners are provided with the necessary props timbers and cap pieces of suitable sizes which shall be delivered at the working faces or as near thereto as they can be conveyed in mine cars when requested by the miner that the props are cut square on one end and as near as practicable to the proper length as given by the miner and if for any reason the said props timbers and cap-pieces are not provided the mine foreman shall withdraw the men from the mine or from the portion of the mine affected which is dangerous to life and limb until such props timbers and cap-pieces are received

Section 9 The mine foreman or a competent person or persons designated by him shall each working day examine the shafts slopes traveling ways signal apparatus and all machinery connected therewith to see that they are in safe and efficient working condition so as to safeguard life and property The person making such examination shall report the same in writing with ink each day in a book kept for that purpose signing his name and giving the date of the examination

Section 10 When an assistant mine foreman is employed his duty shall be to assist the mine foreman in carrying out the provisions of this act In the absence of the mine foreman through sickness or otherwise one of the assistant mine foremen designated by the superintendent may perform the duties of the mine foreman and shall be liable to the same penalties as the mine foreman for any violation of this act

Section 11 Each assistant mine foreman shall make a daily report with ink in a book provided for that purpose stating the general condition of the working places visited in the portion allotted to him by the mine foreman and he shall make a note of any danger observed and sign his name thereto The mine foreman shall read carefully the daily report of each asistant mine foreman and shall countersign such reports with ink not later than the following day

Section 12 The mine foreman shall each day enter plainly with ink in a book provided for that purpose a brief report of the condition of the portion of the mine examined by him and shall state clearly any danger that may have come under his observation and sign his name thereto

Section 13 In a mine wherein explosive gas has been liberated within one year before the passage of this act or shall be liberated after the pasage of this act in sufficient quantities to be detected by an approved safety lamp the mine foreman shall employ a sufficient number of fire bosses (whenever he is unable to make the examination himself) in order that each mine shall be examined in accordance with the provisions of article seven of this act and he shall see as often as practicable that such fire boss has left his mark in places reported as examined He shall each day read carefully and countersign with ink all daily reports entered in the record book of the fire boss

Section 14 The mine foreman of a mine liberating explosive gas shall at or near the bottom of each shaft or slope or one the surface provide a permanent station where a proper danger signal or sign designated by letters and or both be placed thereon and no persons shall pass said station as long as the danger signal or sign is so posted

Section 15 When the workings of a mine are a mile or more from the bottom of a shaft or slope the mine foreman with the consent of the inspector in writing may provide a permanent station for the use of the fire bosses with danger signal or sign attached as provided in section fifteen and no person shall pass said station so long as the danger signal or sign is posted thereon In said station a fire proof vault of ample dimensions shall be erected of brick stone or concrete in which the temporary record book of the fire boss shall be placed and locked for safe keeping during their absence

Section 16 When the permenent station of the fire bosses is located a mile or more from the bottom of a shaft or slope all abandoned finished or unfinished workings is the intervening distance shall be completely shut off from the traveling way (which shall be in the intake) by stopping of stone or brick laid in cement or lime mortar or by concrete of sufficient thickness with other suitable material approved in writing by the inspector so as to prevent noxious or explosive gases from coming in contact with the employes while going to or returning from their work

Section 17 The mine foreman shall see that all working places and roadways and all other places of the mine are kept free from standing gas Any accumulation of explosive gas or noxious gases in the worked-out or abandoned portion of a mine shall be removed as soon as possible after its recovery if practicable No person except those employed in the removal of the same shall be allowed in that portion of the mine until such gases are removed or rendered harmless

Section 18 The mine foreman shall see that all dangerous places in the mine are properly fenced off across the openings so that no person can enter and hat danger signals or signs are posted thereon He shall notify the superintendent in writing whenever in his opinion the mine is becoming dangerous through the lack of ample ventilation squeeze or from any other cause beyond his control

Section 19 The mine foreman shall see that in a place that is being driven within supposedly dangerous proximity to an abandoned mine or a portion of the same suspected of containing explosive gas noxious gases or an accumulation of water at least one bore hole shall be maintained not less than twenty feet in advance of the face and on each side bore holes of the same depth shall be drilled at right angles not more than ten feet apart and the opening shall not be more than twelve feet wide

Section 20 The mine foreman shall see that no dangerous accumulation of water or gas shall be tapped from the mine or any abandoned portion thereof until all the employes are out except those engaged at the work of tapping and such work shall be done with locked safety lamps under the immediate supervision of the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman

Section 21 In case of accident to a ventilator or its machinery whereby the ventilation of the mine or portion thereof is seriously interrupted he shall order the employes to withdraw immediately from the mine or the portion thereof affected and they shall not be allowed to return to their work until the ventilation has been restored and the mine examined by the mine foreman assistant mine foreman or fire boss and reported safe

Section 22 The mine foreman assistant mine foreman or fire boss shall have the right if he deems it necessary for the protection of life and property to make a personal examination of any employe about to enter a gaseous mine or portion thereof where locked safety lamps are used and he shall not allow such employe to go to his work until it shall be satisfactorily shown that no prohibited articles are concealed about the employe's body

Section 23 The mine foreman and the assistant mine foreman shall as often as practicable see that the diameter of the bits of all drills is at least one-eighth of an inch larger than the diameter of the cartridge in use so as to prevent the forcing of a tight cartridge into any hole

Section 24 At the foot of every shaft or slope where persons are hoisted therefrom the mine foreman shall provide a comfortable waiting room for shelter and protection and of ample dimensions to seat from ten to twenty persons

Section 25 The mine foreman shall see that the height of gangways or traveling ways wherein employes have to travel into and out of the mines shall not be less than five feet Where such height is impracticable the employes at their request shall be hauled into and out of the mine at the beginning and end of each shift

Section 26 The mine foreman shall see that in all gangways or main haul-roads driven prior to the passage of this act where coal is hauled and where employes travel there is sufficient width to permit persons to pass moving cars with safety and if in the judgment of the inspector sufficient width has not been provided then safety holes not more than one hundred and fifty feet apart on gangways or roads where coal is hauled by animal power and not more than seventy-five feet apart when coal is hauled by motive power shall be made on one side of the passageway which hole shall not be less than two feet deep by four feet wide and shall be level with the road white-washed and kept free from obstructions

Section 27 The mine foreman shall see that all gangways and main haulage roads driven after the passage of this act where employes travel and coal is hauled thereon shall have a clear space of two and one-half feet from the side of the car to the rib or lagging which shall be made and continued throughout on the one side of said passageway if in the judgment of the inspector the conditions will permit all such space shall be kept free from obstructions Provided however That if found impracticable by the inspector to provide such clearance then safety holes shall be made as required in section twenty-six of this article Provided further That this section shall not apply to a distance within three hundred feet from the face of a gangway or main haulage road

Section 28 If at any time it is found by the person in charge of the mine or any portion thereof for any cause whatever the same has become dangerous every precaution shall be taken to insure the safety of the employes and every employe except such as may be required to remove the danger shall be withdrawn from the mine or portion thereof until it is examined by the mine foreman assistant mine foreman or fire boss and reported safe

Section 29 The mine foreman shall see that locked safety lamps are used where in his judgment the use of open lights is a menace to life and property and that only permissible explosives shall be allowed for blasting purposes in such places

Section 30 He shall provide suitable lighted signals to be placed on the end of all trips operated in the mine by motors

Section 31 The transportation of explosives and tools into and out of the mine shall be under the direction of the mine foreman

Section 32 He shall direct and see that efficient safety blocks or devices are placed for the purpose of preventing cars from running into shafts slopes or planes where employes are hoisted or traveling therein and shall see that they are maintained in good working condition

Section 33 A miner when first employed shall have his attention called by the mine foreman to article twenty-four of this act

Section 34 Any mine foreman or assistant mine foreman who fails or neglects to carry out the provisions of this article or of any other article that relates to his duties shall be deemed guilty of a offense against this act

ARTICLE VII

Duties of Fire Boss

Section 1 It shall be the duty of the fire boss to examine carefully every morning before the men enter the mine every working place all places adjacent to live workings every roadway and every unfenced road to abandoned workings and falls but before entering the mine he shall satisfy himself that the ventilation apparatus is running at the speed designated by the mine foreman and before proceeding with the examination he shall see that the air current is traveling in its proper course In making the examination for gas he shall use no light other than the enclosed in an approved safety lamp provided however that in addition thereto he may use an approved electric lamp for other examinations The examination shall begin within three hours prior to the appointed time for men to enter the mine The fire boss shall examine all dangers in all portions of the mine under his charge and after such examination shall leave at or near the face of every place the date as evidence that he has performed his duty He shall also examine the entrance or entrances to all workedout and abandoned portion adjacent to the roadways and working places under his charge where explosive gas is likely to accumulate and he shall place a danger signal or sign across the entrance to every working place and every other place where explosive gas is discovered or where immediate danger is found to exist from any other cause and said signal or sign shall be sufficient warning for persons not to enter

Section 2 A suitable record book shall be kept in the mine foreman's office on the surface or at a station located near the bottom of a shaft or slope or at a station a mile or more from a shaft or slope and on the return of the fire boss to said station he shall enter with ink in said record book the condition of the portion examined giving the date and sign his name to the same Such record shall show the time taken in making the examination and shall clearly state the location and nature of any danger that may have been discovered and he shall immediately report the location thereof to the mine foreman or an assistant mine foreman

Section 3 No person shall enter the mine or any portion thereof until the fire boss returns to the station on the surface or to a station near the bottom of a shaft or slope or to a station located a mile or more from the shaft or slope as the case may be and reports that the mine or the portion thereof is safe for men to enter When the station is located a mile or more from the foot of the shaft or slope he shall report to the mine foreman or an assistant mine foreman by telephone or otherwise and it shall be his duty when stations are located inside the mines to keep his record book locked in a vault provided for that purpose whenever he is absent from the station

Section 4 A second examination shall be made by him each day when practicable during working hours of every working place previously examined where men are employed and shall give special attention to the condition of the roof and sides and the general condition of each working place as to its safety and if he discovers any working place in a dangerous condition he shall direct the miner to secure the place at once if practicable but if it cannot be made safe he shall withdraw the men immediately and report the matter to the mine foreman

Section 5 It shall not be lawful for any person (except mine foremen and in case of necessity such other persons as may be designated by him) to pass beyond a danger signal until the mine or the portion thereof has been examined and reported to be safe and he shall not allow any person to remain in any portion of the mine through which a dangerous accumulation of explosive gas is being passed in the ventilating current

Section 6 Any fire boss who neglects to comply with the provisions of this article relating to his duties or who shall make a false report of the conditions of any place in the portion of the mine alloted to him for examination shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act and upon conviction his certificate shall be revoked by the Chief provided however that he may again be an applicant for a certificate at any regular examination after the expiration of six months but if found guilty of a second offense his certificate shall be revoked and he cannot be an applicant for re-examination

ARTICLE VIII

ARTICLE X

Duties of Inspector

Section 1 The inspector shall devote the whole of his time to the duties of his office It shall be his duty to examine thoroughly each mine and the outside workings thereof as often as possible but at least once every three months giving special attention to all mines liberating explosive gas and to all other mines where unusual dangers exist or may be suspected to exist to see that all the provisions of this act are complied with especially those that effect the safety of life health and property therein and those that demand that the air current be carried to the working faces He shall keep in his office a record of all such inspections showing the general condition in which he finds the mine especially with reference to its condition as to safety and ventilaton and also drainage where employes travel therein the number of persons employed inside the number of serious accidents showing the nature and causes thereof the number of deaths resulting therefrom and such other information as he may deem necessary or as may be required by the Chief of the Department of Mines

Section 2 It shall be the duty of the inspector when making his regular inspections to read and examine carefully the record books of the mine foreman assistant mine foreman and fire boss Upon the discovery that the law is not being complied with he shall notify the mine foreman to that effect in writing and if the same offense is found the second time his duty shall be to forthwith prosecute the guilty party He shall also see that all notices are posted in compliance with the provisions of this act

Section 3 It shall be the duty of the inspector to see as far as practicable that all the provisions of this act are observed and obeyed Provided that whenever he is in doubt regarding the enforcement of certain provisions he shall refer the matter to the Chief of the Department of Mines who shall render a decision as soon as possible and said decision shall be final unless the superintendent shall within seven (7) days of the receipt thereof appeal from such decision to the court

Section 4 To enable the inspector to perform the duties imposed upon him by this act he shall have the right at all times to enter any mine in his district or in any other district when directed to do so by the chief of the department to make inspection or to obtain information and upon the discovery of or being informed of any violation of this act which may endanger life or limb or if he finds any other thing or practice not covered by the provisions of this act which may endanger life or health of the employes he shall at once notify the mine foreman in writing to remove forthwith said dangerous conditions If the mine foreman fails to comply he shall immediately apply in the name of the Commonwealth to the court of Common Pleas of the county in which said mine is located or to a judge thereof in chambers for a writ of injunction to enjoin the operation of all work in said mine or portion thereof Whereupon said court or a judge thereof shall at once proceed to hear and determine the case and if the cause appears to be sufficient after hearing the parties and their evidence as in like cases shall issue its writ to restrain the working of said mine or portion thereof until all cause of danger is removed The cost of said proceedings shall be borne by the operator provided that should said court or a judge thereof find said allegations not sufficient said case shall be dismissed and the costs shall be borne by the county wherein said mine is located provided also that should any inspector find during his inspection of a mine or a portion thereof such dangerous conditions existing therein that in his opinion any delay in removing the workmen from such dangerous places might cause loss of life or serious personal injury said inspector shall have the right to temporarily withdraw all persons from such dangerous places until the foregoing provisions of this section can be carried into effect

Section 5 It shall be his duty after the final inspection of any mine to make out a written report on forms furnished by the Department of Mines which show the general condition thereof the dates of all inspections the number of cubic feet of air entering the mine and the number of cubic feet of air as found in the return airway outside the last cross heading in each split together with the number employed in each split The report shall contain such other information as he may deem necessary or as may be required by the Chief of the Department of Mines Said report shall be conspicuously posted at the mine and protected where it shall remain until the next final inspection is made and a copy shall be sent forthwith to the chief Said report shall be preserved in the office of the inspector for one year

Section 6 It shall be the duty of the inspector to visit each emergency hospital in the mines of his district once every three months see that the law is being complied with and examine the records of said emergency hospitals He shall notify the superintendent in writing of any neglect or non-compliance with the provisions of this article Such complaint shall be regarded as evidence in any inquest that may be held on any employe dying from injuries received in the mine

Section 7 It shall be the duty of the inspector whenever he has reason to believe that an illuminant is used or sold in violation of the provisions of this act to take samples of the same and have them tested under the directions of the Chief of the Department of Mines

Section 8 The inspector shall make the following reports to the chief on blank forms provided for that purpose not later than the tenth of each month he shall make a report of all fatal and serious non-fatal accidents as reported to him by the several foremen during the preceding month stating the date nature and cause of each accident and placing the responsibility therefor together with the name age occupation and nationality of each person killed or injured and whether married or single and the number of widows and orphans left which report shall be recorded and filed in the department and included or a synopsis of the same in the annual report of said department Not later than the sixth day of each month he shall make a report giving the name of the operator and the name and location of each mine inspected during the preceding month with dates of inspection condition of mine quantity of air in circulation at all points required by this article or as required by the chief and the number employed in each split of air Not later than the twentieth of February of each year he shall make an anuual report to the Chief which shall recapitulate the duties performed by him during the preceding year and briefly describe the conditions of the mines relative to ventilation drainage and general sanitary conditions as relating to the health safety and welfare of the employes and which shall also contain such suggestions or information of importance as he may deem necessary or as may be required by the Chief

ARTICLE XI

Discretionary Powers of Inspectors

Arbitration

Section 1 The inspector shall exercise sound discretion in the performance of his duties under the provisions of this act and if the operator superintendent or mine foreman shall be dissatisfied with any decision the inspector has given in the discharge of his duties which shall be in writing it shall be the duty of the dissatisfied persons to appeal from said decision to the Chief of the Department who shall at once direct two or more other inspectors to accompany promptly the inspector of the district to make further examination into the matter in dispute If the said inspector shall agree with the decision of the inspector of the district their decision shall be final unless the dissatisfied person shall within seven (7) days of the receipt of the decision of the committee of inspectors appeal therefrom to the court of Quarter Sessions of the county in which said mine is situated

Section 2 Whereupon the court or a judge thereof in chambers shall forthwith appoint a commission of four practical reputable and competent persons two of whom shall be recommended by the superintendent and two by the Chief and the four (4) persons thus recommended shall name a fifth person equally qualified and the five persons so named (none of whom shall be in the employ of the operator operating company or any of its officers or of the Department of Mines) shall constitute a commission to investigate and report on the matter in dispute Provided however in case any or all of said four (4) persons are not recommended by a writing filed in said court within seven days after the appeal is filed then the said court or a judge thereof in chambers shall forthwith fill the vacancy or vacancies by the appointment of a person or persons of equal qualifications should the four persons thus chosen not agree in writing upon the fifth person of this commission within five days after they have received notice of their appointment then the said court shall appoint the said fifth person on this commission The duty of said commission of five persons shall be under the instructions of the court to forthwith examine said mine or a portion thereof and report under oath within ten days after their appointment the facts as they exist and the conditions pertaining thereto based upon such conditions and facts the decision of a majority on the matter in dispute and their report and decision thereto shall be final and conclusive unless exceptions thereto shall be filed by the operator or superintendent or by the Chief within seven days of the filing of said commission's report If exceptions are filed the court shall at once hear and testimony taken thereon determine then and enter a decree in accordance with such determintion provided that the superintendent or the Chief shall thereafter have the right to have the record and proceedings removed to the Supreme Court for review by appeal or writ of error

Section 3 If said court of Quarter Sessions sustains the decision of the committee of inspectors and said court's decree in not appealed from or if on appeal the Supreme Court finally sustains the decision of the inspector then the appellant from said decision of the inspectors shall pay all costs of such proceedings but if said court of Quarter Sessions or the Supreme Court shall not sustain the decision of the committee of inspectors then all costs shall be paid by the Commonwealth provided however that any and all appeals from any decision made by the committee of inspectors or made by the committee appointed by the court of Quarter Sessions shall not operate as a supersedeas to such decision during the pendency of such appeal either to the court of Quarter Sessions or the Supreme Court unless so ordered by the court of Quarter Sessions or the appellate court or any judge thereof either by general rule or special order upon such terms as may be required by the court or judge granting the order or supercedeas

ARTICLE XII

Neglect of Malfeasance of Inspector

Section 1 The court of Common Pleas in any county of district upon a petition signed by not less than fifteen reputable citizens who shall be mine workers or operators of mines and with the affidavits of five or more of said petitioners attached setting forth that any inspector is neglectful of or is incompetent to perform the duties of his office or that he is guilty of malfeasance in office shall issue a citation in the name of the Commonwealth to the said inspector to appear on not less than fifteen days' notice given in the same manner as summonses are now by law required to be served upon a day fixed before said court at which time the court shall proceed to inquire into and investigate the allegations of the said petitioners provided however that the citation shall not issue until the petitioners shall file a bond in said court in the name of the Commonwealth in such sum as the court may direct and with sufficient sureties to be approved by the court conditioned that the petitioners shall pay the costs of the proceedings in case the charges are not sustained

Section 2 If the court finds that the said inspector is neglectful of or is incompetent to perform the duties of his office or that he is guilty of malfeasance in office the court shall certify the same to the Governor who shall declare the office of said inspector vacant and proceed in compliance with the provisions of this act to fill the vacancy

The costs of said investigation shall if the charges are sustained be imposed upon the inspector but if the charges are not sustained they shall be imposed upon the petitioners

ARTICLE XIII

Inspection Districts

Section 1 Under this act the anthracite region of the Commonwealth shall be arranged by the Chief of the Department of Mines into twenty-five (25) inspection districts and it shall be the duty of the Chief to assign the inspectors to their respective districts He shall also designate their places of abode at points convenient to the mines under their charge

Section 2 With the consent of the Governor the Chief may at any time re-arrange the districts and add to the number of inspectors if in his judgment the same should be increased

ARTICLE XIV

Ventilation

Section 1 The minimum quantity of air provided shall not be less than two hundred cubic feet per minute for each person employed in the mine and shall be as much more as may be required by the inspector

Section 2 The ventilation shall be conducted to and along the face of every working place in the mine in sufficient quantities to dilute render harmless and carry away smoke and noxious and dangerous gases to such an extent that all the working place and roadways shall be kept continually in a healthful and safe condition for the employes who work and travel therein

Section 3 All worked out or abandoned portions of a mine in operation so far as practicable shall be kept free of dangerous bodies of gas or water but if found impracticable the inspector must be immediately notified

Section 4 Every mine where more than seventy-five persons are employed shall be divided into two or more districts Each district shall be provided with a separate split of pure air and the ventilation shall be so arranged that not more than seventy-five persons shall be employed at the same in any one split The return air from each split shall be conducted through an overcast or an undercast when necessary which shall lead into a main return airway The inlet and return airways of every district shall be separated by a pillar of coal or rock where practicable otherwise with a wall of concrete stone or brick laid in cement or lime mortar not less than sixteen inches in thickness

Section 5 All cross-headings connecting the inlet and outlet airways of every district when closed permanently shall be substantially closed with walls of concrete or of stone or brick laid in cement or lime mortar or with other suitable material approved in writing by the inspector Cross-headings between rooms except those nearest the face shall be closed and a brattice shall be erected from the last cross-heading through which the air enters so as to conduct the air to the face Provided That the closing of such headings and the erection of brattice may be omitted on the written consent of the inspector

Section 6 All doors used for guiding and directing the ventilating current shall be so hung and adjusted as to close automatically

Section 7 Every main door (that is the door that controls the air currents in each split) or the door the opening of which would short circuit the air between the intake and the return of any split shall have an attendant whose constant duty shall be to open and close the same for transportation or travel to prevent it from standing open any longer than is necessary for persons animals or cars to pass through unless a self-acting door is used which is approved by the inspector A hole for shelter shall be made at each door where an attendant is employed Provided That the space is less than five feet from the body of the cars to the rib

Section 8 All main doors shall be so placed that when one door is open another which has the same effect upon the air current shall remain closed and thus prevent any temporary stoppage of the ventilation but if the inspector is of the opinion that an extra main door is necessary he shall notify the mine foreman in writing to that effect and such door shall be erected forthwith and left standing open and out of reach of accidents from runaway cars and so fixed that it can be at once closed in the event of accident to the main door in use The frame work of all main doors shall be substantially secured with concrete or with stone or brick laid in cement or lime mortar

Section 9 Every permanent overcast or undercast shall be substantially built of incombustible material and of such strength as the circumstances may require Provided That this section shall not apply to overcasts or undercasts in use prior to the passage of this act unless in the opinion of the inspector the same are a menace to the lives of the persons employed in the mine

Section 10 All permanent ventilators shall be erected on surface Provided That this shall not be so construed as to prevent the erection of a temporary ventilating machine inside of the mine All such permanent machinery built for such ventilation shall be kept continually in operation at the speed established by the mine foreman and said ventilating apparatus shall not be stopped except upon his written consent

Section 11 Every ventilator in operation at a mine shall be provided with a recording instrument by which the speed of the ventilator or the ventilating pressure for each hour of every day is indicated with the date thereof and such record shall be preserved in the mine foreman's office for a period of one year for future reference

Section 12 All air passages shall be of sufficient area to allow for the circulation of not less than two hundred cubic feet of air per minute for every person working therein and in no case in mines liberating explosive gas which can be detected by an approved safety lamp shall the velocity exceed four hundred and fifty (450) lineal feet per minute in any opening through which the air current passes if safety lamps are used except in the main inlet or outlet airways

Section 13 It shall not be lawful to use a furnace for the purpose of ventlating any mine wherein explosive gas is being generated

Section 14 Every person who shall neglect or fail to comply with any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XV

Signalling Apparatus

Hoisting Machinery Ropes and Safety Catches

Section 1 In every shaft or slope wherein men are being lowered or hoisted the owner operator or superintendent shall install and maintain in good condition a signal apparatus so that conversation may be held and understood between the employes at the top and at the bottom and vice versa and also of any intermediate lift thereof The same provision shall apply to inside planes where coal is lowered and employes have to travel therein

Section 2 In mines liberating explosive gas telephone connections shall be made from the surface to each lift or main centers of the mine and telephone connections shall be made in any other mine when ordered in writing by the inspector

Section 3 Every carriage used for lowering or hoisting employes in shafts shall be provided with guard rails at the sides and with chains bar or gate at the ends and with sufficient covering overhead to protect the employes thereon and with suitable overhead holds and each carriage shall also be provided with efficient safety catches which shall be tested once every two (2) months and a record of each test shall be sent to the superintendent and also recorded in a book kept at the mine foreman's office for that purpose

Section 4 All shafts shall be provided with safety gates at the top and intermediate landings the top gates to be controlled by the carriages where practicable

Section 5 All ropes shall be securely attached to the shaft of the drum of every engine that is being used for lowering or hoisting employes into and out of the mine and the flanges of said drum shall have a clearance of not less than two inches when the whole of the rope is wound thereon and no less than two full turns of the rope shall always remain on the drum An adequate brake shall be attached to the drum where men are being lowered or hoisted and an indicator shall be attached to the hoisting apparatus to show the position of the carriage cages or cars in the shaft or slope and an efficient device to prevent overwidening shall be attached to every engine used for lowering or hoisting employes if required in writing by the inspector

Section 6 The main coupling chain attached to the socket of the wire rope of every shaft or slope shall be made of the best quality of steel or iron and bridle chains of the same material shall be fastened to the top cross-piece of the carriage and attached to the rope not less than three feet above the socket

Section 7 In shafts or slopes where coal is hoisted and employes lowered or hoisted the ropes links and chains shall be of ample strength with a factor of safety of not less than four to one of the maximum load In shafts or slopes used exclusively for lowering or hoisting men and supplies the factor of safety shall not be less than eight to one of the maximum load or four to one of the maximum load of supplies All such ropes links and chains safety catches sockets and other hoisting apparatus shall be carefully examined at least once every working day by a competent person delegated for that purpose by the outside or inside foreman and any defect therein found by which life and limb may be endangered shall be reported at once to the outside or inside forman who shall immediately proceed to remedy the defect and until that is accomplished he shall prohibit the employes from being lowered or hoisted by the defective apparatus The person making said examination shall keep a daily record of each inspection in a book kept for that purpose and the record shall be made out in ink

Section 8 Every car cage or gunboat used for lowering or hoisting employes to any slope shall be provided with a proper guard so constructed that employes while thereon shall be protected from anything that may roll down said slope

Section 9 Every person who fails or neglects to comply with any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XVI

Safety Lamps and Open Lights

Section 1 The use of open lights is prohibited in any gangway airway traveling-way or in any other working place where explosive gas is being liberated in such quantity as well indicate danger by an approved safety lamp or other approved device also in pillar workings where a sudden inflow of explosive gas is likely to be encountered and all such places shall be worked exclusively with locked safety lamps The use of open lights is also prohibited in all working places roadways or other portions of the mine through which explosive gas is carried in the air current in quantities indicating danger

Section 2 When one section of a mine is worked by the use of locked safety lamps while another section is worked by the use of open lights the return air from the gaseous section shall be conducted directly into a return airway leading to the outlet When a section of a mine is worked by the use of locked safety lamps and other sections are worked by the use of open lights it shall be the duty of the mine foreman to provide a suitable danger station with danger signal or sign posted thereon and employes using open lights shall not pass such danger signals or signs nor enter a section where locked safety lamps are in use

Section 3 When safety lamps are used the position of the lamp station for lighting or relighting shall not be in the return air current

Section 4 Whenever safety lamps are used by fire bosses or other persons they shall be so constructed that they may be safely carried against the air current ordinarily prevailing in that portion of the mine in which the lamps are used

Section 5 All safety lamps used for examining mines or for working therein shall be the property of the owner or operator and shall be in the care of a competent person or persons apointed for that purpose whose duty it shall be to clean fill trim examine light and deliver them in a safe condition to the men who are using safety lamps when entering the mine and to receive the lamps from the men when returning from work Where locked safety lamps are required to be used they shall be locked before delivery to the men unless permission be first given by the mine foreman to have the lamps used unlocked and any person receiving a safety lamp shall see that it is clean and safe for uses

Section 6 At any mine liberating explosive gas in sufficient quantity to be detected by an approved safety lamp a sufficient number of safety lamps not less than one-fourth of the number of safety lamps in use shall be provided by the owner operator or superintendent as a surplus and kept in a convenient place and in good condition for use in case of emergency

Section 7 It shall be the duty of every person who knows that his safety lamp has been injured or is defective to extinguish the light at once and return the lamp immediately to the person who has charge of such safety lamps

Section 8 Any person who neglects or fails to comply with any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act and any person using a safety lamp who shall without authority make an alteration thereto or commit intentional damage to the same while in his possession shall likewise be guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XVII

Shafts Slopes Openings and Outlets

Section 1 It shall not be lawful for the superintendent or mine foreman to employ any person to work in a mine unless there are at least two openings inlet and outlet from every seam of coal actually worked and available from every lift thereof and such openings and outlets shall have distinct means of ingress and egress available at all times for the use of the employes The distance between shafts shall not be less than one hundred and fifty feet The distance between inlet and outlet of a slope must not be less than one hundred and fifty feet on the surface but the distance between said openings inside shall not be less than sixty feet Provided that such distance between said openings shall apply only to mines opened after the passage of this act and provided further that the distance specified may be less with the written consent of the Inspector The passageways between said two shafts or slopes shall at all times be maintained in safe and available condition for the employes to travel therein and the pillars between said shafts or said slopes shall not be removed without the consent of the inspector given in writing to the mine foreman The foregoing requirements shall not apply to the openings of a new mine or to the openings of a new lift of a mine that is being worked for the purpose of making connection between said two outlets provided that not more than twenty persons are employed at any one time in making such connection or driving the second opening nor shall said requirements apply to any mine in which the second opening has been rendered unavailable by reason of the final removal of pillars provided that not more than twenty persons are employed therein at any one time

Section 2 The cage or carriage or other safe means of egress shall be available at all times for the persons employed in any mine that has no available second outlet

Section 3 There shall be at the bottom of every shaft where employes and material are lowered and hoisted (and similarly at such shaft at any intermediate point where it intersects any lift) a passageway not less than five feet high and three feet wide in the clear which passageway shall be either cut through the solid strata or constructed of masonry and shall be kept open at all times so as to enable persons to pass around said shaft or slope in going from one side thereof to the other

Section 4 The escapements shafts or slopes shall be fitted with safe and available appliances by which the persons employed in the mine may readily escape in case an accident occurs deranging the hoisting machinery at the main outlets

Section 5 In slopes where the angle of inclination is fifteen degrees or less there must be provided a separate traveling way which shall be maintained in a safe condition for travel and kept free from steam dangerous and noxious gases

Section 6 No inflammable structure other than a frame to sustain pulleys or sheaves shall be erected over the entrance of any shaft or slope connecting the surface with the underground workings of any mine and no inflammable structure shall be erected within one hundred feet of any such entrance provided further that breakers or other inflammable structures for the preparation of coal shall not be erected within two hundred feet of any such entrance but this section shall not be construed to prohibit the erection of a fan drift for the purpose of ventilation or of a trestle for the transportation of cars from any shaft or slope to such breaker or structure neither shall it apply to any shaft or slope until the work of development and shipment of coal has commenced Where breakers are now erected over shafts or slopes fire doors to be approved by the Department of Mines shall be so installed in same as to prevent the passage of smoke or fire from said structure into the mine and where intake cannot be otherwise provided a lateral airway shall be so arranged that when said fire doors are closed air may enter the shaft or slope through such airway below the fire doors from a point not less than two hundred feet distant from the same

Section 7 One year after the passage of this act if in the opinion of the inspector such precaution is necessary the sides roof and bottom of every slope airway travelingway and every other opening to the surface except cave-ins shall be made incombustible for at least twenty-five feet from the mouth and all cave-ins as far as practicable shall be so secured that fire from the surface cannot enter the mine The work shall be done to the satisfaction of the inspector Provided however that an extension of time not to exceed sixty days may be granted by the Chief of the Department of Mines on the recommendation of the inspector in writing

Section 8 The top of each shaft and also of each slope where the angle of inclination is forty-five degrees or more or any intermediate lift thereof shall be securely fenced off by railing or by vertical or flat gates

Section 9 Every abandoned slope shaft air-hole or drift shall be properly fenced around or across its entrance and said fencing shall be maintained

Section 10 All underground entrances to any places not in actual course of working or extension shall be properly fenced across the whole width of such entrances so as to prevent persons from entering the same

Section 11 Every person firm or corporation failing or neglecting to comply with or who violates any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XVIII

Sinking of Shafts

Section 1 The owner operator superintendent or contractor shall erect over every shaft that is being sunk or shall hereafter be sunk a safe and substanial structure to sustain sheaves or pulleys ropes and loads at a height of not less than twenty feet above the tipping place and the top of such shaft and landing platform shall be so arranged that no material can fall into the shaft while the bucket is being emptied Said structure shall be erected as soon as a substantial foundation is obtained and in no case shall a shaft be sunk to a depth of more than fifty feet without such structure

Section 2 If provisions are made to land the bucket on a truck it shall be so constructed that material cannot fall into the shaft

Section 3 Rock and coal from shafts while being sunk shall not be hoisted except in a basket or on a cage and said bucket or cage must be connected with the rope by a safety hook clevis or other safe attachment The rope shall be securely fastened to shaft of the drum and not less than three coils of rope shall always remain on the same If said shafts are one hundred feet or more in depth they shall be provided with guides and guide attachments applied in such manner as to prevent the bucket from swinging while being lowered or hoisted and such attachments shall be maintained at a distance of not more than seventy-five feet from the bottom

Section 4 An efficient brake shall be attached to every drum of an engine used for sinking shafts and all machinery ropes and chains connected therewith shall be examined once every day

Section 5 Where the strata are not safe every shaft shall be cased lined or otherwise made secure

Section 6 The following rules shall be observed as far as practicable in every shaft to which this article applies

First After each and every blast the chargeman must see that all loose material is swept down from the timbers before the workmen descend to their work

Second After a suspension of work and also after firing a blast in a shaft where explosive gases are evolved the person in charge must have the said shaft examined and tested with a safety lamp before the workmen are allowed to descend

Third Not more than four persons shall be lowered or hoisted in any shaft on a bucket at the same time and no person shall ride on a loaded bucket

Fourth Whenever men are employed on platforms in shafts the person in charge must see that the said platforms are properly and safely constructed

Fifth While shafts are being sunk all blasts therein must be exploded by electricity

Section 7 Every person who fails to comply with or who violates any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XIX

Openings for Drainage Et Cetera On Other Lands

Section 1 The owner operator or superintendent of any mine to which there is only one shaft slope or outlet may petition the court of common pleas in and for the county in which such mine is situated which said court is hereby empowered to act in the premises setting forth that in consequence of intervening lands between the working of his mine and the most practicable point or the only practicable point as the case may be at which to make or bring to the surface from the working of his mine he is unable to make an additional shaft slope or outlet in accordance with the requirements of this act whereupon the court may make an order of reference and appoint three (3) disinterested persons residents of the county viewers one or more of whom shall be a practical mining engineer all of whom after being sworn in a faithful discharge of their duties shall view and examine the premises and determine as to whether the owner should have the privilege of making an additional outlet through or upon any intervening lands as the case may require and report in writing to the court which report shall be entered and filed of record If the finding of the viewers or any two of them is in favor of the owner of such coal mine or colliery he may make an additional shaft slope or outlet under through or upon intervening lands as may be determined upon and provided for by the award If the finding of the viewers is against the owner or if no award be made by reason of any default or neglect on the part of the owner he shall be found to comply with the provisions of this act in the same manner as if this section had not been enacted In case the said owner operator or superintendent desires to and claims that he ought to make an additional opening under through or upon any adjoining or intervening lands to meet the requirements of this act for the ingress and egress of the men employed in his or their mine he or they shall make a statement of the facts in the petition with a survey setting forth the point of commencement and the point of termination of the proposed outlet which he or they their engineers agents or employes may enter upon said intervening lands and survey and mark as he or they shall find it proper or such additional outlet doing as little damage as possible to the property explored and the viewers shall state in their report what damage will be sustained by the owner or owners of the intervening lands by the opening constructing and using of the outlet and if the report is not appealed from it shall be confirmed or rejected by said court as to right and justice shall appertain and any further and all proceedings in relation thereto shall be in conformity with like proceedings as in the case of a lateral railroad across or under intervening lands under the act in relation to lateral railroads approved the fifth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-two An Act regulating lateral railroads and the supplements thereto so far as the provisions of the same are applicable thereto and the notices to the owner of intervening lands of the intention to apply for the privilege of making an outlet and meeting of the viewers shall be given and the costs of the case shall be paid as provided in the said act of May fifth Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-two and the supplements thereto

ARTICLE XX

Boundary Pillars

Section 1 It shall be obligatory on the land owners and operators to leave a pillar of coal in each seam worked along the lines of adjoining mines or properties of such width taken in connection with the pillar to be left by the land owner or operator of an adjoining property that will be a sufficient barrier to safeguard life and property in case the mine or mines of either property should be filled with water or endangered from any other cause

Section 2 Whenever a gangway airway breast or any other opening in a mine has reached within three hundred feet of any boundary line of any adjoining mine or property it shall be the duty of the mine foreman to suspend work in said opening until the width of the pillar necessary to safeguard life and property shall be decided upon and he shall notify the inspector whose duty it shall be to look into the matter and with the engineers of both properties shall forthwith decide upon the width of the pillar required

Section 3 If the inspector and said engineers shall fail to agree on the width of said pillar the matter in dispute shall be referred to the Chief of the Department of Mines and if he is not able to amicably settle the dispute he shall select three (3) disinterested engineers who shall decide upon the width of said pillar and their decision shall be final The cost of the investigations made by the three engineers so selected shall be paid jointly by said land owners and operators

Section 4 If at any time a barrier pillar as provided for in the previous section of this article should have fully served its purpose and shall no longer be necessary in the interest of safety the same may be removed if upon petition of the odjoining operator to the mine inspector of the district the board shall establish such pillar or a new board selected for the purpose shall give its approval in writing for the removal of said pillar

Section 5 Any land owner or operator who shall fail or neglect to comply fully with the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act and in addition there shall be liable to the operator or owner of the adjoining property in a sum equivalent to treble the value of the coal mined beyond the boundary line established in accordance with the provisions of this article said sum to be recovered with costs of suit by action of trespass and no prosecution by indictment under this act shall be a bar to such action

Section 6 Any owner or operator who fails to comply with any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXI

Use of Electricity

Definitions

Section 1 The definitions of terms contained herein shall be as follows

Potential The term "Potential" and "Voltage" are synonymous and mean electrical pressure Difference of Potential The term "Difference of Potential" means the difference of electrical pressure existing between any two points of an electrical system or between any point of such system and the earth as determined by a voltmeter

Potential of a Circuit The potential or voltage of a circuit machine or any piece of electrical apparatus is the potential normally existing between the conductors of such circuit or the terminals of such machine or apparatus

A Where the conditions of supply of electricity are such that normally the difference of the potential between any points in the circuit does not exceed three hundred twenty-five (325) volts the supply shall be deemed a low voltage

B Where the conditions of supply of electricity are such that the difference of potential between any two points in the circuit may at any time exceed low voltage but normally does not exceed six hundred fifty (650) volts the supply shall be deemed medium voltage

C Where the conditions of the supply of electricity are such that the difference of potential between any two points in the circut at any time exceeds medium voltage the supply shall be deemed a high voltage

Grounding Grounding any part of an electric system shall consist in so connecting such part to the earth as will insure at all times a proper path for the immediate discharge of electrical energy

Explosion or flame proof casings or enclosures are those which when completely filled a mixture of methane and air and the same exploded are capable of either entirely confining the products of such explosion within the casing or of so discharging them from the casing that they cannot ignite a mixture of methane and air combined in the preparation most sensative to ignition and entirely surrounding the points of discharge and in most intimate proximity therewith

Underground Stations An underground station is herein considered as any place where electrical machinery including transformers is permanently installed

SPECIAL RULES

General

Section 2 The following rules relating to the installation and use of electricity in mines shall be observed as far as is practicable

1 All electrical apparatus and conductors shall be sufficient in power and size and of proper design for the work they may be called upon to do sufficiently protected efficiently covered and safe-guarded and so installed worked and maintained as to reduce danger from accident shock or fire to the minimum and shall be of such construction and so worked that the rise in temperature caused by ordinary working will not injure the insulating materials

2 No higher voltage than medium voltage shall be used underground except for transmission or for application to transformers or other apparatus in which the whole of the high voltage circuit is stationary

3 When high voltage cables are taken into the mine and unless they are mechanically protected they shall be taken through a bore hole suitable for the purpose or through a shaft or slope where no employes are lowered or hoisted therein or through a tunnel drift or gangway where no employes travel into an underground station from which point low or medium voltage may be conveyed All high voltage circuit cables or conductors shall be properly insulated

4 In gaseous mines high voltage transmission cables shall be installed in the intake airways only and high voltage motors and transformers shall be installed only in underground stations ventilated by the intake air which has not passed through or by a gaseous district

Precaution Against Shock

5 Gloves or mats of rubber or other suitable insulating material shall be provided and used by persons or engaged when repairs are made to the live parts of any electrical apparatus or when the live parts of electrical apparatus have to be handled for the purpose of adjustment

6 At every colliery where electricity is used below ground for power there shall be available a competent electrician who shall have full charge of the electrical apparatus in the mine but who shall be subject to the authority of the mine foreman

7 Instructions shall be posted in every generating transforming and motor room and at the entrance to the mine containing directions as to the restoration of persons suffering from electric shock and all employes working in connection with electrical apparatus shall be familiar with and know how to carry out these instructions

8 In the event of a breakdown or of damage or injury to any portion of the electrical equipment in a mine or of overheating or of the appearance of sparks or arcs outside of enclosing casings or in the event of any portion of the equipment not a part of the electrical circuit becoming alive every such occurrence shall be promptly reported to the mine foreman

Underground Stations

9 In underground stations where switchboards are installed there shall be a pasageway in front of the switchboard not less than three (3) feet in the clear

When medium voltage is used insulating floors or mats shall be provided where live metal work is on the front of the board

When high voltage is used there shall be no live metal work on the front of the main switchboard within seven (7) feet of the floor or platform and the space back of the board shall be kept locked up but the lock shall allow of the door being opened from the inside without the use of a key and the floor back of the board shall be made of incombustible material

10 No person other than one authorized by the mine foreman shall enter an underground station or interfere with the working of an apparatus connected therewith

11 Fire buckets filled with clean dry sand or other standard extinguishers for electrical fires shall be kept in underground stations ready for immediate use in extinguishing fires

Transmission Circuits and Conductors

12 Medium or low pressure conductors may be bare except in gaseous portions of the mine

13 Every branch power circuit shall be provided at the point where it leaves the main circuit with a switch of not less than one hundred (100) amphere capacity on each pole

14 In underground roads the trolley wires shall be installed as far to one side of the passageway as is practicable and securely supported on insulated hangers and placed at such intervals that the sag between points of support shall not exceed three (3) inches The sag between points of support can exceed three (3) inches if the height of the trolley wire shows the rail is five (5) feet or more and does not touch the roof when the trolley passes under it

15 All other wires except telephone shot firing and signal wires shall be on the same side of the road as the trolley where practicable

16 All landings and partings where men are required to regularly work or pass under trolley or other bare power wires which are placed less than six and one-half (6 ½) feet above top of rail a suitable protection shall be provided This protection may consist of channeling the roof placing boards along the wires which shall extend below them or the use of other approved devices that afford protection

17 All undergrounded power wires and cables in hoisting shaft or manway compartments shall be highly insulated and substantially fixed in position Shaft cables not capable of sustaining their own weight shall be properly supported at intervals according to the weight of the cables Where the cables are not completely boxed in and protected from falling material space shall be left between them and the sides of the shaft so that they may yield when struck and thus lessen the blow given by the falling material

18 Where the cables or feed wires other than trolley wires in main haulage roads cannot be kept at least twelve (12) inches from any part of the mine car or locomotive they shall where practical be specially protected by guards

19 When main or other roads are being repaired or blasting is being carried on suitable temporary protection from damage shall be given the cables

20 Trailing cables for portable machines shall be specially flexible heavily insulated and protected with extra stout braiding hose pipe or other equally effective covering

21 Each trailing cable in use shall be daily examined by the machine operator for abrasions and other defects and he shall also be required to carefully observe the trailing cable while in use and shall at once report any defect to the mine foreman

22 In the event of the trailing cable in service breaking down or becoming damaged in any way or of its inflicting a shock upon any person it shall be at once put out of service The faulty cable shall not again be used until it has been repaired and tested by a properly authorized person

23 In gaseous portions of mines a fixed terminal box shall be provided at the points where trailing cables are attached to the power supply This terminal box shall be flame proof and shall contain a switch and fuse on each pole of the circuit The switch shall be so arranged that it can only be operated from without the box when the latter is completely closed and the switch shall also be so constructed that the trailing cables cannot be detached or removed when the switch is closed

Switches Fuses and Circuit Breakers

24 All points at which a circuit other than a signal circuit have to be made or broken shall be provided with proper switches The use of hooks or other make shifts is prohibited except that connection for gathering locomotives or locomotives and machines used in driving headings or rooms may be made to the trolley by means of suitable hooks switches shall be so installed that they cannot be closed by gravity in any gaseous portion of a mine switches circuit breakers or fuses shall not be of the open type but shall be enclosed in explosion proof casings or break under oil

Motors

25 In any gaseous portion of a mine where gas is likely to be encountered all stationary motors unless placed in such room as are separately ventilated with intake air shall have all their current carrying parts also their starters terminals and connections completely enclosed in explosion proof enclosures made of non-inflammable material These enclosures shall not be opened except by an authorized person and then only when the power is switched off The power shall not be switched on while the enclosures are open

26 Motors used for operating fans in non-gaseous mines where they are so situated that they are not under constant supervision of a competent man shall be totally enclosed (not necessarily explosion proof) unless placed in a chamber or passageway completely lined with incombustible material and the chamber or passageway itself free from combustible material

27 In working places where gas is likely to be encountered a safety lamp or other suitable apparatus for the detection of explosive gas shall be provided for use with each machine when working and should any indication of explosive gas appear on the flame of the safety lamp or other apparatus used for the detection thereof the person in charge shall immediately stop the machine cut off the current at the nearest switch and report the matter to the mine foreman

28 No man shall be placed in charge of a coal cutting machine in any gaseous portion of a mine who is not a competent person capable of determining the safety of the roof and sides of the working place and detecting the presence of explosive gas

29 In any gaseous portion of a mine a coal cutting machine shall not be brought within the last break-through next the working face until the machine man shall have made an inspection for gas in the place where the machine is to work unless examination is then made by some other competent person authorized or appointed for that purpose by the mine foreman If any explosive gas is found in the place the machine shall not be taken in

30 No coal cutting machine shall be continued in operation in a gaseous portion of a mine for a longer period than half an hour without an examination as above described being made for gas and if gas is found the current shall at once be switched off the machine and the trailing cable shall forthwith be disconnected from the power supply

31 The person finding gas shall at once report the fact to the fire boss or mine foreman and the machine shall not again be started in such place until the fire boss or a person duly authorized by the mine foreman has examined it and pronounced it safe

32 The person in charge of a coal cutting machine or drilling machine shall not leave the machine while it is working and shall before leaving the working place see that the current is cut off from the trailing cables

33 In any gaesous portion of a mine if an electric sparking or arc be produced outside of coal cutting or other per-

table motor or by the cable or rails the machine shall be stopped and not be worked until the defect is repaired and occurrence shall be reported to the mine foreman

Electric Locomotives

34 Electric haulage by locomotives operated from a trolley wire is not permissible in any gaseous portion of mines except in the intake air fresh from the outside

35 In no case shall the potential used in the trolley system be higher than medium voltage

36 Storage battery locomotives shall be used in gaseous mines only when the boxes containing the cells and all electrical parts are enclosed in flame and explosion proof casings

Electric Lighting

37 Are lamps shall not be used in gaseous mines except under conditions where trolley locomotives are allowable

38 If arc lamps are used in the mines they shall be of the enclosed arc type

39 In all mines the sockets of fixed incandescent lamps shall be of the so-called "weather proof" type the exterior of which shall be entirely non-metallic Flexible lamp connections are prohibited except for portable lamps as hereinafter provided

40 In any gaseous portion of a mine except where ventilated by fresh intake air incandescent lamps shall be protected by gas-tight fittings of strong glass except that lamps of two hundred and twenty (220) volts or higher and of not more than eight (8) candle power and without tips need not be so protected

41 Incandescent lamps shall be so placed that they cannot come in contact with combustible material

42 Portable incandescent lamps other than battery lamps shall not be used except in connection with the repair and inspection of machines and equipment and then only in non-gaseous portions of mines When so used they shall be protected by a heavy wire cage completely enclosing both lamp and socket and shall be provided with a handle to which both cage and socket are firmly attached and through which the leading in wires are carried

43 Electric lamps shall be replaced by a competent person only and in gaseous portions of a mine only after an examination for gas has been made with a safety lamp

Shot Firing By Electricity

44 Electricity from any grounded circuit shall not be used for shot firing

45 When shot firing cables or wires are used in the vicinity of power or lighting conductors special precaution shall be taken to prevent the shot firing cables or wires from coming in contact wtih the light power or any other circuit

46 Any miner or any person who has the necessary training and skill and who has been properly instructed in the work and duly authorized by the mine foreman shall be allowed to fire shots electrically in any mine

47 Portable shot firing machines sometimes called generators shall be enclosed in a tightly constructed case when employed in any portion of the mine All contacts when made or broken shall be within the case except that the binding posts for making connections to the firing leads may be outside

48 All portable devices for generating or supplying electricity for shot firing when in a mine shall be in charge of the person firing the shots

49 No firing machine or battery shall be connected to the shot firing leads until all other taps preparatory to the firing of shot have been completed and all persons have moved to a place of safety

50 Immediately after the firing of a shot the firing lead shall be disconnected from the supply or source of electricity and no person shall approach a shot which has failed to explode until the firing leads have been so disconnected from the device and an interval of five (5) minutes have elapsed since the last attempt to fire the shot

Electric Signalling

51 All proper precautions shall be taken to prevent electric signal and telephone wires from coming into contact with other electrical conductors whether insulated or not

52 Bells wires insulators contact-makers and other apparatus used in connection with electric signalling underground shall be of suitable design of substantial and reliable construction and erected in such manner as to reduce the liability of failure or false signals to a minimum

53 In any gaseous portion of a mine the potential used for signalling purposes shall not exceed twenty-four (24) volts and bare wires shall not be used for signal circuits except in haulage roads

Electric Re-lighting of Safety Lamps

54 If in any place or portion of a mine in which safety lamps are used they are re-lighted underground by electricity the mine foreman shall select a suitable station or stations not being in the return airway and where there is not likely to be any accumulation of inflammable gas and no electric re-lighting apparatus shall be used in any other place All electric re-lighting apparatus shall be securely locked and shall not be available for use except by persons authorized by the mine foreman to re-light safety lamps and such persons shall examine all safety lamps brought for relighting before they are re-issued

Any person who neglects or fails to comply with any of the provisions of the foregoing rules or who shall wilfully damage or without authority alter or make connections to any portion of a mine electrical system shall be guilty of an affense against this act

ARTICLE XXII

Inspection by or in Behalf of Employes

Section 1 The employes of every mine may at their own expense appoint two of their number who are practical miners with not less than five years' experience to inspect the mine where an accident has occurred of which notice is required under this act to be given and shall be allowed to go together with any person acting as legal adviser to the employes or with a mining or electrical engineer selected by said employes accompanied as aforesaid to the place where the accident occurred and to make such inspection as may be necessary for ascertaining the cause of the accident subject however to the provisions of this act requiring the place where the accident has occurred to be left as it was immediately after the accident

Section 2 Every facility shall be afforded by the mine foreman and all persons employed in the mine for the purpose of the inspection and if the mine foreman or any other person refuses or neglects to afford such facilities as aforesaid he shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

Miners' Examining Board

Section 1 Hereafter no person whosoever shall be employed or engaged in the anthracite coal region of this Commonwealth as a miner in any anthracite coal mine without having obtained a certificate of competency and qualification so to do from the "Miners' Examining Board" of the proper district and having been duly registered as herein provided

Section 2 That there shall be established in each of the inspection districts in the anthracite coal region a board to be styled the "Miners' Examining Board of the ..... District" to consist of three miners who shall be appointed in the manner hereinafter set forth from among the most skilful miners actually engaged in said business in their respective districts and who must have had five years' practical experience in the same The said persons so appointed shall each serve for a term of two years from the date upon which their appointment takes effect and they shall be appointed upon or before the expiration of the term of the present members of the "Miners' Examining Board" and they shall be and constitute the "Miners' Examining Board" for their respective districts and shall hold the office for the term for which they were appointed or until their successors are duly appointed and qualified and shall receive as compensation for their services three ($3.00) dollars per day for each day actually engaged in this service and all legitimate and necessary expenses incurred in attending the meetings of said board under the provisions of this act and no part of the salary of said board or expenses thereof shall be paid out of the State Treasury

Each of said board shall organize by electing one of their members president and one member as secretary

Every member of said board shall within ten days of their appointment or being apprised of the same take and subscribe an oath or affirmation before a properly qualified officer of the county in which they reside that they will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of their office

Any vacancies occurring in said board shall be filled in the manner herein provided from among such only as are eligible for original appointment

Section 3 Each of said examining boards shall designate some convenient place within their district for their meetings the name and address of each and every person duly qualified of which due notice shall be given by advertisement in two or more newspapers of the proper county and so divided as to reach as nearly as practicable all the mining districts therein but in no case shall such meeting be held in a building where any intoxicating liquors are sold

Each of said committee shall open at the designated place of meeting a book of registration in which shall be registered the name and address of each and every person duly qualified under this act to be employed as a miner in an anthracite coal mine And it shall be the duty of all persons employed as miners to be properly registered and in case of a removal from the district in which a miner is registered it shall be his duty to be registered in the district to which he removes

Application for registration only may be sent by mail to the board after being properly attested before any person authorized to administer an oath or affirmation in the county in which the applicant resides The form of application shall be subject to such regulation as may be prescribed by the boards but in no case shall any applicant be put to any unnecessary expense in order to secure registration

Section 4 Each applicant for examination and registration and for the certificate hereinafter provided shall pay a fee of one ($1.00) dollar to the said board and a fee of twenty-five (25c) cents shall be charged for registering any person who shall have been examined and registered by any other board and the amount derived from this source shall be held by said board and applied to the expenses and salaries herein provided and such as may arise under the provisions of this act and the said board shall report annually to the court of common pleas of their respective counties and the Department of Mines all moneys received and disbursed under the provisions of this act together with the number of miners examined and registered under this act and the number who failed to pass the required examination

Section 5 It shall be the duty of each of the said boards to meet once every month and not oftener and said meeting shall be public and if necessary the meeting shall be continued to cover whatever portion may be required of a period of three days in succession and examine under oath all persons who shall desire to be employed as miners in their respective districts and said board shall grant such persons as may be qualified certificates of competency or qualification which shall entitle the holder thereof to be employed as and to do the work of miners as may be expressed in said certificate and such certificates shall be good and sufficient evidence of registration and competency under this act and the holder thereof shall be entitled to be registered without any examination in any other of the anthracite districts upon the payment of the fee herein provided

twenty-one years of age and have had at least two years' experience as a miner miner's laborer or man of general work in the coal mines of this country or of other countries and in no case shall an applicant be deemed competent unless he appear in person before the said examining board to answer twelve questions in the English language pertaining to the requirements of a practical miner He shall demonstrate that he understands the use of safety lamps knows how to handle explosives and is competent to do the work of a miner without endangering his own life or the lives of others The said board shall keep an accurate record of the proceedings of all its meetings and in said record shall show a correct detailed account of the examination of each applicant with the questions asked and their answers and at each of its meetings the board shall keep said record open for public inspection Any miner's certificate granted under the provisions of this act and any prior acts shall not be transferable to any person or persons whatsoever and any transfer of the same shall be deemed a violation of this act Certificates shall be issued only at meetings of said board and said certificate shall not be legal unless then and there signed by at least three members of said board

Section 6 That no person shall hereafter engage as a miner in any anthracite coal mine without having obtained such certificate as aforesaid And no person shall employ any person as a miner who does not hold such certificate as aforesaid and no mine foreman or superintendent shall permit or suffer any person to be employed under him or in the mines under his charge and supervision as a miner who does not hold such certificate Any person or persons who shall violate or fail to comply with the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than one hundred ($100.00) dollars and not to exceed five hundred ($500.00) dollars or shall undergo imprisonment for a term not less than thirty days and not to exceed six months or both at the discretion of the court

Section 7 For the purpose of examination of applicants for certificates as aforesaid a board of examiners shall be appointed immediately after the passage of this act in each of the inspection districts by the judges of the court of Lackawanna County for all inspection districts wholly or the greater part in the counties of Lackawanna Sullivan Susquehanna and Wayne by the judges of the court of Luzerne County for all inspection districts wholly or the greater part in the counties of Luzerne and Carbon and by the judges of the court of Schuylkill County for all inspection districts wholly or the greater part in the counties of Schuylkill Northumberland Columbia and Dauphin The board so appointed shall hold office until December thirty-one one thousand nine hundred and fourteen And the respective courts shall on the tenth day of January one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and every two (2) years thereafter appoint the aforesaid board of examiners

Section 8 Nothing in this act shall be construed to in any way excepting as herein provided affect miners' certificates which have been lawfully issued

Section 9 It shall be the duty of the several Miners' Examining Boards to investigate all complaints or charges of noncompliance or violation of the provisions of this act and to prosecute all persons so offending and upon their failure so to do then it shall become the duty of the district attorney of the county wherein the complaints or charges are made to investigate the same and prosecute all persons so offending and it shall at all times be the duty of the district attorney to prosecute such members of the Miners' Examining Board as have failed to perform their duty under the provisions of this act but nothing herein contained shall prevent any citizen a resident of the Commonwealth from prosecuting any person or persons violating this act with power to employ private counsel to assist in the prosecution of the same upon conviction of any member of the Miners' Examining Board for any violation of this act in addition to the penalties herein provided his office shall be declared vacant and he shall be deemed ineligible to act as a member of the said board

Section 10 For the purpose of this act the members of the said "Miners' Examining Board" shall have power to administer oaths

ARTICLE XXIV

Duties of Miner

Section 1 No miner shall fire a blast in any mine or in any portion of a mine where locked safety lamps are used except by permission of the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman but before such blast is fired the person in charge shall examine the place and adjoining places and satisfy himself that it is safe to fire such blast before such permission is given

Section 2 A miner whether using black powder high explosives or permissible explosives shall tamp the hole complete to the mouth irrespective of whether it is fired by electricity fuse or squib and in charging the hole he shall only use one kind of explosive

Section 3 A miner who is preparing to explode a blast by the use of a fuse shall at all times cut the fuse of sufficient length that it shall protrude at least six inches outside of the hole and that said fuse shall be lighted at the extreme end and so as to give the miner ample time to reach a place of safety

Section 4 No miner while charging holes for blasting coal slate or rock shall use an iron or steel tamping bar unless the end is tipped with at least six inches of copper or other soft metal nor shall he force a tight cartridge into any hole

Section 5 A minor who is about to explode a blast by the use of a patent squip shall not shorten the match nor saturate it with oil nor turn it down when placed in a hole nor ignite it except at its extreme end nor do anything to shorten the time the match will burn

Section 6 A minor who is about to fire a blast shall be careful to notify all persons who may be in danger therefrom and shall give sufficient alarm before and after igniting the same so that any person or persons who may be approaching shall be warned of the danger

Section 7 A minor who ignites a feeder of gas by a blast or otherwise shall immediately extinguish it if possible If he is unable to do so he shall at once notify the mine foreman assistant mine foreman or fire boss The miner immediately before leaving his working place shall see that no gas blowers are left burning

Section 8 No miner shall withdraw a charge of any explosive from a hole that has misfired nor shall he reopen the same but a new hole shall be drilled at a distance of not less than two feet from the old hole and fired

Section 9 Any miner having charge of a working place shall keep the roof and side thereof properly secured by timber or otherwise so as to prevent such roof and sides from falling and he shall not do any work nor permit any work to be done under loose or dangerous material except for the purpose of securing the same

He shall order props cap-pieces and timbers necessary at least one day in advance of needing them as provided for in the rules of the mine If he fails to receive the same and finds his place becoming unsafe he shall vacate it until the necessary timbers are supplied

Section 10 A miner working a breast or any other place shall before commencing work and also after firing of every blast enter said breast or place to examine and ascertain its conditions and his laborer or assistant shall not go to the face of said breast or place until the miner has examined it and found to be safe

Section 11 No miner shall remove any props or timbers that are supporting the roof or sides except it shall be done by blasting or by some other safe method

Section 12 Any miner who has gunnowder or other explosive shall keep it in a wooden or metallic box securely locked and at least ten (10) feet from the tracks where space at that distance is available

Section 13 A miner when opening a box containing explosives or when handling the same shall first place his lamp at a distance of not less than five (5) feet therefrom and in such position that the air current cannot convey sparks to the explosives and he shall not approach with a lighted lamp pipe or any other thing containing fire nearer than five feet to an open box containing the same

Section 14 Any miner who fails or neglects to comply with or who violates any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXV

Emergency Hospital

Section 1 After the passage of this act it shall be unlawful to operate any mine where twenty or more persons are employed inside unless said mine is provided with a sufficient quantity of linseed oil or picric acid ganze bandages splints and wooden and water-proof blankets Said articles shall be stored in a room to be known as the emergency hospital erected at a convenient place in the mine or on the surface at the discretion of the inspector which shall not be less than eight by twelve feet and sufficiently furnished lighted kept clean and properly ventilated so that medical treatment may be given therein promptly to injured employes

Section 2 It shall be the duty of the mine foreman assistant mine foreman or fire boss in case of a serious personal injury to an employe from any cause to at once visit the scene of accident see that the injured is properly cared for wrapped in woolen blankets and removed to the emergency hospital and then so treated as will add to the comfort and ease of the patient Immediately thereafter the injured shall be wrapped up and sent to the surface and taken to his home or to a hospital The mine foreman shall keep a book showing the required articles on hand name of the person injured nature of injury treatment and by whom treated at time of accident

Section 3 The neglect or refusal to perform the duties required by this article by any person required to perform them or the violation of any of the requirements hereof shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXVI

Rescue and First Aid Corps

Section 1 The operator of every colliery shall organize and maintain a competent first aid corps and rescue corps at said colliery recruited from volunteers among the employes

Section 2 Each first aid corps and each rescue corps shall consist of five robust and intelligent employes of the colliery properly trained by those in charge of the work

Section 3 Portable breathing apparatus electrical safety lamps and other appliances sufficient for the purpose for which they are intended shall be maintained in good working condition

Section 4 A company operating two or more collieries may establish a central station if the collieries are located in a group and connected by telephone or telegraph At every central station where two or more collieries are so connected there shall be kept and maintained not less than six rescue helmets with oxygen tanks attached also a sufficient supply of oxygen to enable the helmets to be in constant use for period of twenty-hours There shall further provided sufficient electric lamps resuscitating apparatus and other appliances necessary in rescue work Facilities shall be provided to promptly transport the equipment from the central station to the collieries

Section 5 The superintendent shall adopt such rules and regulations for the conduct and guidance of the men employed in first aid and rescue work as may appear best for the good of the service

Section 6 Any superintendent who fails to comply with any of the provisions of this article shall be demed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXVII

Ambulances and Stretchers

Section 1 The owner operator or superintendent of every mine at which twenty or more persons are employed inside shall provide and keep in good condition at the principal entrance to the mine at such other place as the superintendent and inspector may determine and designate one ambulance and at least two stretchers for conveying to their places of abode persons who may be injured while in the discharge of their duties and he shall also provide and keep in good condition a sufficient supply of woolen and water-proof blankets Provided further that when two or more mines are located within one mile of each other or when the ambulance is lodged within one mile of each mine only one such conveyance shall be required if such mines have ready and quick means of intercommunication by telephone or telegraph Provided further That two stretchers are kept in readiness at all times at small mines when less than twenty persons are employed therein

Section 2 The ambulance shall be constructed upon good substantial easy springs covered and closed with windows on the sides or end and provided with spring mattrasses or other comfortable bedding placed on roller frames together with sufficient covering and protection for the convenient movement of the injured It shall be of sufficient size to convey at least two injured persons and two attendants at one time and shall be provided with seats for the same The stretchers shall be constructed of such material and in such a manner as to insure ease and comfort in the carriage of the injured person

Section 3 Whenever an employe in or about a mine shall receive an injury as to render him unable to walk to his place of abode the superintendent shall immediately have him conveyed thereto or to a hospital as the case may require

Section 4 If the conditions are such that the person injured can be conveyed to his home or to the hospital more conveniently and more quickly by railroad trolley road or otherwise such mode shall be permitted but in such cases the conveyance must be under cover and the comfort of the injured person must be provided for

Section 5 Any superintendent who fails or neglects to carry out the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXVIII

Regulations for Explosives and Detonators

Section 1 No black powder high explosives or permissable explosives shall be stored in a mine and not more than twenty-five pounds of either shall be taken into any mine at one time by any person unless more is required in one shift

Section 2 Black powder high explosives permissible explosives or detonators shall not be hauled on any electric motor trip in any mine unless the same are encased in non-conductive boxes or receptacles

Section 3 High or permissible explosives shall not be sold for use in mines unless the name of the manufacturer and name and grade of explosive are stamped on each stick and the method of handling and full instructions for use are conspicuously displayed on and in the original box or package containing the same

Section 4 Detonators shall at all times be kept separate and apart from other explosives until required for use

Section 5 Black powder high explosives or permissible explosives stored for daily use at a colliery shall be in separate buildings which shall be built of incombustible material and rifle bullet proof Detonators must be kept in an annex which must also be fireproof No open light shall be permitted in either building These buildings shall be erected at least two hundred and fifty feet from shafts slopes and breakers where persons are employed

Section 6 Buildings where high explosives or permissible explosives are stored for daily use shall be heated by steam or hot water and kept at a temperature as directed by the manufacturer and no frozen explosives shall be sold to any employe nor distributed to or used by any employe

Section 7 Black powder high explosives permissible explosives and detonators shall be handled with care and used in accordance with the printed instructions issued by the manufacturer

Section 8 No person shall thaw any explosive inside or outside the mines except by the method recommended by the manufacturer

Section 9 Any person firm or corporation who fails or neglects to comply with any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXIX

Weight of Black Powder

Section 1 After the passage of this act every keg of black blasting powder manufactured which is sold or used in and about any mine shall contain twenty-five pounds each half keg shall contain twelve and one-half pounds each quarter keg shall contain six and one-quarter pounds all of standard weight Every keg shall be plainly stamped with the name of the person firm or corporation manufacturing said powder and also the number of pounds it contains

Section 2 No person firm or corporation except only such person firm or corporation whose name is stamped or inscribed on a keg shall be allowed to refill the same with black powder

Section 3 Any manufacturer or dealer person firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of section one and two of this article and any superintendent who buys or any person who offers for sale any black powder contrary to the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXX

Regulations for Oil

Section 1 The oiling and greasing of cars inside of a mine is strictly prohibited unless the place where said oil or grease is used is thoroughly cleaned once every day to prevent the accumulation of oil or grease on the roads or in the drains at that point Not more than one barrel of lubricating oil shall be permitted in any mine at one time and the same shall be kept in a fire proof building of masonry or concrete of sufficient thickness to insure safety or cut out of the solid rock

Section 2 No explosive oil shall be taken into or used in any mine for lighting purposes except when used in safety lamps and shall not be stored in any mine in quantities exceeding five gallons Said oil when stored in a mine shall be kept in a fire proof vault of concrete or masonry with fire proof doors which shall be kept locked when not in use

Section 3 All oils used in open lamps shall be non-explosive and free from odor and fumes deleterious to health and shall have a burning point not lower than three hundred degrees When acetylene lamps are used the quantity of carbide taken into the mine by each man shall be limited to such quantity as may be necessary for his daily use

Section 4 Paraffine wax for use in a mine shall not contain over three per centum of oil

Section 5 All illuminants sold for use in open lamps in mines shall have branded conspiciuously on the barrel or receptacle containing the same the name of the manufacturer and date of shipment

Section 6 An employe who shall use and any mine foreman who shall permit or persons who shall sell for use in a mine oil or other materials for illuminating purposes other than that prescribed by this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXXI

Code of Signals

Section 1 In all shafts and slopes where persons coal and material are to be hoisted by machinery the following code shall be used

(A) One rap or whistle to hoist coal or material

(B) One rap or whistle to stop car carriage cage of gun boat when in motion

(C) Two raps or whistles to lower car carriage cage or gunboat

(D) Three raps or whistles to hoist persons The engineer shall signal back when ready after which the persons shall get on the car carriage cage or bunboat and then one rap or whistle shall be given the engineer to hoist

Section 1 All boilers used for generating steam about mines or collieries shall be kept in safe condition and the superintendent or outside foreman shall have them examined by a qualified person at least once in six months and oftener if necessary The result of such examination under oath shall be certified in writing to the inspector within thirty days thereafter

Section 2 It shall not be lawful hereafter to place a boiler for the purpose of generating steam nearer than one hundred feet to any breaker or other structures used in the preparation of coal

Section 3 Each nest of boilers shall be provided with a safety valve of sufficient area for the steam to escape and with weights or springs properly adjusted

Section 4 Steam gauges shall be properly connected with the boilers to indicate the steam pressure and a steam gauge shall be attached to the main steam pipe in the boiler house and placed in such a position that the firemen in charge can readily see what pressure is being carried Such steam gauges shall be kept in good working order tested and adjusted on every general inspection and so reported to the inspector

Section 5 Any person who fails or neglects to comply with any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXXIII

Inside Stables and Buildings

Section 1 It shall not be lawful to provide a stable for a horse or mule inside a mine unless space for said stable is excavated in solid strata of rock slate or coal If excavated in the coal seam a wall shall be built of brick stone or concrete not less than eight inches in thickness along the face of the coal from the bottom slate to the roof or cased in entirely with incombustible material In the construction of said stable wood or other combustible material shall not be used except for a floor where the animals shall stand upon

Section 2 No hay or straw shall be taken into any mine unless pressed and made into compact bales which shall be kept in a store house apart from the stable and built in the same manner as the stable Under no circumstances shall the hay be stored in the stable No open lights shall be permitted to be used in any stable store house or at any other place in the mine where hay and straw are handled

Section 3 The air current used for the ventilation of a stable shall be intermixed with the air current used for ventilating any other portion of the mine

Section 4 That all buildings inside a mine including engine houses pump houses and all other buildings and shanties shall be built of incombustible material which shall be approved in writing by the inspector

Section 5 Any foreman who fails or neglects to comply with any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXXIV

Wash Houses

Section 1 It shall be the duty of the owner operator or superintendent of each colliery at the request in writing of ten or more persons employed to provide a suitable building which shall be convenient to the principal entrance for the use of the persons employed and for the purpose of washing and changing their clothes when entering and returning therefrom The said building shall be maintained in good order and in a healthful and sanitary condition properly lighted heated and supplied with pure cold and hot water and with proper facilities for the employes to wash Any superintendent who shall fail or neglect to comply with the provisions of this article or any person who shall maliciously injure or destroy or cause to be injured or destroyed the said building or part thereof or any of the appliances or fittings used for supplying light heat and water therein or do any act tending to the injury or destruction thereof he or they shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXXV

Employment of Miners

Section 1 No minor under fourteen years of age and no female of any age (except a female fourteen years or over may be employed in a colliery office at clerical work) shall be employed permitted or suffered to work in or about or for any outside operations of any mine or colliery and no minor under the age of sixteen years and no female of any age shall be employed permitted or suffered to work inside any mine

Section 2 Before any minor under the age of sixteen years be permitted to work in or about the outside operations of any mine or colliery the employer of said minor shall procure and keep on file (which file shall at all times accessible to the inspector) an employment certificate as required by the laws of this Commonwealth issued to said minor A complete list of all such minors under the age of sixteen employed at said colliery shall be kept on file at the mine foreman's office The employment certificate shall nevertheless remain the property of the minor and such minor shall be entitled to a surrender of said certificate to him or her by the employer whenever said minor shall leave the service of any employer holding said certificate

Section 3 Any inspector may make written demand upon any superintendent or outside foreman if said minor is employed outside the mine as being fourteen years and not more than sixteen or upon any mine foreman if said minor is employed in a mine as being sixteen years or over and it shall appear to said inspector that any such minor is under the required age for employment that such superintendent outside foreman or mine foreman as the case may be shall either furnish him within ten days with the same evidence that such minor is in fact of the proper age as is required for the issuance of an employment certificate or failing so to do shall cease to employ or permit such minor to work In case any such superintendent outside foreman or mine foreman shall fail to furnish to said inspector within ten days after written demand the required evidence of age and shall thereafter continue to employ such minor or permit him to work proof of the making of such demand failure to produce the evidence required and continuing such minor in his employ shall be prima facie evidence of the illegal employment of such minor in any prosecution brought therefor

Section 4 Any superintendent outside foreman or mine foreman who shall employ any minor contrary to or in violation of any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXXVI

Checking System

Section 1 At every mine where more than two hundred persons are employed inside a check system shall be adopted whereby each person before being allowed to enter the mine shall show his check and number to the headman whose duty shall be to prevent any person from entering such mine unless qualified with such check and upon the return from the mine shall deposit his check with an official or in a place designated by the mine foreman

Section 2 If any checks are not returned within the period of two hours after the end of a regular days work said official shall immediately notify the mine foreman of the fact whose duty is shall be at once to make an investigation and discover the cause

Section 3 Said check system shall be of uniform design and on a form approved by the Chief of the Department of Mines

Section 4 Any superintendent or other person who neglects to comply with the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXXVII

Duties of Hoisting Engineer

Rule 1 The engineer in charge of an engine by which persons are lowered into and hoisted out of a mine shall be a sober and competent person of not less than twenty-one years of age

Rule 2 He shall operate his engine with great care and in such manner that the cage carriage or gunboat shall not exceed an average speed of one thousand (1000) feet per minute in shafts and in slopes at such speed as the inspector may designate when any person is being lowered or hoisted in shafts or slopes and no person shall interfere with him while in the discharge of his duties

Rule 3 The engineer who has charge of the hoisting machinery by which persons are lowered into and hoisted out of a mine shall be in constant attendance for that purpose during the whole time any person is below ground and he shall not allow any person (except such as may be designated by the foreman in charge) to run said engine nor allow any one to interfere with any part of the machinery

Rule 4 No person engaged as a hoisting engineer part of whose duties it is to lower men or boys into and hoist them and coal or rock from the mines shall be employed for a longer period than eight (8) hours out of each day of twenty-four (24) hours

Rule 5 In any shaft or slope where the engine has been standing idle for one hour or more an empty trip shall be hoisted as a precautionary measure before any person shall be permitted to ride thereon

Duties of Fireman

Rule 6 The fireman in charge of a boiler or boilers for the generating of steam at any colliery shall keep constant watch over the same and shall see that the steam pressure does not at any time exceed the limit allowed by the outside foreman or the superintendent He shall frequently try the safety valves and shall not increase the weight thereon and shall maintain a proper depth of water in each boiler and if anything should happen to prevent this shall notify without delay the foreman in charge and take such other action as may under the particular circumstances be necessary for the protection of life and preservation of property

Duties of Headman

Rule 7 A headman who shall be designated by the outside foreman at every shaft or slope where persons are lowered or hoisted in any mine shall be at his proper place from the time persons begin to descend until all persons that may be at the bottom of the shaft or slope when quitting work at the end of the shift shall be hoisted He shall personally atend to the signals and see that the provisions of this act in respect to the lowering of persons into shafts or slopes are complied with

Rule 8 He shall inform the engineer by signal or otherwise when any person is about to descend a shaft or slope and the engineer shall return the signal before starting the engine In the absence of the headman outside of working hours a person about to descend shall give and receive the signals in the same manner

Rule 9 He shall not allow any tools to be placed on the same cage with persons who are being lowered except that the same are laid flat on the bottom of the carriage

Rule 10 The headman of a shaft slope or plane shall be careful to see that all safety blocks or other devices to prevent runaway cars from entering the same are properly closed when necessary and in no case left open when persons are riding therein The said safety blocks or other devices shall not be withdrawn until the cars on top of the slope or plane are coupled to the rope or chain and the proper signal given

Rule 11 The headman of a shaft shall see that the fans or keeps for the cage to rest upon are properly operated and also see that no material is liable to fall down such shaft which can be prevented

Rule 12 The headman shall report to the outside foreman any violation of General Rule fourteen of this act

Duties of Footman

Rule 13 A footman shall be designated by the mine foreman for every shaft or slope where persons are hoisted who shall be at his proper place from the time that persons begin to descend until all the persons that may be at the bottom of the shaft or slope when quitting work at the end of the shift shall be hoisted He shall personally attend to the signals and see that the provisions of this act in respect to the hoisting of persons out of shafts or slopes are complied with

Rule 14 He shall inform the engineer by signal or other wise when any person is about to descend a shaft slope and the engineeer shall return the signal before starting the engine In the absence of the footman outside of working hours the person about to descend shall give and receive the signals in the same manner

Rule 15 He shall not allow any tolls to be placed on the same carriage with persons who are being hoisted except the same are laid flat on the bottom of the carriage

Rule 16 The footman shall report to the mine foreman any violation of general rule fourteen of this act

Duties of Furnaceman

Rule 17 The furnaceman shall attend to his duties with regularity and he shall at al ltime keep a clear brisk fire which must not be smothered with coal or slack during working hours and he shall not allo washes to accumulate excessively on or under the bars or in the approaches to the furnace and said ashes shall be cooled before being removed

Duties of Fan Engineer

Rule 18 The engineer in charge of a ventilating fan shall keep it running at such speed as the mine foreman shall direct in writing He shall report promptly to the mine foreman or an assistant mine foreman any great change in the pressure gauge or any other serious defect In case of an accident to the machinery he shall immediately notify the mine foreman or an assistant mine foreman If only ordinary repairs are needed he shall await the instructions of the mine foreman or an assistant mine foreman before stopping the fan but if it becomes necessary to stop it to prevent its destruction he shall forthwith notify the superintendent or mine foreman who shall immediately give warning to the persons in the mine

Duties of Motorman or Locomotive Engineer

Rule 19 The motorman or locomotive engineer shall keep a sharp lookout ahead and sound the whistle or alarm bell frequently when coming near cross-over switches or branches and shall not exceed the speed of six miles per hour

Rule 20 The motorman shall see that the motor cables and controlling parts are kept clean and in a safe working condition and that the head light is burning when the motor is in motion He shall not allow any person except those delegated by the mine foreman to ride on the motor or loaded cars

Duties of Driver

Rule 21 When a driver has occasion to leave his trip he must be careful to see that it is left when possible in a safe place and where it will not endanger the drivers of other trips and must take care while taking his trip down grade to have the brakes or sprags so adjusted that the same is kept under control He shall not leave any cars standing where they materially obstruct the ventilation unless in case of an accident which he shall promptly report to the mine foreman or an assistant mone foreman and he shall not allow any person to ride on loaded cars nor to drive his horses or mules

Any hoisting fan or locomotive engineer fireman headman footman furnaceman motorman or driver or any other person who fails or neglects to comply with or who violates any of the provisions of the foregoing rules shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXXVIII

General Rules

Rule 1 No one unauthorized person shall have in his possession a key or any other contrivance for the purpose of unlocking safety lamps in a mine where locked safety lamps are used nor shall matches or other means for striking light be taken into such mines

Rule 2 No person shall ride upon or against any loaded car cage or gunboat in any shaft slope or plane in or about any mine

Rule 3 No driver or other person shall descend or ascend a shaft in company with a mule or horse

Rule 4 Not more than ten (10) persons shall be hoisted or lowered at any one time in any shaft or slope and whenever five persons shall arrive at the bottom of any shaft or slope in which persons are regularly hoisted or lowered they shall be furnished with an empty car or cage and be hoisted except however in mines where there is provided a traveling way having an average pitch of fifteen (15) degrees or less and not more than one thousand (1000) feet in length This however shall not prohibit the hoisting or lowering of twenty (20) persons at one time on slopes where two (2) or more loaded cars are regularly hoisted Provided that not less than thirty (30) workmen working therein make such a request in writing to the inspector of the district and if in his judgment the hoisting appliances in every respect are of sufficient strength he may comply with the request of the workmen

Provided That in any coal mine or colliery where the hoisting appliances are not of sufficient strength to hoist or lower the number of persons named he shall have the power to reduce the number of persons to be hoisted or lowered

Rule 5 No gunpowder or other explosives shall be stored in a mine and no workman shall have at any one time in any one place more than twenty-five pounds unless more is necessary for him to accomplish one day's work

Rule 6 When high explosives are used in a mine the manner of storing keeping moving charging firing or using shall be in accordance with special rules as furnished by and endorsed with the official signature of the manufacturer and which shall also be approved by the superintendent in writing and it shall not be lawful for any person to use any brand of explosives detonators caps squibs or fuses except upon the written approval of the superintendent

Rule 7 No person who is not practical shall charge or fire a blast unless he has given satisfactory evidence of his ability to do so with safety and has obtained permission from the mine foreman

Rule 8 An accumulation of gas in mines shall no tbe removed by brushing where it is practicable to be removed by bratticing

Rule 9 When a feeder of gas is ignited the person igniting the same shall immediately extinguish it if possible but if unable to do so he shall notify the mine foreman assistant mine foreman or fire boss of the fact at once

Rule 10 When motors are used in any mine their speed shall not exceed six miles per hour and an efficient alarm shall be provided and attached to the front end of the trip in the direction in which it is moving

Rule 11 Motors propelled by steam shall not be used in any passageway which is also used as an intake airway in any mine where persons are employed except upon the approval of the inspector in writing

Rule 12 No person shall run cars out of any breast or on any gravity road except he be a person employed by the mine foreman for that particular work

Rule 13 No person shall travel on any gravity plane while cars are being hoisted or lowered thereon Whenever five persons arrive at the top or the bottom of any plane on which it is necessary for men to travel traffic thereon shall be suspended for a period of time long enough to permit them to reach the top or the bottom

Rule 14 No person except the man giving the signal shall jump on a car carriage or gunboat after the signal to start has been given and if any person shall enter a car carriage or gunboat in excess of the lawful number the headman or footman as the case may be shall notify him of the fact and request him to get off which request shall be immediately complied with Any violation of this rule shall be reported promptly to the foreman in charge who shall forthwith notify the inspector to that effect

Rule 15 No person except employes shall be allowed to enter the mine without permission from the superintendent or mine foreman and no person in a state of intoxication shall be allowed to go into any mine

Rule 16 Every workman when first employed in a mine shall have his attention directed by the mine foreman to the special and general rules posted at the mine

Rule 17 No safety lamp shall be entrusted to any person for use in a mine until said person has given satisfactory evidence to the mine foreman that he understands the proper use thereof and the danger of tampering with the same

Rule 18 Nothing in this act shall prevent a mine foreman from acting as an asistant mine foreman or fire boss in any mine or an assistant mine foreman from acting as a fire boss

Rule 19 No person shall go into an abondoned portion of a mine or into any other place that is not in actual course of working without permission from the mine foreman and no person shall travel to or from his work except by the traveling ways assigned for that purpose

Rule 20 All persons are expressly forbidden to commit any nuisance or throw into deposit or leave dirt stones or other rubbish in any airway so as to interfere with or pollute the air passing into and through the mine

Rule 21 No person whatever shall remove any props or timbers that are supporting roof or sides except it shall be done by blasting or by other safe method

Rule 22 Any person who has gunpowder or any other explosives shall keep it in a wooden or metallic box securely locked and at least ten (10) feet from the tracks in all cases where space at that distance is available

Rule 23 Any person opening a box containing explosives or handling the same shall place his lamp at a distance of not less than five feet therefrom and in such position that the air current canot convey sparks to the explosives and he shall not approach with a lighted lamp pipe or any other thing containing fire nearer than five (5) feet to an open box containing the same

Rule 24 Every passageway used by the employes in any mine and also used for the transportation of coal shall be made of sufficient width to permit employes to pass moving cars with safety but if found impracticable to make such passageway of sufficient width then safety holes of ample dimensions shall be made on one side of said passageway and not more than fifty yards apart Such passageway and safty holes shall be level with the track kept free from refuse well drained and the roof and sides shall be secure

Rule 25 No person shall couple or uncouple cars while in motion provided however that this shall not apply to the top or bottom men of shafts slopes or planes

Rule 26 When cars are run on gravity roads by brakes or sprags the runner only shall ride on the rear end of the last car and when said cars are controlled by sprags there shall be a space of not less than two and one-half feet from the body of the car to the rib and said space shall be made on one or both sides of the track Provided that this section shall not apply to gravity roads constructed prior to the passage of this act Whenever it may be necessary for the runner or driver to pass moving cars said space shall be kept free from obstructions

Rule 27 It shall not be lawful for a foreman of any mine to employ any person who is not competent to understand the regulations of any mine liberating explosive gas provided that this rule shall not apply to a section of a mine that does not liberate such gas

Rule 28 When a workman is about to fire a blast he shall be careful to notify all persons who may be in danger therefrom and shall give sufficient alarm before and after igniting the match or fuse or if the blast is fired by electricity before the wires are connected so that any person or persons approaching shall be warned of the danger

Rule 29 Safety holes shall be made at the bottom of all slopes and planes and kept free from obstruction to enable the footman to escape readily in case of danger

Rule 30 A miner or other employe who shall discover anything wrong with the ventilating current or with the condition of the roof side timber or roadway or with any other part of the mine in general such as would lead him to suspect danger to himself or his fellow workmen or to the property of his employer shall immediatly report the same to the mine foreman or other person for the time being in charge of that portion of the mine

Rule 31 Any superintendent or mine foreman who prevents the footman from giving an empty car cage or gunboat designated in a former rule shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

Rule 32 Any person who shall knowingly or wilfully damage remove or render useless any danger signal fencing means of signaling electric wires apparatus instrument machine or shall obstruct any airway open a ventilating door and not have the same closed enter a place in or about the mine against caution carry fire open lights or matches into places where locked safety lamps are in use deface pull down or destroy any notice required to be posted by this act disturb any machinery or cars or do any other act or thing whereby the lives or health of the employes or the safety of the property of the operator in or about the mine or colliery may be endangered shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act and any person who fails to comply with any of the provisions of any of the foregoing rules shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XXXIX.

Inquests

Section 1 Whenever a loss of life occures in a mine or on the surface it shall be the duty of the superintendent to forthwith give notice thereof by telegraph telephone or special messenger to the inspector and when death results from personal injury the superintendent shall as heretofore provided promptly notify the inspector

Section 2 Whenever loss of life occurs or whenever the lives of the employes are endangered the inspector shall visit the scene of the accident as soon as possible after being notified and offer such suggestions as in their judgment shall be necessary to safeguard the lives of the employes and the property of the operator

Section 3 The condition of the place or the scene of a fatal accident shall not be disturbed or altered except for the purpose of preventing loss of life or personal injury or for the repairing of damage that may effect safety in other parts of the mine untill the inspector has visited the scene and given permission to the mine foreman to do so

Section 4 In case of death and after a thorough examination the inspector is of the opinion that a coroner's inquest is necessary he shall notify the coroner to hold such inquest without delay and if no such inquest is called within twenty-four hours after giving the notice to the coroner he shall make a fuller examination into the cause of such accident and for this purpose he shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses at such examination and to administer oaths or affirmations to persons testifying thereat The inspector shall make a record of all such investigations which shall be preserved in his office The cost of such investigation shall be paid by the county in which the accident occured in like manner as costs of inquests held by the coroner or justice of the peace are now paid

Section 5 An inquest held by the coroner shall be adjourned if the inspector is not present to watch the proceedings and the coroner in such cases shall notify the inspector in writing of such adjournment and the time and place of holding the same at least three days prior thereto and at all such inquests the inspector shall have the right to examine and cross-examine witnesses

Section 6 If at any such inquest the inspector be not present and it is shown by the evidence given at the inquest that the accident was caused by neglect or by any defect in the mine or on the surface which in the judgment of the jury requires a remedy the coroner shall send notice in writing to the inspector of such neglect or default

Section 7 No person who is interested personally or a person employed in the mine or on the surface when such accident has occurred shall be qualified to serve on a jury or be empanneled on the inquest and a constable or other officer shall not summon such a person so disqualified as a juror but the coroner shall empanel a majority of the jurors from the miners who are qualified to judge of the nature of the accident

Any person who fails to comply with any of the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XL

Location of Mine and Jurisdiction of Courts—Injunctions

Section 1 A mine is located within the meaning of the act in the county where the mouth or opening or the greater portion thereof is located irrespective of the geographical location of the underground workings and the courts of the county where the mouth or opening of such mine is situate shall have jurisdiction of all matters and questions arising under this act and where a mine has two openings which are located in different counties the courts of such counties shall have concurrent jurisdiction

Section 2 Upon application of the inspector in the name of the Commonwealth the court of the proper county or any judge thereof whether any proceedings have or have not been taken shall prohibit by injunction or otherwise the working of any mine or colliery in which any person is employed or is permitted to be for the purpose of working in contravention of the provisions of this act and may award such costs in said injunction or other proceedings as the court or judge thereof may think proper provided that this section shall be without prejudice to any other remedy permitted by law for enforcement of the provisions of this act Written notice of the intention to apply for such injunction in respect to any mine or colliery shall be made to the owner operator or superintendent of such mine or colliery not lsss than twenty-four hours before the application is made

ARTICLE XLI

Records Forms and Printed Matter

The Department of Mines shall furnish to the several examining boards and to the operator on application and without cost all forms blanks reports record books and printed matter required by the provisions of this act

ARTICLE XLII

Penalties

Section 1 Any judge of the court of quarter sessions of the county in which the mine or colliery at which the offense act or omission as hereinafter stated has occurred is situated is hereby authorized and required upon the presentation to him of the affidavit of the district attorney of the proper county or upon the affidavit of any citizen of said county setting forth that the owner operator or superintendent or any other person employed in or about such mine or colliery has been negligently guilty of an offense against the provisions of this act whereby a dangerous accident had resulted to any person or persons employed in such mine or colliery to issue a warrant to the sheriff of said county directing him to cause such person or persons to be arrested and brought before said judge who shall hear and determine the guilty or innocense of the person or persons so charged and if convicted he or they shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred ($500.00) dollars or an imprisonment in the county jail for a period not exceeding thirty days or both at the discretion of the court provided that any defendant may waive trial before a judge as herein provided and at any time at or before the time of such trial demand a trial by a jury in the court of Quarter Sessions in which case he may enter into a recognizance before said judge with such surety or sureties and in such sum as said judge may approve conditioned for his appearance at the next court of Quarter Sessions to answer the charge against him and abide the order of the court in the premises meanwhile to be of good benavior and keep peace or in default of such recognizance to be committed to the county jail to await such trial

Section 2 If any persons shall feel himself aggrieved by such conviction and sentence before a judge as aforesaid he may appeal therefrom subject to the following conditions namely the appelant shall within seven days after the decree has been made give notice to the prosecutor of his intention to appeal and within the same time enter into a recognizance with such surety or sureties and in such sum as shall be approved by said judge conditioned to appear and try such appeal before the next Court of Quarter Sessions and to abide the judgment of the court thereon and to pay all such costs and penalties as may be there awarded and upon the compliance with such conditions the judge shall release the appellant from custody pending the appeal

Section 3 Nothing in this act shall prevent any person from being indicted or liable under any other act to any higher penalty or punishment than is herein provided and if the court before whom any such proceeding is held shall be of the opinion that procedings ought to be taken against such persons under any other act or otherwise he may adjourn the case to enable such proceedings to be taken

Section 5 For any violation of duty by the mine inspector prescribed in this act he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction be sentenced to pay a fine of not more than three hundred ($300.00) dollars or to be imprisoned for a period not exceeding three (3) months or either or both at the discretion of the court

Section 6 All fines imposed under this act shall be paid into the treasury of the county wherein the proceedings are had for the use of the county

Section 7 No conviction or acquittal under this act in any complaint shall be received in evidence upon the trial of any action for damages arising from the negligence of any owner operator or superintendent or employe in any mine or colliery

Section 8 For any injury to person or property occasioned by any violation of this act or any failure to comply with its provisions by any owner operator or superintendent of any mine or colliery a right of action shall accrue to the party injured against said operator for any direct damages he may have sustained thereby and in case of loss of life by reason of such neglect or failure aforesaid a right of action shall accrue to the widow and lineal heirs of the person whose life shall be lost for like recovery of damages for the injury they have sustained

ARTICLE XLIII

Employers Liability

Nothing in this act shall be taken or construed to in any manner repeal by implication or otherwise an act entitled "An Act extending and defining the liability of employers in actions for negligence for injury or death of their employers declaring what shall not be a defense in such actions by employes against their employers and defining who are agents of the employer under this act" approved June ten one thousand nine hundred and seven

ARTICLE XLIV

Repeal

Section 1 All acts or parts thereof inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 657, as follows:

An Act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the anthracite coal mines of Pennsylvania and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith

ARTICLE 1

Application of Act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the provisions of this act shall apply to every anthracite coal mine or colliery in this Commonwealth

ARTICLE II

Definition of Terms

Section 1 For the purposes of this act the definitions of terms contained herein shall be as follows

Colliery The term "colliery" means the inside workings of a mine or mines and the outside works connected therewith

Mine The term "mine" means the shafts slopes drifts tunnels incline planes and the excavations connected therewith penetrating coal stratum or strata which are ventilated by one general air current or divisions thereof and connect by one general system of mine railroads over which coal is delivered to one or more common point outside the mine when such is operated by one operator together with all roads appliances machinery and materials below the surface

Shaft The term "shaft" means a vertical opening through that strata that is or may be used for the purpose of ventilation or drainage or for hoisting men or material or both in connection with the mining of coal

Slope The term "slope" means an incline opening used for the same purpose as a shaft

Workings The term "workings" means all the excavated parts of a mine those abandoned as well as those being worked

Breaker The term "breaker" means the structure containing the machinery used for the preparation of coal

Approved Safety Lamp The term "approved safety lamp" means any safety lamp approved by the Chief of the Department of Mines

Operator The term "operator" means any firm corporation or individual operating any colliery mine or other part thereof as owner occupier or lessee

Superintendent The term "superintendent" means the person who shall have immediate supervision of one or more mines or collieries on behalf of the operator

Mine Foreman The term "mine foreman" means the person who is in charge of the inside workings of a mine or mines and of the persons employed therein in so far as it is necessary for him to comply with his duties under this act

Outside Foreman The term "outside foreman" means the person in charge of all the outside operations of a colliery and the persons employed thereat

Miner The term "miner" means the person who blasts coal or rock or has charge of a working place also any person engaged at general work in a mine who has the qualifications of a miner as herein prescribed

Chief The term "chief" means the Chief of the Department of Mines who is charged with the supervision of the execution of the mining laws of this Commonwealth

Inspector The term "inspector" means the person elected by the qualified electors in the inspection district in which he resides and who is charged with the supervision of the execution of the mining laws of this Commonwealth in the mines and collieries assigned to him by the Chief of the Department of Mines

Working Place The term "working place" means the gangway airway breast chamber pillar or other working face where coal is being mixed

ARTICLE III

Duties of mine owner operator or superintendent

Section 1 The mine owner operator or superintendent of a mine or colliery shall use every precaution to insure the safety of the workmen in all cases whether provided for in this act or not and he shall place the underground workings thereof and all that is related to the same under the charge and daily supervision of a competent person who shall be called mine foreman and who shall perform such duties and only such duties as are prescribed for said mine foreman in this act

Section 2 Whenever a mine foreman cannot personally carry out the provisions of this act so far as they pertain to him the owner operator or superintendent shall employ a sufficient number of competent and qualified persons to act as his assistants who shall be subject to his orders

Section 3 Whenever safety lamps are required in any mine they shall be the property of the owner of said mine and a competent person who shall be appointed for the purpose shall examine every safety lamp immediately before it is taken into the workings for use and ascertain if it is clear safe and securely locked and safety lamps shall not be used until they have been examined and found safe clean and securely locked unless permission be first given by the mine inspector of the district to have the lamps used unlocked

Section 4 Whenever a place is likely to contain a dangerous accumulation of water the working approaching such place shall not exceed twelve feet in width and there shall be constantly kept at a distance of not less than twenty feet in advance at least one (1) bore hole near the center of the working and sufficient flank bore holes on each side

Section 5 The superintendent shall employe a competent person as engineer and place him in charge of an engine whereby persons are hoisted or lowered in any mine who shall be sober and competent and not less than twenty-one years of age which engineer shall have charge of but one engine and be constantly in attendance at the same during the time that workmen are in the mine

Section 6 A competent person to be termed headman and a competent person to be termed footman shall be employed by the superintendent and shall be in constant attendance at the head and foot of each shaft or slope where men are hoisted or lowered while workmen are in the mine who shall see that the provisions of this act so far as they relate to them or either of them are obeyed

Section 7 A suitable quantity of all props ties rails timbers cap-pieces and all other material and supplies necessary for the health and safety of the employes shall be kept on hand at all times at a mine or colliery All props ties rails timbers and cap-pieces of suitable sizes as ordered by the miner shall be delivered to the workmen as near to their working places as they can be conveyed in ordinary mine cars free of charge If from any cause the materials and supplies cap-pieces timbers rails ties and props mentioned aforesaid cannot be furnished as required by this act the workmen shall be withdrawn from the mine or part of the mine affected by reason of the non-furnishing of the aforesaid articles as required above

Section 8 Every passageway used by persons in any mine and also used for the transportation of coal or other material shall be made of sufficient width to permit persons to pass moving cars with safety the distance from the body of the car to the side of the passageway shall not be less than three feet which distance shall be maintained continuously on one side of said passageway the same shall be kept well drained and free from obstruction

Section 9 Safety holes shall be made at the bottom of all shafts slopes and planes and be kept free from obstruction to enable the footman to escape readily in case of danger

Section 10 Waiting rooms of proper dimensions and properly secured shall be constructed at the foot of all shafts and intermediate lifts thereof for workmen to wait therein prior to ascending the shaft

Section 11 Safety blocks or some other device for the purpose of preventing cars from falling into a shaft or running away on a slope or plane shall be placed at or near the head of every shaft slope plane or intermediate lift thereof and said safety blocks or other device must be maintained in good working order

Section 12 No mine cars shall be used in any mine unless the bumpers are of sufficient length and width to keep the bodies of said cars separated by not less than twelve (12) inches when the cars stand on a straight level road and the bumpers touch each other

Section 13 Breakers shall be properly heated and kept sufficiently clear of dust to maintain a healthful atmosphere therein

Section 14 Ample means to produce and maintain a constant and adequate supply of pure air for the workmen and animals in every mine shall be provided and the air shall be circulated through the main entries cross entries working places and abandoned workings to such an extent that it will dillute carry off and render harmless the smoke and noxious or dangerous gases generated in the mines affording not less than two hundred (200) cubic feet of air per minute for each and every person employed therein

Section 15 All shafts slopes planes traveling ways tunnels and haulage ways shall be maintained in a safe condition for persons and animals to travel therein

Section 16 The following safety devices shall be provided installed and maintained in good working order in and about every coal mine and colliery

(a) The top of each shaft and also of each slope if dangerous or any intermediate lift thereof shall be securely fenced off by railing or by vertical or flat gates

(b) Every abandoned slope shaft air hole drift and cave hole shall be properly fenced around or across its entrance

(c) Suitable appliances through which conversation can be held by and between persons at the bottom and at the top of the shaft or slope or any intermediate lift thereof shall be installed in every mine and maintained in good working order and also an efficient means of signaling from the bottom of such shaft or slope and any intermediate lift thereof to the engineer in charge of the hoisting engine which shall be maintained in good working order

(d) Guard rails which will prevent persons from falling into the shaft and efficient safety catches shall be attached to and a sufficient cover over head shall be provided on every cage used for lowering or hoisting persons in any shaft the safety catches shall be tested monthly and the report of said test stating the distance said cage dropped shall be sent to the mine inspector the test shall be made by detaching the rope from the cage and allow the cage to descend by gravity Every cage or gunboat used for lowering or hoisting persons in any slope shall be provided with a proper protector so constructed that persons while on such cage or gun boat shall not be struck by anything which may fall or roll down said slope

(e) The main link of the chain connecting the rope to the cage gun boat or car in any shaft or slope shall be made of the best quality of iron Bridle chains made of the same quality of iron shall be attached to the main link rope or rope socket from the cross-head of the cage or gun boat when persons are being lowered or hoisted thereon

(f) An efficient brake shall be attached to every drum that is used for lowering or raising persons or materials in any mine Flanges or horns of sufficient dimensions to prevent the rope from slipping off the drum shall be provided and properly attached to the drum and all machines used for lowering or hoisting persons in mines shall be provided with an indicator to show the position of the cage car or gun boat in the shaft or slope An overwind safety device shall be attached to each engine used to hoist or lower any persons in any shaft to prevent the cage from going to the sheave

(g) Over all shafts which are being sunk or shall hereafter be sunk a safe and substantial structure shall be erected to sustain the sheaves or pulleys at a height of not less than twenty (20) feet above the tipping place and the top of such shaft shall be arranged in such manner that no material can fall into the shaft while the bucket is being emptied

(h) All rock and coal from shafts as they are being sunk shall not be raised except in a bucket or on a cage and such bucket or cage must be connected to the rope or chain by a safety hook clevice or other safe attachment Such shafts shall be provided with guides and guide attachments applied in such manner as to prevent the bucket from swinging while descending or ascending therein and such guides and guide attachments shall be maintained at a distance of not more than seventy-five (75) feet from the bottom of such shaft until its sinking shall have been completed but this sentence shall not apply to shafts one hundred (100) feet or less in depth

(i) Whenever the strata are not safe every shaft shall be securely cased lined or otherwise made secure

(j) All boilers used for generating steam in and about mines or collieries shall be kept in good order and the same shall be examined and inspected by a qualified person as often as once in six months and oftener if needed All air receivers used in or about a mine shall be kept in good order and shall be examined once every six months and oftener if needed The results of such examination under oath shall be certified in writing to the inspector of the district within thirty (30) days after said examination

(k) Every nest of boilers shall be provided with a steam gauge properly connected which will indicate the steam pressure in the boilers and another steam gauge shall be attached to the steam pipe in the engine house and placed in such position that the engineer or fireman can readily examine them and see what pressure is carried Such steam gauges shall be kept in good order and inspected as often as once every six months and their condition reported to the inspector of the district in the same manner as the report of boiler inspector

(l) Each nest of boilers shall be provided with a safety valve of sufficient area for the steam to escape in case the pressure should arise above that set by the boiler inspector and with weights or springs properly adjusted The said weights or springs shall be locked after the same are adjusted and no person except the superintendent shall have a key to the same

(m) All machinery used in or about the mines and collieries and especially in breakers such as engines rollers wheels screens shafting belting and conveyor lines shall be protected by covering or railing which will prevent persons from inadvertently walking against falling upon or into the same The sides of the stairs trestles and plank walks in and around the colliery shall be provided with hand and guard rails which will prevent persons from falling over their sides This section shall not forbid the temporary removal of a fence guard rail or covering for the purpose of making repairs if proper precautions are used and the fence guard rails or covering is replaced immediately thereafter

(n) It shall not be lawful to place any boiler or boilers for the purpose of generating steam under or nearer than one hundred (100) feet to any coal breaker or other structure in which persons are employed in the preparation of coal provided that this section shall not apply to boilers or breakers already erected

(o) There shall be provided installed and properly maintained a sufficient number of telephones speaking tubes barometers thermometers and anemometers in and about every coal mine or colliery as provided in sections forty-one forty-two and forty-four of general rules Article nine of this act

(p) Whenever batteries are used in any mine for the purpose of exploding blasts they shall be the property of the owner and he shall furnish and maintain in good condition a sufficient quantity of electric batteries to amply supply all workmen who will use the same

Section 7 Any owner operator or superintendant who fails to comply with the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

Duties of Mine Foreman and Assistant Mine Foreman

Section 1 The mine foreman shall have charge of all matters pertaining to ventilation and the speed of the ventilators shall be particularly under his charge and direction and any owner operator or superintendent who shall cause the mine foreman to disregard the provisions of this act shall be amendable in the same manner as the mine foreman

Section 2 All accessible parts of an abandoned portion of a mine in which explosive gases have been found shall be carefully examined by the mine foreman or his asistants at least once a week and all danger found existing therein shall be immediately removed A report of said examination shall be recorded with ink in a book kept at the colliery for that purpose and signed by the person making the same a copy of the record thus made shall be mailed to the superintendent of the colliery and also to the mine inspector of the district on the day the examination is made

Section 3 In mines generating explosive gases the mine foreman or his assistants shall make a careful examination every morning of all working places and traveling roads and all other places which might endanger the safety of the workmen before the workmen shall enter the mine and such examination shall be made with a safety lamp within three (3) hours at most before time for commencing work at the breaker and the workmen shall not enter the mine or his working place until the said mine or part thereof and working place are reported to be safe Every report shall be recorded without delay with ink in a book which shall be kept at the colliery for that purpose and shall be signed by the persons making the examination

Section 4 The person who makes said examination shall establish proof of the same by marking plainly the date thereof at the face of each working place and all other places examined

Section 5 A station or stations shall be established at the entrance to each mine or different parts of each mine as the case may require and a workman shall not pass beyond such station until the mine or part of the mine beyond the same has been inspected and reported to be safe It shall be the duty of the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman to remain at the danger station until relieved by some persons authorized by the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman who shall stand guard until said mine or part of said mine shall be reported safe by the person in authority and he shall not permit any person to pass without permission from the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman

Section 6 If at any time it is found by the person for the time being in charge of the mine or any part thereof that by reason of noxious or explosive gases prevailing in such mine or such part thereof or of any cause whatever the mine or the said part is dangerous every precaution shall be used to insure the safety of the workmen and every workman except such persons as may be required to remove the danger shall be withdrawn from the mine or such part thereof as is so found dangerous until the said mine or said part thereof is examined by a competent and qualified person and reported by him to be safe

Section 7 The mine foreman or assistant mine foreman shall visit and examine every working place in the mine in addition to the examination required by section three of this article at least twice a day while the men of such place are or should be at work the first of said examinations shall take place in the forenoon and the second in the afternoon while the men are at work The person who makes these examinations shall see that each and every working place is properly secured by props and timber and that safety in all respects is assured by having all loose coal or rock pulled down or secured and that a sufficient quantity of air is circulating in the face of each working place to dilute render harmless and sweep all smoke noxious and explosive gases and that no person shall be permitted to work in an unsafe place unless it be for the purpose of making it secure

Section 8 The mine foreman or the assistant mine foreman shall examine at least once every day all slopes shafts main roads traveling ways signal apparatus pulleys and timbering and see that they are in a safe and efficient working condition A report of said examination shall be made with ink in a book kept at the colliery for that purpose and signed by the person making the examiation a copy of said report shall be sent to the superintendent and inspector of the district at the close of each working day together with a report of the number of working places and where situated in which gas had been found on that day

Section 9 Any mine foreman or assistant mine foreman who fails to comply with the provisions of this atricle shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE V

Duties of Miner

Section 1 No miner shall fire a blast in any mine or in any portion of a mine where locked safety lamps are used except by permission of the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman and before such blast is fired and person giving the permission shall examine the place and satisfy himself that it is safe to fire the same

Section 2 No miner while charging holes for blasting coal slate or rock shall use an iron or steel pointed needle or tamping bar unless the end is tipped with at least six inches of copper or other soft material nor shall he force a tight cartridge into any hole

Section 3 A miner who is about to fire a blast shall be careful to notify all persons who may be in danger therefrom and give sufficient alarm to warn all persons approaching of the danger

Section 4 A miner who ignites a feeder of gas by blast or otherwise if he discovers the same shall make a reasonable effort to extinguish it If he is unable to do so he shall notify the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman of the location where the feeder is burning Before leaving his working place he shall see that no gas blowers are left burning

Section 5 No miner shall withdraw a charge of any explosive from a hole that has misfired nor shall he reopen the same

Section 6 Any miner having charge of a working place shall keep the roof and sides thereof properly secured by timber or otherwise so as to prevent such roof and sides from falling and he shall not do any work nor permit any work to be done under loose or dangerous material except for the purpose of securing the same

He shall order props cap-pieces and timbers necessary at least one day in advance of needing them as provided for in the rules of the mine If he fails to receive the same and finds his place becoming unsafe he shall vacate it until the necessary timbers are supplied

Section 7 A miner working a breast or any other place shall before commencing work and also after firing every blast enter said breast or place to examine and ascertain its condition and his laborer or assistant shall not go to the face of said breast or ploce until the miner has examined it and found it to be safe

Section 8 No miner shall cut out any props or timbers that are supporting the roof or sides When it becomes necessary to remove such props ortimbers it shall be done by blasing or by placing a chain or rope around such props or timbers that the pressure necessary to remove the same can be exerted at a point of safety

Section 9 Any miner who has gun powder or other explosive shall keep it in a wooden or metallic box securely locked said box shall be placed at a safe distance from the working face and tracks in the entry

Section 10 A miner when opening a box containing explosives or when handling the same shall first place his lamp at a distance of not less than five feet therefrom and in such position that the air current cannot convey sparks to the explosives and he shall not approach with a lighted lamp pipe or any other thing containing fire nearer than five feet to any open box containing the same

Section 11 Any person who fails to comply with the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

Shafts Slopes Openings and Outlets

Section 1 It shall not be lawful for the owner operator or superintendent of any mine to employe any person or persons in such mine or permit any person or persons to be in such mine for the purpose of working therein unless they are in connection with every seam or stratum of coal and from every lift thereof worked in such mine not less than two openings or outlets separated by a startum of not less than sixty (60) feet in breadth underground and one hundred and fifty (150) feet in breadth at the surface at which openings or outlets safe and distinct means of ingress and egress are at all times available for the person or persons employed in the said mine but it shall not be necessary for the said two openings to belong to the same mine if the persons employed therein have safe ready and available means of ingress and egress by not less than two openings This section shall not apply to opening a new mine or to opening any new lift of a mine while being worked for the purpose of making communication between said two outlets so long as not more than twenty persons are employed at any one time in such mine or new lift of a mine neither shall it apply to any mine or part of a mine in which the second outlet has been rendered unavailable by reason of the final robbing of pillars previous to abandonment so long as not more than twenty persons are employed therein at any one time The cage or cages and other means of egress shall at all times be available for the persons employed where there is no second outlet

Section 2 The owner operator or superintendent of any mine to which there is only one shaft slope or outlet may petiton the Court of Common Pleas in and for the county in which said mine is situated which said court is hereby empowered to act in the premises setting forth that in consequence of intervening lands between the working of his mine and the most practicable point or the only practicable point as the case may be at which to make or bring to the surface from the working of his mine he is unable to make an additional shaft slope or outlets in accordance with the requirements of this act the court may make an order of reference and appoint three disinterested persons residents of the county viewers one or more of whom shall be a practical mining engineer all of whom after being sworn to a faithful discharge of their duties shall view and examine the premises and determine as to whether the owner should have the privilege of making an additional outlet through or upon any intervening lands as the case may require and report in writing to the court which report shall be entered and filed of record If the finding of the viewers or any two of them is in favor of the owner of such coal mine or colliery he may make an aditional shaft slope or outlet under through or upon intervening lands as may be determined upon and provided for by the award If the finding of the viewers is against the owner or if no award be made by reason of any default or neglect on the part of the owner he shall be bound to comply with the provisions of this act in the same manner as if this section had not been enacted In case the said owner operator or superintendent desires to and claims that he ought to make additional opening under through or upon any adjoining on intervening lands to meet the requirements of this act for the ingress and egress of the men employed in his or their mine he or they shall make a statement of the facts in the petition with a survey setting forth the point of commencement and the point of termination of the proposed outlet which he or they their engineers agents or employes may enter upon said intervening lands and survey and mark as he or they shall find it proper to adopt for such additional outlet doing as little damage as possible to the property explored as the viewers shall state in their report what damage will be sustained by the owner or owners of the intervening lands by the opening construcing and using of the outlet and if the report is not appealed from it shall be confirmed or rejected by said court as to right and justice shall appertain and any further and all proceedings in relation thereto shall be in conformity with like proceedings as in the case of a lateral railroad across or under intervening lands under the act in relation to lateral railroad approved the fifth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-two and the supplements thereto so far as the provisions of the same are applicable hereto and the notice to the owner of intervening lands of the intention to apply for the privilege of making an outlet and meeting of the viewers shall be given and the costs of the case shall be paid as provided in the said act of the fifth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-two and the supplements thereto

Section 3 The escapements shafts or slopes shall be fitted with safe and available appliances by which the persons employed in the mine may readily escape in case an accident occurs deranging the hoisting machinery at the main outlets

Section 4 In slopes where the angle of inclination is fifteen degrees or less there must be provided a sparate traveling way which shall be maintained in a safe condition for travel and kept free from steam and dangerous gases

Section 5 No inflammable structure other than a frame to sustain pulleys or sheaves shall be erected over the entrance of any opening connecting the surface with the underground workings of any mine and no "breaker" or other inflammable structure for the preparation or storage of coal shall be erected nearer than two hundred (200) feet to any such opening but this act shall not be construed to prohibit the erection of a fan drift for the purpose of ventilation or of a trestle for the transportation of cars from any slope to such breaker or structure neither shall it apply to any shaft or slope until the work of development and shipment of coal has commenced Provided That this section shall not apply to breakers that are now erected

Section 6 Every abandoned slope shaft air-hole and drift shall be properly fenced around or across its entrance by the owner operator or superintendent

Section 7 Fences shall be placed around or across all underground entrances to any place not in actual course of working by the owner operator or superintendent which will prevent persons from inadvertently entering the same

Section 8 The following rules shall be observed in every shaft to which this act applies

First After each and every blast the chargeman must see that all loose material is swept down from the timbers before the workmen descend to their work

Second After a suspension of work and also after firing a blast in a shaft where explosive gases are envolved the person in charge must have the said shaft examined and tested with a safety lamp before the workmen are allowed to descend

Third Not more than four persons shall be lowered or hoisted in any shaft on a bucket at the same time and no person shall ride on a loaded bucket

Fourth Whenever persons are employed on platforms in shafts the person in charge must see that the said platforms are properly and safely constructed

Fifth While shafts are being sunk all blasts therein must be exploded by an electric battery

Sixth Any person firm or corporation who fails to comply with or who violates the provisions of this article shall be guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE VII

Ventilation

Section 1 The owner operator or superintendent of every mine shall provide and maintain a constant and adequate supply of pure air for the same as hereinafter provided and see that the same is circulated therein as required in this article

Section 2 It shall not be lawful to use a furnace for the purpose of ventilating any mine wherein explosive gases are generated

Section 3 The minimum quantity of air thus produced shall not be less than two hundred (200) cubic feet per minute for each and every person employed in any mine and as much more as the circumstances may require

Section 4 The ventilating current shall be conducted and circulated to and along the face sides and roof of each and every working place throughout the entire mine in sufficient quantities to dilute render harmless and sweep away smoke and noxious or dangerous gases to such an extent that all working places and traveling roads shall be in a safe and fit state to work and travel therein

Section 5 All worked out or abandoned parts of a mine in operation shall be kept free of dangerous bodies of gas or water or fenced off by sufficient walls which will prevent any gas or water from any abandoned mine or portion thereof from entering any mine or portion thereof where men are employed therein

Section 6 Every mine employing more than seventy-five (75) persons must be divided into two (2) or more districts Each district must be provided with a separate spilt or pure air and the ventilation shall be so arranged that not more than seventy-five (75) persons shall be employed at the same time in any one current or split of air The inlet and return air passages for any particular district must be separated by a pillar of coal stone or cement except where it is necessary to cut through said dividing pillar for the purposes of ventilation traffic or drainage

Section 7 All air passages shall be of sufficient area to allow the free passage of not less than two hundred (200) cubic feet of air pressure per minute for every person working therein and in no case in mines generating explosive gases shall the velocity exceed four hundred and fifty (450) lineal feet per minute in any opening through which the air currents pass if gauze safety lamps are used except in the main inlet or outlets air ways

Section 8 All cross-cuts connecting the main inlet and outlet air pasages of every district when it becomes necessary to close them permanently shall be substantially closed with brick or other suitable building material laid in mortar or cement but in no case shall said air stoppings be constructed of plank except for temporary purposes

Section 9 All doors used in assisting or in any way afecing the ventilation shall be so hung and adjusted that they will close automatically

Section 10 All main doors shall have an attendant whose constant duty it shall be to open them for transportation and travel and prevent them from standing open longer than is necessary for persons or cars to pass throgh

Section 11 All main doors shall be so placed that when the door is open another which has the same effect upon the same current shall be and remain closed and thus prevent any temporary stoppage of the air current

Section 12 An extra main door shall be so placed and kept standing open as to be out of reach of accidents and so fixed that it can be at once closed in the event of an accident to the doors in use

Section 13 The frame work of such main doors shall be substantially secured in stone or brick laid in mortar or cement unless so otherwise permitted in writing by the inspector

Section 14 All permanent air bridges shall be substantially built of such material and such strength as the circumstances may require

Section 15 The quantities of air in circulation shall be ascertained with an anemometer or other efficient instrument such measurements shall be made by the inside foreman or his assistants once a week at the inlet and outlet airways also at or near the face of each gangway and at the nearest cross-heading to the face of each gangway and at the nearest cross-heading to the face of the inside and outside chamber or breast where men are employed and the heading shall not be driven more than sixty (60) feet from the face of each chamber or breast and shall be entered in the colliery report book

Section 16 A report of these air measurements shall be sent to the inspector before the twelfth day of each month for the preceding month together with a statement of the number of persons employed in each district

Section 17 All ventilators used in mines shall be provided with recording instruments by which the speed of the ventilators or the ventilating pressure shall be registered for each hour and such data shall be preservevd at the colliery for future reference for a period of three (3) months

Section 18 Any person or persons who shall neglect or refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this article or who shall make any false report in regard to air measurements shall be guilty of an offense against this act

Maps and Plans

Section 1 The owner operator or superintendent of every coal mine or colliery shall make or cause to be made an accurate map or plan of the workings or excavations of such coal mine or colliery on a scale of one hundred feet to the inch which map or plan shall exhibit the workings or excavations in each and every seam of coal and the tunnels and passages connecting with such workings or excavations It shall state in degrees the general inclination of the strata with any material deflection therein said workings or excavations and shall also state the tidal elevations of the bottom of each and every shaft slope tunnel and gangway and of any other point in the mine or on the surface where such elevation shall be deemed necessary by the inspector The map or plan shall show the number of the last survey station and date of each survey on the gangways or the most advanced workings it shall also show section of the seam on each gangway together with the coal thickness It shall also accurately show the boundary lines of the lands of the said coal mine or colliery and the proximity of the workings thereto and in case any mine contains any water dammed up in any part thereof it shall be the duty of the owner operator or superintendent to cause the true location of the said dam to be accurately marked on said map or plan together with the tidal elevation inclination of strata and area of said workings containing water and whenever any workings or excavations are approaching the workings where such dam or water is contained or situated the owner operator or superintendent shall notify the inspector of the same without delay

A true copy of which map or plan the said owner operator or superintendent shall deposit with the inspector of mines for the district in which the said coal mine or colliery is situated showing the workings of each seam if so desired by the inspector on a separate sheet of tracing muslin One copy of the said map or plan shall be kept at the colliery

Section 2 The said owner operator or superintendent shall as often as once in every six months place or cause to be placed on the said inspector's map or plan of said coal mine or colliery the plan of the extensions made in such coal mine or colliery during the preceding six months The said extensions shall be placed on the inspector's map and the map returned to the inspector within two months from the date of the last survey

Section 3 When any coal mine or colliery is worked out preparatory to being abandoned or when any lift thereof is about to be abandoned the owner operator or superintendent of such coal mine or colliery shall have the maps or plans thereof extended to include all excavations as far as practicable and such portions thereof as have been worked to the boundary lines of adjoining properties or any part or parts of the workings of which it is intended to be allowed to fill with water must be surveyed in duplicate and such surveys must practically agree and certified copies be filed with the inspector of the district in which the mines are situated

Section 4 Whenever the owner operator or superintendnt of any coal mine or colliery shall neglect or refuse or from any cause not satisfactory to the inspector shall fail for a period of three months to furnish to the inspector the map or plan of said colliery or of the extensions thereof as provided for in this act the inspector is hereby authorized to cause an accurate map or plan of such coal mine or colliery to be made at the expense of the owner thereof which cost shall be recoverable from said owner as other debts are by law recoverable

Section 5 If the inspector finds or has reason to believe that any map or plan of any coal mine or colliery furnished under the provisions of this act is materially inaccurate it shall be his duty to make application to the Court of Common Pleas of the county in which such colliery is situated for an order to have an accurate map or plan of said colliery prepared and if such survey shall prove that the map furnished was materially inaccurate or imperfect such owner operator or superintendent shall be liable for the expense incurred in making the same

Section 6 If it shall be found that the map or plan furnished by the owner operator or superintendent was not materially inaccurate or imperfect the Commonwealth shall be held liable for the expense incurred in making said test survey

Section 7 If it shall be shown that the said owner operator or superintendent has knowingly or designedly caused or allowed such map or plan when furnished to be incorrect or false such owner operator or superintendent thus offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or imprisonment not exceeding three months at the discretion of the court

Section 8 The maps or plans of the several coal mines or collieries in each district and which are placed in the custody of the inspector shall be the property of the Commonwealth and shall remain in the care of the inspector of the district in which the said collieries are situated to be transferred by him to his successor in office and in no case shall a copy of the same be made without the consent of the owner operator or superintendent

Section 9 The inspector's map or plan of any particular colliery shall be open for inspection in the presence of the inspector to any miner or miners of that colliery whenever said miner or miners shall have cause to fear his or their working place or places are becoming dangerous by reason of the proximity to other workings which may be supposed to contain water or dangerous gases or for any other reason map shall also be open to the inspection and examination of any citizen interested during business hours

Section 10 It shall be obligatory on the owners of adjoining coal properties to leave or cause to be left a pillar of coal in each seam or vein of coal worked by them along the line of adjoining property of such width that taken in connection with the pillar to be left by the adjoining property owner will be a sufficient barrier for the safety of the employees of either mine in case the other should be abandoned and allowed to fill with water such width of pillar to be determined by the engineer of the adjoining property owners together with the inspector of the district in which the mine is situated and the surveys of the face of the workings along such pillars shall be made in duplicate and must practically agree A copy of such duplicate surveys certified to must be filed with the owners of the adjoining properties and with the inspector of the district in which the mine or property is situated

Section 11 Any person firm or corporation who fails to comply with the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE IX

General Rules

Section 1 In every working approaching any place where there is likely to be an accumulation of explosive gas or where workings are required to be examined by safety lamps before the men enter the mine as required in section three article four of this act no light or fire other than a locked safety lamp shall be allowed or used unless permission is given in writing by the inspector of the district specifying what kind of lamps may be used if the inspector gives permission in writing to the superintendent to use other than locked safety lamps he can withdraw that permission in writing at any time to prevent the use of open lights in the mine In testing for gas however the use of any safety lamp approved by the chief of the Department of Mines will be permitted

Section 2 No one except a duly authorized person shall have in his possession a key of any other contrivance for the purpose of unlocking any safety lamp in any mine where locked safety lamps are used No Lucifer matches or any other apparatus for striking light shall be taken into such mine or parts thereof

Section 3 Every workman in want of props ties cappieces rails or timbers shall notify the mine foreman or his assistant of the fact at least one day in advance giving the length of the props or timber required and in case of danger from loose roof or sides he shall not continue to cut or load coal until the said props and timber have been properly furnished and the place made secure A failure to furnish articles above mentioned to the miner or workman ordering the same on the part of the owner operator superintendent or mine foreman shall be deemed an offense against this act and shall be taken to be negligence per se on the part of the owner operator superintendent or mine foreman as the case may be of such mine in any action for the recovery of damages for accidents resulting from insufficient propping of such mine through failure to furnish the necessary props or timbers

Section 4 No blast shall be fired in any mine where locked safety lamps are used except by permission of the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman and before a blast is fired the person in charge must examine the place and adjoining places and satisfy himself that it is safe to fire such blast before such permission is given

Section 5 The doors of any carriage cage bucket or gun boat shall not face downwards while persons are being hoisted or lowered in any shaft slope or plane

Section 6 No person shall ride upon or against any loaded car cage or gun boat in any shaft slope or plane in or about a mine or colliery

BILLS RECOMMITED.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 657, the bill just read, be recommitted to the Committee on Mines and Mining for further consideration.

Mr. HUNTER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Beaver a question.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Beaver, Mr. Thompson, permit himself to be interrogated by the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, is that the minority report bill or is it the majority report bill.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, the minority.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I do not think that that bill ought to go back. Now, that bill has been considered along with the majority report bill during the whole of this session, and as I understand this bill has received as much consideration as has the majority report bill. This bill is supported by the miners over in the coal regions, I think to a man; the other bill is being opposed by them, and I think the bill should be left on the Calendar and voted on. It has had all the consideration that this Senate can reasonably give it.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. KURTZ. Mr. President. I think we are entirely out of order in this proposition. As Chairman of the Mines and Mining Committee, I wish to say that the committee has had some hearings on this bill, also on the majority report bill. We want to get it back there. I think the two different factions can get together, as I was told by some of our friends they can and I would like to get it back so that they can get together on it. I move to amend the motion to recommit Senate Bill 657, so that the motion shall be that both Senate Bills 657 and 656, be recommitted to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion as amended?

It was agreed to.

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL NO. 1155 (HOUSE BILL NO. 1139).

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 1155 (House Bill No. 1139), entitled:

An Act to amend an act entitled "An Act relating to corporations and estates held for corporate religious and charitable uses' 'approved the twenty-sixth day of April one thousand eight hundred fifty-five as amended by the supplement to said act approved the second day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred eighty-seven and further amended by the act approved the first day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred seven by altering the seventh section and by repealing the sixth section thereof was defeated on final passage this evening.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I voted "No."

Mr. ENDSLEY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. ENDSLEY. Mr. President, I voted "No."

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move that the question together with the further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. ENDSLEY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, May 5th, 1913.

The House met at 8 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

The Chaplain (Rev. J. E. Wright) offered the following prayer:

O God, Thou hast said in Thy Word, "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint." Help us to remember what this Scripture means to us. We need the renewal of our strength as we take up again the work which is before us, for as the session advances and the work presses and the summer comes with its withering heat, we are conscious of a lassitude and an apathy which is seriously in danger of interfering with our work. May we not yield to this, Lord but steadfastly resist it, and looking to Thee may we find the strength which we need. May we have high ideals and loftly aspirations. May we imitate the eagle who soars towards the skies. May we run, not merely with patience, but with alacrity and cheerfulness along the paths marked out for us of duty and of service. And may we have the strength for that hardest of all requirements, the patience and perisistence to walk along the way, even though the way seems rugged and the path seems hard; and though we do not have the cheer of outward success or victory, yet let us patiently and persistently go along the way. So shall we make progress; so shall we honor Thee and honor the people who have chosen us to serve them; and Thy name shall have the praise of it, now and forever. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, May 1st, 1913.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, May 1st, 1913, when on motion of Mr. Hess the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO OFFICIAL SONGS

Mr. SPIESER offered the following resolution which was read and laid over for printing.

Whereas, There have been proposed as official songs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania two compositions, one by Edgar M. Dilley, of Philadelphia, and another by John E. Barrett, of Scranton, both called "Pennsylvania."

And Whereas, Resolutions have been introduced requesting the endorsement of this General Assembly for each of these compositions.

Therefore, be it Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives that a Joint Committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, two to be appointed by the President of the Senate, and three to be appointed by the Speaker of the House inquire into and test by competition, if necessary, the merits and availability of the said compositions for selection as the official song of this Commonwealth, and to make such recommendations as they shall deem proper.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. The resolution offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Speiser, setting forth—

The SPEAKER. The resolution offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia is not up for consideration at the present time. Under the rules it has to lie over for printing, and will then be in order for consideration.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, haven't I the right to raise the point of order whether this resolution is in order or not?

The SPEAKER The Chair is of the opinion that until the resolution is printed its consideration is not in order, and until its consideration is in order, a point of order cannot be raised against it.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING INFORMATION FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL RELATIVE TO SENATE ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT offered a resolution which was read as follows:

Whereas, The Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is now in session, and

Whereas, The Senate has without the concurrence of the House on several occasions adjourned upon Wednesday to reconvene the following Monday night at eight oclock, and

Whereas, Article second, Section fourteen of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania reads as follows:

"Neither House shall without the consent of the other adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting."

Whereas, Parlimentary decisions and opinions are conflicting upon the question as to whether or not Sunday in the contemplation of the above section of the Constitution of Pennsylvania in reference to the adjournment of either branch of the Legislature without the consent of the other is a dies non, and

Whereas, It is desirable that this question be determined for the expedition of legislation in the present session, therefore

Be it Resolved, That the Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be requested, and is hereby requested, to inform the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on or before Monday, the twelfth day of May, 1913, whether or not in the contemplation of the aforesaid section of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, Sunday is a dies non, and whether or not it is lawful for either branch of the Legislature to adjourn without the consent of the other for a period of four full days, one of which is Sunday, and whether or not it is lawful in the contemplation of the aforesaid section of the Constitution of Pennsylvania for either branch of the Legislature without the consent of the other to adjourn upon Wednesday to reconvene upon the following Monday.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the adoption of the resolution?

The SPEAKER announced that the ayes seemed to have it,

Whereupon,

A division was called for and 118 gentlemen, or more than the majority of the whole House having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the resolution was adopted.

Mr. SWARTZ offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the House of Representatives, May 5, 1913.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 964, entitled "An Act authorizing and empowering township supervisors in townsips of the second class to enter into contract with electric, gas or other light companies for the purpose of lighting and illuminating the streets, highways and other public places in any village in said township, and to provide for the collection of funds for that purpose by levying a tax upon owners of property in the district benefited," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO ADOPTION OF STATE SONG.

Mr. NORTH offered a resolution which was read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, May 5, 1913.

Whereas, the State of Pennsylvania has in so many particulars occupied a very important place in the history and development of the United States of America, being in the very foremost rank of the great States of this Union in wealth, population, mining, manufacturing, commerce, and education, and unquestionably has a future before it which will lead to still higher and greater accomplishments; and

Whereas, it is always commendable to stimulate patriotism and State pride, which can most easily be done through the agency of verse and song; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur, That the song- entitled, "PENNSYLVANIA", by a native born Pennsylvanian, Mr. Arthur H. Haskins, of Reynoldsville, Jefferson County, Pennsylvania, as follows, to-wit:

PENNSYLVANIA

Dear old Pennsylvania grand old state to thee our praise we sing
We love thy valleys and thy hills where woodland echoes ring
We love to sing the praise of deeds of by gone days and may ne'er cease
To praise thy name so grand and great
Hail Pennsylvania our grand old State.

'Twas here that Liberty was born in days of long ago
'Twas here that men made history when fighting fiercest foe
We love thy memory thou friend of Liberty and to freedoms cause
Thy name we humbly dedicate
Hail Pennsylvania our Keystone State.

Dear Pennnsylvania native state to thee our hearts we raise
From shore to shore let echoes ring with songs of endless praise
Our hearts will ever be filled with true loyalty and through all the years
May Heaven guard and guide thy fate
Hail Pennsylvania our grand old State.

be and the same hereby is declared and adopted as the State song of the State of Pennsylvania.

BILLS ON POSTPONED CALENDAR.

The SPEAKER. Any gentleman having bills on the postponed calendar on third reading or final passage will kindly send memoranda of the same to the desk. This is the last day for calling up bills which are on the postponed calendar prior to the adoption of the resolution of April 24th. Any bills called up to-night and not disposed of to-night through lack of time will be listed and carried over until to-morrow. Is this arrangement satisfactory to the House?

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the Chair to mean that if there are any bills that are not reached to-morrow will be dropped from the calendar?

The SPEAKER. The bills will be carried over until to-morrow, if not reached to-night, and will be disposed of one way or the other.

Mr. SPEISER. Then a request placed with the Chair will save the bills from being dropped from the calendar no matter when reached?

The SPEAKER. These bills will be taken up one after the other in order. This is the only way in which fairness can be given to members who desire to call up their bills, because there might be more bills called up to-night than might be considered.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from page 12, to-day's calendar, bills on final passage postponed, House Bill No. 1248.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from page thirty-three of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed, House Bill No. 790.

Agreeably to order,
The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 790, entitled:

An Act to fix the salary of county solicitor in counties containing a population of more than two hundred and fifty thousand and less than one million and providing for the payment thereof

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass?

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, this bill increases the salary of the County Solicitor from fifteen hundred dollars to twenty-seven hundred dollars. I don't care to go into detailed argument of this bill but it is entirely uncalled for. It applies to Lackawanna County and Luzerne County, and I believe that you can get men to do the work satisfactorily for fifteen hundred dollars. Therefore, I hope this bill will be defeated, for it is entirely uncalled for in our county.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, this bill is introduced to get sufficient pay for these solicitors of Luzerne and Lackawanna Counties, who happen to be efficient men in their positions and I don't think—in fact, I know from personal knowledge of the affairs of these counties, that the salary fixed is not too high. In fact, it is not high enough, but it was lessened by myself in committee in order that the bill might have a better chance of passing. You can take it from the gentlemen who are members from Luzerne and Lacakawanna Counties, with the exception of Mr. Hobbs, that this bill is a fair one and that it does not call for too much salary.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Conniff, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if the County Commissioner, as a rule, fix the salaries of the County Solicitors.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, no, sir.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman when there is a vacancy in that position do you have any trouble in getting candidates at the present salary?

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir; at the present salary we do. This bill is introduced in order that the salary may be sufficient to obtain efficient men in these positions.

Mr. SPEAKER. these positions of county solicitor of these counties occupy the time of both these solicitors, and this bill is introduced in order that they may devote their whole time to the affairs of these counties and be paid sufficiently therefor.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, I do not doubt that the gentleman's word in regard to Luzerne county, but pertaining to Lackawanna county, there are many applicants for the position at the present salary. Please vote this bill down.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, this is the first time that I have been out of my seat to agree to a salary raiser. I believe that this is a very meritorious bill. I am thoroughly acquainted with all the circumstances connected with it and in a conversation with the county Controller. who is a very careful man in our county, he agreed with me that this was a very meritorious salary raiser and didn't think it was quite large enough in this particular instance. I hope the bill will pass.

On the question.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 1909, file folio 7159, on page 13 of to-day's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1909, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the sixteenth day of March one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six entitled "An Act to prevent and punish prize fights and boxing matches in the counties of Pike Schuylkill Luzerne Erie and Montgomery in so far as refers to the county of Erie

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, for fear some of the gentlemen of the House may mistake this bill for one other that was introduced, I have been requested to explain the meaning of this bill. The Act of 1866, as you will recall, prohibits exhibitions of boxing in the Counties of Luzerne and those enumerated in the title, Erie being among others. There has been some demand in the past ten or twelve years in Erie county for a repeal of this act, as respects that county. Those old members of the House will recall that the provisions of this act concerning Luzerne. Montgomery and Schuylkill have already been lifted. This applies only to Erie county and has nothing to do with the law excepting as it relates to exhibitions of sparring and boxing in the other counties and the other parts of the State. The law would still be under police regulation and being a local matter, if there is any responsibility, I suppose it falls upon me to shoulder it. I hope the House will assist by voting "aye" on this bill.

On the question, recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I am in receipt of a telegram which has been handed to me, from the Chairman of the Committee on Banks and Banking. He desires to postpone House Bill No. 1019 and under the rules of the House it cannot be further postponed.

I therefore desire to call up House Bill No. 1019, file folio 5439, on page 12 of to-day's calendar, bills on final passage postponed, which is known as the banking bill.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1019, entitled:

An Act providing for the liquidation distribution of assets and dissolution of corporations under the supervision of the Commissioner of Banking and providing for the conservation and management of such corporations and their business

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Howard is not here, and I therefore move that the time of this bill be extended one day.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Section 12 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have an explanation on this bill from some one interested therein. It seems to me it is a little peculiar to authorize cities of the first class to go outside of their jurisdiction and authority and operate street railways. The proposition itself may be perfectly proper, but I would like to hear some reasons for it.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, cities of the first class—I might say, the city of the first class, is really larger than the corporate limits either of itself or of the county and in order to make a comprehensive system, which will be adequate not only for the present, but for the near future, it is necessary to give it the same power without its boundaries as within it. The growth of population does not stop at the city line by any means, and there is no reason why a unitary system should not prevail, giving facilities to the populations which are technicallly known as suburban, but as a matter of fact belong to the city itself.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that bill to mean that if the City of Philadelphia desired to extend a railway through one of the boroughs of Delaware county, it could assert the right of eminent domain in doing so?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the power is exercised subject to the consent of the local authorities.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, subject to the consent of the borough council, I suppose?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman will find in file folio of the Senate, 3255, line 7, of the second section, on page two of the bill, the following language:

"Such rights shall only be exercised by any of said cities within the limits of adjacent cities, boroughs and townships, subject to the consent and approval of the proper authorities of such adjacent cities, boroughs and townships, lawfully empowered to regulate or to consent to the construction maintenance and operation of such transit facilities therein ....."

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the author of this bill or those who are supporting it if they would not make it a special order for to-morrow morning as I realize that I am so much interested in it that I would like to give a little more careful examination of it.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I was going to say that while I believe the interrogations of the gentleman from Delaware have been fully answered, I believe both the sponsor of the bill and those friendly to it will have no objection to having it made a special order for to-morrow morning.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, while I realize that that is a question that is very important, yet there may be several other propositions contained in this bill that I do not at the moment think of and I must certainly ask the gentlemen to postpone the bill until some time to-morrow, and I am willing to join in the special order.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe the friends of the measure will have any objections, but I think the motion should emanate from the gentleman from Delaware.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1886 MADE A SPECIAL ORDER.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be made a special order for to-morrow morning at eleven thirty o'clock.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 984, as follows:

An Act to provide for the registration and enrollment of the voters of the State according to their respective party preferences and to prescribe penalties for false registration and for voters voting or attempting to vote and for election officers permitting or conspiring to permit them to vote at a primary by or on any other than their own proper party ticket

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That at each and every registration of voters held under any of the election and registration laws of this State whether it is a personal registration or otherwise and in all cities counties boroughs townships and all other districts there shall be a registration and enrollment of the voters according to their respective party preferences and affiliations Provided however that if at any time the laws of this Commonwealth shall provide for non partisan primaries this act shall apply only to such enrollment and registration of voters as shall be made for or effective for a party primary

Section 2 In all election districts where personal registration is required in addition to other questions to be asked and answered and record made of the answer the voter shall be interrogated and his answer shall be recorded as to the political party with which he is affiliated and at whose next primary he desires to vote and this party preference or affiliation shall be certified with and in the same manner as all other matters of which record is made Provided however that if any voter does not desire to vote at party primary election he shall not be required to answer as to his party affiliation and in such case his party affiliation shall not be recorded

Section 3 In all election districts in which personal registration is not required and in which the registry of voters is made by assessors registers or registrars the person making the registry shall ascertain by inquiry of the voter when practicable and by the best other means in his power the party politics preferences or affiliations of the voter and note and record the same with the residence and other particulars required in registration and the same shall be returned and certified with the names of the voters

Section 4 Any elector who is dissatisfied with the registration made of his party preferences or affiliations or whose preferences and affiliations have not been ascertained designated or recorded may have the registry corrected amended altered or enlarged so as to secure a correct registration in the same manner and by the same process as are provided by law for the correction and amendment of the registry in other particulars provided that such amendments shall not be made later than ten days before any primary election at which the voter desires or intends to vote

Section 5 No voter at a primary shall be allowed to receive or vote the ballot of any given political party who is not enrolled or registered as herein provided as a member of that party

Section 6 Any assessor or registrar willfully violating any of the provisions of this act or willfully registering any false statement of any elector or registering as the member of a political party one whom he knows not to be such or excluding from a party registry or enrollment any voter whom he knows to be entitled thereto shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than thirty (30) days nor more than one (1) year and a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) and not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) and in addition thereto he shall be deprived of the right of suffrage for a term of four (4) years from the date of his conviction

Section 7 Any elector who shall willfully make any false affidavit or statement to any assessor registrar with intent to procure the false party enrollment or registration of himself or of any other voter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than thirty (30) days nor more than one (1) year and a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) and not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) and in addition thereto he shall be deprived of the right of suffrage for a term of four (4) years from the date of his conviction

Section 8 Any voter or elector of this Commonwealth willfully voting or attempting to vote at any primary election in violation of the provisions of this act or any election officer willfully receiving or conspiring to receive the vote of any elector casting the ballot as a voter of any political party not qualified as a member of said party under the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than thirty (30) days nor more than one (1) year and a fine of not less than one hundred dollars (100) and not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) and in addition thereto he shall be deprived of the right of suffrage for a term of four (4) years from the date of his conviction

Section 9 All laws or acts of Assembly inconsistent or in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this motion is made for the purpose of subsequently making a motion to recommit the bill to the Committee on Elections.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I understand the purpose of the motions is to recommit this bill to the Elections Committee and I am opposed to that motion for the reason that the opponents of this bill were given every opportunity to consider it and amend it. At the time the bill was reported from the election committee I was asked if I would consider an amendment to the bill, which I did, and not only that, but accepted the amendment and had it inserted in the bill.

I might briefly state the purpose of the act. It is to provide for the registration and enrollment of voters and add a qualification to a vote for the purpose of voting at a primary election by requiring him to register as to the party with which he is affiliated. This is certainly no hardship upon a vote because when he goes to the primary election he must call for his party ballot and at that time declare his affiliation. This merely requires him to register that at the time he registers, the purpose being to prevent party raiding which has become very common under our present system of holding uniform primary elections. This, Mr. Speaker, might be characterized as an election reform. Certainly, in my judgment, there has been no bill offered here this session, which has been more in the interest of clean elections. In some of the districts of this Commonwealth I am told that the members of one political party steal the nominations of other parties by having their members go in and call for some ballot other than their own and vote that ballot at the primary.

I see no reason why this bill should not take its regular course and go to a vote at this time.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this motion now being a motion to reconsider the vote by which this bill passed third reading, has been made for the purpose of having the bill recommitted, as has been said by the gentleman from Elk, to the Elections Committee. I was under the impression that he had agreed to have it recommitted to the Elections Committe. The purpose in having this referred back to the Elections Committee is not antagonistic. At the present time there are in the Senate a great many election bills, some that we sent over from this House to the Senate and which at the present time are reposing in their Elections Committee, and we understand that there are a great many bills that the Senate has seen fit to introduce and have already passed or are about to pass, which will come to the House. Some of them have been bills recommended by the Election Commission, of which the gentleman from Elk was a member. I understand that this bill is a bill that was recommended by the Election Commission. Now if we should consider this bill in the House and pass it in my mind it would be an improper position to place the members of the House in. If this bill was put back in the Elections Committee it will then be taken up with the other election bills, one of which is almost identical with this bill, and we can then dispose of all this legislation together. Now, surely, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Elk, desiring to have this legislation pass the House, will not compel any of those who are friendly to his bill to oppose it because of his attitude in refusing to allow this bill to go back to the Committee on Elections, of which he is a member and as he will be there when action is taken on it. The Committee has already expressed itself upon this bill by reporting it out and surely there can be no great hardship in having this bill go back to the Committee.

Therefore, I ask that the members allow the reconsideration of this vote and subsequently the motion to recommit the bill to the Elections Committee. In doing this I am not doing it antagonistic to the general purpose of the bill in its entirety. I think there are many portions of the bill which are beneficial, but some portions of it ought to be scrutnized before it is passed so as to see that we are not passing legislation contrary to the spirit of the laws expressed in this bill.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, it strikes me that the purpose of the motion to recommit this bill or the reconsideration of the vote by which it passed third reading, is none other than a desire to kill the bill. This bill was considered in the Elections Committee and after this bill was on the calendar and the Committee of Elections held a meeting last week the bill was again considered and it was decided by the Committee, after an informal discussion, that the place to meet any objections to this bill was on the floor of the House and there was no reason for that committee asking that the bill be recommitted to their committee, so we now have the bill ready for final passage and I see no reason why we should wait for the Senate to pass some law on this subject. We did not wait for the Senate to pass a primary law before we considered that subject. We did not wait for the Senate to pass a corrupt practice act and send it over to us for consideration before we acted on legislation on that subject. We did not wait for them to send us a non-partisan primary bill for our consideration. In all election matters in this session the House has taken the initiative and has passed bills on almost every subject pertaining to elections and looking to carrying out the reforms pledged by our parties and this is one of them and its only purpose is to prevent the raiding of one party by the members of another and I beleve every member of the House who beleves that a man should stay within his own party primary and should not raid any other party, will be in favor of this bill and I see no reason to reconsider the vote by which it passed third reading, or why we should refer it back to the Elections Committee simply for the purpose of intending to kill it or delay it, and I hope this motion will not prevail and that the bill will go upon final passage and then if any gentleman who is trying to kill this bill by referring it back to the Elections Committee can convince the House that it is an improper bill, the House will avail itself of the knowledge secured and kill it then.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia has referred to this bill in a manner that would perhaps lead members to believe that it was a complex proposition. There is only one thing in the bill, to wit: It provides an additional qualification for an elector to vote at the primaries, and that qualification is that he must register as to which party he is affiliated with. That is all there is to it, and that alone. Why should that bill be sent back to the committee to consider that? Why not consider it now? Mr. Speaker, there has been a great deal said about reform in our election laws, and I want to say now, "Consistency thou art a jewel," so let this bill come to a vote on the floor of the House and we will then find out who is going to oppose this measure, which is a reform measure and good legislation, and on that, Mr. Speaker. I insist upon the yeas and nays.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, there is no question that in many of the elements of this bill it is a reform bill and good legislation. If this legislation will do that which on its face it appears to do, the stopping of the raiding of the opposite party, or rather the minority party, or parties, by the majority party, it does a very great good. But I see by the Senate calendar, Mr. Speaker, that in the Senate there are many bills being offered for the consideration of the Senate, and later for the consideration of this House, which, if they pass in connection with this bill, instead of making it a reform bill, it is going to make it a bill that will not only stifle but kill every likelihood of reform or independent movement. If, for instance, this bill becomes a law on the statute books, if we allow this bill, in its present form to get over to the Senate, and then the bill that the Senate has suggested comes to this House and becomes a law, a bill to prevent the nomination of candidates by nomination papers, where is the independent movement to be. Many an independent voter will not go to a primary and register his party, and by not doing that, he forfeits his right of voting in a primary election. Many of us will register our party and go to the primary and insist upon our vote, but the independent voter, who is satisfied to surrender his right to vote at a primary rather than disclose the fact that he belongs to an independent party, that voter will be beyond all possibility of placing an independent candidate in the field with any successful strength, if another law which is now on its way towards this House becomes a law on the statute books, which prevents the putting of a candidate on the ballot by nomination papers. We are not, Mr. Speaker, against this reform legislation, but we suspect the haste with which it is being put through. We suspect the haste by which it is being placed out of our hands into the hands of the Senate. We do not trust the Senate. That is the reason we ask this House to hold this bill until we see what bill they send over here, and whether or not our suspicions that the majority of the reform election laws coming from the Senate are not laws to stifle any possibility of independence at the elections. Now, Mr. Speaker, we do not think that the gentleman from Elk who offers this bill has the right to say that we are sending this bill back to the committee for the purpoes of killing it. He himself is a powerful member of that committee. The other gentlemen who spoke, the gentleman from Crawford, is himself a member of that committee, and takes very active action in the decisions of the committee. The gentlemen on this side who are asking that the bill go back to the committee, are also members of the Election Committee. There is no possibility in that committee of killing any legislation that is proper and meritorious legislation, and with few exceptions, those of us who are asking to recommit this bill to the Elections Committee will more than likely support it in its substantial parts. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I do not understand why the gentleman from Elk and the gentleman from Crawford, should ask that this bill be voted on when we are merely asking the House to hold it so that we can consider the bills in their entirety that are being offered upon election matters. We are not only voting on reform elections laws, but we are standing here opposing the adjournment of this Legislature in order that we may force reform in election laws. Now I hope that the gentleman from Elk and the gentleman from Crawford, who are undoubtedly in favor of the advancement of reform in election laws, will not insist upon their opposition to the recommitment of this bill to the committee.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I admire in some ways the resourcefulness of the gentleman from Philadelphia, but sometimes I believe he speaks a long time without quoting very much if anything that is of fact in the case. He has talked a great deal this evening about haste. I want to call the attention of the House to the fact that this bill was presented on the 25th of February and that it is now the 5th day of May. I cannot see that there is any undue haste upon the part of the gentleman from Elk in offering the bill for consideration now. Not long ago the gentleman from Elk offered to place this bill upon the postponed calendar, but no one took advantage of the offer, and besides we have the argument that the Senate Elections Committee are holding up several of the reform legislation bills, that the House has passed, and we are asked to hold this bill back to watch and see what our friends on the other side of the House are going to do, because, as the gentleman has said, we do not trust them, and that we had better wait and see what they are going to do. Now, in the trial of a case, do we wait and see what matter sentence the Judge imposes before we proceed with the trial of the case. What we should do is clean up the calendar and let them dispose of the bills as they see fit. I do not think in a matter of legislation that we should sit here and offer amendments to try to stifle the bill by unfair means, by killing it, and putting it back to the committee. This House understands what the bill concerns and what is in it. There is only one thing that is necessary to do under this bill, there is only one more qualification and that is when a voter registers he must declare to which party he belongs. I hope the House will vote this motion down.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, there are several objections to this bill and several reasons why it should go back to the committee. A voter can with perfect propriety belong to two parties at the same time. What I mean is this: That as politics have developed in this State in the last ten years there are distinct local parties overlapping national parties, and many good, patriotic citizens have belonged to both at the same time without the slightest conflict of their principles.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. The gentleman will.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman if he wishes to state to the House that a voter can call for two distinct party tickets at a primary election.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I made no such asserion as that.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, then I would ask the gentleman if it is not true that a voter must choose what party ballot he calls for at the primaries just as he would be required to choose with what party he registers under this act?

Mr S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, that is true, but entirely irrelevant. This bill ought to be so arranged that it will not compel a person to fix himself on national issues and cut himself out on local issues.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, as Chairman of the Committee on Elections, I feel that this bill ought to go back to the committee. When the bill originally came out it was with the understanding that it was to be recommitted. The committee did not take any affirmative action on the bill and subsequently the question was raised, and the sponsor of the bill, however, declined to have the bill recommitted. The committee was called together to pass on the bill. We did not have the bill with us and the committee decided that the best thing to do was not to attempt to take the bill off the calendar. The committee has, however, not taken affirmative action in reporting the bill out. I feel that there is a very valid reason for recommitting it. We have passed through this House a non-partisan election law, the purpose of which is to do away both in the primaries and in the elections with the distinction between the National and present State parties for local elections. We believe that this bill intensifies the distinction between them, and will intensify the distinction between them both at local and national elections unless the non-partisan bill passes the Senate. I think the question as to whether this bill shall apply upon local elections or upon National elections, will have a very decided effect upon our opinion as to whether or not it is good legislation. I feel that this bill ought to be held in the House from my point of view at least until the Senate has taken action upon the non-partisan ballot act. If that bill passes the Senate, my most serious objection to this bill will be ended, and I will feel differently towards it.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walnut.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman tell us how many times he has changed his political spots in the last seven years.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will consider that a party is merely a question of principle, I will tell the gentleman, not once in the last seven years.

Mr. WILTBANK. Have you not changed the name of your party?

Mr. WALNUT. The name of the party has been changed but the principle never.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, then I would like to ask the gentleman the reason for changing name of the party.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, the reason for changing the name is probably the reason that the gentleman wants, namely, that we changed it because we considered that our primaries had been raided upon.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, that is exactly what I am getting at, and that is exactly what this bill is aimed to kill. They have gone to work in Philadelphia and changed the name of the party several times, and we have had the Philadelphia Party, and the Penn Party, the Keystone Party and the City Party. They claim that their party has been raided, and I am going to ask them why they have changed their spots so many times.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, there seems to be some confusion here as to the relation that may exist between this act and some proposed act that may be in existence affecting the nomination of independent candidates and the puting of their names on the ballot by nomination papers. I think that in the opinion of the members who have read this bill, they will not suspect for a moment that there is anything in this bill that in any way effects the right of an independent party or an association of individuals in establishing an independent party and nominating their own candidates by nomination papers. The gentleman from Philadelphia refers to a bill on that subject that is now pending in the Senate. I think that we have had a good deal of experience in this House with election bills. While the gentleman from Philadelphia may feel that he cannot trust the Senate, and while there may be a good many of us who feel somewhat the same way, yet I believe that on an election bill we can trust our Senate and these elections bill that the gentleman is so much in fear of must run the gauntlet of the Election Committee of that House, and I think that a bill such as has been described by the gentleman from Philadelphia will have rough sledding in that House. That bill will have a most severe drilling; I think that we need not have any fear in connection with this bill which might make it injurious to the best interests of the community. This bill in itself is absolutely meritorious as the gentleman must admit. The gentleman from Philadelphia admits that they have changed their names in each campaign and I think the gentlemen from Philadelphia, who are interested in the independent movements of that city, should be glad and anxious to have an act passed that will enable them at least to maintain it through two campaigns, and that is something they cannot do under the existing law. I think the Republican party to-day believes that it should have a right to nominate its own candidates. I believe the Washington party believes they should have the right and I believe that right should be preserved to them. I feel that the Democratic party feels that they should have the right to control their nominations. I believe the right should be secured to them. The only way to protect a political party in Pennsylvania from the raiding of the other parties is by the enactment of this law. I hope the House will not join in the motion and kill it in committee. If you want to kill it and wish to do so in the House, that is another matter.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I don't want to go into any discussion as to the merits of this bill but I believe the motion made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott, should be voted on favorably by this House. It merely desires to vote to consider recommitment. There is a bill in the Senate that was introduced by Mr. Farley and I don't believe that we want to be doing double work. I say that that bill will be here to-morrow or the next day and the purpose of the motion is merely to give the members of this House on the Election Committee an opportunity to consider which of these two measures is most advisable. It is a kindness, this suggestion, by the gentleman from Philadelphia. There is no politics in this. The vote is no criterion as to which bill we shall accept. We want to give them both consideration. That bill will be before this House by Wednesday, if the Election Committee will meet to-morrow and we will have both bills before us. We can then intelligently discuss and consider them. I think that if this House will go into it in a practical manner, in a time-saving manner, and not deadlock ourselves, that is the proper thing to do. The only thing to do is to support this motion.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, in view of what I have heard from the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Speiser, if this bill will be brought to this House by the Elections Committee of the Senate, a meeting of the Elections Committee of the House will be called at once and both bills will be considered.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, as a member of this House, unfortunately I don't know what the Senate is doing. I do know however that they have the happy faculty of reporting things out and acting upon them up to a certain point and reporting them back and recommitting them. Some times, the recommitment lasts for a long, long time. It is stretching faith a great deal to believe or rather to take as a fact the statement of any gentleman on the floor of this House as to what the result of the Senate's action will be to-day, to-morrow or any time in the future,—the near future at least. I fail to see why all the opposition to this bill. I fail to grasp the meaning of working double time when it is argued by the gentleman on the other side that if we wait until the Senate bill comes over, we will have two bills to lay down and compare them by a Committee to act intelligently upon these two bills and refer our one or the other. I can see no opposition that any one can take in relation to this bill that will put it in a clear attitude in relation to the non-partisan ballot law. It is true that we have already passed a Non-Partisan Ballot Law. That has been already expressed in this House. Now we come along with another bill and this other bill says this: If you are to have a primary act that when a voter comes up and asks for his ticket he then and there goes upon record; he is asked what party, if any, he belongs to. If not any, he does not get a ballot. That is all there is to it. I am surprised at the sentiment expressed by those gentlemen on the floor of this House, who have stated that upon the floor of this House, that they have been independents for years and years, and my surprise is based upon the very argument which was used by the gentleman from Crawford, I believe, to wit: "That their party or organization has been raided time and time again by the opposition out of the oppositions own ranks." Why I came within one vote of being nominated by one of the great parties of this Commonwealth in my district, embracing according to the last census of the United States 193,395 people. There were just three votes cast by that great party, I got one, my opponent two, and he received the nomination. He got two and if I had asked two of my friends to vote that particular ticket and they had voted for me, I would have been the nominee of that great party. The party had been absolutely absorbed, if you please, by the other great party, and why? Because of the fact that the people who belonged to that party were seeking to express their choice as between the candidates of the one great party in that great district. That was why. But now in that district or many of the strong Republican districts of this great Commonwealth, twenty to thirty, to fifty, to a hundred to two hundred if you please, all your warmest and best friends and supporters can be taken away like chattels, can be delivered and then delivered in turn into the ballot box by means of some organization to which they have no right and no title and in which they have no interest and yet through that delivery, if you please, they secure for you the nomination upon a ticket which they never did and never will support. It seems to me, Mr. Speaker, one of the important things that should take place is that not only the regular old line party men should vote for the law proposed by every man who passes or claims to be an independent should sincerely vote for it. For the reason that in his community whether his organization be large or small it cannot be stolen from him. So, Mr. Speaker, I absolutely fail to comprehend the meaning of this attack to send back to the committee for action once again, a bill which on its face is as plain as this bill. I have the utmost confidence, Mr. Speaker, in the intelligence of the members of this House. I believe that there is not a man on the floor of this House but that can squarely vote for or against this bill. I believe that no one need hesitate in voting for this bill who voted for the Non-Partisan Primary Law, because of the fact that the two positions are perfectly in harmony, if you will only stop to think. I am opposed to these dilly-dally methods. It makes no difference to me whether a bill or a measure or some legislation emanated from one source or another, if that legislation be good, to my mind, it will receive my heartiest support. In this case I shall oppose sending this bill back to the committee and shall support the bill.

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the Election Committee, I wish to say a word or two relative to this bill that is before us at this time. I was present at the meeting of the Elections Committee when this bill was reported. I wish to say for the information of the members of the House that it was the understanding of the members of the Elections Committee when they presented that bill that it should be reported out simply for the purpose of securing a place on the calendar, and it was to go back in the committee for the purpose of amendment afterwards, and it has not been back to this committee.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from McKean, know that there was a subsequent meeting of the Elections Committee at which this bill was considered and at which the amendments which were made to the bill were considered and at which they ordered that the bill should remain on the calendar?

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, I am aware of no such meeting.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, there was such a meeting and they took that action.

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to hear from the Chairman of the Committee on that point.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, there was such a meeting but the committee did't have the bill in its possession and there was no way really of getting it back to the committee and I thought the best way was to permit the bill to remain on the calendar as the sponser of the bill was not in the committee when it was reported out and we didn't feel responsible for the action at the time, when the committee passed on the recommittal of the bill.

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, I feel that under the circumstances this bill should go back to the Election Committee for full consideration and I shall so vote.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say a word in reply to what the gentleman from McKean has said. This bill was reported out of the Election Committee and after it was reported out there was a difference of opinion between the different members of the committee as to just what the understanding was. Some contended that the understanding was that it was to be amended so as to exempt it from operation in cast a non-partisan primary law was decided upon. Others, as they remembered it, said that it was to be recommitted for the purpose of that amendments, or for some other purpose. By reason of the fact that I was the one that reported this bill out, and because of the fact that I was involved in the misunderstanding existing between the members of that committee, I asked the Chairman of the Elections Committee to call a meeting of that commitee on, I think, Thursday of last week, for the purpose of considering this bill and determining what the desire of the committe was with reference to recommitting the bill or of leaving it on the calendar as it was, and that meeting was held. The bill was discussed and the motion was made, and I made the motion myself, that it was the sense of that committee that this bill should remain upon the calendar of the House and not be recommitted to the committee. That was discussed at some length. I believe it was the Chairman of the committee or some member of the committee,—he at least acquiesced in it,—said that inasmuch as it was a matter to be met on the floor of the House, he didn't see any need of putting the question, but that the question could be met here when the bill came up for final passage. He never took the vote of the committe to determine what its position was. At the time, I believe there was no question, and I believe the Chairman of that Committee will say on this floor that there is no question in his mind but that, had he put the question, it wold have prevailed in the committee at that meeting. So I say that this bill was considered in committee. It is not necessary that the bill should be recommitted for the purpose of considering what the committee's attitude would be. Why, we talked over the nonpartisan primary law while it was on the calendar in order to save time in that committee, and we went over the corrupt practices act while it was on the calendar so as to save time. We considered those bills while they were pending before the House in order to same time that might have been lost by referring them back to the Elections Committee, and they were amended here, I think, some of them finally on third reading, as a result of the action of the committee; and I say that the commmittee did act on this and that the gentleman from McKean had notice of the meeting at which it was to be considered, because I gave him the notice myself.

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, I don't know what amendments will be considered by this Committee on Elecetions if this bill is recommitted to that committee. There are some features of this bill which I think are absolutely practical and in line with the progressive thought of this House, but there are other features of this bill which I believe would lead to interminable confusion on primary election day, and I refer praticularly to Section 3. In election districts where personal registration of voters is not required, where the registration, gentlemen, is made by the assessor of the districts, it expressly provides that the assessor registering voters shall determine for himelf by request of the voter, if possible, his political affiliations, and if he does not see that particular voter, he shall find out from other sources what his political affiliations are, and he shall so register that particular voter. Now, gentlemen, as applied to counties where personal registration is not required, I believe that this bill is absolutely impracticable, and if it could be amended by the Elections Committee, if it be referred to that Elections Committee, I think it is perfectly practical and perfectly right and in line with the progressive thought of this House to have it referred to that Committee.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, theer is one section of this bill that I think is an absolute misfit to the sparsely settled rural districts, and that is Section 3. It provides in lines 3, 4, 5 et cetera, that the registration shall be made by the asessor, and how shall he make it. It says that he shall make it by inquiry of the person to be registered, if practical. If not, by such other means in his power. What does that mean? If I am the assessor and I don't find you at home, I can go to your neighbor. He may be your friend and he may be your enemy, and you may be enrolled improperly, and if you live back ten or fifteen or twenty miles —some electors have to go that far to vote—you do not know how you are registered, and the next election, when you come to vote, you are disqualified and you cannot vote at all. The real purpose of the bill, I think, Mr. Speaker, is proper, but the bill as drawn does not suit me. If this question is put to a vote, I shall vote to recommit. If the motion is lost and the bill comes to a vote on final passage, I shall be compelled to vote against it for this reason.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. FLYNN and Mr. HUMES, and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, for the purpose of having the House understand the position of myself and those gentlemen on this side of the House who desire that action on this subject be postponed —I have been corrected and state this for myself—I do not want this House to be under any wrong impression on this bill. We are very much in favor of a bill of this character. It may be there are some deefcts in it, but on the whole the bill before us is a good measure. The purpose of the motion to recommit was to try to get the best bill on the subject we could. I also want to say Mr. Speaker, that it is my purpose and the purpose of some of the members on this side of the House to vote in favor of this bill.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I think that the sponsor of the bill and we people who expressed our interest in the measure—it is clearly evidenced now and has been supported by the House—it seems to me that it is not the proper thing to force the final passage of this bill upon the House at this time, and without a very thorough understanding of the bill. I therefore move, Mr. Speaker, that further action on this bill be postponed for the present. I would like to see the bill pass and shall support it, even now, or when it is called, but do not feel that now is the time and I make that motion for that reason.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, if there is anything in the bill that the members do not understand, if there was anything that would be incomprehensive to the average member, I would very cheerfully postpone the bill, or if there is any good reason which might be offered for the postponement of the bill to a special time, I will agree to that, but just to postpone the bill for the mere purpose of delaying action on it, without any better reason than has been given, I certainly am opposed to that action.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I really felt by making the motion for postponement for the present, that I would leave the matter entirely in the hands of the sponsor of the bill to call it up at such time as he saw fit. If he desires and will sugest a time for making a special order, I will gladly embody it in my motion.

I understand there is a special order for tomorrow at eleven thirty, is there not?

The SPEAKER. Yes, sir.

HOUSE BILL NO. 984 MADE A SPECIAL ORDER.

Mr. ALLEN. Then, Mr. Speaker, I move you that this bill be made a Special Order tomorrow morning at twelve o'clock.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I second that motion.

The motion was agreed to.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following motion.

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The motion was read by the Clerk as follows:

Moved by Wm. Walsh, Philadelphia, seconded by R. E. Keeport, Berks, that the vote by which House Bill No. 878, file folio No. 3111 No. 16 page 17 of Tuesday's calendar, April 29, was defeated on third reading, be reconsidered.

On the question

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER declared the ayes seem to have it,

Whereupon a division was called for, 84 voting in the affirmative and 68 in the negative.

And the question was determined in the affirmative.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I want to say just a word in relation to this motion. Two years ago I had the honor of being a member upon the floor of this House and this session there is a very small monirity that were members at that time. Two years ago we had identically the same experience with a bill of like character with this as we are having this session. The record will show, Mr. Speaker, that at that time a bill in relation to this same department was defeated. In due time the motion was made to reconsider the action, which was done. We placed the bill upon the calendar and that bill was then put upon a postponed calendar, and from the moment that that bill was placed upon the postponed calendar until it finally passed the House, as every member who is here and who will state the facts in the matter, will verify, from the very moment that that bill was placed upon the calendar of this House, until it came to the final vote, every power that was in existence in this State was used for the purpose of bringing in a sufficient number of votes to force this bill to pass. Now, Mr. Speaker, there are matters that are fair in all things and there are matters that are unjust and unfair to individuals and unfair to the people whom they represent. Upon this matter, Mr. Speaker. from the time almost that this bill, before it came out from the committee, as one of the members who had said a word in opposition to the bill two years ago and whose feelings were well known at that time and for no other reason, perhaps, I was sounded out in relation to this particular bill. At that time I said that I should only raise my voice against the bill, and so I would, Mr. Speaker, if this bill took its regular course, the regular course which bills of like character which have been defeated and are again resurrected and resumed and generally do take, and that is, to be immediately put upon their passage. But when I feel, Mr. Speaker, as I do at this moment, that the same moves are being made now as were made two years ago, I raise my voice in opposition to these moves, Mr. Speaker, not only as a matter of self-protection, but for the protection of those members of this House who are unacquainted with such methods. I am opposed and heartily opposed to this bill being postponed further. If there be sufficient merit in this bill, Mr. Seaker (and you all know that I have said no word against the bill), if you see sufficient merit in this bill to justify 104 members of this House in registering their vote for this bill, that meat is in this bill now. Then why the postponement? Why the postponement? A few moments ago, Mr. Speaker, I stood at this same place and I made a motion to postpone a bill and I frankly told the House why I made that motion, but there isn't one member upon the floor of the House at this time but knows what the provisions of this bill are and they will be the same to-morrow, the next day or next week, anud if the merit be in this bill that justifies one hundred and four members of this House casting their votes for this bill, let it be done now, when all are free and foot loose; when there has been no steam roller or nothing else to drive, to lead, or to lead or drive, if you please, into line in support of the bill.

I, Mr. Speaker, as one member of this House, without saying one word as to the merits or demerits of this bill, am ready to register my vote, and I believe that every member of this House can register his vote more conscientiously, perhaps, and more in accordance with his individual beliefs that he will be able to do at the end of five legislative days which may be taken advantage of if the bill is put on the postponed calendar.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I see no good reason why this bill should be postponed for the present to-night, unless it is for the purpose, as the previous speaker has just stated, of getting the men of this House lined up in its favor. I remember two years ago in this House of Representatives—I served here at that session—that the same tactics in the interests of the State Police of this State were used then as are being tried to be used here to-night. I had representatives of the force in the State come to me in this House and ask me if I would not keep quiet and say nothing in opposition to the State Police Force. Mr. Speaker, I realize that even if this motion now is voted down another method will be made, and that is that they will set a day for the final passage of the bill, a day and an hour. Last week it was when the bill fell short of a constitutional majority. Every member of this House has had ample time to consider as to whether or not this bill is meritorious. They have had ample time in the House of Representatives to find out whether or not there is any need of an increase of 120 men, and an increase in the salary of the Superintendent of that force. I feel that there is no necessity for the increase in the men, nor is there any necessity for the increase in the salary of the Superintendent. I feel that every man here to-night should use his best judgment whether he believes that the State should place 120 more men on that Force, when there has been no need for them in 1912. There have been several hundred less arrests in 1912 than there were in 1911. I see no need for the increase in the force. I am asking those who are members of this House, who can look at matters in a broad-minded way, to vote down the motion to postpone for the present. Let us have this thing threshed out here to-night. I do not believe in lobbyists standing in the back of this House at any particular time trying to intimidate the members of this House and get their votes in favor of this measure. Mr. Speaker, I am asking the members of this House to vote down this motion, and carry the bill through to-night on its merits or demerits.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, in the interests of organized labor in the State, and in my district, I am opposed to this motion to postpone, and on the vote I call for the yeas and nays.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I second the call for the yeas and nays.

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Piper.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether the friends of this bill have tried to take any unfair advantage of the opponents of the bill?

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I would answer the gentleman by saying no. The friends of this bill, so far as I am concerned, have not approached me as a personal member of the House, but there has been every other means used with other members of the House. Mr. Ambler himself, who is interested in this bill, and is the sponsor of it, has used every means in his power to get men to change their votes to reconsider the vote on this bill.

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, I would further like to interrogate the gentleman and ask him whether or not he has not done the same thing on every bill in which he was interested?

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, any bill in which I was interested, I felt that I had the right to try and show the members of the House the merits in the bill, but I have never attempted to have reconsidered any bill that I have had before the House that has fallen by the wayside.

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, the reason we desire to have this bill postponed now is due to the fact that there is a very light House here to-night. I do not wish to take any unfair advantage and I would make a motion that we make a special order of this bill for Wednesday morning, or set such an hour that will suit the gentleman from Philadelphia. I, therefore, move you Mr. Speaker, that this bill be made a special order on next Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I will accept the amendment.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, the amendment is satisfactory to me.

Mr. John R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, there is also a motion before the House made by Mr. Good, and seconded by myself, calling for the yeas and nays on this question.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GOOD and Mr. McDERMOTT.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I ask that this roll be verified.

This was done as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, I don't know whether it is too late, but I understand that Mr. Bergey, of Montgomery, desires to be recorded as voting in the negative.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Pike, Mr. Peters, is recognized by the Chair.

Mr. PETERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to be recorded as voting "No."

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the roll has been called; the verification has been made and the vote announced.

The SPEAKER. The point is undoubtedly well taken.

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I have heard the gentleman from Allegheny speak about "the steam roller" but if there has been any "steam roller" method along the lines of this bill, it has been on the other side of the House. I hold in my hand a letter printed by the Socialist Party in Philadelphia addressed to myself, in which they say:

Philadelphia, Pa., May 2nd, 1913.

Daniel J. Shern, Esq.,
House of Representatives,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Sir:—We are extremely sorry to find your name among those who voted for the Ambler bill, No. 878.

We understand there is to be an attempt to reconsider this most iniquitous measure, but if such steps are taken, either in the remote or near future, it is to be hoped that you will not hesitate to cast your vote against it. Do not even absent yourself from the House.

As you, perhaps, are aware, the Socialist Party has fifty branches in Philadelphia alone, and you may be sure we shall leave no stone unturned to let the workers know who helped to extend the power of the Pennsylvania Cossacks and what such conduct means for them when legitimately demanding an increase in the price of their only commodity —their labor power.

Yours truly,
(Signed) THOS. BIRTWISTLE.
General Secretary.

I ask the gentleman from Philadelphia and I ask the gentleman from Allegheny if they know of any steam roller methods that have been used by the friends of this bill? To my mind this is one of the most meritorious measures that has appeared in this House during this session. I was a member of this Legislature in 1905 when the State Constabulary bill was passed. Since that time, notwithstanding that the population of Pennsylvania has increased over one million, three hundred thousand there has not been an addition of a single man. I realize that there are certain interests in Pennsylvania that are violently opposed to this bill; I realize that that interest is a controlling power and has an influence on some of the members who desire to remain in politics and they fear that influence. But gentlemen we are compelled to preserve order in this State. Prior to the passage of this bill there were in this State what were well known as the Coal and Iron Police and in the event of strikes the Coal and Iron Companies and the Steel Companies could muster men by the thousands and call upon the Governor of this State to commission them and he would commission men whose reputation he knew not and who were simply drafted for the express purpose of outnumbering the rioters. In 1905, the Governor of Pennsylvania, knowing that these conditions existed in the State of Pennsylvania in the past, requested the Legislature to pass a bill to establish a State Police force and through the influence of Governor Pennypacker and the members of that session, this State Constabulary was established and for the last seven years they have not had an addition of a single man, notwithstanding the increase in population. Now, I ask you gentlemen to vote upon this bill intelligently. Has the institution of the State Constabulary been detrimental to the welfare and to the past happiness of the people as a whole, or has it been injurious during the seven years that this police force has been in existence? I wish to give you the figures:

During the seven years the State Police Force has been in existence, its members have patrolled 2,622,063 miles and have made 20,645 arrests; 80 per cent. of which have resulted in convictions. The following list gives an idea of the variety of the causes of arrests:

	Arrests.	Convictions.
Burglary,	316	189
Desertion & Non-suport,	184	139
Forgery & Embezzlement,	50	35
Indecent Exposure,	68	62
Murder,	267	113
Rape,	123	65

The actual cost to the State for the 228 men of the Force, including the Department salaries, has been $263,000 a year.

Now, gentlemen, these figures should speak for themselves in regard to the effective power of this police force as it has been sanctioned by the State. They have been drafted by the district attorneys of the interior counties who have not a sufficient police force or a sufficient detective force or sufficient funds to pay for the prevention of murders and for the arrest of those who violate the laws. In this tabulated statement that has been handed to me it has been noted that out of 123 arrests that have been made, there have been 65 convictions. They have not only done that, but wherever they have gone they have acted with peace and order. I have been informed by representatives of the labor organizations that they are not opposed to this state constabulary as a whole, but that they ought to pass a measure in this session to define their duties. I say if this House would pass such a measure as that, it would lose its effectual force, because we know men of this type must be under severe discipline and there must be controlling them captains, a superintendent of police, who knows his duty, and in the person of John C. Groome we have an intelligent, cultured man who knows well how to perform those duties and control these men. We know that the members of this force are trained men, taken from the army; that they are compelled to undergo a physical and educational test, and wherever they go, I have been reliably informed that they do not act with violence unless it is absolutely necessary for them to do so. Now, my friends, if this police force is not effectual in the State of Pennsylvania, and as the population has increased over 1,500,000 in the last seven years and they are now only working with 300 men, I say you either should abolish the State Constabulary and have disorder and riot and chaos in this State, or else give to this state a constabulary of sufficient number of men who will be able to do their duty effectually during riots and disorder that may occur in the community.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit imself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHERN. Yes, sir.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia what is the business of Mr. Groome in Philadelphia?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I will answer that now and I am very glad the gentleman from Clearfield has requested that information. Mr. Groome conducts a wholesale liquor business at the corner of Camac and Walnut streets, right below Thirteenth, but he only sells to his intimate friends and three or four clubs the highest grades of champagne and the highest grades of wine. And I know whereof I speak, that he has not a saloon upon his books. Superintendent Groome is highly respected in the community. Now, Mr. Speaker, I repeat that if the people of this State, through their representatives in this General Assembly, do not want this State Constabulary, then they should introduce a bill abolishing it absolutely and go back to the old conditions that existed prior to 1905 when they had the notorious coal and iron police, consisting of thousands of men whom the rich corporations enlisted to browbeat labor. And there are men who come from the coal regions of the State in this House who are now going to vote against this bill, who know of those notorious conditions that existed prior to 1905, when thousands of men were enlisted and commissioned indefinitely for the purpose of suppressing riots and strikes, whose character was not known and who would commit murder and other depredations for the purpose of serving their employers. I ask the members of this House whether it is not better to have a regular State police force under the control of an eminent and competent man in the person of John C. Groome at the head of the state police, than go back to the old conditions that existed prior to 1905. My friends, when you commence to vote upon this bill, vote upon it according to the dictates of your conscience.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. SHERN. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman, can he tell the House how much of the time of Mr. Groome it takes in Philadelphia and how much he gives to the State's service?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I know that Mr. Groome has been requested by his family and by numerous of his friends to give up this position and attend to his business. I know from my personal knowledge if the gentleman would resign his three-thousand dollar a year position he occupies under the State police, his business profits would be benefited at least $10,000 a year.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia did not give me the information I would like to get. I asked him the question, if he would be kind enough to answer, how much of his time he gives to the State?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I do not know. I do know, however, that his business suffers materially by his holding this position.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself, to be interrogated?

Mr. SHERN. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I may have misunderstood the gentleman. If I did, he can correct me. I understood the gentleman to say that since the organization of the State police, there has been no increase, either in numbers or in salaries.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, there was in salary, but no increase in numbers.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I simply wanted him to make the correction. I think that was what he said, and I knew he did not mean that.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia was very careful in reading to this House of Representatives a letter that he received from the Socialist Party. I do not know of any other time that the gentleman from Philadelphia was so anxious to make note of the fact that there was such a thing as the Socialist Party in the State of Pennsylvania. Of course, we all realize that it is beneficial to us at times to use every means within our power to try to carry out the point that we are aiming at. I do not know, but probably the gentleman from Philadelphia was probably, not by letter, but asked verbally by those who favor the state constabulary's increase, probably directly from some of those in charge of that body today, to vote and talk in the interests of the state police. The gentleman does not say that in his statement, because it is not advantageous for him to use that sort of argument. He speaks in his statement of the virtue of women. I can recall some few years ago in the City of Philadelphia when there was no need for the state constabulary to come into that city. We had an adequate police force that was well able to handle the affair. I can remember at that particular time when the virtue of women was entirely forgotten by that same body of men that we are trying to increase today. I stood on a corner at half past eleven at night and a woman peacefully going along the street was directly insulted by one of this force who stood there, and he knew he had the power of the law in his hand and he feared no one. I can call to mind the sights that I witnessed on Broad Street in Philadelphia when this same body of men—when a peaceable body of citizens walked along the street annoying no one in a peaceful manner, in a parade to a meeting where they could hear their friends talk—when this body of men rode on the opposite side and trampled down beneath their feet and clubbed the heads of women and children who were in the parade. If you want the virtue of women taken care of up in the State, there is the place to keep the State police. Let them be used for what they were created. They were not created to come into the city of Philadelphia and club down and beat the heads of honest citizens and women and children. I have not heard one word on the floor of this House spoken by any member who was in favor of this increase in the force, showing me why the State of Pennsylvania needs 120 more men added to their force. They will tell us of the good things that they have done. It is true. I do not stand here saying that we should not have a state police force. I have no desire to abolish the state police force of this State, but I do believe that there is no need for the increase in the force at this time. I believe, if I recall rightly, I gave facts and figures to this House when this proposition first came before us. The gentleman does not say anything of the cost to the State of Pennsylvania in maintaining the state police of this State. He does not tell you that it cost in the year of 1912, $330,964.89. He did not tell of those things. He did not tell you that out of the arrests that were made, we have today on an average of five arrests for each man; and if we are going to add an additional 120, probably we will only have one arrest to each man. I believe, if I am informed rightly, that we have times when the State police are sitting in the barracks with nothing to do, waiting for some trouble or some controversy between the manufacturer and the laborer. I believe that he can tell you—if the gentleman from Philadelphia were to tell you everything that he witnessed in the City of Philadelphia, he would have a different side of the statement. He knows just as well as I do what occurred in the city of Philadelphia only a few years ago. There was no call for the state police then. They were there two or three days. In the two or three days they were there, they created such an impression in the minds of the citizens, of the women and the children, that they are still feeling bad towards that body of men today. I have no objections to the state police force as it stands. I have no desire to abolish them as has been said in the statement of the gentleman from Philadelphia, but I do believe that we have an adequate force of state police men in this state and there is no reason why we should increase the cost of maintaining the state police force to over one half million dollars when we have no need for them at this time. I would ask that the members of the House vote against this bill.

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, as the members of this House know, I come from a county in the anthracite region, and there is no place in this state where the worth of that force is felt as it is in those coal counties.

I just call your attention to the March term of Court of Schuylkill County and my conversation with the District Attorney last Saturday. He stated that eight murders had been committed since the March term of Court; four are on trial there this morning. He said to me that during the last four or five weeks he had reason to have sixteen to twenty work on those cases and further stated that it was the only source from which they could get a real benefit and urged me in behalf of Schuylkill County to vote in favor of this bill. I have been importuned by certain organizations to vote against this bill, but I feel it my duty and as a citizen and living in that county, and going back to 1874 and 1875 to trace every strike up to 1906, when the State Police were organized, and invariably every important strike that occurred in Schuylkill County, it became necessary to call out the State Militia at the cost of hundreds of thousand of dollars and since 1906 it has not been necessary. And the prevailing opinion that they are abusive is not correct. We have occasion to meet them day after day in our livelihood and we commend them. I wish to state for the benefit of the members a little incident that happened some twenty-two or twenty-three years ago. In the borough of Shenandoah there was a gentleman known as Doctor Zalooka, who represented himself as a persecuted clergyman, but upon investigation by the ministers and priests of the town they discovered that he was an agent. When they discovered that they drove him out of Shenandoah and he located in Scranton and there established a publication. I want to say that two-thirds of the opposition to this bill is brought about by the individuals or the influence of this so-called Zalooka Gang. In most of the towns in Schuylkill County you will find a Society. They not only violate the law but from their treasuries they appropriate money in the defense of criminals and you will find them scattered all through the anthracite region. These people come from Russia or those countries where they nothing but a uniformed man, and in that direction alone the State Constabulary have done a wonderful lot of good. I wish to say to my fellow members from the coal regions that I feel satisfied that they art not voicing the sentiment of the business people of their county in opposing this bill, but they are voicing the sentiment of organizations who are controlled by the elements—I will not say all the elements—but by the foreign element, in conjunction with the Dr. Zalooka gang that I mentioned.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Schuylkill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Reese, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, with pleasure.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman to tell how he knows that the members of the mining regions are not carrying out the best wishes of the majority of their constituents?

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I am basing my statement on my own county. I am not speaking of the soft coal regions. I am speaking of Schuylkill County.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I am not finding fault with the gentleman's intentions, but he said the gentlemen from the mining regions?

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I am best acquainted with the conditions in Schuylkill county, and that is what I am speaking of. I am not speaking of your region.

I will say that our judges, our county officials, our business people, and I think the City of Pottsville, are heartily in favor of the increase and heartily endorse the State Constabulary and for those reasons I think we should support this measure. If the City of Philadelphia, with 3,500 policemen and one thousand private detectives, which aggregates 4.500 officers, requires that amount to take care of that city, what is 208 members of the force to take care of the balance of the State? I ask the members to kindly consider this, weigh it well, and as I said I can go back to 1874 or 1875 and for the benefit of some of them, when I was only eleven years of age. At that time it was necessary for me with two others who carried the daily newspapers, to be accompanied by two policemen. It is a different condition today. You have got a foreign element who don't know anything of our institutions as a rule and mistake this free country or the freedom they get in this country and usurp it.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, in answer to my friend from Philadelphia, when he made the assertion that during the labor troubles that we had there that the State Police came to Philadelphia and rode rough shod over the citizens, he misstated conditions and he knows well that the members of the militia were called out to preserve order and the mob that crowded the streets of Philadelphia at that time made game of our citizens soldiery and disarmed them. They cut the buttons off their coats and made them look ridiculous. But he knows that when the State Police came into the confines of Philadelphia they so conducted themselves and so preserved their manliness that without the clubbing referred to by my friend from Philadelphia, they reduced that riotous neighborhood to a neighborhood of quiet, and my statements here tonight can be confirmed by the gentlemen who lived in that section. He further said that there was no voice raised on this floor to say that there was any particular need for the increase asked for in this bill. Last year there was requests to the number of 2 592 from different sources, or an average of over seven a day. Of these, 52 were from sheriffs, 97 from district attorneys, 52 from chiefs of police, 30 from our Game and Fish Wardens, 220 from Justices of the Peace and 1,669 from private citizens. The balance were mostly from county detectives, constables, etc. With the limited force now at command it is impossible to fill the desires of the different counties that require these men and I want to say tonight that if there is an attempt at steam rollering, as has been suggested tonight, it certainly did not come from the friends of this bill. The only direct charge by a speaker on the floor of this House that the steam roller method was in vogue was that made by Mr. Piper when he referred to the sponsor of this bill as having individually asked members to give their support to the measure after they would consider it. Truly that, Mr. Speaker, could not be construed as steam rolling. There is not a member of the Philadelphia delegation—and I refer to that delegation because I can speak the more authoritatively, being a member of that delegation—who voted for this bill when last up for consideration, that did not receive in his mail this morning a letter of the steam rolling character. My friend from Philadelphia received one signed by the Secretary of the Socialistic Society. I received one signed by the Secretary of the Labor Organization, I believe the Central Labor Body of Philadelphia, Mr. Cronin. But as I stated, Mr. Speaker, when last on my feet in behalf of this bill, I for one will not be intimidated, and I believe that when I cast my vote in favor of this bill I confer a favor on united labor, because I feel in voting this way I assure them of protection they could not otherwise get; I assure them of the protection of men trained in police duty, men who answer the calls to protect life and property, go to the various places, disinterested, simply there for the purpose of upholding the majesty of the law and maintaining law and order.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I can carefully endorse what my friends, some of them from Philadelphia, have stated in regard to the State Constabulary that we have at the present time. I can endorse what the gentleman, Mr. Shern, of Philadelphia, has said, in praise of them and join him in praise of the Constabulary that we have at the present time. We have them in the bituminous coal regions. They have been there a representation of them, since their organization. I can only speak highly of their conduct in every particular and they have been useful in all kinds of emergency, and as I take it, Mr. Speaker, while I will say frankly that I will defy any one to express more admiration for them that I would like to express, yet Mr. Speaker, they were created, as I understand the law, for service in time of emergency. They were not created to patrol the agricultural counties of this State. They were not created to patrol the entire State of Pennsylvania but to be located and distributed throughout the State, so that they could reach any point of disturbance in any riot or strike that might take place throughout the State. To my knowledge, I cannot recall that they have ever been needed in two places at one time in this State any particular distance apart. In addition to that, Mr. Speaker, they could be rendevouzed or consolidated at any one point, I would say in twelve hours. Now gentleman, if they have been performing these glorious services, which I believe they have, which I know positively they have in my community, it is only a question shall we increase the number. Now then, if we commence to increase the number of State Constabulary where will it end? I will say frankly that I was not approached one way or the other on my first vote on this bill, but I have made up my mind that there was no necessity for increasing the number. Now gentlemen, some of the members of this House who have lived in communities where the Constabulary have been called upon frequently, as I have, and they believe that they have not been able to control the situation everywhere they went, then we should increase them, or in that control of conditions in Philadelphia, when you had soldiers and your citizens, your policemen, and when they came there that quiet reigned in a short time and that they have absolutely accomplished that in every place that they have gone and that we should have them for that purpose and that they have answered that purpose well. I will say that I have not been approached on the floor when this question was up before the House by my friend who belongs in the bituminous coal region.

I wish to say to those who are opposing this bill from the interests of the laboring class that the State Constabulary is your best friend, and they protect you as much as they do the employer. In my county, we have a State Constabulary that are, I must say, more ornamental than useful. Let them do their duty as laid down by the Court, and we will not need the State Constabulary to control the entire State of Pennsylvania. I leave the question with you, gentlemen. From my standpoint I cannot support this bill, yet I would not take one man away from the present force.

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that one of the members of this House in discussing this bill brought the name of a person whom I consider a personal friend of mine, Dr. Zalooka, into this argument without any authority or justification, I feel, gentlemen, that I would be recreant to the duty that we all owe to a friend

if I failed to state what I know personally of Dr. Zalooka. He is not only a neighbor and a friend, but also a client of mine. He is a man whom I have known intimately for a number of years, and I know, from personal contact with Dr. Zalooka that he is a man of unimpeachable integrity, absolutely honest, and a close observer of every minute detail in the close observance of the law, and I think it is unfair for any member on this floor to make statements and call in the name of a person who is not here to defend himself. I want it understood, gentlemen, that the reputation that was given to Dr. Zalooka by the member from Schuylkill, is not warranted, is not justified, and it is absolutely unfair.

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I wish to state to the House that Dr. Zalooka came to our community some twenty-five years ago together with a persecuted priest. That was the report and the ministers investigated him and the report was that Dr. Zalooka was not what he represented himself to be nor was the person with him what he represented himself to be. They formed an organization and after the organization was formed, Dr. Zalooka left Shenandoah and went to Scranton and his offspring is in our county now, and they are atheists.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, I just want to ask the members of this House if the opposition to this bill is not in a peculiar position. Not one man who has spoken here opposing the increase has done anything but praise this institution and exalt it to the skies. That it is a good institution is admitted even by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Piper, and by the other gentlemen who have spoken. It comes to a question of supply and demand. As the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern, stated, the population of this state has increased wonderfully. It has been caused by the inuux from the foreign countries and by our cosmopolitan conditions and diversified interests. It is a business proposition where there is an increased demand, also why not increase the force when the increase called for is only something like fifty per cent. The best argument is that there were 2,592 requests last year for the state police, and those requests didn't come from indifferent men, but from the local officials who had given up the situation, and who said that it was impossible for them to control the situation, and asked for the state constabulary. There were 2,592 requests. The report will show, if you will make a conscientious examination of the statistics that less than one-half were answered. We have again the business proposition, and our supply is not quite equal to one-half of the demand. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Piper, referred to the situation in Philadelphia by saying that these men came there uncalled for. That cannot be possible because in the office on the first floor of this building is a telegram or letter for every request. He referred to the local police force. You know, if you remember, that the local police force was disarmed by the strikers, and were made a laughing stock of by them. I wish to say that the people opposing this institution do so from a mere notion or from a whim that this institution is detrimental to the laboring people. The laboring people themselves are not opposed to the State Police, it is the labor leaders, the paid agitators, the men who are sending you letters as a part of their duty to the laboring people. The constabulary preserves law and order and the laboring people are not opposed to law and order. The constabulary does the same thing in laboring troubles as they do in times of peace. They arrest men who throw bricks, or discharge a gun, or create a disorder, and what more would you have them do. They cannot enter upon private property, but can only go to the public line of private property. Their place is on the State highways and on the public streams, and any infringement of the rule is called and the men disciplined. The men are instructed for three months, every day of three months, in the laws of this Commonwealth. We have no local officer in Philadelphia or Allegheny, or any place else, that have this regard for the proper enforcement of the law without favor or fear. I think this statement of mine that they do not interfere in times of strike or disorder any more than in times of peace will be borne out by the statistics issued by this Department. In 1911, there were only 110 arrests for riot out of 5,110 arrests made. They are useful in other crimes, principally in the leading crime, murder, which is one of their specialties. They have caught 87 murderers during the time of their existence in my community. They caught a man in our town who shot another man down in cold blood, a local policeman, our chief of police. The local officials had lost control. We came here with a petition signed by eight hundred and fifty people asking for the constabulary. The Superintendent states that he had not sufficient force to distribute them along the Monongahela Valley. We were given four men but in order to get them, it was necessary to take them from Washington county where they have been requested, so you see it is only a question of supply and demand. This would not increase the force fifty per cent. If you had a business that was doing well, you would not consider it strange to increase the investment fifty per cent. Even the members who oppose this bill have nothing but praise for the institution, and yet they do not want to increase the force. They are listening to the cry of the labor leaders, not the laboring men, because they are the friends of the laboring men and prevent disorder and save lives, and prevent men from committing acts that they would have committed fithout this enforcemene of discipline.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland County.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he can point to any instance where the State Constabulary could not control the situation when brought there.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, I think the proposition has borne that out.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether or not at any time it has been impossible to congregate or consolidate enough of them to control the situation?

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, there has always been a shortage in dire and extreme situations.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman that if upon their arrival there, they have failed to preserve order?

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, never.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, if they have always been able to control the situation and have apprehended so many criminals what is the necessity of an increase.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, no more than fifty per cent. of the legitimate requests have been answered.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Bigger, W. A. Blair, Body, James C. Campbell, Donahoe, Fahey, Good, Frank Gray, Kern, Kitts, Kuhns, Letzkus, Moses, Moulthrop, Newbaker, Price, Reeser, Sassaman, Savacool, Ulman, Wildman, Zimmerman, and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question now be put?

It was agreed to.

On the question, recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to be recorded as voting "Aye."

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. On what grounds?

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, on the grounds that he was not in this hall when his name was called.

The SPEAKER. Was the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Bleloch in the Hall when his name was called?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, I don't know where I was but I didn't hear my name called.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman was he inside the Hall when his name was called?

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman state that he was inside this room when his name was called?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, if I had heard my name called, I would have answered it. I was in the Hall of the House during the calling of the roll.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman what part of the Hall the gentleman was in when his name was called?

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Bleloch, desire to have his vote recorded?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Piper, desires to challenge it, he can challenge and I will have my request withdrawn.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I challenge the vote.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to be recorded as voting "No."

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, I challenge that vote.

The SPEAKER. On what grounds?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman was not in the House when his name was called.

Mr. JAMES J. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman was in his seat, right here during the entire call of the roll.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say that the gentleman from Philadelphia should go to an oculist and have his eyes examined.

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, under the rules of this House, a member should respond to his name, if he is in the House when his name is called and the gentleman did not answer when his name was called.

The SPEAKER. Did the gentleman hear his name called?

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, no, sir, I did not.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's vote will be recorded.

Mr. SAMUEL PERRY. Mr. Speaker, I ask what right the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Bleloch has to question the presence of the gentleman from Fayette in the Hall of the House when he was himself not in his seat during the roll call.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. CONRADE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 1636, entitled:

An Act making it the duty of the recorders of deeds of the various counties of this Commonwealth containing a population of over one million inhabitants to require the furnishing of affidavits that the consideration mentioned in deeds or other instruments of conveyance of real estate offered for record is the actual and true consideration therefor or if not what is the actual and true consideration providing that such affidavits shall be sent to the authorities in the respective counties charged with the revision and equalization of the taxes on real estate therein and further providing that those making or furnishing false affidavits thereunder shall be guilty of perjury failed on final passage on May 1st be reconsidered.

Mr. HEMMINGER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

Whereupon a division was called for and 64 gentleman having voted in the affirmative and 40 in the negative.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed on third reading be reconsidered.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1913 — 120th of the General Assembly

VOL. 2. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MAY 6, 1913. No. 61.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, May 6, 1913.

The Senate met at 10 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John M. Reynolds) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. A. C. James, offered the following prayer:

"Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him." "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." The Greeks in ancient day came to Jerusalem saying to Philip, "Sir, we would see Jesus;" they went away having seen the man of whom Pilate said "I find no fault in him." So today may our fidelity and integrity be above reproach. The Greeks came to see Jesus, the Teacher, and went away saying, "Never man spake like this man spake." So grant today that the words of our mouth and the meditations of our heart may be acceptable unto Thee, O Lord. The Greeks came and saw Jesus, the miracle worker and went away having beheld the mighty deeds he wrought in the name of God. Grant that when the volume of this day shall have been written, it may record some deeds that we have done in the name of righteousness. "Man looketh upon the outward appearance; God looketh upon the heart." Grant unto us that Thy spirit may so lead us this day that we shall live as in the sight of God. We ask it in our Redeemer's name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. McIlhenny, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED FOR THE PRESENT.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the consideration of Senate Bill No. 1155 (House Bill No. 1139), on final passage postponed for the present, entitled:

An Act to amend an act entitled "An Act relating to corporations and estates held for corporate religious and charitable uses" approved the twenty-sixth day of April one thousand eight hundred fifty-five as amended by the supplement to said act approved the second day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred eighty-seven and further amended by the act approved the first day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred seven by altering the seventh section and by repealing the sixth section thereof

Mr. McNICHOLS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 1155 (House No. 1139), entitled:

An Act to amend an act entitled "An Act relating to corporations and estates held for corporate religious and charitable uses" approved the twenty-sixth day of April one thousand eight hundred fifty-five as amended by the supplement to said act approved the second day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred eighty-seven and further amended by the act approved the first day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred seven by altering hte seventh section and by repealing the sixth section thereof

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, it is with the greatest reluctance that I arise today to oppose the passage of this bill. It is one of those questions that involves, to a certain extent, a religious issue, and we all know that such a question is usually fraught with the greatest bitterness. This is such a question, and it is my purpose, if possible, to eliminate from my discussion of this bill the religious features of it. It is true I am a Protestant and that this bill is here backed up by a large proportion of the Roman Catholic Church, but it is not as a non-Catholic or anti-Catholic that I propose to discuss this bill, but as a citizen of the State of Pennsylvania who believes in her laws and in the supremacy of her laws and in the sanctity of her basic institutions. The array of one sect or cult against another is a relic of bygone ages and he who does it is a bigot or a fanatic. We protestants should remember that the Catholic church antedates ours, and that it was the direct outgrowth of the life and teachings upon earth of Christ and both of us should remember that the Jewish church antedates both of ours, and it is wholly absurd and bigoted to array one religion against the other. Be we Jew, Catholic or Protestant, if we are devout in our belief and earnest in our devotion to our religion and in the active practice of the teachings of our religion, any one of us can go back to our God at any moment with the greatest safety and I want to disclaim any antagonism to any religion here this morning.

We are told that this bill if it becomes a law will affect only the Roman Catholics, but that is not a correct statement, and I wish to state right here that it is not a correct statement that the Roman Catholic Church is united in support of this measure. This Senate last night was full and is full today of earnest and devout Roman Catholics who are here opposed to this bill, and if it were put to a vote today in this chamber of the Roman Catholics here present it wuold be overwhelmingly defeated. There are a hundred thousand and more earnest and sincere Roman Catholics in this State today who are sending to us their earnest appeals and are sending up to God their devout prayer for the defeat of this bill, and it is not true that that church is arrayed solidly in favor of this bill. I have here on my desk several resolutions that have been passed by societies and congregations of the Roman Catholic Church that earnest solicit my vote against the bill and the vote of every member of this Senate, and I will pass them up to the Chair in order that they may be spread upon the Journal of the Senate.

My purpose is to point out to this Senate the broad fundamental single thought in this measure. It is not true, as I have stated, that it affects only one religious denomination. It affects every religious denomination and every citizen of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, because it strikes at the root of our institutions and violates the basic principles upon which our government, both national and state, are based, namely, that the church and state shall be entirely separate, and that each shall be confined to its own distinct spheres and field of activity. The special sphere of the church is the regulation of the morals and the religious and spiritual welfare of its subjects. The special field of the State is the regulation of all civil matters and when you join the one to the other and allow one or the other to go or penetrate into the field of the other we are violating the principles of our government. This bill changes the law of 1855, as afterwards amended, so that church property shall no longer be regulated by the laws of the State of Pennsylvania which should be supreme in the matter of the ownership of property, which is a civil matter, and would say that the ownership of church property shall be regulated by the laws and custom and rules of the Church and that the laws of the church in matters of the ownership of church property shall be supreme to the law of our State. This is a civil matter, the ownership of property and I contend and I do not believe it can be successfully controverted that if this bill becomes a law it will allow the church to usurp a part of the field and activities of the State and would subvert one of the basic principles of our government. Suppose this bill becomes a law, millions upon millions of dollars worth of property in this State would be plunged into immediate litigation. The law of 1855, as amended, declares that where a church property is held in trust by any one, in trust for the congregation, that the absolute ownership of that property vested in the lay members of the congregation and not in the bishop or clergy of the church, and repeated cases have gone up to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and it has been ruled that the law of the State with respect to the ownership of church property is supreme and that the laws of the church shall bow down before it and that the State shall regulate the ownership of property. If this bill becomes a law it is well known that the Catholic Church properties in this State and everywhere are held in the names of the clergy in trust. As the law now stands that means that it is an absolutely dry trust, that the trustee has no power over it, that he only holds it for the real owners, the lay members of his congregation. If this law is ordained it means that when he holds it as trustee he holds it subject to the rules and laws and regulations of his church and that he might dispose of it to his successors in office, and that the laws of the State should be subservient to the laws of the church. I do not propose to go further or say what that would mean to the lay members of the Roman Catholic Church, but I do assert that hundreds of thousands of them are fearful today that this may become the law of the State and that their own property which has been built and constructed by their own hard earnings and their deprivations, money wrung out of them voluntarily on their part it is true but at a great sacrifice to themselves that this property of theirs which means their bone and sinew and life blood shall be taken away from them and put under the control not of the State of which they are citizens and to which they owe allegiance but under the control and domination of a heirarchy which has its head many thousands of miles away from the State capital of Pennsylvania. I sincerely hope that the members of this body may think long and well before they vote for this measure. I hope that they will not consider that they are bound to vote for this measure because of the passing of any other that has gone through here recently. I am told that a deal was made in the House of Representatives whereby both these measures might pass, but I assert that that man is recreant to his own principles, he is not a loyal citizen of Pennsylvania if he feels himself bound by such an unholy arrangement as that and I sincerely trust that every earnest and devout resident of this Commonwealth who has a chance to vote here today will vote "no" on this measure.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met:

We, members of the Roman Catholic Church, citizens of this Commonwealth, at a mass meeting held at Nanticoke, Pa., assembled for this purpose respectfully protest against the enactment of the so-called Flynn bill, proposing to change the law with relation to the control of church property and funds for the following reasons:

1. It proposes to change the policy of the law of this Commonwealth as it has existed for nearly sixty years, during which time it has been repeatedly re-enacted and confirmed.

2. It violates the primary principles of a democratic form of government and takes from the control of the people the management of property and funds they themselves contribute and supply

3. It takes from the laity of the Roman Catholic Church the rights and privileges of administration of temporal affairs, which they have almost universally enjoyed in most countres on the continent of Europe, and proposes to fasten an un-American system of control of church property upon them in this land of civil and religious freedom.

4. The bill was framed by the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church and the demand for its enactment does not rise from the people

We, therefore, numbering 1,500 respectfully and most earnestly request the Honorable Senate to vote against the bill, as being a step backward and inimical to the perpetuation of our free institutions.

We hereby authorize the chairman and secretary of this mass meeting to affix their signatures in our name, as per our resolution unanimously passed.

Nanticoke, Pa., May the first, 1913.

JOSEF STRYJAK, Chairman.

TADYRTAW WOOVLEWGDN, Secretary.

RESOLUTION.

We, the representatives and members of several groups of the Polish National Alliance, of America, residing in Luzerne County, to the number of five thousand, in meeting assembled, at Falcon's Hall, at Nanticoke, Pa., this fourth day of May, do hereby authorize the President and Secretary of this meeting, in and for the behalf of us, to lodge our protest against the Flynn Bill, known as House Bill No. 1139.

Whereas, This bill proposes to change the law of the Commonwealth so far as the Roman Catholic Church is concerned, so as to conform to the Roman Catholic Canon law, instead of making the church law coincide with the law of the Commonwealth, which has been upon the Statute books for more than half a century, and which embodies the spirit of our institutions.

No Taxation Without Representation

Whereas, The State should remain supreme in matters relating to property rights and as to the control and disposition of property of congregations.

Whereas, This bill attempts to take away from congregations, who have acquired under the laws of the State, as they now exist, vested property rights and transfer them to the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church, under the Canon laws of that Church;

Whereas, In the Roman Catholic Church, the bishops are the only legislators, as the layman has no voice in its law making body;

Therefore, Be and it is hereby resolved, to respectfully beseech the Honorable Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to lend its efforts, to defeat of this measure.

Passed unanimously.

JOSEPH KRAUSER, President.

JOSEPH LENCZEWSICI, Secretary.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, in reply to the Senator who has just preceded me, I do not propose to state the law as it is contained in this bill, because, not being a lawyer, my interpretation of course, would be of no value to the rest of the Senators. But so far as the point taken by the Senator from Franklin, Mr. Hoke, is concerned in relation to the fact that this bill takes in all of the religious denominations, I only have it from the authority of John G. Johnson, one of the most eminent lawyers of this, or any other State in the Union, and also the legal opinion of George Wharton Pepper, who is also an eminent attorney, and also from a gentleman who is located in Ridgway, Pa, by the name of Eugene H. Baird, a noted Methodist devine, who at length details and dissects the bill, in which he comes to the conclusion just as Mr. Johnson and Mr. Pepper have, that the only purpose of the second section of the proposed act, as I understand, is to restore to the Bishop or other ecclesiastic holding title to the property of a certain congregation the capacity which he had at common law, and to transmit the properties to his successor, and this it seems to me is reasonable and proper, and that I maintain is the legal purpose of this bill. So far as it pertains to the matter or possibility of the connection of Church and State, the Catholic Church does not need any defenders as to the mission that she has set up for years in this Comomnwealth, as every Senator representing his respective district, is familiar with. It was surprising to me to hear the Senator three weeks ago who was making the plea on the theory of the great demand and the great petition that had been sent to his body clamoring for some right and for some justice to a part of the population, to-wit, the right of women to vote. This is a simple plea on the part of two million inhabitants of the State of Pennsylvania, enjoying under the laws of this Commonwealth the right of worship, of not being molested by the laws in worship in their particular way and in their particular form and in compliance with the laws and regulations of their Church. The Catholic Church has undertaken, as has the State of Pennsylvania undertaken in years gone by, to regulate the conditions that have come upon the State by a large influx of foreign population. This influx of population has continued and will continue to grow for years to come, and she has now in her wisdom come to the State of Pennsylvania, to the Legislature and asked that they be given some rights in the premises to have an orderly and a proper and a legal worship of their religion in a proper and legal way. One of the cases, which is only one of the numerous cases that have been occurring for some years past, occurred the other day in Uniontown. That is one of the complications which brought forth the efforts to have such a bill as this enacted into a law, a new departure in the matter of running the congregation, while the collection was being lifted, was instituted at St. Mary's Catholic Church at New Salem, on Sunday, when the constable and Justice of the Peace were stationed at the Church while the money was being collected, just one week ago.

There are two factions of the Church which has been the scene of more than one disturbance since it became divided against itself. A fight developed and a riot was narrowly averted. To avoid a recurrence of such conditions officers were on hand yesterday. The church is divided into factions, and one faction will not contribute to the support of the church while the Trustees are the representatives of the other side and one faction is supporting Rev. Rupley and the other faction will not recognize him as the legal pastor. That has been going on in Pennsylvania for the last eight or ten years. It has been of such a magnitude that the authorities and the officials of the Catholic Church recognized that there must be something which will give them the right to properly protect congregations who desire to worship in their church. If this bill pretened in any way to affect other denominations or other religious bodies, I would be the last man in the world to be here in the Senate asking for its passage. The Church is engaged educating its young and it is engaged in teaching to the elderly and grown persons the morals that are necessary to make citizenship in this State and in this Commonwealth what it should be, and it is also engaged in teaching first and foremost that the rights and duties and the support of each individual of that church is to the government of the State and the government of the nation. This is an appeal of a million and a half or two million people, who are under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania, and under this law of 1885, which has been in operaion over 50 years and under the law the bishops have held the property just as this bill provides and have been holding it in peace and quiet until the influx of this population. We have had our trials and tribulations, as the State has had where conditions arose by the influx of the foreign populaion and have been compelled to provide conditions for peace and order and against violence. The Church does not want any connection with the State so far as to annex itself to the State, because she has had all of that that she wants on the other side. She wants to be an instructor of morals, an instructor of the young, so that when they grow up into citizens that are aboslutely worthy to be called true and correct citizens of this great Commonwealth, and I think that it is our duty as Senators representing this great Comomnwealth to hand out the helping hand of the law whenever it is done with the idea to conserve the morals and the welfare of this Commonwealth.

And the question recurring,

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. JUDSON. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 866 (House Bill No. 1054), on third reading, entitled:

An Act amending section twelve of an act entitled "An Act providing when how upon what property and to what extent liens shall be allowed for taxes and for municipal improvements and for the removal of nuisances the procedure upon claims filed therefor and the methods for preserving such liens and enforcing payment of such claims the effect of judicial sales of the properties liened and the manner of distributing the proceeds of such sales" approved the fourth day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred one by changing the provisions prescribing what property shall be included in tax and municipal claims go over in its order.

Thee PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I desire to make a statement with regard to Senate Bill No. 709, on page 7 of today's calendar, just voted down a few moments ago. It was my intention to ask that that bill go over for the purpose of amendment. In the last section there is a mistake in printing in regard to the penalty. I also wish to state to the Senate that the United Moving Picture Combination have agreed with the Committee to-night in the Senate to give a moving picture exhibition. In that exhibition, pictures will be exhibited that the public will not see for six months or a year and marked special pictures for this occasion, in order to show to the Senate the purpose and effect of this bill. Now, the moving picture aggregation have agreed to this bill amended as they desired. For that reason I now move to reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 709, entitled:

An Act to regulate the admission of minors to public dance houses or halls to concert saloons to theatres and to places where theatrical acrobatic or vaudeville performances or moving picture shows are given and providing the punishment for a violation thereof was defeated on final passage.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I voted "No."

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I voted "No."

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move that the question together with further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.
